The speaker thought it unnecessary to speak of the work of the Sisters in this city, as it was too well known to need being mentioned. They had a very complete hospital, but they recognized the fact that the sick were not the only ones who needed help. Old people, too, required assistance, and that this work might be carried on His Lordship had the new House of Providence built, and the speaker learned that the work had grown to such an extent that it was now becoming too small to accommodate the number of persons applying for help.

In 1891 the property now occupied by the Sisters at the Mount, was purchased, a number of their friends assisting very materially, one gentleman giving $1,000. In a few years it was out of debt, and, finding the old building too small for the requirements, an addition was decided upon, and to-day the magnificent pile of buildings, which were a credit to the community, was almost completed.

The good Sisters were giving their lives to the work of charity, and had left home and friends that they might give themselves entirely up to the service of Christ. The speaker made an appeal to those present on behalf of the Sisters for help.

At the conclusion of the sermon the mass was continued, after which His Lordship briefly addressed the gathering, thanking them for their presence on behalf of the Sisters, and extending to them an invitation to inspect the building. This invitation nearly all accepted, and many expressed pleasure at the well-equipped house, which will serve as the Mother House of the Community.

A COMPLAINT.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I would like through the columns of your paper to call the attention of the G.T.R. authorities to a nuisance which exists on their property. It has been the habit of the trains for some time past, almost daily to shunt a carload, sometimes more than one, of hogs on to a siding on Bethune street close to the residences, and leave the car or cars standing there all night, the result being that those who happen to be unfortunate enough to live near this particular point, where these animals are left, have to endure a night of unrest punctuated by the unmusical squeals of the hogs, who have apparently been starved for the occasion. Surely there is room on some of the sidings to place these cars, where the presence of the hogs would not cause the inconvenience which their proximity to the residents there does.

Yours truly,
"SUFFERER."

THE SUMMER SEASON OPENED AT STONY LAKE.

New Steamer Will be Launched During Next Month

Everything is looking beautiful at Stony Lake at the present time and the popular summer resort is once again attracting the citizens to enjoy its beauties. A number of the cottages were occupied for the holiday, and in the course of a few weeks parties will be moving to their summer season. The water is still quite high and some of the lower wharves are still submerged. The new Government wharf has been constructed during the winter at McCracken's Landing and is quite an improvement over the old structure. The new steamer "Stony Lake" will be ready for launching between June 15th and Dominion Day. The Burleigh Falls Hotel is prepared for business again and preparations are being made for the Olympic excursion to be held on the first Thursday in June; this event is looked upon as the opening of the excursion season at Stony Lake.

The scenery at this time of the year is delightfully attractive.

Phaeton for Sale.

Among the articles to be sold by auction on the market on Saturday, the 28th inst., is a second hand phaeton. It has only been used a short time, is finished with leather, India rubber top and buggy wheels; also spring back and mat.

SEPARATE SCHOOL GROUNDS FAVOURED

Board of Education Adopted Special Committies Report

At Last Evening's Special Meeting—Report Favoured Purchasing these Grounds at $30,000 Providing Government Granted $10,000.

The Board of Education met in special session last evening to consider the important question of a site for the new Collegiate Institute.

There were present, Messrs. J. J. Hartley, chairman; J. Stevenson, W. H. Hill, V. Eastwood, R. Fair, P. Hamilton, H. P. Kennedy, F. J. Jameson, J. Crane, J. J. McBain, R. B. Rogers, L. M. Hayes, Wm. Pringle.

After the chairman had stated the reason for calling the meeting, Mr. Kennedy, chairman of the Special Committee, to consider a site, reported as follows:—

To the Chairman and Members of the Board of Education:

Gentlemen,—Your committee appointed to select a site upon which to erect the Collegiate Institute, beg leave to report as follows:—

Whereas it has been represented to your committee that the corporation of the Town of Peterborough have an option to purchase lots numbers four, five and six north of Murray street and west of George street, and lots numbers four, five and six south of McDonel street and west of George street in the said Town of Peterborough for the price or sum of $37,000.00, and whereas, it has been further represented to your committee that the Dominion Government would be willing to contribute the sum of $10,000.00 to assist in the purchase of such property with a view to utilizing a substantial part of it upon which to erect Armouries on account of the fact that it is almost the most desirable location in the Town of Peterborough upon which to erect Armouries inasmuch as there would be an ample ground, including the Central Park, for drilling purposes.

And whereas, it would be a substantial advantage to the Collegiate Institute to have their buildings erected close and convenient to the Armouries and the park for the drilling of Cadets.

And whereas, your committee is of the opinion that an effort should be made by the Board to confer with the town and the Dominion Government, with a view of having the above mentioned property purchased for the above purpose and for the purpose of providing a larger open space for the accomodation of the Collegiate Institute and for the general benefit of the public.

Your committee therefore recommend that the Board enter into negotiations with the municipal council of the town for the purpose of purchasing from them either lots number four, five or six, north of Murray street and west of George street or lots numbers four, five and six, south of McDonel street and west of George street, or such parts thereof as may be agreed upon for the purpose of erecting a Collegiate Institute thereon, and upon such terms and conditions as may be mutually agreed upon between the town and the Board.

Your committee further recommends that a clause be inserted in the agreement that the Board shall have the right to remove the present building occupied by the Separate School and use the same for their own use and benefit.

And your committee further recommends that if the report be adopted by the Board that this committee be authorized to negotiate with the town for the purpose of carrying out the recommendations herein contained and to report to the Board the result of the negotiations before entering into any binding agreements.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

H. P. KENNEDY,
Chairman Building Committee.

Dated this 25th day of May, 1904.

After the report was read the Board went into Committee and adopted the report.

TWO SCORE NIGHTS OF FINE SUCCESSES.

Mr. J. Stubbs Returns from a Lecturing Trip.

Mr. Jas. Stubbs has just returned from a lecturing tour through Eastern Ontario, and his trip has been a most successful one. He gave forty night entertainments, and in every place he visited he was invited to accept a return engagement. A number of letters of recommendation were given him unsolicited. One of these was from Rev. W. Bowman Tucker, M.A., Ph.D., of Cobden, who writes a strong letter highly commending the lecture. Mr. Stubbs will leave again this week on a ten days' engagement, after which he will go to England, Ireland and Scotland, where he will spend two or three months giving his illustrated lecture. In this lecture Mr. Stubbs will give special prominence to Canada and its resources. He had an offer to go to the Old Country under the direction of the Immigration Department, but preferred to make the trip on his own account.

MAJESTIC EXCURSION THROUGH THE LAKES

A Delightful day on the water Among the Island Cottages.

A Number of Town Visitors Spend the Holiday at Stony Lake.

A large number of excursionists from town boarded the G.T.R. train on Tuesday morning for Lakefield, and took in the excursion trip up the lakes on the steamer Majestic. The steamer was well crowded as she left her wharf, there being also an interesting excursion under the auspices of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Lakefield Methodist church on board the steamer. Many from town were owners of cottages, who were anxious to see how their cottages, wharves, etc., fared after the long winter and the high water. The sail up the lakes was a delightful one — genuine "Queen's weather" prevailing all day. Capt. Scollard and the crew of the Majestic made it as interesting for the excursionists as possible. The steamer ran into Burleigh about one p.m., where dinner was enjoyed, but the stay had to be shortened, as the boat had to get back to Lakefield to connect with the regular 4.30 train for town.

The choir of the Lakefield Methodist church furnished vocal and instrumental music during the day, which was much appreciated by the excursionists.

ANOTHER BOOST FOR PETERBOROUGH.

West York Farmers' Institute Will Run an Immense Excursion Here.

That Peterborough is attaining considerable prominence is attested to by the fact that a number of excursions are making it their objective point. On Monday a committee representing the West York Farmers' Institute, came to town to arrange for an excursion here on June 4th. The committee consisted of R. L. Crawford, Emery; A. Snyder, Elia; W. C. Grubbe, Thistletown. A special train will bring the excursionists, about 600 in number, reaching here at 9.45, and leaving at 6.30 in the evening. This Institute has usually gone to Guelph, but this year a change will be made in the programme, and the attractions of Peterborough have become so widely known that it was decided to run the excursion here this year.

The Weston Jr. C.L.A. team will accompany the excursion and will play a game with a local team.

VICTORY FOR COLTS CRICKET TEAM

Defeated Upper Canada College Second Team by 16 Runs

Good Game at Toronto Tuesday—The Score by Innings.

The "Colts" trip to Toronto Tuesday was productive of two things, viz: a good time and a decisive victory. The former was in large measure due the well known U.C.C. hospitality, but the latter was the just reward of fine bowling, clean fielding and heady play.

Seldom have the "Colts" shown to better advantage. Favoured by a warm sun, and a fairly fast wicket, Burritt and Moore bowled superbly and assisted by almost faultless fielding made scoring almost impossible. At bat the Colts appeared equally at home, Weller, Burritt, Wood and Carmichael, all batting hard and accurately for good scores.

U.C.C. appeared to travel slightly in hard luck. Their first innings saw two men "run out" and another retired l.b.w. Their bowlers Green, McArthur, and Gordon did good work, but lacked speed and had a tendency to bowl "short".

In G. Greene they had a bat whose superior is not to be found in junior ranks. His innings was the prettiest of the day.

Winning the toss U.C.C. put the Colts to bat, but could not retire the side for less than 47. Their innings was productive of 81, Greene's 7 being top score. Another innings saw each team score 40, but was devoid of any sensational play.

Taken all in all the game was a bowlers' battle and to the excellent work of Moore and Burritt can be attributed a splendid victory.

Below is appended the score:—

AT THE POLICE COURT

Several Cases were Enlarged this Morning—More Dog Tag Cases.

At the Police Court this morning before Adam Hall, Esq., several cases came up for consideration, but were, for the most part, enlarged until to-morrow owing to the absence of the magistrate. One wages case was settled while another was left over for a day. Four cases of failure to purchase dog tags were settled by the defendants paying the costs as well as the price of the tag. Three young men were charged with disorderly conduct on the streets and they will appear to-morrow morning to give account of themselves.

WHEN JOE STRUCK OIL

By MARIAN HARCOURT

Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure

It had been understood for a year or more that Joe Green, son of Farmer Green, was to marry Bessie Hurlburt, daughter of an adjoining farmer. There was not a cloud on the horizon until a young man named Harry Beechman came into the neighborhood to sell and to show the farmers how to set up wire fencing. He secured board at Hurlburt's and at once became "struck" on Bessie. His admiration naturally pleased her, and when people began to hint that it was a case of love a new idea came into her father's head. He knew Joe to be an honest, hardworking young man, and the question of money had never come up. If he married Bessie he would take her to his own house and provide for her as well as a farmer would be expected to. It was only after the wire fence man came and exhibited his "roll" and talked of stocks and bonds and bank accounts that Farmer Hurlburt realized what a good thing it would be to have a wealthy son-in-law.

Young Beechman encouraged the feeling in both father and mother, and his lavishness in buying presents for Bessie would have carried a less sensible girl off her feet. But when he began to court in earnest she began to draw away, and Joe Green had nothing to be jealous of. It was soon discovered, however, that he had a fight on hand. The spirit of avarice had been awakened in the souls of the parents, and it was not long before they had a good deal to say to Bessie and something as well to her lover.

"Look here, Joe," said Farmer Hurlburt, who prided himself on his plain speaking, "I have said that you were one of the best young fellers in this county, but you ain't just the match for Bessie. She's smart and good looking and one of the sort who ought to live in town and wear silks and satins instead of plodding away on a farm. I don't want to hurt your feelings, but I wish you'd look around for some other girl."

"You want her to marry the wire fence man, I take it," said Joe in reply.

"Yes, Joe; I do. He's got money. He's making more of it. He'll be as rich as Vanderbilt in ten years more. He offered to lend me $50 the other day without any security at all. He's not only in the wire fence business, but he's into windmills and drainpipe and patent farm gates. He's going into a speculation next week in which he will clear $3,000 or $4,000 in no time at all, and mebbe I'll go in with him. You ain't expecting to make a dollar extra this year, and so"—

"I'm looking for oil down along the creek," interrupted Joe.

"Can't be none there, Joe; can't be no oil in this county. I like you as a man, Joe, but being you haven't got money I shall have to ask you to stay away after this. It may take your appetite away for a few days, but you'll get over it in a week and shine up to one of Jim Gardner's girls."

Bessie was told at the same time that she would be expected to discourage Joe and encourage the other one, and, though she promptly rebelled, her parents put the foot down in a most vigorous way. In a manner the field was left clear for the wire fence man.

Unfortunately for him, he was a boaster and a braggart. He was making a few dollars, but could not count on anything permanent. He realized that if he got the farmer's daughter at all it would be through the aid of money, and he began to plan and scheme.

Circumstances aided him. One day he received a private and confidential letter from New York. An individual in that city had got possession of a bank note plate and was printing greenbacks by the tens of thousands. He was willing that others should share in his good luck. He was so willing that he would sell greenbacks for 10 cents on the dollar and warrant them to pass current anywhere. It was the old, old green goods game, and young Beechman bit.

In turn he became so generous hearted that he was willing to let Farmer Hurlburt in on the spec. Together they hoped to raise $500 in cash, and after some correspondence with the liberal minded man in New York it was decided that the wire fence man should make a little journey and bring back ten for one.

The farmer sold a horse, a cow and three hogs to make up his share of the money, and his prospective son-in-law started for the east. Joe and Bessie had not quarreled. He had ceased hoeing potatoes to dig holes along the creek and look for the black stuff that had made so many men rich. In a sense they were waiting for things to turn up.

"Sarah," said the farmer to his wife after Beechman had departed, "how would you like to have silk dresses all the rest of your life?"

"Don't scare a body to death, father," she replied. "I know you and Harry are going to make millions of money, and I'm so nervous that I break dishes every time I clear the table off."

"Bessie," he continued as he turned to the daughter, 'how would you like to ride out in a carriage drawn by four white horses and have so many diamonds on that you shone like the sun?"

"If Joe finds an oil well he may buy me a diamond ring," she quietly answered.

"Don't you keep it up about Joe. He'll never find no oil wells, or, if he does, it will be after you are married and living in a palace and having forty servants to wait on you. Me and your mother have set out to get you a feller worth $1,000,000, and when you are receiving the president of the United States in your own castle you'll be glad you had such a father and mother."

A few days later Bessie set out to spend the afternoon with a neighbor. She had not been gone above an hour when young Beechman returned from his journey. He carried a tin box under his arm, the key thereof in his pocket and exultation in his heart. Soon after his arrival the two men went to the barn to count over their "ten to one." The box was unwrapped, the key inserted and the packages taken out to be counted. Then there came an interval, during which time the wire fence man and the farmer looked into each other's pale face and spoke no word. The "money" was green in color, but that was all. Young Beechman had been done up as thousands before had been done and had brought back only blanks.

They were still looking at each other and licking their dry lips when Joe and Bessie drove up to the gate. As she entered the house Joe hitched the horse and came out to the barn.

"I just wanted to say," he quietly observed, "that four days ago I found oil along the creek and that this afternoon Bessie and I went to Justice Jordan and got married."

The Noon Hour.

Many a hard working young woman spends her noon hour in an endeavor to get a little rest to carry her through the remaining hours of the day. She is weak and weary, but she cannot give up the occupation which supports her. She must go back to the office and the typewriter, to the store and its duties, with tiresome customers to wait on and exacting employers to please.

For people who are weak and run down there is no medicine so valuable as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. Many diseases in organs remote from the stomach have their origin in a diseased condition of the stomach and its allied organs. When the stomach is "weak" there is a failure to properly digest and assimilate the food which is eaten. Hence the whole body, and each organ of it, suffers from lack of nutrition, so that as a consequence of "weak" stomach, there may be "weak" lungs, "weak" heart, "weak" or torpid liver, "weak" nerves, etc. By curing diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, "Golden Medical Discovery" enables the assimilation of the nutriment necessary for the requirements of a healthy body. It increases the activity of the blood-making glands, and so increases the supply of blood which is the vital fluid of the body.

There is no alcohol in the "Discovery" and it is entirely free from opium, cocaine, and all other narcotics.

Sick and ailing people especially those suffering from disease in its chronic form are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter free. All correspondence is held as strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

There is no similar offer of free medical advice which has behind it an institute of national note such as the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., presided over by Dr. Pierce, its chief consulting physician, with the assistance of nearly a score of skilled specialists.

"The Wonderful Medicine."

"I must again send a few lines to you to let you know how I am getting along since taking the wonderful medicine which cured me two years ago," writes Miss Bertha Eberle, of 1416 Benton Street, St. Louis, Mo. "I still continue in very good health and think there is not a better medicine on earth than Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. We would not be without it in the house, and also the little 'Pellets.'

"I have recommended Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to many friends, and they all think it will do just what is claimed for it. It is the best thing for nervousness and for a weak, run down condition that any body could want. I was very nervous and weak last summer. I took five bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and it just made me feel like a new person. It gives a person new life and new blood. I can now work all day long without feeling the least bit tired. In fact I feel like a new person.

"My mother was also cured by it of a very bad state of stomach trouble about three years ago. I thank you a thousand times for what you have done for me and for your kind advice."

Wasted to a Skeleton.

"About six years ago my health failed," writes Miss Alethea R. Green, of Coopersburg, Harford Co., Maryland. "I kept getting down lower and lower, until I could scarcely walk across the floor without struggling and gasping for breath. My home physician pronounced it general debility and catarrh of the throat, but although he did all he could, he failed to even relieve me. I tried various remedies, but all of no avail. I soon wasted away to a mere skeleton. Finally I was persuaded, to write to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., which I did immediately. And on receiving his very kind advice I commenced the use of his 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Favorite Prescription.' I took fourteen bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and nine of the 'Favorite Prescription' and to-day I am a well woman. I do heartily thank God and Dr. Pierce for my good health."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Send 50 one-cent stamps for the book in cloth binding, or 31 stamps for the paper covered volume. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

CURED BY

Doan's Kidney Pills.

THE WELL-KNOWN SPECIFIC FOR

Backache, Sideache, Diabetes, Dropsy, Bright's Disease, and all Kidney or Bladder troubles.

Read of how a whole family got cured by using these wonderful Pills.

Mr. Henry Hedrick, South Woodslee, Ont., says that Doan's Kidney Pills are far ahead of doctor's medicine.

He writes: "I have tried Doan's Kidney Pills and can honestly say that I never used anything better. I was so bad with my kidneys I could hardly raise myself up without help but Doan's Kidney Pills cured me.

"My wife was always complaining of a lame back, and they completely cured her.

"Our son was also troubled with his kidneys and as your pills had done us so much good we got him to try them and they cured him as well. They are far ahead of doctor's medicine, and I advise a trial of Doan's Kidney Pills for all sufferers from kidney trouble."

In reply Farmer Hurlburt got up and took young Beechman by the collar and slammed him up against the fanning mill and then jammed him up against the granary door and then waloped him all over the floor and ended by throwing him outdoors and sending a kick after him. Then he turned to the newly made husband and held out his hand and said:

"Joe Green, there's only one fool in the Hurlburt family, and that's me. Let's go in and have some cider and kiss the bride."

Umbrella Language.

There is a language of umbrellas as of flowers. Place your umbrella in a rack, and this will indicate that it will change owners. An umbrella carried over a woman, the man getting nothing but the drippings of the rain, signifies courtship. When the man has the umbrella and the woman the drippings it indicates marriage. To swing your umbrella over your head signifies "I am making a nuisance of myself." To carry it at right angles under your arm signifies that an eye is to be lost by the man who follows you. Opening an umbrella quickly, it is said, will frighten a mad bull. To put a cotton umbrella by the side of a silk one signifies, "Exchange is no robbery." To purchase an umbrella means, "I am not smart, but honest." To lend an umbrella indicates, "I am a fool." To return an umbrella means—well, never mind what it means; nobody ever does that. To carry an umbrella just high enough to tear out men's eyes and knock off men's hats signifies, "I am a woman." To press an umbrella on your friend, saying, "Oh, do take it; I had much rather you would than not," signifies lying. To carry it from home in the morning means, "The rain will clear off."

THE CLEANING CLOSET.

Every House Should Have One In an Accessible Place.

The suggestion which the Cooking Club makes apropos of setting aside a closet in the house for cleaning fluids and materials is a capital one. Who cannot recall the annoyance arising from having to wear an ink stained gown or a shirt waist freckled with cherry stains because one hadn't anything to remove the ugly disfigurement with?

"If possible have the cleaning closet separate from the regular medicine closet, so that in case of sudden illness there will be no danger of getting the bottles mixed," advises this magazine. "Have all bottles plainly marked. If a special cupboard cannot be spared for the cleaning fluids, place them on a separate shelf and label the shelf in order that any one can go there and find the required drug without trouble.

"Ammonia, wood alcohol and gasoline for the liquids and French chalk, cornmeal and pipe clay for dry cleaning are absolute necessities. Each household has special things that it invariably uses for cleansing and renovating, and doubtless one is as good as another, but the important thing is to have them in an accessible place and where they can be had at a moment's notice."

Thrown Off the Scent.

As the immaculate young woman and the tired but happy looking young man entered the Pullman, followed by a grinning porter, the other passengers became "wise" in a moment. The stout drummer leaned over to the man behind him and remarked:

"Bride and groom—hundred to one."

Every one turned to view the newcomers, who had deposited themselves vis-a-vis in No. 4. As if unconscious of any scrutiny, the young man said in a high nasal voice:

"Well, do as you like about it—either increase the margin or let it go! You didn't follow my advice in the first place, but if you want to pull out you'd better take it now."

"Oh, I know," the woman replied. "What's the use of going all over it again?"

"Huh!" said the stout man's companion. "Guess you lose. Been playing the market. Not much bride and groom talk about that."

The rest of the passengers sniffed and then turned their backs on the new couple, whereat the young man smiled at the young woman, and they softly joined hands as he whispered:

"Millicent, dear, my shoes are full of rice."—New York Press.

LAUNDRY LINES.

Few housekeepers use sufficient wax in ironing.

Beeswax for smoothing sadirons should be tied in a piece of white muslin to prevent waste.

Woolen clothes should be washed in very hot suds and not rinsed. Lukewarm water shrinks them.

A bit of orris root placed among handkerchiefs, etc., when they are boiled will pleasantly perfume them.

For starching muslins, ginghams and calicoes dissolve a piece of alum the size of a hickory nut for every pint of starch. This will keep the colors bright for a long time.

Linen crash, blue denim and ticking are the best possible fabrics for covering iron holders. Make them removable by basting one end together, and occasionally put them in the family wash.

Fruit Fritters.

Fruit fritters are easily made and are not surpassed for simple desserts. This recipe for orange fritters is vouched for by the Cooking Club magazine: One cupful of sifted flour slightly salted and turned into a deep bowl. Make a hole in the center and drop into it the yolk of an egg which has been well beaten with a teaspoonful of best salad oil. Mix this to a batter, adding water enough to make the batter just stiff enough not to run off the spoon. Beat the white of the egg to a stiff froth and fold lightly in the batter. Drop slices of orange into the batter, cover well and slide them into hot fat. Fry to a golden brown, remove with a wire spoon, drain well and sprinkle with powdered sugar. Bananas, peaches, apricots or other firm fruits make good fritters.

Polished Furniture.

Oils and furniture polishes of any sort should be used sparingly on chairs, tables, bureaus, etc., that have lost their first luster. A better method to restore the lost charm is to wash them well with cold water, wipe with a soft bit of cheesecloth till perfectly dry. Then polish with chamois, making "elbow grease" do duty for the absence of all other lubricants. The gloss then obtained will be found to be more lasting than that from the use of the cleaning liquids.

Apple Jelly.

Apple jelly is such an addition to the luncheon table or to the roast of pork that it is worth remembering how easily prepared it is in small quantities. Whenever apple pies or apple sauce is made save the peelings, which added to a small quantity of cut up apples will make a pint or so of delicious, fresh jelly.

Chronic Liver and Stomach Troubles Thoroughly Cured by Using

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills

In every home there is more or less suffering as a result of constipation and derangements of the digestive system.

Because Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills cure such ailments more promptly and thoroughly than other preparations they have come to be considered almost indispensable as a family medicine.

Mr. C. F. Immel, shoemaker, Western Hill, St. Catharines, Ont., states: "I have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills regularly for some time and consider that they are unsurpassed for torpid liver, defective circulation, indigestion, headache and constipation, as these were my troubles. I used many remedies but got no relief until I tried Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and a few boxes of this preparation have completely cured me. I am not in the habit of endorsing any medicine but in this case I cannot speak too highly in praise of Dr. Chase's Pills for what they have done for me."

Mr. D. C. Holmes, Justice of the Peace for Lincoln County, states: "I am acquainted with Mr. C. F. Immel and consider him a reliable citizen in every sense of the word; in fact I have known him from boyhood up, and can say I believe him to be honest and truthful."

THE GENTLEMAN FROM INDIANA

By Booth Tarkington.

At 11 o'clock Judge Briscoe dropped wearily from his horse at his own gate and said to a wan girl who came running down the walk to meet him: "There is nothing yet. I sent the telegram to your mother—to Mrs. Sherwood."

Helen turned away without answering. Her face was very white and looked pinched about the mouth. She went back to where old Fisbee sat on the porch, his white head held between his two hands. He was rocking himself to and fro. She touched him gently, but he did not look up. She spoke to him. "Father," she said.

He did not seem to hear her.

"There isn't anything yet. He sent the telegram. I shall stay with you now, no matter what you say." She sat beside him and put her head down on his shoulder, and, though for a moment he appeared not to notice it, when Minnie came out on the porch, hearing her father at the door, the old man had put his arm about the girl and was stroking her fair hair softly.

Briscoe glanced at them and raised a warning finger to his daughter, and they went tiptoeing into the house, where the judge dropped heavily upon a sofa. Minnie stood before him with a look of pale inquiry, and he shook his head.

"No use to tell him, but I can't see any hope," he answered her, biting nervously at the end of a cigar. "I expect you better bring me some coffee in here. I couldn't take another step to save me. I'm too old to tear around the country horseback before breakfast, like I have today."

"Did you send her telegram?" Minnie asked as he drank the coffee she brought him. She had interpreted "coffee" liberally and, with the assistance of Milly Upton, whose subdued nose was frankly red and who shed tears on the raspberries, had prepared an appetising table at his elbow.

"Yes," responded the judge, "and I'm glad she sent it. I talked the other way yesterday, what little I said—it isn't any of our business—but I don't think any too much of those people somehow. She thinks she belongs with Fisbee, and I guess she's right. That young fellow must have got along with her pretty well, and I'm afraid when she gives up she'll be pretty bad over it; but I guess we all will. It's terribly sudden, somehow, though it's only what everybody half expected would come, only we thought it would come from over yonder." He nodded toward the west. "But she's got to stay here with us. Boarding at Tibbs' with that old man won't do, and she's no girl to live in two rooms. You fix it up with her—you make her stay."

"She must," answered his daughter as she knelt beside him and patted his coat and handed him several things to eat at the same time. "Mr. Fisbee will help me persuade her, now that she's bound to stay in spite of him and the Sherwoods too. I've always thought she was grand, ever since she took me under her protection at school, when I"— Minnie was speaking sadly, mechanically, but suddenly she broke off with a quick sob, turned to the window, then turned again to Briscoe and cried: "I don't believe it! He knew how to take care of himself too well. He'd have got away from them."

"Father," she said.

Her father shook his head. "Then why hasn't he turned up? He'd have gone home after the storm if something bad wasn't the matter."

"But nothing—nothing that bad could have happened. They haven't found—any—anything."

"But why hasn't he come back, child?"

"Well, he's lying hurt somewhere, that's all."

"Then why haven't they found him?"

"I don't care," she cried and choked with the words and tossed her dishevelled hair from her temples, "it isn't true! Helen won't believe it. Why should I? It's only a few hours since he was right here in our yard talking to us all. I won't believe it till they've searched every stick and stone of Six Crossroads and found him."

"It wasn't the Crossroads," said the old gentleman, pushing the table away and relaxing his limbs on the sofa. "They probably didn't have anything to do with it. We thought they had at first, but everybody's about come to believe it was those two fellows that he had arrested yesterday."

"It wasn't the Crossroads!" echoed Minnie, and she began to tremble violently. "Haven't they been out there yet?"

"What use? They are out of it, and they can thank God they are."

"They are not!" she cried, very much agitated. "They did it. It was the White Caps. We saw them, Helen and I."

The judge got upon his feet with an oath. He had not sworn for years until that morning. "What's this?" he said sharply.

"I ought to have told you before, but we were so frightened, and—and you went off in such a rush after Mr. Wiley was here. I never dreamed everybody wouldn't know it was the Crossroads; that they would think of any one else. And I looked for the scarecrow as soon as it was light, and it was away off from where we saw them and wasn't blown down at all; and Helen saw them in the field besides; saw all of them"—

He interrupted her. "What do you mean? Try to tell me about it quietly, child." He laid his hand on her shoulder.

She told him breathlessly what she and Helen had seen, and he grew more and more visibly perturbed and uneasy, biting his cigar to pieces and groaning at intervals. When she had finished he took a few quick turns about the room, with his hands thrust deep in his coat pockets, and then, charging her to repeat the story to no one, left the house and, forgetting his fatigue, rapidly crossed the fields to the point where the bizarre figures of the night had shown themselves to the two girls at the window.

The soft ground had been trampled by many feet. The boot prints pointed to the northeast. He traced them backward to the southwest through the field and saw where they had come from near the road, going northeast; then, returning, he climbed the fence and followed them northward through the next field. From there the next field to the north, lying beyond the road that was a continuation of Main street, stretched to the railroad embankment. The track, ruggedly defined in trampled loam and muddy furrow, bent in a direction which indicated that its terminus might be the switch where the empty cars had stood last night waiting for the 1 o'clock freight. Though the fields had been trampled in many places by the searching parties, he felt sure of the direction taken by the Crossroads men, and he perceived that the searchers had mistaken the tracks he followed for those of earlier parties in the hunt. On the embankment he saw a number of men walking west and examining the ground on each side and a long line of people following them out from town. He stopped. He held the fate of Six Crossroads in his hand, and he knew it.

The men on the embankment were walking slowly, bending far over, their eyes fixed on the ground. Suddenly one of them stood erect and tossed his arms in the air and shouted loudly. Other men ran to him, and another far down the track repeated the shout and the gesture to another far in his rear. This man took it up and shouted and waved to a fourth man, and so they passed the signal back to town. There came almost immediately three long, loud whistles from a mill near the station, and the embankment grew black with people pouring out from town, while the searchers came running from the fields and woods and underbrush on both sides of the railway.

Briscoe began to walk on toward the embankment.

The track lay level and straight, not dimming in the middle distances, the rails converging to points both northwest and southeast in the clean washed air like examples of perspective in a child's drawing book. About seventy miles to the west and north lay Rouen. In the same direction, nearly six miles from where the signal was given, the track was crossed by a road leading directly south to Six Crossroads.

The embankment had been newly ballasted with sand. What had been discovered was a broad brown stain in the sand on the south slope near the top. There were smaller stains above and below, none beyond it to left or right, and there were many deep footprints in the sand. Men were examining the place excitedly, talking and gesticulating. It was Lige Willetts who had found it. His horse was tethered to a fence near by at the end of a lane through a cornfield. Jared Wiley, the deputy sheriff, was talking to a group near the stain, explaining.

"You see, them two must have knowed about the 1 o'clock freight and that it was to stop here to take on the empty lumber cars. I don't know how they knowed it, but they did. It was this way: When they got out the window they beat through the storm straight for this side track. At the same time Mr. Harkless leaves Briscoe's, goin' west. It begins to rain. He cuts across to the railroad to have a sure footin' and strikin' for the deepo for shelter—near place as any, except Briscoe's, where he's said good night already, and prob'ly don't wish to go back, fear of givin' trouble or keepin' 'em up. Anybody can understand that. He comes along and gets to where we are precisely at the time they do, them comin' from town, him strikin' for it. They run right into each other. That's what happened. They re-cog-nized him and raised up on him and let him have it. What they dope it with I don't know. We took everything in that line off of 'em. Prob'ly used railroad iron, and what they done with him afterward we don't know, but we will by night. They'll sweat it out of 'em up at Rouen when they get 'em."

"I reckon maybe some of us might help," remarked Mr. Watts reflectively.

Jim Bardlock swore a violent oath. "That's the talk!" he shouted. "If I ain't the first man of this crowd to set my foot in Roowun and first to beat in that jail door I'm not town marshal of Plattville, county of Carlow, state of Indiana, and the Lord have mercy on our souls!"

Tom Martin looked at the brown stain and quickly turned away. Then he went back slowly to the village. On the way he passed Warren Smith.

"Is it so?" asked the lawyer.

Martin answered with a dry throat. He looked out over the sunlit fields and swallowed once or twice. "Yes, it's so. There's a good deal of it there. Little more than a boy he was." The old fellow passed his seamy hand over his eyes without concealment. "Peter ain't very bright sometimes, it seems to me," he added brokenly; "overlook Bodeffer and Fisbee and me, and all of us old husks, and—and"—he gulped suddenly, then finished—"and act the fool and take a boy that's the best we had. I wish the Almighty would take Peter off the gate. He ain't fit fer it."

When the attorney reached the spot where the crowd was thickest, way was made for him. The old colored man, Xenophon, approached at the same time, leaning on a hickory stick and bent very far over, one hand resting on his hip as if to ease a rusty joint. The negro's age was an incentive to fable. From his appearance he might have known the prophets, and he wore that hoary look of unearthly wisdom which many decades of superstitious experience sometimes give to members of his race. His face, so tortured with wrinkles that it might have been made of innumerable black threads woven together, was a living mask of the mystery of his blood. Harkless had once said that Uncle Xenophon had visited heaven before Swedenborg and hell before Dante. Today as he slowly limped over the ties his eyes were bright and dry under the solemn lids, and, though his heavy nostrils were unusually distended in the effort for regular breathing, the deeply puckered lips beneath them were set firmly. He stopped and looked at the faces before him. When he spoke his voice was gentle, and, though the tremulousness of age harped on the vocal strings, it was rigidly controlled. "Kin some kine gelmun," he asked, "please t' be so good es t' show de ole main whuh de Wite Caips is done shoot Marse Hawkliss?"

"Here was where it happened, Uncle Zen," answered Wiley, leading him forward. "Here is the stain."

Xenophon bent over the spot on the sand, making little odd noises in his throat. Then he painfully resumed his former position. "Dass his blood," he said in the same gentle, quavering tone. "Dass my bes' frien' whut lay on de groun' whay yo' stain. gelmun. Dass whuh dey laid 'im, an' dass whuh he lie," the old negro continued, "Dey shot 'im in de fiel's. Dey ain't shot 'im heah. Yondeh dey druggen 'im, but dis whuh he lie." He bent over again, then knelt groaningly and placed his hand on the stain, one would have said, as a man might place his hand over a heart to see if it still beat. He was motionless, with the air of hearkening.

"Marse, honey, is you gone?" He raised his voice as if calling. "Is yo' gone, suh—marse?"

He looked up at the circle about him, and then, still kneeling, not taking his hand from the sand, seeming to wait for a sign to listen for a voice, he said: "Whafo' yo' gelmun think de good Lawd summon Marse Hawkliss? Kase he de mos' fittes'? You know, dat man he ketch me in de cole night, wintuh 'fo' last, stealin' 'is wood. You know whut he done t' de ole thief? Tek an' bull' up big fiah een ole Zen' shainty. Say: 'He'p yo'se'f, an' welcome. Reckon you hongry, too, ain' you, Xenophon?' Tek an' feed me, tek an' tek keer o' me ev' since. Ah pump de baith full in de mawn', mek 'is bed, pull de weeds out'n de front walk; dass all. He tek me in. When Ah ask 'im ain' he 'fraid keep ole thief he say, jesso: 'Dass all my fault, Xenophon; ought look you up long 'go; ought know long 'go you be cole dese bald nights. Reckon Ah'm de thievenest one 'us two. Xenophon, keepin' fill dis wood stock up when you got none,' he say, jesso. Tek me in; say he lahk a thief; pay me sala'y; feed me. Dass de main whut de Caps gone shot lais' night." He raised his head sharply, and the mystery in his gloomy eyes intensified as they opened wide and stared at the sky unseeingly.

"Ah's bawn wid a cawl!" he exclaimed loudly. His twisted frame was braced to an extreme tension. "Ah's bawn wid a cawl! De blood ansuh!"

"It wasn't the White Caps, Uncle Xenophon," said Warren Smith, laying his hand on the old man's shoulder.

Xenophon rose to his feet. He stretched a long, bony arm straight to the west, where the Crossroads lay; stood rigid and silent, like a seer; then spoke:

"De men whut shot Marse Hawkliss lies yondeh, hidin' f'um de light o' day. An' him"—he swerved his whole rigid body till the arm pointed northwest—"he lies yondeh. You won' fine

"Ah's bawn wid a cawl!"

'im heah. Dey fought 'im in de fiel's, an' dey druggen 'im heah. Dis whuh dey lay 'im down. Ah's bawn wid a cawl!"

There were exclamations from the listeners, for Xenophon spoke as one having authority. Suddenly he turned and pointed his outstretched hand full at Judge Briscoe.

"An' dass de main," he cried; "dass de main kin tell yo' Ah speak de trufe!"

Before Briscoe answered, Eph Watts looked at him keenly and then turned to Lige Willetts and whispered: "Get on your horse, ride in and ring the courthouse bell like fury. Do as I say."

Tortured with Pain.

Too Weak to Work.

ULCERS, BOILS AND PIMPLES ALL OVER HER BODY

Such was the condition of Mrs. Samuel Deitz, Zurich, Ont.

She happily found relief from her terrible suffering by using

Burdock Blood Bitters.

A remedy without a rival for the cure of all diseases and troubles arising from bad blood. A record extending over a quarter of a century and thousands of testimonials will prove this. Mrs. Deitz writes: "Too weak to work, tortured with the pain of ulcers, boils and pimples all over my body, especially on my face. I had almost made up my mind to give up trying to have them cured. I was ashamed to have any person come to see me, my face was in such a terrible state. I tried everything I could think of but got worse and worse. I was then led to try Burdock Blood Bitters and was surprised at the wonderful change the first bottle made. Altogether I took seven bottles and am now completely cured and am in perfect health again. I feel that B.B.B. saved my life."

IN OLD AGE the question of health becomes mainly a question of nutrition. If the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition are kept in a healthful condition there will be a well-nourished body, and little liability to disorders of the liver, bowels or such other disorders as may result from innutrition and lack of exercise.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, and also diseases of other organs which are caused by the diseased condition of the stomach. By enabling the perfect nutrition of the body it increases the vital power and promotes a vigorous old age.

"I was a sufferer from chronic diarrhea for five years," writes Mrs. Mary A. Aaron, of Rolla, Phelps Co., Mo. "I tried different remedies, which would give me relief for a short time only. My trouble would return as bad as ever. I consulted you in July, 1900, and by your advice commenced using Dr. Pierce's remedies. I took two bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' three vials of the 'Pellets,' and some of the 'Extract of Smart-Weed,' as you advised. I have not had any return of my trouble since using your medicines. Am now seventy-one years old and I never had anything to relieve me so quick. I think Dr. Pierce's medicines the greatest on earth. Should I ever have any return of my trouble shall use your medicine. My thanks to you for your advice and thanks to Almighty God for restoring me to health through your hands."

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach, blood and lungs.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, the best laxative for old people. They cure constipation and biliousness.

Have you ever tried Scott's Emulsion for a thin, weak child, one backward in growth and slow in development? Those who have know the pleasure of seeing their delicate child grow strong and become well-developed under the gentle but effective influence of Scott's Emulsion. For the weak growth of the bones, Scott's Emulsion supplies those powerful tonics, the hypophosphites. For the lack of proper healthy flesh Scott's Emulsion provides the nourishing cod liver oil in an easily digested and palatable form. Any child that needs more and better nourishment—effective nourishment—will get it in Scott's Emulsion. There is no other remedy or food that combines so much that is necessary in maintaining good health and right growth in children.

LINDSAY AHEAD IN BASEBALL GAME.

Defeated the Locals by 2-1 in a Great Contest.

A Pitcher's Battle With Honours Even —Peterborough's Errors Costly— A Very Fine Game.

Lost by 2—1. In one of the closest and best played games of baseball ever seen in Lindsay the Peterboroughs were defeated on Tuesday afternoon by 2—1 in the opening game in the Midland League. It was a hard game to lose but the boys took their defeat in the proper spirit and will work all the harder to turn the tables here on Dominion Day. It was a pitchers battle between Flaherty and McLaughlin, and honours were about even. Both twirlers did great work and but five scattered hits were secured by each team. McLaughlin comes from Western Ontario where he is considered about the best that is. Both had superb control, Flaherty passing but one man on balls, while McLaughlin hit two men but gave no free passes. It was nip and tuck from start to finish and several times a hit would have meant the game for the losers. But that hit was not forthcoming alas. Lindsay made four errors, which did not affect the result, while two of Peterborough's three misplays figured in the scoring. But such is life. Up until the 7th innings only one of the winners the initial bag and scored. There was only one stolen base in the game, Whitcroft being the one sack purloiner.

Manager and Second Baseman Whitcroft, who scored Peterborough's only run on Tuesday.

Peterborough scored their only run in the 8th, when Whitcroft knocked a sizzler at Miller and beat the throw to first. He stole second and scored on Cawthorne's safe drive. In the ninth Flaherty was on third with two out when Whitcroft knocked a line drive at Miller; the latter partially stopped the ball which bounced from his glove high in the air towards Workman, who caught it and the side was retired, though Flaherty was across the plate. It was a great piece of luck. In five innings Peterborough had chances to score but failed.

All the boys did good work and fielded their positions well. They were somewhat weak at the bat, but this is partially accounted for by the fact that nearly all the best batters are left handed and as McLaughlin is a southpaw he had a great advantage over these hitters. Flaherty got two of the hits and McLaughlin got one for his nine. Wareham made two sensational catches in left garden and in the 8th threw a man out at the plate by a perfect throw.

The grounds were in good condition, and the management deserve credit for the way in which the non-players were kept off the field. The boys were well pleased with their treatment both on and off the field.

Mayor Soothrean was present at the game and threw the first ball across the plate. The game was witnessed by a very large crowd.

The teams were:—

Lindsay.—McLaughlin, p; Cinnamon, c; McGill, 1b; Workman, 2b; Menzies, 3b; Miller, ss; Little, lf; Kemp, rf. Brooks, cf.

Peterborough.—Flaherty, p; Lethbridge, c; J Pilling, 1b; Whitcroft, 2b; Sheridan, 3b; Lamont, ss; Wareham, lf; Cawthorne, cf; Simpson, rf.

Mr. Hamly, of Port Hope, gave perfect satisfaction as referee, not a single kick being registered against his decisions.

The score by innings was as follows:—

	R.	H.	E.
Lindsay ... ...00010010x—2	5	4
Peterborough ... ...000000010—1	5	3

PLAYERS SIGNED IN GUILD LEAGUE

Opening Games to Take Place Next Monday Evening.

The List of the Players from which Teams will be Picked to Play for Examiner Trophy.

The Guild Baseball League opens next Monday, when St. Luke's play at the Charlotte street grounds, and George street go to All Saint's. The interest that is being manifest in the league is on the increase daily and some fine ball is promised when the games commence. The teams are all stronger than last year and at present it would take a pretty good guesser to pick the winner in either of the districts. The following are the men signed with the different teams to compete for the Examiner Trophy, emblematic of the championship of the Guild League:—

St. Luke's.—J Oldham, S Gibbs, Harold Crane, H McWha, Walter H Tighe, George Ohrowe, Bruce Gillespie, Charley Crane, Frank Dawson, George Armstrong, Hugh Graham. Umpires, Harold Crane, Jack Oldham.

The above lists of players were sent to the executive meeting last evening by the different clubs. St. Paul's was not represented at the meeting but will place a strong team in the field.

YOUNG QUAKERS BEAT STAR ATHLETICS

Port Hope Team Beaten at Baseball by 28-9.

At the Murray street school grounds on Tuesday morning, the Young Quakers trounced the Star Athletics of Port Hope by 28—9 at baseball. The winners played great baseball, batting and fielding like veterans, and after the first innings the visitors never had a look in. Swanston and Quinlan did great work on the slab for the winners, and had the Athletics guessing hard most of the time. The teams were:

Star Athletics — Wood 1b, Lapp p, Bice ss, Clarke cf, Bradourn 3b, Bennett 2b, Miller C c, Miller G lf, Chislett rf.

Young Quakers - Conroy 1b, Gilman ss, Swanston p and lf, Quinlan cf and p, Duncan rf, McMullen 3b, Wilson 2b, Morphet cf.

The score by innings was:

Star Athletics ... ...3000010203— 9
Young Quakers ... ...23139271x—28

Umpire, Mr. Alexander.

Swanston fanned 12 batters in five innings, while Quinlan struck out six in four innings, Lapp caused nine to hit the air.

PORT HOPE WON THE LACROSSE MATCH

A Team of Peterborough Juniors Beaten There Tuesday.

Peterborough teams away from home on Tuesday did not experience that glowing success which those staying at home enjoyed. While the Peterboroughs were downing Lindsay at lacrosse here, a team of juniors and amateurs were receiving the short end of the score at Port Hope, and were beaten by about 10—0. The team had never practiced together, and was a weak one in comparison to the team which was expected to go, and their showing under the circumstances was creditable. They were up against a team with Roche, Henderson and other such stars. The winners had a strong team, and should make things lively for the T. V. L. opponents.

Port Hope scored 8 goals in the first half and only 3 in the last, so the losers were improving vastly as time went on. One of the local players said yesterday that had the game lasted for two hours, instead of one, they would have won—and so they might.

LACROSSE.

The Peterboroughs play their first league game in Oshawa next Wednesday, which means that every player who hopes to catch a place on the team should attend all the practices in the meantime. The boys played a fair game on Tuesday, but there was room for a lot of improvement which only steady practice will bring. There will be a few changes in the line-up which it is expected will strengthen the team considerably and with a few stiff practices the boys should give Oshawa a warm argument. Oshawa always played good lacrosse and that town can be relied upon to place a fast team on the green again this season, so the locals should take no chances in this opening game. The town is not looking for material and if the cracker-jacks will only turn out and get into shape, the championship of this district, at least, should come this way. Get out to practice boys and stick to it.

• • • •

Membership tickets for the Peterborough Lacrosse Club may be had at Mr. F. A. Clarke's store, or at the Examiner office.

• • • •

With Best and Cavanagh on the home to assist McCabe and Glover in the scoring, the locals will have a home which may be depended upon to score a few at least.

• • • •

At Oshawa on Victoria Day, the Elms of Toronto, and the Oshawa Intermediate team, played a tie game, each scoring two goals.

BASEBALL.

George street Guild team will practice to-night at 6.30 sharp. A full turn-out is requested.

• • • •

A telephone message received from Manager Whitcroft, of the Peterboroughs this afternoon, gives the information that the Cobourg Baseball team, champions for two years of the Midland Baseball League, will be here to play a game on Saturday.

• • • •

In Tuesday's game in Lindsay, Flaherty fanned 8 men, while McLaughlin struck out five.

• • • •

Peterborough's next game is with the strong Bowmanville team here on Saturday, June 11th.

• • • •

Lindsay play the return game there on Dominion Day. Then watch us turn the tables.

• • • •

Hooper, who for years played first base for Bowmanville, is holding down an outfield position for Lindsay.

• • • •

The Young Quakers, who made such a splendid showing in their game with Port Hope on Victoria day, will play the return game with St. Andrews on the T.A.A.A. grounds this evening. They play the All Saint's team to-morrow evening.

• • • •

The Lindsay Post speaks thus in reference to Tuesday's baseball game: "In yesterday's game both teams won the good will and praise of the entire crowd by their genial dispositions, gentlemanly carriage, and quiet, unassuming manners. The two pitchers had a great battle, only one man reaching first on balls, which were delivered by Flaherty. The latter seemed to be at his best — his headword was fine, and the fans were well pleased with his showing. McLaughlin, Lindsay's clever little pitcher, was the hero of the day, his work being very effective. He had speed to burn and all kinds of balls were delivered by him. The number struck out by both pitchers was large. Bellegbem was the receiver for Flaherty and held him down in good style. The Peterborough players were in first class trim and played good ball, Waram making two catches, but their batting was weak. Lamonte of Toronto, figured on their line up."

FOOTBALL.

The Quakers will practice to-night at 6.45.

• • • •

A full meeting of the O.C. W. football club is called for Saturday night, at 8 o'clock in the Crown Hotel.

• • • •

Harwood is scheduled to play in Keene on Saturday. So far the latter team has played but one game.

• • • •

Norwood plays in Bridgenorth on Saturday. If the latter team wins the group championship will go to that village.

• • • •

The Quakers had a good practice last evening in preparation for Saturday's big game.

• • • •

Norwood and Bridgenorth are now a tie for the district championship in the Midland League.

MISCELLANEOUS.

DECISIVE VICTORY FOR THE JAPS.

Reported Crushing Defeat of a Big Russian Force.

THE CAPTURE OF KINCHOU.

Town Carried by Assault After a Desperate Fight—Russians Think it was a Frontal Attack and That the Japanese Loss was Heavy—Offering Stubborn Resistance to Jap Advance on Port Arthur.

London, May 27.—The Shanhaikwan correspondent of The Daily Chronicle sends a report received from Newchwang that, on May 23, thinking that the Japanese had retired from Fengwangcheng, 15,000 Russians from Maicheng and Liaoyang marched toward Fengwangcheng. They were surprised by 30,000 Japanese in the Tatung Pass. The Russian casualties were 4,000, and over 1,000 Russians surrendered. The report does not state the Japanese losses.

Kinchou Stormed and Captured.

London, May 27.—A despatch to the Central News from Tokio yesterday says the Japanese have stormed and captured the town of Kinchou (about 32 miles north of Port Arthur).

The Morning Post's Tokio correspondent says the Japanese occupied Kinchou Thursday afternoon and are advancing to attack the Russians occupying the heights south of the town.

The Standard's Tokio correspondent cabled last night: "It is reported that the Japanese have occupied Kinchou. Official confirmation of the rumor is expected hourly."

In an earlier message, the Tokio correspondent of the Central News cabled that Japanese spies had ascertained that the Russians had thirty guns at Kinchou, and numerous mines and wire entanglements at all the points where a Japanese attack was expected.

After the occupation of Kinchou, the Russians retired in good order to the heights farther south, which were attacked by the full Japanese force and carried after a stubborn resistance.

Now Attacking Dalny.

The Tokio correspondent of The Daily Telegraph says it is reported unofficially that the Japanese are now attacking Dalny.

The Tokio correspondent of The Daily Mail, under date of May 26, says: "According to a reliable report the Japanese occupied Kinchou to-day."

Casualties Heavy.

The correspondent of The Central News at Tokio cables that the Japanese attacked Nahqwanling on the narrowest part of the Kwantung Peninsula, Wednesday, and drove back the Russians by main force. The attack on Kinchou, the despatch adds, was begun at dawn yesterday, and by noon Kinchou was in the hands of the Japanese, who occupied the castle. The fighting continued during the afternoon, and was of the most desperate character. It is believed the casualities were heavy.

By Frontal Attack.

St. Petersburg, May 27.—The general staff was not in a position last night to confirm or deny the Tokio report that the Japanese have occupied Kinchou. The latest official information regarding fighting in that vicinity was conveyed in Gen. Kuropatkin's telegram, which said that the Japanese had lost 700 men on May 18. The opinion of the best authorities is that if the Japanese rushed Kinchou by a frontal attack, unsupported by heavy guns, which is not believed they possessed, the capture of the place must have been effected at a tremendous loss to the attackers.

Fought For 8 Days.

London, May 27.—The Tokio correspondent of The Daily Chronicle, under date of May 27, says: "The Japanese have constructed 30 miles of light railway for the transportation of siege guns towards Port Arthur. Around Kinchou they have been fighting for eight days, but are making little progress. The Russians occupy strong positions on the heights."

Japs Routed Cavalry.

Tokio, May 27.—Gen. Kuroki reports that, on Wednesday, after the battle of Tofu, the enemy's cavalry took up a position at Pataosti. The Japanese thereupon attacked and routed them. Natives report that three of the enemy were killed and eighteen wounded. During the afternoon a Japanese patrol captured one officer and one private.

Bombarded May 24.

St. Petersburg, May 27.—Viceroy Alexieff telegraphes that a report is current that Port Arthur was bombarded on May 24, but says he has not received any official confirmation of the rumor.

Within Ten Miles of Port Arthur.

Che Foo, May 27.—There is a rumor current here among the Chinese that the Japanese are now within ten miles of Port Arthur.

Battle on May 22.

Che Foo, May 27.—A junk, which left Dalny on the night of May 23, and which arrived here yesterday, reports that the Japanese army had reached Sansuripo, which is north of Dalny and southwest of Nangalien. The Russians offered a stubborn resistance to the advance of the Japanese, and a battle was fought at noon on May 22 at Sansuripo.

Severe Fighting Probable.

St. Petersburg, May 27.—While no news has been received from General Stoessel, commander of the Russian troops at Port Arthur, the War Office is inclined to believe that severe fighting is in progress in the southern part of the Liaotung Peninsula, above the narrowest point of the peninsula. The general staff denies the rumors of the final evacuation of Newchwang and says the heavy guns were not taken when the town was re-occupied in force. No changes of importance in the positions of Gen. Kuroki or Gen. Kuropatkin are reported.

Alexieff Against Correspondents.

St. Petersburg, May 27.—Viceroy Alexieff has decided not to allow any more foreign newspaper correspondents to join the Manchurian army.

Safe From Russ Mines.

Montreal, Que., May 26.—Russian mines are being discussed here in steamship circles. "Our vessels," remarked Mr. Arthur Piers, the manager of the C. P. R. steamship lines, "run too far south of the scene of warfare to be seriously endangered. The only way in which one of them could come in contact with a mine would be by the instrument of destruction floating far beyond its original location. So far as I can see, therefore, there is no likelihood of danger to Canadian Pacific steamers, except in a contingency such as I have indicated. The course of our vessels is hundreds of miles from the scene of any probable naval conflict at the present time."

TAXATION OF RAILWAYS.

Appointment of Commission to Investigate Methods—Mr. H. J. Pettypiece, M.P.P., Judge Bell and Prof. Shortt.

Toronto, May 27.—Mr. H. J. Pettypiece, M.P.P. of East Lambton, Judge Archibald Bell of Chatham, and Prof. Adam Shortt of Queen's University will compose the commission authorized by the Ontario Legislature to investigate the taxation of railways in the United States. Mr. Pettypiece, who has taken such a deep interest in the subject, will be chairman. The appointments were made at the meeting of the Cabinet yesterday. One of the officials at the Parliament buildings will be selected to act as secretary to the commission, probably Mr. Geo. Yates, private secretary to Hon. E. J. Davis, who as an expert shorthand writer would be of great assistance in making notes of interviews.

The investigations of the commission will probably last for about six weeks, a number of the States of the Union being visited. One of the phases of the question that will be particularly inquired into is the effect upon local rates of the municipal taxation of railways.

Mr. Pettypiece has been engaged in newspaper work since 1879, when he entered the employ of the late Hon. W. D. Balfour, editor of The Amherstburg Echo. Four years later he moved to Forest and bought The Forest Free Press, which he has since owned and edited. He was a Town Councillor of Forest in 1888, and has been a director of the Lambton Farmers' Institute. He was elected to the Legislature for East Lambton at the general election of 1898, and again in 1902.

Prof. Shortt has been on the faculty of Queen's since 1885, when he was appointed assistant professor of philosophy. In 1889 he became lecturer in the new department of political science, and in 1892 professor of that subject. He has frequently contributed articles on economic and social subjects to periodicals in Canada and the United States. He has also published a number of essays on banking. For years he has given considerable attention to the transportation problem. Prof. Shortt is 45 years of age.

His Honor Archibald Bell was called to the Bar in 1866, and practiced successfuly at Strathroy and Chatham. On the resignation of Judge Wells in 1878 he was appointed Judge of the County of Kent. Judge Bell has always taken a keen interest in municipal problems, and some years ago was a member of the Good Roads Commission appointed by the Ontario Government.

The Temiskaming Railway.

Toronto, May 27.—Town sites of 1,000 acres each to be selected along the line of the Temiskaming Railway, adjacent to stations or proposed stations, and a land grant of 4,000,000 acres along the 200 miles of the line and its delimitations into townships, are the two questions to be dealt with by a new subcommission under the Temiskaming Railway Commissioners which was appointed yesterday.

Three of the sub-commissioners have been chosen, Aubrey White, Deputy Minister of Crown Lands, being chairman, and Hon. E. J. Davis naming Thomas W. Gibson, director of mines, and Thomas Southworth, director of colonization, and the railway will appoint the other two.

Goes to Africa to Wed.

New York, May 27.—The World yesterday morning says: When the White Star Liner Majestic sailed on her last trip a passenger, Miss Bertha Alexander, a pretty Canadian girl, will make a 10,000-mile journey to Kimberley, South Africa, to marry Lieut. Richard Rowland Thompson, and thereby complete a romance begun before the Boer war. The bride-to-be was a waitress in her uncles' restaurant in Ottawa, when Thompson emigrated from Cork, to Canada and fell in love with her.

Death of Major-General McNeil.

London, May 27.—(C.A.P.)—Major-General Sir John Curstairs McNeil, V.C., G.C.V.O., etc., who was military secretary to Lord Lisgar in Canada and served on the staff of Lord Wolseley on the Red River expedition, is dead, at Flag Court, St. James' Palace. He was aged 73, and saw much service in the Indian mutiny, Egypt and the Soudan. He was appointed Bath King-at-Arms in 1898.

NEWS OF TO-DAY.

The debate in the House of Commons yesterday was characterized by a sharp curve by Mr. Borden, leader of the Opposition, who, abandoning his former alternative proposition, introduced an amendment favouring Government construction and operation of the railway.

A CANADIAN AT ST. LOUIS FAIR

Canadian Press Association Visits the Louisiana Purchase Exposition.

Canada's Part in the Great Fair—Her Exhibition very Creditable—A Pleasant Excursion.

(From Our Special Correspondent.)

Last week members of the Canadian Press Association paid a visit to the St. Louis World's Fair, and were entertained very pleasantly by the Directors of that gigantic enterprise. A large number of Canadian newspaper men under the direction of Mr. John A. Cooper, president of the Association, spent five days at the Fair.

That the St. Louis Exposition will be what its promoters claim — the most complete exhibition ever seen in America — there seems to be no doubt, at least in the minds of those who constituted the party visiting the Fair last week. The train which conveyed the party was provided by the Grand Trunk Railway and the journey was to many a revelation of what luxury, speed and convenience can do to make modern travelling attractive. People in this vicinity who propose to visit St. Louis this summer can make no mistake in travelling by the Grand Trunk. The officials of that road were courtesy personified, and the pressmen and women will never forget the untiring efforts put forth in their behalf by Mr. H. D. Charlton, assistant general passenger agent of the G.T.R. and Mr. J. D. McDonald, district passenger agent. Both gentlemen were presented with handsome gifts by the visiting newspaper men. As to the route, it was voted by everybody a most interesting and satisfactory one. The excellent train connections and service which the Grand Trunk has established with St. Louis by way of the Illinois Central Railway could not be improved upon and is worthy the patronage of all Canadians. The run from Toronto to St. Louis takes 22 hours, and the trip is interesting to the last degree.

At the Exposition the managers could not do enough for the Canadian visitors, and they were fairly surfeited with sight-seeing. The St. Louis Exposition is an enormous affair. Money has been spent like water. It is wonderful, marvellous, dazzling. The electrical illuminations at night make one feel like Mahomet did, when he gazed on the lights of Ephesus. As to the exhibits it would take a month to see everything. And of all the exhibits that of our friends the Japs is the most complete. And what of Canada? Well, Canada is not far from the top. The praises of her exhibit were in every body's mouth. The Dominion trophy in the Agricultural Building showing the wonderful agricultural capabilities of this great country is exceptionally fine. Every class of product is shown, and the specimens proclaim the marvellous productiveness of our soil and the scientific knowledge of our farmers. In horticulture we are surpassed only by California, where, of course, the tropical fruits lend novelty to the exhibit. In the department of mineralogy, there is no display superior to that of Canada. Every branch of Canadian mining enterprise is thoroughly represented. Our lumber resources are also well illustrated in the Forestry and Game Buildings. Here the Intercolonial Railway makes an exhibit, emphasing the resources of the Maritime Provinces. Here too the Grand Trunk has a handsome pavilion in Doric and Corinthian style, directing the visitor to the wonders of Muskoka, and to the fishing and hunting grounds there and elsewhere in Canada. The Canadian exhibit is in charge of Commissioner Hutchinson, who is provided with a Canadian Building, which, although not so imposing as those of some of the States or the Union, or of some European countries, is nevertheless ornate and capacious and is bound to be a centre for Canadian visitors. Altogether Canada shows up well at the Fair.

The press party were entertained at an "at home," given by Mr. Hutchinson, at the Canadian building. Here the party were addressed by Sir Hugh Gilzean Reid, the representative of Great Britain at the Press Parliament, which opened on Thursday, and Mr. John A. Cooper, Mr. Joseph Downey, M.P.P., and Mr. Hugh Clark, M.P.P. The trip concluded with a visit to Chicago, and here the Canadian press was entertained on Friday evening by the Canadian journalists of that city.

Sandbagged and Robbed.

Hamilton, May 27.—Thomas Duncan, a street car conductor, was found lying unconscious on East Barton street about 3 o'clock yesterday morning. He says two men sandbagged and robbed him about 11 o'clock Wednesday night. He was left lying on the street for several hours. His watch and chain were not taken, but he was relieved of $10.

City Drain Diggers' Strike.

Toronto, May 27.—Forty drain diggers employed in the Sewer Department of the City Engineer's office, struck yesterday morning for an increase in wages to 25 cents per hour. At present they are receiving 20 to 22 cents, the diggers getting the lower wage and pipe-layers the latter. Contractors are paying 25 cents at present.

Drowned in the Severn.

Washago, May 27.—The body of Miss Annie Agnew of this place was found in the east branch of the Severn River at 10 o'clock yesterday. The people are still searching for the body of Dave McKenzie of North Nation Mills, Que. The couple have been missing since May 7.

To be a successful wife, to retain the love and admiration of her husband should be a woman's constant study. Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Potts tell their stories for the benefit of all wives and mothers.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will make every mother well, strong, healthy and happy. I dragged through nine years of miserable existence, worn out with pain and weariness. I then noticed a statement of a woman troubled as I was, and the wonderful results she had had from your Vegetable Compound, and decided to try what it would do for me, and used it for three months. At the end of that time I was a different woman, the neighbors remarked it, and my husband fell in love with me all over again. It seemed like a new existence. I had been suffering with inflammation and falling of the womb, but your medicine cured that and built up my entire system, till I was indeed like a new woman.—Sincerely yours, MRS. CHAS. F. BROWN, 21 Cedar Terrace, Hot Springs, Ark., Vice President Mothers' Club."

Suffering women should not fail to profit by Mrs. Brown's experiences; just as surely as she was cured of the troubles enumerated in her letter, just so surely will Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cure other women who suffer from womb troubles, inflammation of the ovaries, kidney troubles, nervous excitability, and nervous prostration. Read the story of Mrs. Potts to all mothers:—

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—During the early part of my married life I was very delicate in health. I had two miscarriages, and both my husband and I felt very badly as we were anxious to have children. A neighbor who had been using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advised me to try it, and I decided to do so. I soon felt that my appetite was increasing, the headaches gradually decreased and finally disappeared, and my general health improved. I felt as if new blood coursed through my veins, the sluggish tired feeling disappeared, and I became strong and well.

"Within a year after I became the mother of a strong healthy child, the joy of our home. You certainly have a splendid remedy, and I wish every mother knew of it.—Sincerely yours, MRS. ANNA POTTS, 510 Park Ave., Hot Springs, Ark."

If you feel that there is anything at all unusual or puzzling about your case, or if you wish confidential advice of the most experienced, write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., and you will be advised free of charge. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has cured and is curing thousands of cases of female troubles—curing them inexpensively and absolutely. Remember this when you go to your druggist. Insist upon getting

TRANSPORTATION AND TRADE.

A paragraph in the Toronto Star, indicates the immense advantages that are accruing to Toronto manufacturers of clothing from the North-west market. It states that a large army of workers are employed in that city in the manufacture of clothing for sale in the Northwest, and that the demand is bound to increase. This fact simply illustrates what the Examiner has often contended, that the opening up and settlement of the Northwest is bound to be beneficial to Eastern Canada. Every new settler creates a new centre of demand for the manufactured products of older Canada. It is therefore manifestly to the advantage of the older portions to encourage the development and peopling of the Northwest. Consequently it is not surprising that every open-minded and reflective person in Eastern Canada is in favour of a new transcontinental railway, which will not only make accessible a magnificent new area of arable land, but will cheapen freight and passenger rates, thus affording trade facilities which must result in increased intercommunication of the West and the East. When one sees, as by the incident above cited, what advantage to the industries of Toronto, the development of the Northwest is bringing, and will continue to bring, in increasing volume, it is difficult to understand the attitude of the Conservative representatives of the city of Toronto, in opposing the construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific. One can easily understand the hostility of Mr. Osler. He is not opposing the enterprise on grounds of public policy, or in the interests of the city he represents. He is the friend of a great railway corporation, which no doubt considers that its best interests lie in retaining the traffic control of the great region it traverses. This is natural and no more than we might expect. But it is no more optimism to think that the increase of population, and the incidental development of the Northwest, will give the C. P. R. line more than it can do. In the course of less than a generation, the Northwest will have grown to such an extent that two or three transcontinental lines will have abundance of employment for their carrying capacities.

Increased railway communication is demanded, not only in the interest of the eastern manufacturer and producer, but in the interests of the west. A few days ago an employee of the C.P.R. paid a visit to the town, and expressed to the Examiner his firm belief in the necessity of increased railway accommodation in the interests of the people of the North-west. From a long residence in that part of Canada, he sees that the tremendous development going forward will tax existing railway facilities beyond their capacity, and that if the country is to develop the best that is in it, the transportation facilities, the prime factor in the highest and most aggressive civilization, must be approximately, at least, adequate to the demand.

The advantages that come to Toronto by the filling up of the Northwest are but a type of the advantages that will come to every municipality, village, town and city, in the East. Therefore the better we can make our transportation facilities the better for the country at large, both East and West.

The position taken by Toronto members is narrow and unpatriotic. Because a new transportation route comes into nominal antagonism to an existing route in which they are personally interested, that does not absolve them from the sin of over riding the interests of their constituents. Toronto stands to benefit very greatly from the construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific, and in a like measure through the development of the North-west will it benefit by the completion of the Trent Valley Waterway, a national undertaking, an urgent necessity in our scheme of national transportation. But the attitude of Toronto newspapers in regard to this canal are as unintelligible as the attitude of its representatives in regard to the Grand Trunk Pacific. These journals do not take the big view of this undertaking. With the civic selfishness that has become proverbial, they demand a certain outlet on Lake Ontario simply because, as they argue, it will bring a little country trade a little nearer Toronto. They ignore the broader consideration that the completion of the canal as a factor in our transportation and as a factor in the development of the North-west will increase Toronto's trade to a degree far more important than mere local advantage. We want the route and terminus of the canal that will make it the most useful carrying medium of the products of the North-west to the seaboard. It is hardly worth while to lose sight of this consideration in order to make the southern terminus of the Trent Waterway serve the purposes of Toronto stone hookers. We should turn our eyes higher than the mere parochial point of view.

AN OLD STORY.

The Montreal Gazette accuses Ministers of taking credit for the high prices that have prevailed and then proceeds to hold them responsible for the recent drop in the price of cheese and bacon. As a matter of fact, the Gazette's friends were the authors, and are the sole adherents of the doctrine that a Canadian Administration has power to regulate supply and demand throughout the world, and so to fix prices here and elsewhere. In 1879 they put a duty on wheat, an article which we export. Shortly after the price in England went up, and, of course, the price in Canada and the United States went up too; whereupon the Conservatives cried that Mumbo Jumbo had worked a miracle.

In Hansard, March 16, 1880, pp. 679-80, Dr. Sproule showed that wheat had risen from 84 cents in December, 1878, before the introduction of the N.P., to $1.28 in December, 1879, a few months after its introduction; peas, oats, pork, and other articles had also risen. "Every farmer," said Dr. Sproule triumphantly, "is able to see that he is receiving a substantial benefit from the National Policy." Other Conservative members took the same line. The late Mr. Rufus Stephenson, the party whip, summed it all up by exclaiming, "I'm for a Government that has jumped the price of wheat at Chatham from 85 cents to $1.30."

When prices fell and the Conservatives were asked if their idol had suddenly lost his talismanic power over seedtime and harvest throughout the earth, the best they could say was that the fall was due to the incantations of the Liberals, who were supposed to be working in secret in behalf of blue ruin. The Liberals had attacked the N.P., had run down Canada, had said something more or less favourable to Kansas; therefore, the N.P. had become weary of well-doing and prices had consequently gone down. They remained down until 1899; the N.P. went on strike for eighteen long years and the Canadian farmer suffered accordingly, all because of Liberal machinations. Yet, strange to say, when the Liberals entered office things forthwith began to improve and the last seven years have been the fattest in the history of Canada, not for the farmer alone, but for every other class in the community, including the manufacturers.

At the present moment the Conservatives are trying to humbug the farmer with the old flub-dub—they want higher duties on farm products, that prices here may be augmented. Our Parliament is once more credited with jurisdiction over the British market, and, incidentally, over the crops of the United States, Argentine, Russia, India, Canada, etc., whose exportable surplus is a prime factor in determining prices in Liverpool and London. Once more, too, our Conservative friends, headed by Mr. Tarte, are arguing that we must have higher duties on farm products in order to save ourselves from being swamped by the cheap products of the States, where duties higher than the Conservatives themselves would impose have been levied for years. The tariff doctors are thus lauding a remedy on this side of the line, which by their own confession, has proved worthless on the other.

The Gazette, sanest of Conservative papers, understands these things better than Mr. Tarte, Dr. Sproule, or the lesser lights. But why not enlighten the brethren? Why keep silent while these leaders are employing the appeals to ignorance that did duty in 1880?

CLYDESDALE.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The farmers of Clydesdale have got on well with their spring crops, the weather having generally been fine and dry.

Reports say that the rabbits and ground hogs are very plentiful.

Mr. Michael Long was the guest of Mr. Jas. Scott on Sunday.

Messrs. John O'Brien and Robert Hynes took the contract for improving the corduroy roads from the village north as far as Gerrard's, previous to the commencement of the milk-drawing. The road is now in excellent condition and when we consider the difficulties under which the men laboured, for most of the work was done late in the evening and early in the morning, we think that John and Robert should be appointed pathmasters for the ensuing season.

Mrs. Ryan and daughter Pearl, of Peterborough, are visiting the former's sister, Mrs. E. Gooder.

Mr. Simon Mahoney, Jr., says the suckers are biting good this spring.

Mr. Dennis O'Brien has started a sort of livery in the village. He has purchased a dandy buggy. It appeared for the first time on Sunday last when the spanking bay team dashed up to the church.

Mr. Michael Celery and Mr. Michael Scott were the guests of Mr. Michael Hynes on Sunday.

The cheese factory is in operation again. Mr. Duncan McPherson is surprising some of his patrons not used to early rising.

STRUCK BY CYCLONE

Amherstburg, Ont., Suffers Much Damage by Its Vehemence.

LAKE VIEW HOTEL UNROOFED

Lime Kiln Range Lights Destroyed—Court House Partly Wrecked—Electric Company's Tall Smokestack Toppled Over—Grist Mill Damaged—Ravages of Lightning Elsewhere—Several Drownings Reported.

Amherstburg, May 27.—A roaring cyclone struck this town shortly after 12 o'clock noon yesterday. It raged for nearly an hour and left a trail of ruin in its wake. No one was killed, so far as can be ascertained, and it is announced that no one has been injured to any serious extent.

The most serious damage is to the Lake View Hotel, the roof of which was whipped off and then carried a clattering sheet of shingles for some distance before it fell to the ground.

Range Lights Blown Down.

Vessel interests will also suffer considerably, as the range lights to guide the boats through the lime-kilns have been blown down. The lights specially are those located at the Michigan Central tracks.

The tall smokestack of the Electric Light and Power Company was toppled over.

The grist mill was badly damaged and the court house was partially wrecked.

No Warning of Storm.

The storm came from the north-west and was preceded by very little warning.

The fact that there was no loss of life on the river is due solely to luck, there being no pleasure parties out in small boats at the time.

Trees were uprooted, telegraph and telephone wires were blown down, and for some time the interurban service from Windsor and Sandwich was stopped.

Lightning Causes Heavy Loss.

Bowmanville, May 27.—During the heavy thunderstorm which passed over this district Wednesday evening, the barns and stables on the farm occupied by William Brown, lot 80, con. 5, Clarke, were struck by lightning and burned to the ground. Six horses were killed, which were worth about $1,100. Besides the horses killed, was a Durham bull, a number of calves, also 600 bushels of oats, hay, and machinery were destroyed. His loss is about $1,800; insurance about $700.

Victim of Lightning.

Tillsonburg, May 27.—A man named William Crabb, who was working for John Scott of Dereham, was struck by lightning yesterday morning while he was planting corn in the field and was killed instantly. The electric current struck him on the head, ran down across his breast, through his right arm and the corn planter to the earth. The man was frightfully burned and the implement he was using was shattered to atoms. He was a native of South Norwich, was about 22 years old, and unmarried.

Killed By Lightning.

Belleville, May 27.—Thomas Lefroy, a prosperous farmer of Queensboro, was taking whey from Ache's factory, near that place, Wednesday afternoon, when a thunderstorm came up. He was struck and instantly killed by a bolt of lightning. His widow alone survives him.

The residence of Frank H. Reid, near this city, in Thurlow township, was struck by lightning Wednesday morning and badly damaged. Mrs. Reid received the full force of the stroke, and at noon yesterday her life was despaired of.

Girl's Body in River.

Severn Bridge, May 27.—Yesterday the body of Miss Amy Agnew, daughter of the village blacksmith, aged 17, was found in the river, after her disappearance of three weeks ago. She was last seen by Miss Robinson walking with Herbert Mackenzie, one of a party of surveyors of the James Bay Railway. Mackenzie has not been seen since, and his father and brother have arrived here. They believe he was drowned.

Drowned in Mississippi.

Winnipeg, Man., May 27.—Harry Singleton, a young Englishman, 26 years of age, who has been working in Assinaboia district, was drowned on Monday in the Mississippi River on his way to seek work.

Accidentally Shot.

Winnipeg, May 27.—J. A. McDonald of Qu'Appelle, while cleaning a gun Wednesday afternoon, was shot through the abdomen, with fatal results. He was 26 years of age and unmarried, and came west recently from Glengarry, Ont.

By Private Donors.

(Canadian Associated Press Cable.)

London, May 26.—John Pelle, master of Christ's College, Cambridge, has written The Times that the Canadian scholarship of £60 was not given by McGill College, but by private donors wishing to be anonymous and hoping that similar endowments will bring about closer union in higher education, both in Canada and at Cambridge.

MR. BORDEN'S CURVE

Sharp Desertion of His Alternative Proposition to G. T. P.

FOR PUBLIC OWNERSHIP

If the Conservatives Are Returned to Power, He Says, the Policy of the Government Shall Be Reversed—Mr. Fielding Makes An Effective Reply—Closing Debate on the G.T.P. Bill.

Ottawa, May 27.—The closing hours of the debate upon the measure which secures to Canada what has been aptly described as the first National Transcontinental Railway on Canadian soil from ocean to ocean were marked by an interest probably greater than that which characterized a similar occasion when, more than twenty years ago, the measure providing for the first Canadian railway to span the continent received the approval of the elective House. The galleries were crowded by an attentive gathering, of which ladies formed a large part, all eager to witness the final division. Hour after hour the spectators patiently waited for the close of the debate as the hands of the clock slowly revolved. The Minister of Railways rose at 1 o'clock, and there was then no apparent chance of the debate closing for several hours.

Borden's Sharp Curve.

A feature of the day was the sharp curve taken by the leader of the Opposition, who, without a word of explanation justifying the desertion, abandoned the alternative provision which he offered and which his followers supported last session, and proposed an amendment favoring the construction and operation of the entire road by the Government. Mr. Borden reiterated the criticism of the Government scheme as improvident of the interests of the country.

Mr. Fielding's Reply.

The Minister of Finance replied on behalf of the Government, and made several valuable contributions to the information which the House possessed on the question. Replying to the assertion of the Opposition regarding the terms upon which the G.T.R. Co. were willing to build from North Bay, Mr. Fielding for the first time made known that originally the company asked a grant of $6,400 cash subsidy and a land grant of 5,000 acres per mile, which he estimated as amounting together to a little over $53,000,000. The company also asked for exemption from customs duties on supplies and material imported, and from taxation on all the property of the company and on the capital stock. Not one of these demands had been conceded. On the other hand, the obligation which the Government assumed was estimated by him, according to the revised calculation, at what would be met by the setting aside to-day of $13,833,356, a sum less than one year's surplus of revenue over expenditure. He contrasted the enormous assistance given by the late Government for a part of a Transcontinental Railway with the modest sum for which the present Government were obtaining a complete and well-equipped line connecting the Pacific with the Atlantic across Canadian soil, by a route which possessed material advantages from a military point of view. Mr. Fielding presented in support of his estimate, in reply to the challenge of the Opposition, a report from Mr. Collingwood Schreiber, Deputy Minister of Railways, that the cost of the Quebec to Moncton section would not exceed $25,000 per mile and the Quebec-Winnipeg section $28,000 per mile for a road of the character of the Intercolonial. There are four other amendments to follow Mr. Borden's before the final division on the third reading can take place.

The Minister of Railways.

At 2.30 Mr. Emmerson had concluded his remarks, and Mr. A. C. Bell (Pictou) was replying for the Opposition. Lady Laurier and half a dozen ladies were still holding the gallery. The understanding is that Hon. Mr. Fitzpatrick will wind up the debate, and the vote on the amendment would probably not take place until between 4 and 5 o'clock. The other amendments will probably be declared lost on division, and the final vote may be taken about 5 a.m.

South Africa Contingents.

Sir Frederick Borden, replying to Mr. Monk in the afternoon, stated that the Canadians who went to South Africa enlisted under Imperial regulations, and the Imperial authorities had fulfilled their obligation in this regard. In addition to the provision made by the Imperial authorities the patriotic fund had been raised, from which cases of special hardship had received generous aid. The Government have been investigating various cases with a view of determining whether any of them require special consideration on the part of the Canadian Government, and a conclusion will shortly be reached.

Anglo-French Agreement.

Paris, May 27.—The Government yesterday issued a yellow book on the Anglo-French Colonial Treaty. It says the visit of King Edward to the President of the Republic, and of the President to King Edward, led up to the agreement. In abandoning the French shore of Newfoundland, France preserves her essential rights in the case of offshore fishing and the purchase of bait.

Girls Strike in Hamilton.

Hamilton, May 27.—Twenty-five girls and women who were employed by the Tuckett Tobacco Company are out on strike, because the firm imported some Virginian negroes.

ATLANTIC RATE WAR

Mr. Ismay Believes Allan Line Will Likely Be Drawn Into It.

SALVATION ARMY CONGRESS

Sir William Turner Announces Failure to Find Working Scheme in Regard to Practice and Medical Registers Between Great Britain and Canada —Jew Schoings Celebrated Empire Day—King's Thanks.

London, May 26.—(C.A.P.)—Mr. Ismay expresses the opinion that the Allan Line may likely be drawn into the Atlantic rate war, and that heavy loss will result to all the Atlantic companies.

6,000 Delegates to Attend.

London, May 26.—(C. A. P.)—The third international congress of the Salvation Army to open in London in the third week of June will be attended by 6,000 delegates, representing forty-nine British colonies and foreign countries.

Medical Reciprocity.

London, May 26.—(C. A. P.)—Sir William Turner, president of the General Medical Council of Great Britain, at its 79th session, announced that a working scheme to promote reciprocal relations between Canada and Great Britain with regard to the practice of admission to their respective medical registers had not yet been accomplished. Gen. Laurie in the House of Commons intended to meet the difficulty raised through one Provincial Legislature of Canada declining to consent to the formation of a register for the whole Dominion.

To 3,500 Children.

London, May 26.—(C. A. P.)—Empire Day was celebrated Tuesday by 3,500 pupils of the Jews' School in Spitalfields. Lessons were given on the colonies and the Empire, and 'The Flag of Britain'' was sung.

Acknowledged.

London, May 26.—(C. A. P.)—The King has sent a message of thanks to the Empire League for its kind and loyal congratulations.

Increased Purchasing Power.

London, May 26.—(C. A. P.)—The Chiozza Money declares that Canadian manufacturers falsely attributo to the preference the growth of imports from the Motherland. The increase is due solely to Canada's increased purchasing power.

Donegal Again.

London, May 26.—(C. A. P.)—The Norwich Union Insurance office has just paid £2,500 in respect of payment of a single premium of £181 5s. on a policy taken out in 1800 against issue being born to the Marquis of Donegal, who at the time was seventy years of age and living apart from his wife.

Chemist Evans Dead.

London, May 26.—(C. A. P.)—Edward Evans, chief partner of Evans Co., chemists, Montreal, is dead at the age of 86.

Urges Protest.

London, May 26.—(C. A. P.)—The Rev. Dr. Laurence, lecturer on international law at the Royal Naval College, Greenwich, reading a paper on the Russo-Japanese war, expressed the hope that the British Government had entered a strong protest against Russia having placed rice and provisions on the contraband list. It was a matter of life and death to Britain to prevent the food of the civilian population being made undoubtedly contraband, and if arguments proved unavailing, force must be used.

Against the Embargo.

London, May 26.—The Co-operative conference meeting at Stratford, Essex, passed a resolution in favor of the removal of the restriction on the importation of live Canadian cattle and regretting the avowed intention of the Board of Agriculture of maintaining the restriction in order to protect British breeders against foreign supplies at the expense of the consumer. Chairman Maxwell of the Scottish Wholesale Society declared that the embargo was the first instalment of the Chamberlain policy.

He Would Do.

London, May 26.—Referring to the rumor that Lord Aylmer will be the next commander-in-chief of the forces in Canada, The Pall Mall Gazette says he is perfectly in sympathy with responsible Government in the Dominion, while Imperial officers look for War Office favors.

Chinese in South Africa.

Ottawa, May 26.—The Department of Trade and Commerce, having asked J. G. Jardine, at Cape Town, to report on the anti-Chinese legislation enacted in South Africa, Mr. Jardine reports as follows:

"Cape Colony for few years allowed the Chinese to enter by depositing $500 each, but under a recent act of the Jamieson Government they are altogether debarred.

"In the Transvaal they are allowed to come in under indenture and for work in the mines only. Natal debars the Chinese, but allows 30,000 Indian coolies to enter under indenture."

The Babies' Troubles.

The greatest suffering of childhood is caused by eczema, scald head, chafing or other forms of skin irritation or eruption. Because of its extraordinary soothing, healing power Dr. Chase's Ointment is of inestimable value in the home where there are small children. No mother who has learned the scores of ways in which Dr. Chase's Ointment can be used would think of being without it in the house.

Reception to Cardinal Gibbons.

Ottawa, May 26.—Cardinal Gibbons was tendered a public reception at the Russell Theatre last night, which was thronged. His eminence spoke briefly, expressing his gratitude at the kindly reception he had received in Ottawa. Rev. Dr. Fallon of Buaffio delivered an eloquent address, in which he referred to the objections of certain sections of the Irish people to the University, as being too French, and repeated the remarks of Sir Wilfrid Laurier the day previous, that it should be a university for all tongues, especially English and French.

CANADA-MEXICAN LINE.

Dominion Government Calls For Tenders, Giving Requirements.

Ottawa, May 26.—The Department of Trade and Commerce is issuing a call for tenders for monthly steamship services between Canada and Mexico for a period of five years.

The Atlantic service will be between Montreal in the summer and Halifax in the winter, and the Mexican ports of Progreso, Coatzacoalcoas, Vera Cruz and Tampico, touching at Nassau, the Bahamas and Havana, Cuba.

The Pacific service will be between Vantcouver, B. C., and the Mexican ports of Mazatlan, San Blas, Manzanillo, Acapulco, Puerto Angel, Salina Cruz, Tonala and San Benito. Tenders may be made for either or both services.

The vessels employed are to class A1, to run under the British flag, to have a carrying capacity of not less than 3,000 tons, with adequate passenger accommodation, to maintain between ports a minimum speed of ten knots per hour.

The Mexican Government have expressed their willingness to give a subsidy of $100,000 in Mexican currency for the Pacific service, and $20,000 for the Atlantic service. The Dominion Government will supplement this sum by such subsidy as they may deem expedient. The Mexican Government provides for the free carriage of their mail and freight up to ten tons.

SUIT OVER MONEY FOUND.

Claims Reward and Refuses to Give Up Stolen Money Till Paid.

Brockville, May 26.—A case of great interest was tried here yesterday before Justice McMahon. The Union Bank of Canada seeks to recover $1,075 from John Sheridan, a carter, of this town, which the latter found near the river last June. In May last the Union Bank sent a parcel containing $5,000 from Montreal by registered mail to their branch at Smith's Falls. This parcel disappeared in the transfer at Brockville. Detectives spent several weeks investigating the case, but without being able to obtain any trace of the $5,000 or of the identity of the thief.

About seven weeks after the money disappeared John Sheridan found a bundle of bank bills while working near the river. The bundle was found to contain $1,075, and Sheridan deposited it in the bank and advertised for an owner. The Union Bank ultimately claimed the money, but Sheridan refused to deliver it until they had proven the ownership. The evidence of several bank and mail service employes was taken yesterday. Justice McMahon reserved judgment, but it is expected that a decision will be given to-day.

His Lordship expressed the opinion that circumstantial evidence indicated that the $1,075 was part of the missing $5,000. Mr. Hellmuth of Toronto for the bank, and Mr. Stewart of Brockville for Mr. Sheridan.

The European Plan.

Mr. Boggs passed the evening paper over to his wife, indicating with a toil worn thumb a certain paragraph. "Read that," he said, "and see what you think of Nathan Eldridge, that claimed to be so smart and was so keen after dollars. See how he's gone all to smash, and his hotel with him. Pretty doings for a Bushby boy! But I knew 'twould come! I knew 'twould come!"

"How did you know it?" demanded Mrs. Boggs, to whom her husband's claims for unusual wisdom and foresight were sometimes a trifle irritating. "Folks have all said the hotel was full, and Nathan seemed wonderfully prospered."

"So he did, and so it was," admitted Mr. Boggs, "but no man can do as he did and be prospered long. Why, I heard tell from those that know that when Amelia Rand went there to pass a week, and 'twas such bad weather, shifty, clearing and then smoothing up again, squalling and spitting the whole enduring time, and poor Miss Amelia inquired how and then how the wind set"—

Mrs. Boggs sniffed.

"Inquired now and then how the wind set," repeated Mr. Boggs firmly, "what did she find tucked on to the end of her bill but an item, 'For use of weather vane, $1.'"

He Was Not Angry.

A lady went into a church one Sunday, and, being a stranger, she waited to be shown to a seat. An obliging churchwarden led her to a seat below the gallery, the only other occupant of which at the moment was a kind looking old gentleman with white hair, who rose to let her pass. It was somewhat dark, and the lady, as she shook her skirts and settled down, had a horrible suspicion that she was sitting upon something besides the cushion. She put down her hand and drew out the melancholy ruin of a silk hat. "Oh," she said to the old gentleman, "I beg your pardon! I am so sorry!" The old gentleman looked benevolently at the wreck and replied that it was unfortunate, but that it could not be helped. "Oh, it's so good of you to say so," said the lady, much distressed, "but I am really so vexed!" The gentleman straightened out the fabric and put it under the seat, but the delinquent insisted on covering herself with humiliation. "I am afraid you are so angry," she murmured apologetically. "Not the least!" said the benevolent old gentleman coolly. "You see, it's not my hat—it belongs to the gentleman who showed you in!"

The FINISHING Touches

Before a young man feels he is properly attired it is necessary he should have a becoming Hat, whether it be a felt or a straw.

We never try to sell a young man a Hat that does not become him and suit him in every way. We have no old stock, so do not try to shove an old shaps on him at a special price.

We guarantee all our Hats to be the very latest styles, and the prices consistent with the quality of the goods.

A good Hat puts the finishing touches on a young man. We carry those Hats and would like to sell you one.

THE CHURCH LOSING A VALUED MEMBER.

Address and Presentation to Mrs. Jos. Kidd at St. Luke's

Last Evening Women's Auxiliary met and Honoured their Departing Member.

The closing meeting of the season in connection with the Women's Auxiliary of St. Luke's Church was held yesterday afternoon. There was a large turnout of members. After the meeting Rev. and Mrs. Langfeldt entertained the members of the Auxiliary to tea at the Rectory where a most happy social time was enjoyed, the host and hostess entertaining in admirable fashion. At 8 o'clock the members of the Society the choir and other friends gathered in the school room to spend an hour with Mrs. Jos. Kidd, prior to her departure for Brandon, Man., where she will join her husband. Mrs. Kidd has been an active member of many societies of the church as well as the choir and has always taken a prominent part in church work.

The Rector was chairman of the meeting, and after a short programme of instrumental and vocal music was given he called upon Mrs. W. J. Scott to read the following address:

St. Luke's Church,
Ashburnham, May 26th, 1904.

Mrs. Jos. Kidd, Peterborough:

Dear Mrs. Kidd,—As you are about to leave us shortly, we have gathered here to-night to have the opportunity of spending one more evening with you within the shadow of the church in which you have taken such an active part in the work of Christ. As fellow members of the Woman's Auxiliary and of the choir, we feel that your going away from us is a great loss to us personally and to the activities of the church. We have always found in you a willing worker whose interest in and zeal for church work has been a stimulant to many a timid one in the congregation.

In your office as Secretary-treasurer, which office calls for much accuracy and application to it, you have given an example of business methods so much needed in the work of the church. As a member of the choir you have taken a faithful part in leading the congregation in the praises of Almighty God. We, your co-workers, desire to express to you our appreciation of your help in the work so dear to our hearts, and to place on record the sense of loss sustained by your moving away to another town. Knowing, as we do, how much you love the work of the church, we feel confident that in your new Parish you will devote your interest to the furtherance of the church in the North West.

We ask you to accept as a parting gift the accompanying presents, which we desire to be to you tokens of our esteem for you, and sweet remembrances of the happy sojourn, which we have had together in our beloved church and parish, St. Luke's Church, Ashburnham. May the favour of Almighty God smile upon you and your husband, and may His abiding presence be a great comfort to you both in your far-away home.

In closing we assure you of our loving thoughts of you and fervent prayers for your success and happiness.

Signed on behalf of the Woman's Auxiliary and of the choir of St. Luke's Church.

MRS. W. J. SCOTT,
President Woman's Auxiliary.
MRS. S. GASKINS,
Secretary Woman's Auxiliary.
JOS. LEGG,
Choir Leader.

The address was accompanied by a case of one dozen solid silver tea spoons with Mrs. Kidd's initials suitably engraved, a silver butter knife and sugar spoon. The presentation was made by Mr. Jos. Legg.

The Rector then called upon Mrs. E. Bennet to read the following address, after which Mrs. Wm. Gibbs made a presentation of a handsome chatelaine bag:

St. Luke's Church,
Ashburnham, May 26.

Mrs. Joseph Kidd, Peterborough:

Dear Mrs. Kidd,—The officers and members of the Mothers' Meeting of St. Luke's Church, Ashburnham, desire to express to you our regret at your leaving and to thank you for all your kindness and valuable assistance in the work of our Society.

We ask you to accept the accompanying gift as a mark of our love and esteem for you.

Signed on behalf of the Mothers' Meeting of St. Luke's Church,

MRS. H. BENNETT,
President.
A. W. GIBBS,
Sec.-Treas.

Mrs. Kidd was totally taken by surprise but replied in a fitting manner, expressing regret at her departure from so many friends and expressed appreciation of the many kindnesses shown her.

Rev. E. A. Langfeldt spoke in an appreciative manner of the services of Mrs. Kidd to the church. He paid a high tribute to her zeal and Christian character and expressed keen regret at her departure and the hope that she would continue in promoting church work in her future place of residence.

Refreshments were then served and an enjoyable social time was enjoyed.

LOCAL LEGAL CASE HEARD IN TORONTO

Case of McWilliams vs. Dickson Co. Before Justice Falconbridge.

In the Single Court at Toronto, before Chief Justice Falconbridge, the case of McWilliams vs. Dickson Company, came up for hearing. The Globe reports the case as follows:—

McWilliams vs. Dickson Company.—R. C. Clute, for plaintiff, moved to continue injunction restraining defendants from removing certain timber from Crown lands in the Townships of Cavandish, located to plaintiff. The locations of two of the lots were cancelled by order of the Commissioner of Crown Lands, and these lots were ordered to be restored to defendant upon payment of the cost of cutting the timber thereon, the timber not to be removed until the cost was ascertained and paid. Plaintiff alleged that defendants began to remove the timber before a basis of payment was agreed upon, and plaintiff obtained an ex parte injunction. Defendants made a payment which plaintiff accepted as a payment on account but which defendants intended as a payment in full. S. C. Smoke and G. M. Rogers (Peterborough,) for defendants, opposed motion. Motion adjourned until the trial. Injunction not continued in the meantime, upon a basis of computing the value of the timber being adopted in the meantime at $4.30 a thousand feet as the cost of getting out, and a proportion of 20 per cent. Costs to be costs in the cause, unless otherwise ordered by the trial judge.

Rev. A. McWilliams, former pastor of St. Andrew's church, town, has accepted the call of St. Mary's, and will leave Hamilton, where he has served since, his departure from Peterborough. The congregation of the Hamilton church, although anxious to retain Mr. McWilliams, doubtless trusting to the attractive influence of the Ambitious City, left the matter to Mr. McWilliams' own election. He decided in favour of going to St. Mary's. He will preach his farewell sermon on June 12th, and be inducted in St. Mary's on June 16th. It is a little hard on Hamilton that a pastor of his own motion should prefer the comparative obscurity of a country town to the urban allurements of the Submontane City.

REGULATIONS OF THE WATER COMMISSIONERS

New set of Bylaws, Rules and Regulations Published

Some of the Restrictions Placed on the Use of water—A well Prepared Publication.

The Water Commissioners have recently passed a complete set of bylaws, rules, and regulations, with a schedule of rates and forms of application, for the use of water consumers, which are now being distributed, gratis.

Water takers and plumbers are requested to read these by-laws, etc., carefully, as it is the intention of the Commissioners to strictly enforce them. The bylaws, 56 in number, appear to provide for every condition that can arise. Some radical changes have been made, which consumers should take notice of. By No. 12, the season for lawn and garden purposes is limited to the periods between the first of May and October. By No. 13, no person shall be allowed to sprinkle or use water on lawns, gardens, grass plots, boulevards or grounds except between the hours of 5 and 9 o'clock a.m., and 5 and 9 o'clock, p.m. By No. 18, the washing of windows, with hose, between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m. is prohibited. There are also very strict provisions respecting work to be done by plumbers, who must obtain a permit to make connections and put in fixtures, and who must by a return show all fixtures set up. The rules relating to the prompt payment of rates, to save the discount of 25 per cent., are also very stringent.

The whole of the bylaws and rules have been prepared with much care and labour on the part of the Commissioners and it is hoped that all interested will observe them. An index is added, by means of which any bylaw can be readily found and which will prove of great convenience.

ANGLICAN'S VIEWS ON CHURCH UNION

Former Peterborough Divine Would Like to See it Consummated.

Rev. Dr. Symonds of Christ' Church Cathedral Montreal, Speaks on the Subject.

The Toronto News of Saturday night contained a special dispatch from Montreal, in which the views of Rev. Dr. Symonds, of Christ Church Cathedral, and well and favourably known in Peterborough as the former rector of St. Luke's church, on the proposed union of the Methodist, Presbyterian and Congregational churches were given. The despatch reads:—

Montreal, May 21.—(Special.)—At the meeting of the Montreal Ministerial Association, when the proposed union of the Presbyterian, Methodist and Congregationalist churches was under discussion, Rev. Dr. Symonds, Vicar of Christ Church Cathedral, who is a member of the association, was asked to express his opinion with respect to the movement. Dr. Symonds said that the Anglican Church was deeply interested in the subject of Christian unity, and would greatly rejoice if the three communions under consideration should bring the movement to a successful issue.

He did not think the Anglican Church was prepared to take any practical step at present in the direction of unity. At the same time, the only question which stood in the way was that of the historic episcopate. Probably the majority of the Anglican clergy throughout the world were adherents of the doctrine of Apostolic Succession, although the laity were not particularly interested in it. So long as this doctrine was held, however, it was hopeless to expect any organic unity between the Anglican Church and the non-Episcopal Churches.

The most hopeful feature of the times was that the best scholars of the Church were just those who rejected the doctrine of Apostolical Succession. Dr. Symonds proceeded to quote from Lightfoot, Westcott, Hart, Armitage, Robinson, Latham, Phillips Brooks, and many others in support of this view. In the long run the views of the foremost scholars always prevailed, although retarded by party prejudice and other causes.

The view that the forms of Church government were prescribed by Christ, and were therefore unchangeable, was almost a thing of the past. It was exceedingly probable that the consummation of unity between the Presbyterians, Methodists and Congregationalists would lead many Anglicans to reconsider the whole question of Church government in the light of the results of historical scholarship.

WEDDING BELLS.

Miss M. J. Stewart Married to Mr. Joseph Saunders.

At St. Andrew's Manse on Wednesday night, May 25th, the marriage of Mr. Joseph Saunders to Miss E. J. Stewart was solemnized. Dr. R. F. Morrow supported the groom and Miss Lizzie Stewart, of Otonabee, acted as bridesmaid. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. G. Potter.

SEVENTH ANNUAL Y. M. C. A BOYS CAMP

Will be Held This Year From July 7th to 21st at Clear Lake.

WILL ATTEND THE LONDON CONGSESS

Mr. J. M. Greene with Other Local Members of the Salvation Army.

Great International Gathering in England Attended by 100,000—Mr. Greene Member of Canadian Staff Band.

An announcement in another column of the Examiner tells of the dissolution of the firm of Greene Bros., the Charlotte street grocers and butchers. Mr. J. M. Greene, the senior member, is retiring from the firm. The immediate cause for his retirement is the fact that he is going to England during the next month to participate in the great Intermediate Congress of the Salvation Army, which will be held in London, and which, it is expected, will be attended by 100,000 delegates from all parts of the world where the Army has established branches.

Mr. Greene will go in a dual capacity. He will represent the local corps, along with Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Braund, and he will also be a member of the Canadian staff band, composed of 25 musicians from Canada, under the direction of Staff-Captain Harry Morris, of Toronto. The Canadian party will sail from Montreal on the Ionian on June 10th, and on the Wednesday and Thursday preceding that date special services will be held in Montreal. A coloured band from Bermuda will also go to London to participate in the Congress, which will be held during the latter part of June and the beginning of July, in the Crystal Palace.

Staff-Captain McNamara, who is in charge of the local corps, will also attend the Congress.

LABOUR CONDITIONS IN PETERBOROUGH.

Monthly Report to Labour Gazette for May.

The Labour Gazett's report of the labour conditions in Peterborough during the month of May, as supplied to the journal by the local correspondent, Ald. W. J. Johnston is as follows:—

The demand for all classes of labour during April was exceptionally active, and at the close of the month was on the increase. The new power house of the American Cereal Company is nearing completion, the machinery being now nearly all installed. The most active trades during the month were the painters and sheet metal workers. Wholesale and retail trade and railway business were normal.

With regard to the outlook for the coming summer season, all indications are that conditions will be exceptionally active in the labour market. The building trades in particular will be busy, there being an urgent demand for dwelling houses, and a number of industrial establishments will extend their premises in spite of the advance in the price of building material.

Conditions of Local Industries.

Agriculture. — Seeding has begun, though the season is backward. The making of maple sugar and syrup gave considerable employment during April, good prices (syrup $1.30 per gallon) being realized for the product. The market for other farm products was also favourable throughout the month.

Lumbering.—Local dealers are very busy, having sold nearly all of their last year's cut, and being obliged to import large quantities of lumber for the local trade.

Manufacturing.—Very busy conditions prevailed, there being no establishment that was not running to its fullest capacity. As particular examples, the Peterborough Canoe Co., is working on an order for one hundred and fifty large canoes for the Hudson Bay Company, to be distributed throughout the Northwest; and J. Turner & Sons, sail and tent makers, are exceptionally busy on large export orders. The removal of the Canadian General Electric Company from Montreal to Peterborough will bring from 150 to 200 additional skilled mechanics to the city. Another new establishment is that of Adamson & Dobbin, plumber and sheet metal workers. A new blacksmith shop has also been opened.

Railway construction.—Work on the new street railway system is about to begin. The system is to include a good local service, with connection with certain of the summer resorts outside of the city.

Condition of Particular Trades.

Building trades.—Bricklayers, masons and carpenters were very busy, as were also plumbers, gas and steamfitters. The busiest class within the trades, however, was that of the painters, decorators and paperhangers. Lathers were also busy, but with plasterers employment was somewhat unequal. Stone cutters had a fairly good month, the majority working in the marble and granite manufacturing establishments. The supply and demand for builders' labourers were about equally balanced.

Metal, engineering and shipbuilding trades.—Iron moulders and boiler makers were fairly busy, as were also metal polishers, buffers and brass workers. Electrical workers, tinemen and blacksmiths were rushed with work. Sheet metal workers and machinists were very busy, and good men are in demand. A small passenger steamboat, 75 feet long by 16 feet beam, with a 4-foot draft, is being constructed for summer tourist traffic, to be running by May 24. Bicycle workers and horse shoers are busy. Jewellers and watchmakers report an average month.

Woodworking and furnishing trades.—Woodworkers, upholsterers, polishers, carriage and wagon makers, pattern makers and coopers are all fairly active for the season of the year.

Printing and allied trades. — All branches report steady employment.

Clothing trades.—Journeymen tailors and garment workers are all fairly busy. Boot and shoe workers are also busy on ordered work and repairing.

Food and tobacco preparation.—Bakers and confectioners report a steady trade. Butchers and meat cutters were exceptionally busy. The retail price of beef advanced from 12½ to 14 cents per pound. Cigar factories report a steady export trade.

Leather trades.—Leather workers were fairly busy.

Miscellaneous. — Barbers report a good month. Clerks and delivery employees were exceptionally busy. Broommakers report a steady local and export trade. With hotel and restaurant employees employment was active, especially on market days, and laundry workers in all branches were very busy.

Transport.—Railway employees in all departments had an active month, a good passenger business and heavy freight traffic being reported. Cab drivers, draymen, teamsters and expressmen had a good month.

Unskilled labour.—The supply was greater than the demand at the end of the month.

ENNISMORE.

Honour Roll for S.S. No. 1, Ennismore. —Class IV.—Frank Maloney Mary O'Connor, John Brick, Lizzie O'Donoghue, Maggie Sullivan; Class III.—Annie Costello, Mich. Brick, Con. PECULIAR SETTLEMENT.

Queer Quarter in Canada—Something of the Moral Slant of the People Near Woodstock, N.B.

The murder of Millie Gee by her cousin, George Gee, the trial in Woodstock, N. B., and finally the death sentence passed on the murderer, condemning him to die on June 22, differs in its ordinary aspect very little from a great many other murders. Though the ordinary points of the crime are more or less commonplace and the cause—jealousy, aggravated by strong drink—is almost hackneyed, it brings to light a class of people and a state of affairs almost unique in Canada.

The trial at Woodstock, N. B., brought out very little that was new. There was no mystery nor doubt as to the details of the crime, and when a jury brought in a verdict of "guilty," the judge promptly pronounced the death penalty.

Peculiar Settlement.

The case brings into prominence a settlement which for laxity of morals, carelessness of life, lawlessness and utter illiteracy is unparalleled in Canada. This is accounted for in a great measure by heredity and isolation. Their history is a peculiar one. Somewhere about the year 1812 a regiment recruited from the jails and prisons of England was sent out to Canada, and after a short service it was disbanded. A number of the men settled in Carleton County, New Brunswick, and it is their descendants who form the present settlement. The men work in the lumber camps in the winter and do a little crude farming in the summer. They are ignorant in the extreme and actually take pride in their ignorance. Attempts have been made at various times to establish schools amongst them, but it has been met in every case with the fiercest hostility. In religion they are primitive Baptists, but their faith is based on emotion rather than on conviction.

Keep Illiterate.

Their creed teaches them that God has no use for learning, but rather for illiteracy and they religiously follow this principle. They are hard workers and equally hard drinkers and will usually brook no interference from the officers of the law. And the officers are well content to leave them alone except in case of a felony or some equally flagrant crime. A case came up some time ago which illustrated their clannishness when one of their number is brought face to face with the law. There had been a murder in which poison had been administered to the victim, and an attempt was made to bring the murderer to book. An entirely innocent man was handed over to the law, and several witnesses swore that he was the guilty man. The accusation was so absurd in the face of later evidence that the court could do nothing but set the accused free and the real murderer was never caught.

Their methods of life show their depravity. There is no house in the settlement which boasts more than one storey and few that have more than one room. As many as ten persons live in such a hovel, and the one apartment serves as kitchen, dining-room, bed-room and sitting-room. Their farming is such as will satisfy their own needs, and the money earned in the lumber camps suffices to supply them with whiskey. A rifle is a necessary part of every man's attire and this fact serves to explain the fact that no one made special comment on George Gee's bringing a rifle with him on the night of the murder.

Strange Lack of Perception.

Their lack of moral perception is aptly illustrated by an incident that occurred during the progress of the trial of the prisoner before the magistrate. As George Gee sat in the dock, the sister of the murdered girl sat beside him. She chatted as though nothing had happened, and even gave him candies and oranges that she had brought for him. When he was led back to the cells she walked with him as far as the guards would allow and bade him an affectionate good-bye at a time when it was proven beyond a doubt the blood of her sister was on his hands.

As among all ignorant people, superstitions of every kind flourish among them. And some of these are so fantastic as to be amusing. In the case of a child whose mother died before the child ever saw her, the recognized charm for the purpose of warding off diseases is a lock of the child's hair sewn up in a silken bag and suspended around the neck. If it is thought probable that the youngster might have seen its mother the infallibility of the charm is secured by passing the child three times around the body of a donkey. A lady was visiting amongst them and called at one of the houses where a woman was boiling soap. The soap happened to turn to lye, and when a local oracle was appealed to for the cause she declared that it was due to the fact that there was a stranger in the house.

A host of similar tales are told, which mark them as perhaps the most degenerate settlement of white men in the Dominion of Canada.

The Name of Puslinch.

Not very far from Galt there is a station on the Credit Valley section of the C.P.R. named Puslinch. For years the story has been told that in the early days of settlement two sturdy pioneers, one of them named Lynch, arrived at this spot with an ox-cart. Crossing a piece of low land, the cart stuck, and one of the men had to goad the oxen and the other to take hold of a wheel. "Push, Lynch," cried the teamster, and they got through, and became squatters on the higher land adjacent. Hence the name, it was said, of the settlement. But time plays sad havoc with old stories and traditions. Somebody has now unearthed the prosaic fact that the first campers here were from Devonshire, and named their own home from a place in that beautiful old English county named Puslinch, well known as a steeplechasing rendezvous in the early part of the 19th century, though not marked in ordinary county maps.—Toronto News.

Even That Didn't Work.

"Did you do nothing to resuscitate the body?" was asked of a witness at a coroner's inquest.

"Yes, sir; we searched the pockets," was the reply.

There is nothing like Sunlight Soap for Household Utensils.

When you have to use hard water it is not an easy matter to wash household utensils. To do good washing you should have good soap and soft water (rain water). If you use hard water you must have good soap, and the best soap you can get is Sunlight Soap because it softens the hard water and makes a copious creamy lather. Use Sunlight Soap for all household purposes and the results will surprise you.

A Ball of Red Wool

By HARRIET WHITNEY

Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure

Miss Appleton was sweeping the rustling yellow leaves from her trim walk when Dr. Loveland came driving along the dusty white road to the village. The October sunshine had mellowed the morning chill and was making free with Miss Appleton's brown hair, causing it to send out red and gold gleams that no one would suspect lurked in its dusky strands.

The doctor drew up at the gate.

"Any errands in town today, Miss Minta?" he called out cheerily. "I'm out of patients (pun unpremeditated) and running errands for the ladies."

Aminta leaned her smooth fair chin upon the top of the broom handle contemplatively.

"I don't think I need anything—oh, well, yes; you might get me a skein of crimson zephyr wool if you will."

"Sure," returned the doctor heartily. "I've picked up some little job at every house I've passed. There's one more, Mrs. Lynd's. Guess she'll have enough commissions to keep me hustling the balance of the day."

The doctor chuckled in his boyish way, then fell to wondering as he stowed away Miss Aminta's silver dollar why she had refused to join in his merriment and had turned so abruptly about to resume her sweeping. It was a little unusual for the ladies to be unresponsive when he offered to shop for them.

Mrs. Lynd, a blooming pink and pearly widow, was fairly lying in wait for him in the shade of her frilly little buff portico, and the doctor's predictions as to the number of needs in the shopping line were verified. She handed him a dainty little memorandum book. "You'll find the list here," she said sweetly, "all at Bobbins', you know. I have an account there. I suppose Minta Appleton didn't condescend to let you shop any for her. She always thinks nobody can do anything properly but her. Now, I'm not a bit fussy myself."

"Well," the doctor acknowledged, "she did commission me to get her a skein of red zephyr—hey?" The exclamatory question was prompted by the droll grimace made by Mrs. Lynd; her eyebrows went up into two acute angles, and her mouth puckered comically.

"Red zephyr—the parson needs new slippers, and Minta's just that old fashioned to work 'em herself and just got time between now and Christmas. Well, Minta's about prim and stiff and antique enough to make a model wife for a parson. Don't you think so, doctor?"

"Yes," said the doctor, "or for any one else who knows the right brand." He drove onward, pondering. The autumnal light slanted across the road in deep, warm strips. A late bird sang a lazy autumn song from a thorn thicket. Nature was in a sweet and a serene mood. And yet all Dr. Loveland's jollity was overshadowed.

Miss Appleton's many nieces and nephews, re-enforced and abetted by their chums, had most piteously petitioned for a Halloween party at the roomy old homestead in whose sole ownership she rejoiced.

"It's the only house we know of with such a big, nice kitchen," appealingly urged Aminta May, her pretty namesake, whose eighteenth birthday had just launched her as a village society bud, "and of course we have to play all the tricks in the kitchen."

"And there won't be so dreadful many of us—only just us young folks," supplemented Myrtle. "We don't want any elderly people at all, except you, Aunt Minta."

No elderly people—except her! It was a little splash of cold water in her face. Aminta wasn't thirty and had never called herself nor before been called elderly. But in the eyes of these candid infants, ranging from ten to eighteen, she felt she must indeed be in the sear and yellow leaf.

"Aunt Minta's just as sweet and pretty as a girl," asserted Minta May stanchly, "and she must try her fortune too. Mrs. Lynd said Dr. Loveland said she'd make a splendid wife for the minister."

Miss Aminta promised to surrender her premises to the youthful besiegers and retired from the field with flushed cheeks and a curious expression in her serene gray eyes.

If Dr. Loveland's horse had not been lame and therefore incapacitated for business on the 30th of October and if Dr. Loveland, out on a foot expedition and caught by the autumn nightfall, had not taken a short cut through Miss Appleton's back premises, the skein of romance so skillfully tangled by Mrs. Lynd might have remained tangled indefinitely. However, the doctor did take the short cut, and, treading gingerly through the late, crisp grass, he stepped upon some round object that gave pliantly under the pressure of his foot. A slender, long glimmer of light came from Miss Aminta's kitchen and fell upon a slight crimson line running to the door, which arose, taut, as the doctor lifted the object from the ground—a ball of red zephyr wool. Walking deliberately to the house, he wound the strand of thread as he went up the step and on to the porch, where Miss Aminta stood, a startled look on her face, which was pale in that yellow light, and four shining knitting needles in her hands, from which ran the crimson thread.

The doctor stepped suddenly back, his face glooming.

"I thought at first it might be fate and that she was going to be kind," he said, "but I recognise the skein of red wool, and—of course the minister must have his slippers for Christmas."

Aminta's forehead took on a mystified frown. "I know nothing about any minister's slippers, and I should scarcely think of knitting them out of crimson worsted if I did. Poor brother Tom suffers from rheumatism and wants some knitted wristlets"—

"Then—maybe it was fate, after all." The doctor stepped joyously forward. Miss Aminta turned primly aside.

"Since you think the role of clergyman's wife my only fitting one"—

"But I don't," cried the doctor, "Somebody's been lying like Ananias, I think"—

The gleam of light from the door suddenly widened and a hilarious young mob rushed out, shouting lawlessly.

"Goody, goody," shrieked Minta May, "Aunt Minta threw a ball of yarn, and Dr. Loveland has found it."

"I didn't," protested Miss Minta, looking inclined to fly for her life. "There was a great spider on the ball, and in trying to shake it away and fling it into the yard I accidentally tossed the yarn too."

"It was providential," said the doctor, stealing an unabashed arm about Miss Minta, "for the clew led me straight to paradise."

Have an "At Home" Day.

If you cannot manage to receive visitors any and every day, have a regular "at home" day, say the first or last Thursday in the month. Have the day printed on your visiting cards, and on that day have pretty flowers in your drawing room, and be ready to receive and give tea to every one who comes. An "at home" day is a great boon to busy housewives, who neither want visitors at all times nor desire to slip quite out of their neighbors' ken.

A Skin Lotion.

The blotchy appearance of one's skin, which is so very disfiguring, will yield to a treatment of brisk rubbing, together with the use of a lotion made of olive oil, one-half pint; tincture of benzoin, one-half ounce; tincture of myrrh, eight drops. Rub the face carefully with a flesh mitten and then massage with the lotion.

STRONG ON CULTURE.

Polish and Erudition of a Notorious New York Character.

Tom Gould, the notorious New York politician, saloon keeper and all round crook, was a man of great physical strength. One of his favorite feats was to back under a piano and then rise, lifting it off its feet. He was once asked to a reception at the house of a member of the Four Hundred who was then in politics and wished for Gould's support. It is alleged that on being introduced to the ladies on this occasion Mr. Gould broke an embarrassing silence by observing:

"Ladies, I'll bet $100 I kin lift the pianner," which he then proceeded to do.

Another incident related of Tom Gould indicates that he was strong on culture. On one occasion he had left the Sans Souci earlier than usual, and the next day on meeting his nephew, whom he left in charge, he said:

"Well, did anything happen after I left last night?"

"Nothin' much," replied the nephew, "exceptin' there was a couple of fellers came in about 1 o'clock and kicked up a row, and we t'run 'em out."

"How many times have I got to tell you how to speak English?" demanded Gould impatiently. "Don't say 't'run 'em out.' Say 't'rowed 'em out.'"

A Rainy Day Costume.

The Japanese woman has solved the question of the rainy day. She tucks her robes up to her knees, puts on wooden clogs five or six inches high, and as her stockings are merely short socks the wet and the splashing only fall on bare ankles and legs. There is in consequence very little difficulty about the after cleaning, and the kimono is not marred by mud colored stains that will not come out. This custom may seem a trifle queer, but as no one in Japan notices it or even thinks about it and the little ladies do it quite naturally it is really not more queer than the custom which our ladies have of wearing decollete dresses in the evening, which the Japanese in turn think most queer, if not actually uncivilized. It is the old question of east and west.—London Tatler.

THE GENTLEMAN FROM INDIANA

By Booth Tarkington.

Tears stood in the judge's eyes. "It is so," he said solemnly. "He speaks the truth. I didn't mean to tell it today, but somehow"— He paused. "The hounds!" he cried. "They deserve it. My daughter saw them crossing the fields in the night—saw them climb the fence, a big crowd of them. She and the lady who is visiting us saw them—saw them plainly. The lady saw them several times clear as day by the flashes of lightning. The scoundrels were coming this way. They must have been dragging him with them then. He couldn't have had a show for his life among them. Do what you like. Maybe they've got him at the Crossroads. If there's a chance of it, dead or alive, bring him back!"

A voice rang out above the clamor that followed the judge's speech.

"'Bring him back!' God could, maybe, but he won't. 'Who's travelin' my way? I go west!'" Hartley Bowlder had ridden his sorrel right up the embankment, and the horse stood between the rails.

There was an angry roar from the crowd. The prosecutor pleaded and threatened unheeded, and, as for the deputy sheriff, he declared his intention of taking with him all who wished to go at his posse. Bob Watts succeeded in making himself heard above the tumult.

"The square!" he shouted. "Start from the square. We want everybody. We'll need them. And we want every one in Carlow to be implicated in this posse."

"They will be!" shouted a farmer. "Don't you worry about that."

"We want to get into some sort of shape!" cried Eph.

"Shape!" repeated Hartley Bowlder scornfully.

There was a hiss and clang and rattle behind him, and a steam whistle shrieked. The crowd divided, and Hartley's sorrel scrambled down just in time as the westbound accommodation rushed by on its way to Rouen. From the rear platform leaned the sheriff, Horner, waving his hands frantically as he flew by, but no one understood or cared what he said or in the general excitement even wondered why he was going away. When the train had dwindled to a dot and disappeared and the noise of its rush grew faint the courthouse bell was heard ringing, and the mob was rushing pellmell into the village to form on the square. The judge stood alone on the embankment.

"That settles it," he said aloud, gloomily watching the last figures. He took off his hat and pushed back the thick white hair from his forehead. "Nothing to do but wait. Might as well go home for that. Blast it!" he exclaimed impatiently. "I don't want to go there. It's too hard on the little girl. If she hadn't come till next week she'd never have known John Harkless."

CHAPTER IX.

ALL morning horsemen had been galloping through Six Crossroads, sometimes singly, oftener in company. At 1 o'clock the last posse passed through on its return to the county seat, and after that there was a long, complete silence, while the miry corners were undisturbed by a single hoof beat. No unkempt colt nickered from his musty stall. The sparse young corn that used to nod and chuckle greenly stood rigid in the fields. Up the Plattville pike despairingly cackled one old hen, with her wabbling, sailor run, smit with a superstitious horror of nothing. She hid herself in the shadow underneath a rickety barn and was still.

Only on the Wimby farm were there signs of life. The old lady who had sent Harkless roses sat by the window all morning and wiped her eyes, watching the horsemen ride by. Sometimes they would hail her and tell her there was nothing yet. About 2 o'clock her husband rattled up in a buckboard and got out the shotgun of the late and more authentic Mr. Wimby. This he carefully cleaned and oiled in spite of its hammerless and quite useless condition, sitting meanwhile by the window opposite his wife and often looking up from his work to shake his weak fist at his neighbors' domiciles and creak decrepit curses and denunciations.

But the Crossroads was ready. It knew what was coming now. Frightened, desperate, sullen, it was ready.

The afternoon wore on, and lengthening shadows fell upon a peaceful—one would have said a sleeping—country. The sun dried pike, already dusty, stretched its serene length between green borders flecked with purple and yellow and white weed flowers, and the tree shadows were not shade, but warm blue and lavender glows in the general pervasion of still, bright light; the sky curving its deep, unburnished, penetrable blue over all, with no single drift of fleece upon it to be reflected in the creek that wound along past willow and sycamore, dimpled but unmurmuring. A woodpecker's telegraphy broke the quiet like a volley of pistol shots.

But far eastward on the pike there slowly developed a soft, white haze. It grew denser and larger and gradually rolled nearer. Dimly behind it could be discerned a darker, moving nucleus that extended far back upon the road.

A heavy tremor began to stir the air; faint, manifold sounds, a waxing, increasing, multitudinous rumor.

The pike ascended a long, slight slope leading west up to the Crossroads. From a thicket of ironweed at the foot of this slope was thrust the visage of an undersized girl of fourteen. Her fierce eyes examined the approaching cloud of dust intently. A redness rose under the burnt yellow skin and colored the wizened cheeks.

They were coming.

She stepped quickly out of the tangle and darted up the road. She ran with the speed of a fleet little terrier, not opening her lips, not calling out, but holding her two thin hands high above her head; that was all. But Birnam wood was come to Dunsinane at last, and the messenger sped. Out of the weeds in the corner of the snake fence, in the upper part of the rise, silently lifted the heads of men whose sallowness became a sickish white as the child flew by.

The mob was carefully organized. They had taken their time and had prepared everything deliberately, knowing that nothing could stop them. No one had any thought of concealment; it was all as open as the light of day, all done in the broad sunshine. Nothing had been determined as to what was to be done at the Crossroads more definite than that the place was to be wiped out. That was comprehensive enough; the details were quite certain to occur. They were all on foot, marching in fairly regular ranks. In front walked Mr. Watts, the man Harkless had abhorred in a public spirit and befriended in private. Today he was a hero and a leader, marching to avenge his professional oppressor and personal brother. Cool, unruffled and to outward vision unarmed, marching the miles in his brown frock coat and generous linen, he led the way. On one side of him were the two Bowlders, on the other was Lige Willetts, Mr. Watts preserving peace between the young men with perfect tact and sang froid.

They kept good order and a similitude of quiet for so many except far to the rear, where old Wilkerson was bringing up the tail of the procession, dragging a wretched yellow dog by a rope fastened around the poor cur's protesting neck, the knot carefully arranged under his right ear. In spite of every command and protest Wilkerson had marched the whole way uproariously singing "John Brown's Body."

The sun was in the west when they came in sight of the Crossroads, and the cabins on the low slope stood out angularly against the radiance beyond. As they beheld the hated settlement the heretofore orderly ranks showed a disposition to depart from the steady advance and rush the shanties. Willetts, the Bowlders, Parker, Ross Schofield and a dozen others did, in fact, break away and set a sharp pace up the slope.

Watts tried to call them back. "What's the use your gettin' killed?" he shouted.

"Why not?" answered Lige, and, like the others, was increasing his speed when old "Wimby" rose up suddenly from the roadside ahead of them and motioned them frantically to go back. "They're laid out along the fence waitin' fer ye," he warned them. "Git out the road. Come by the fields. Fer the Lord's sake, spread!" Then as suddenly as he had appeared he dropped down into the weeds again. Lige and those with him paused, and the whole body came to a halt while the leaders consulted. There was a sound of metallic clicking and a thin rattle of steel. From far to the rear came the voice of old Wilkerson:

"John Brown's body lies a-moldering in the ground.
John Brown's body lies a-moldering in the ground."

A few near him as they stood waiting began to take up the burden of the song, singing it in slow time like a dirge. Then those, farther away took it up. It spread, reached the leaders. They, too, began to sing, taking off their hats as they joined in, and soon the whole concourse, solemn, earnest, uncovered, was singing—a thunderous requiem for John Harkless.

The sun was swinging lower, and the edges of the world were embroidered with gold, while that deep volume of sound shook the air, the song of a stern, savage, ju use—sung perhaps as some of the stors of these men sang with Ha...pden before the bristling walls of a hostile city. It had iron and steel in it. The men lying on their guns in the ambuscade along the fence heard the dirge rise and grow to its mighty fullness, and they shivered. One of them, posted nearest the advance, had his rifle carefully leveled at Lige Willetts, a fair target in the road. When he heard the singing he turned to the man next behind him and laughed harshly, "I reckon we'll see a big jamboree other side Jordan tonight, huh?"

The huge murmur of the chorus expanded and gathered in rhythmic strength and swelled to power and rolled and thundered across the plain.

"John Brown's body lies a-moldering in the ground,
John Brown's body lies a-moldering in the ground,
John Brown's body lies a-moldering in the ground,
His soul goes marching on!
Glory, glory, hallelujah!
Glory, glory, hallelujah!
Glory, glory, hallelujah!
His soul goes marching on!"

A gun spat fire from the higher ground, and Willetts dropped where he stood, but was up again in a second, with a red line across his forehead where the ball had grazed his temple. The mob spread out like a fan, the men climbing the fence and beginning the advance through the fields, thus closing on the ambuscade from both sides. Mr. Watts, wading through the high grass in the field north of the road, perceived the barrel of a gun shining from the fence some distance in front of him and the same second, although no weapon was seen in his hand, discharged a revolver at the clump of grass and weeds behind the gun. Instantly ten or twelve men leaped from their hiding places along the fences of both fields and, firing hurriedly and harmlessly into the scattered ranks of the oncoming mob, broke for the shelter of the houses, where their fellows were posted. Taken on the flanks and from the rear, there was but one thing for them to do to keep from being hemmed in and shot or captured. (They excessively preferred being shot.) With a wild, high, joyous yell, sounding like the bay of young hounds breaking into view of their quarry, the Plattville men followed.

The most eastward of the debilitated edifices of Six Crossroads was the saloon. It bore the painted legends, on the west wall, "Last Chance;" on the east wall, "First Chance." Next to this and separated by two or three acres of weedy vacancy from the corners, where the population centered thickest, stood—if one may so predicate of a building which leaned in seven directions—the house of Mr. Robert Skillett, the proprietor of the saloon. Both buildings were shut up as tight as their state of repair permitted. As they were farthest to the east, they formed the nearest shelter, and to them the Crossroaders bent their flight, though they stopped not here, but disappeared behind Skillett's shanty, putting it between them and their pursuers, whose guns were beginning to speak. The fugitives had a good start, and, being the picked runners of the Crossroads, they crossed the open, weedy acres in safety and made for their homes. Every house had become a fort, and the defenders would have to be fought and torn out one by one. As the guns sounded, a woman in a shanty near the forge began to scream and kept on screaming.

On came the farmers and the men of Plattville. They took the saloon at a run, battered down the crazy doors with a fence rail and swarmed inside like busy insects, making the place hum like a hive, but with the hotter industries of destruction. It was empty of life as a tomb, but they beat and tore and battered and broke and hammered and shattered like madmen; they reduced the tawdry interior to a mere chaos and came pouring forth laden with trophies of ruin, and then there was a charry smell in the air, and a slender feather of smoke floated up from a second story window.

At the same time Watts led an assault on the adjoining house, an assault which came to a sudden pause, for from cracks in the front wall a squirrel rifle and a shotgun snapped and banged, and the crowd fell back in disorder. Homer Tibbs had a hat blown away, full of buckshot holes, while Mr. Watts solicitously examined a small aperture in the skirts of his brown coat. The house commanded the road, and the rush of the mob into the village was checked, but only for the instant.

They were coming.

A rickety woodshed which formed a portion of the Skillett mansion closely joined the "Last Chance" side of the family place of business. Scarcely had the guns of the defenders sounded when, with a loud shout, Lige Willetts leaped from an upper window on that side of the burning saloon and landed on the woodshed and, immediately climbing the roof of the mansion itself, applied a brand to the dry, time worn clapboards. Ross Schofield dropped on the woodshed close behind him, his arm lovingly infolding a gallon jug of whisky, which he emptied (not without evident regret) upon the clapboards as Lige fired them. Flames burst forth almost instantly, and the smoke, uniting with that now rolling out of every window of the saloon, went up to heaven in a cumbrous, gray column.

As the flames began to spread there was a rapid fusillade from the rear of the house, and a hundred men and more, who had kept on through the fields to the north, assailed it from behind. Their shots passed clear through the flimsy partitions, and there was a screaming like beasts' howls from within. The front door was thrown open, and a lean, fierce eyed girl, with a case knife in her hand, ran out in the face of the mob. At sound of the shots in the rear they had begun to advance on the house a second time, and Hartley Bowlder was the nearest man to the girl. With awful words and shrieking inconceivably she made straight at Hartley and attacked him with the knife. She struck at him again and again, and in her anguish of hate and fear she was so extraordinary a spectacle that she gained for her companions the seconds they needed to escape from the house. As she hurled herself alone at the oncoming torrent they sped from the door unnoticed, sprang over the fence and reached the open lots to the west before they were seen by Willetts from the roof.

"Don't let 'em fool you!" he shouted. "Look to your left! There they go! Don't let 'em get away!"

The Crossroaders were running across the field. They were Bob Skillett and his younger brother, and Mr. Skillett was badly damaged. He seemed to be holding his jaw on his face with both hands. The girl turned and sped after them. She was over the fence almost as soon as they were, and the three ran in single file, the girl last. She was either magnificently sacrificial and fearless or she cunningly calculated that the regulators would take no chances of killing a woman-child, for she kept between their guns and her two companions, trying to cover and shield the latter with her frail body.

"Shoot, Lige," called Watts. "If we fire from here we'll hit the girl. Shoot!"

In Memory of Victoria.

The women's memorial to Queen Victoria, being the endowment of Queen Victoria's Jubilee Institute for Nurses, which she herself founded with the £72,000 presented to her by the women of Great Britain at the jubilee of 1887, is now complete. The amount collected by the central committee was, in round figures: England, Wales and the colonies, £66,000; Ireland, £6,000; Scotland, (Scottish Nurses' Endowment Fund), £12,000—or £84,000 in all. Added to the £72,000 of the Women's Jubilee Offering to Queen Victoria, this makes a total of £156,000. The committee state that about four million people contributed to the fund. The bulk of the money was made up of small sums, ranging from one penny upwards.

Mining in New South Wales.

The aggregate value of the mineral wealth produced in this state to the end of 1903 is estimated at £158,339,793. The value of the production for 1903 is £6,039,486, and is a net increase of £421,341 over that of the previous year. The gold produced to the end of 1903 is estimated at 14,071,700 ounces crude, valued at £51,822,617. The yield for the year 1903 was 205,778 ounces crude, equal to 254,260 ounces fine, valued at £1,060,029. In addition gold to the value of some £612,334 was obtained by smelting.

"IMPOSSIBLE," for you to enjoy the happiness of motherhood," says the doctor. Sometimes he qualifies the statement, and says: "Impossible without an operation." Yet both these "impossibles" have been made possibles by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Many times the hindrances to motherhood are to be found in womanly diseases or weaknesses, which are perfectly and permanently cured by "Favorite Prescription." This great medicine for women cures irregularity and dries debilitating drains. It heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

"I wish to add my testimony to hundreds of others as to the value of Dr. Pierce's medicines," writes Mrs. Ida M. De Ford, of Latona, Hubbard Co., Minn. "Have doctored with a great many physicians—some specialists; have twice been in a hospital for treatment. My case has been regarded as a hopeless one, and they knew not what the trouble was. Heart was bad; stomach all out of order; tired out; severe pains in all parts of the body; sinking spells, and nearly every ailment a woman could have. I took many a bottle of 'patent medicines' without effect. I began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and ten months afterward I gave birth to a ten-pound boy. All physicians had stated as a fact that I never could bear a child. Both the baby and myself were strong, and I got along splendidly—thanks to your medicine."

must win upon their merits. The International Dictionary has won a greater distinction upon its merits and is in more general use than any other work of its kind in the English language.

A. H. Sayce, LL.D., D.D., of Oxford University, England, has recently said of it: It is indeed a marvelous work; it is difficult to conceive of a dictionary more exhaustive and complete. Everything is in it—not only what we might expect to find in such a work, but also what few of us would ever have thought of looking for.

A supplement to the new edition has brought it fully up to date. I have been looking through the latter with a feeling of astonishment at its completeness, and the amount of labor that has been put into it.

MANITOBA WANTS TRENT WATERWAY.

Winnipeg Telegram Strongly Endorses the Project

Too Much Delay has Already Ensued—Work Should be Completed at Once.

Another champion of the Trent Waterway has been found in the Winnipeg Telegram, one of the most influential papers in the West. In a recent issue an editorial article said in part:—

"Elsewhere we publish in this issue a letter from Mr. Kerr of Peterborough, on the national importance of developing the Trent Valley Route from Georgian Bay to the head of the St. Lawrence. He presents strong evidence to show that the completion of the work, which would call for only $5,000,000, would effect a two-cent reduction in grain rates from Port Arthur, Duluth and Chicago, to the seaboard.

"Too little attention has been paid, especially in the West, to the opportunity presented by nature of an almost direct water route from Georgian Bay to Montreal, which can be utilized at a cost trifling in comparison with the very great economy in transportation, that it is stated would thus be offered. Too much delay has already been tolerated in the prosecution of this necessary work. At present it is half done, and the capital already expended remains tied up and unremunerative.

"The route would of course be closed during the winter. Indeed, it is not to be expected that the season of navigation upon enclosed waters would last so far into late autumn and early winter as that of the open lakes. Nor is the capacity of a barge lock unlimited. Three very large canals at the Soo hardly suffice for the traffic to and from the ports of Lake Superior and Lake Michigan, but during its season of navigation and up to the limit of its capacity it would effect a great saving, and it must be remembered that more than half the Soo traffic consists of freight, such as iron ore for Pittsburg, which must always pass by the St. Clair River route."

Lindsay Won at Baseball—Colts' Cricket Team Beat U. C. C. II—Young Quakers Victorious—Notes.

COBOURG TO PLAY HERE ON SATURDAY.

Baseball Game Here with Midland League Champions

To-morrow afternoon the fans will have the opportunity of seeing what will without a doubt be one of the fastest baseball games of the season. The Champion Cobourg team, winners in the Midland League for two years in succession, will be here to give Manager Whitcroft's nine a game. The Cobourg team has proved altogether too fast for the other teams along the front, and has won easily, but this year the League has taken on a different complexion, by the admission of the Peterborough team, and it is expected that some good hard battles will be fought, the first of which will be that of to-morrow. The visiting team will bring their strongest nine, and it will be a battle royal when these two nines meet.

Flaherty will be on the slab for the local team, and Cobourg will bring their best slab artist.

The game will be played on the Murray street grounds.

MAYOR OF LINDSAY LIKED OUR BALL TEAM

They Played Fast ball and were Always Gentlemanly.

The following letter was received this morning by Mayor Roger in reference to the baseball game in Lindsay on Victoria Day:—

Lindsay, May 25th, 1904.

His Worship, Mayor Roger, Peterborough—

Dear Sir,—I have been requested by a large number of the citizens of this town to write you regarding the baseball match which took place here yesterday, between the senior clubs of Peterborough and Lindsay, which I understand was the first league game of the season.

It appears that the several clubs forming the Midland Baseball League have decided that, in addition to playing good clean baseball, to endeavour as far as possible to inculcate good moral habits and gentlemanly conduct and that all contests for the league trophy shall be purely amateur and contested in a friendly spirit with a view of eliminating the seeds of professionalism, as far as possible.

It was my good luck to have the honour of pitching the first ball at the opening of the league on Empire Day, here, and to witness the game from start to finish, which I assure you was a first-class game in every particular, closely and vigorously contested through out and with one single exception was carried out on the lines laid down as stated, which I assure you was most satisfactory to all who witnessed the game. The Peterborough Club, under the gentlemanly and courteous management of Mr. Whitcroft, is a credit to any town or city, and judging by their good conduct and gentlemanly bearing while here, are deserving of the encouragement and hearty support of their fellow citizens.

Yours truly,
J. H. SOOTHERAN,
Mayor.

The Peterborough citizens should be proud of their ball team which, as above stated, besides being players of the first-class, are all perfect gentlemen. Nothing kill's baseball in any town as quick as rowdyism, which, it must be said, is too prevalent in some towns. The local boys speak in high terms of the treatment received at the hands of the Lindsay management and citizens. It is hoped that our townspeople will heartily support the ball team this season and encourage them in promoting good healthy sport.

BASEBALL.

Mr. R. McEwan will umpire the game to-morrow between the Cobourg and Peterborough teams.

• • • •

The Casino Baseball team of Rochester, N.Y., wants to come here to play the Peterboroughs.

• • • •

To-morrow afternoon's game between the champion Cobourg team and the locals should be a corker. Manager Whitcroft's nine is determined to redeem themselves from Tuesday's defeat and the boys are confident of downing the strong Cobourg bunch. It will be a game well worth witnessing.

• • • •

The Auburns go to Lindsay on Monday for a Kawartha League game.

• • • •

Kuhns, of the Torontos, has been given the sack.

• • • •

Lamonte, the new short stop made good in the Lindsay game and will strengthen the infield.

• • • •

The Peterboroughs need more batting practice. Their fielding is above the ordinary, but in swatting the leather there is room for improvement.

• • • •

At Cobourg on Victoria Day another 2—1 game was played, the home team beating Oshawa by that score.

• • • •

Judging from Tuesday's games, the Midland League teams seem pretty well matched; Oshawa and Cobourg played a 2—1 game, Lindsay and Peterborough did likewise, while Port Hope and Bowmanville played a tie, 8—8.

• • • •

To-night on the Benson Avenue Grounds, St. Andrew's and George Street Guild teams will play an exhibition game. The players of both tams are asked to be on hand at 6.45 sharp.

• • • •

• • • •

The following George street players are requested to be on hand for their game with St. Andrew's to-night at 6.30 sharp:—Mulhern, Dobbin, Robertson, Mann, Hutchinson, Parnell, Metheral, Dredge, G. Miller, Warne, H. Creasman, Humbers.

• • • •

The Lindsay Post says:—The Auburns, of Peterborough, meet the Hummers here Monday. Mr. Sam Reeves will be in the box, and the team will have several new faces on the line-up, with a first-class catcher behind the bat. Manager Dick Butler has taken hold and will put the team in good form for the game.

• • • •

The Algoma baseball team of Sault Ste. Marie, for a number of years champions of New Ontario, is taking a trip through the east during August, and wishes to arrange a game with Peterborough.

• • • •

An exciting game of baseball was played on Wednesday in the Public School League between the South Central and Central teams, the latter winning by 7—6, after seven innings of fast ball. The teams were:

South Central — Nicholls 3b, Dobson 1b, Dumford ss, Pilling p, Wilson lf, Cummings 2b, Wood cf, Taylor rf, Winch c.—6.

Central — S. Laing c, B. Laing p, Carton 1b, Carmichael 2b, Lech ss, Fitzpatrick, H. Hall, F. Hall, Thornton.—7.

• • • •

The Independents and the Young Frontenacs played an exciting game of baseball on the Exhibition grounds on Victoria Day. Gillen was in the box for the Independents and Picard for the Frontenacs. The Frontenacs made their only run in the second innings. After six innings were played the Independents were given the game, the score being 26—1.

• • • •

The manager of the Quaker baseball team has been talking considerable of late through this paper in regard to a proposed game of ball between his team and the Victorias. The latter team defeated the Quakers so many times last year, that they considered the challenge a piece of impudence. But if the Quakers really want a game, the Vics. will oblige them any old time, and will promise a closer game than the Quakers had lately with the kindergarten students from Port Hope.—Com.

GOLF.

The weekly tea at the Golf Club house will be held on Tuesday, May 31st, instead of Thursday of that week. The spring competition will take place, commencing at 3 o'clock, and after tea the medal round will be played.

• • • •

The draws and handicaps for the Stratton Cup, donated to the Golf Club by Hon. J. R. Stratton, and competed for yearly since the Club was organized, have been made as follows:—

LACROSSE.

The opening game in the Trent Valley Lacrosse is scheduled for next Friday, when Tweed goes to Havelock. Port Hope is due to play here a week from to-morrow.

• • • •

It looks as if Port Hope will be strongly represented in the T. V. League.

• • • •

Peterborough's first home game is with Orillia here on June 16th.

• • • •

The Calumets, of Chicago and St. Paul, Minn., teams are advertised to play a game at Chicago on May 30th, Decoration Day, and this is the way the advertising card reads:—"Canadian and Indian National game. Full of action. Players required to possess speed, strength and endurance. Don't fail to attend. The hottest and most exciting game ever played. Motto,—'Soc-it-to-them.'"

FOOTBALL.

The Norwood High School team has disbanded for the season. The team is composed principally of students in the High School, and the approach of the examinations will prevent them from playing, consequently they have decided to disband for the season.

• • • •

This afternoon at Keene the Harwood-Keene game will be played, with E. Renton, of Peterborough, acting as referee.

• • • •

Mr. A. Noble will referee the Quaker-Oaughs-wags game at Norwood to-morrow.

• • • •

The Quakers will go to Norwood to-morrow on the 11.35 C.P.R., returning by the 6.10.

• • • •

The Y.M.C.A. boys are keeping in good shape for the semi-finals next month.

• • • •

The champions in every district but one of the Midland League are now decided as follows: No. 1, Bowmanville, No. 2 Y. M. C. A., No. 3 Bridgenorth, No. 4 undecided, No. 5 Deseronto, No. 6 Locust Hill.

• • • •

In the Midland semi-finals Bowmanville plays Bridgenorth; the Y. M.C.A. clash with Locust Hill, while Deseronto tackles the winner of No. 4.

• • • •

Bridgenorth is the winner of Group No. 3, in the Midland Football League, Norwood having defaulted their game to-morrow to the former team.

CRICKET

Cricket is by no means dead in Peterborough, though it appears to be up to the Colts, and the Colts alone, to uphold the name of the town in this line of sport. It is some years since Peterborough could boast of a senior cricket team, but the Colts are still in the game and this year's eleven is a strong one. The boys have already two victories to their credit, both away from home, their victims being Millbrook, and the Upper Canada College II team of Toronto.

HOCKEY.

An important meeting of all the officers of the T.A.S. Hockey Club is called for this evening at 8.30 o'clock in the rooms.

A RUSSIAN ROUT
A JAP PURSUIT

Japanese Score Brilliant Victory in the Capture of Kinchou.

OVER 24,000 LOST IN FIGHT.

12,000 of the Mikado's Little Brown Men Bite the Dust and the Russian Loss is Stated to be Greater—Russians Also Swept From Their Defences West of Talienwan

London, May 28.—A despatch to the Central News from Harbin says the Japanese losses during the fighting at Kinchou are said to be twelve thousand men killed. It is said that these figures have been confirmed by an official despatch. Fighting, it is added, is still going on in the vicinity of Kinchou.

The Russian Loss Heavier.

London, May 28.—The Tokio correspondent of The Daily Chronicle says he learns that the Japanese troops are now within 20 miles of Port Arthur, and that the Russians suffered heavier casualties than the Japanese, who have taken guns and material and a few prisoners. He predicts a further surprise, as Japan is now increasing her efforts in all directions. The Tokio correspondent of The Daily Chronicle says that the Japanese captured many guns at Kinchou.

Japs Put Russians to Rout.

London, May 28.—The Tokio despatch to the Associated Press and Japanese official accounts are the only detailed descriptions that have yet reached London of the brilliant Japanese victory at Kinchou, which is hailed by the London press as establishing an even stronger claim than did the Japanese operations on the Yalu River to their superiority on land as well as by sea, since in the case of Kinchou the Russians had ample time to carefully prepare their positions.

It appears that at the conclusion the victory was immediately followed up, for The Morning Post's Tokio correspondent asserts that the Japanese have swept the Russians from their defences west of Talienwan. And if The Daily Telegraph's generally well-informed correspondent is correct, and the Japanese are nearing Port Arthur, the Russians must have suffered a complete rout at Kinchou. That this is the case also would appear from rumors of the capture of the Russian artillery.

Veterans For the Storming.

According to The Daily Mail's Tokio correspondent, the fifth Japanese division of veterans, which is destined for the storming of Port Arthur, already has landed on the Liaotung Peninsula.

The Daily Telegraph's correspondent at Japanese headquarters, communicating under date of May 26, says there is no change in the situation of the first army, but there are frequent outpost encounters.

"I suppose," he adds, "that the lull is due for preparations of a great battle in the direction of Liaoyang."

The Daily Mail's Sinminting correspondent, telegraphing under date of May 25, declares there are only 2,000 troops at Mukden.

Navy Helped Land Force.

Tokio, May 28.—The following report has been received from Vice-Admiral Togo:

"The gunboats Thukishi, Heiyen, Amagi and Chokai, and the first torpedo boat flotilla, under Capatain Nishi Yama, reached Kinchou Bay on the evening of Wednesday. From dawn of Thursday the vessels co-operated with the army in bombarding Suchaton. The Amagi and the Chokai went in in the morning and the enemy retreated from Suchaton, but they continued to fire from a position behind Suchaton. Our casualties were 10, including Hayashi of the Chokai, who was killed."

How St. Petersburg Heard.

St. Petersburg, May 28.—The news of the Japanese victory at Kinchou was published on a Russian holiday, the anniversary of the coronation of Emperor Nicholas. The news caused the celebrations of Tsarkoye Selo to be shortened. Only a brief service was celebrated in the chapel instead of the customary litany, and the Emperor spent the remainder of the day in the transaction of business.

Gained the Strongest Point.

Tokio, May 28.—A Japanese officer of high rank made the following statement to the Associated Press:

"The Japanese in attacking Kinchou and Nashan Hill had to fight against great odds. The Russians were in full command of the strategic advantages afforded by nature, and these advantages were augmented by the newest inventions of defence. The forts on Nashan Hill were armed with heavy guns. The Japanese had only field guns, heavy guns being unavailable on account of the difficulties of transportation. Our army deserves great credit for having driven the Russians from this stronghold. It was a feat previously considered to have been impossible.

"I fear our losses have been heavy, but we have gained the strongest point barring our way to the investment of Port Arthur."

J. SUTCLIFFE & SONS

London, May 28.—Baron Hayashi, the Japanese Minister, discussing the recent fighting north of Port Arthur, said yesterday: "Kinchou will be occupied as a first base. The neighboring hills will be strongly fortified in order that they can be held indefinitely. For food supplies and ammunition Port Dalny will be a second base. The possession of Kinchou will be of invaluable aid in the campaign against Port Arthur. The hills command positions of the country for several miles in the direction of Port Arthur. I presume from the action at Kinchou that the Russians intend to make another stand at Port Dalny. Their justification for defending Kinchou must have been the belief that their numbers were able to cope with ours so I expect that practically all the available Russian troops have been moved out from Port Arthur in the attempt to head off the investment."

THE JAP VICTORY AT KINCHOU.

The Routed Russians Are Being Pursued Toward Port Arthur.

Tokio, May 28.—The Japanese army swept the Russians from Kinchou Thursday morning, and in a desperate attack stormed the almost impregnable position of the Russians on Nanshan Hill, west of Talienwan. The battle raged in the hills all through the night, and fragmentary telegrams from the Japanese headquarters report that the engagement is still in progress and that the Japanese are still pursuing the Russians south from Nanshan and the head of Talienwan Bay.

The Russians had made elaborate preparations to check the Japanese movement south on the Liaotung Peninsula towards Port Arthur. They had fortified the high ground on the south shore of Talienwan Bay, their works extending to the east and west. The extreme Russian right was at Hushangtao, and the extreme left at Nanshan Hill. This hill was the strongest part of the line. A series of batteries, strongly placed, crowned its crest, while rifle pits extended around its sides. Mines had been placed lower down on the hill and around the base on the northern and eastern sides were stretched well-made wire entanglements. Another line of defences also protected with wire entanglements extended from Yenchiatung, near the head of Talienwan Bay, due north of Liuchiatien, which lies south of Kinchou. A strong Russian force was posted at Kinchou. It consisted of infantry and artillery.

Japs' Clever Tactics.

The Japanese first occupied the line of hills to the east of Kinchou. Their position had formed an almost perfect right angle, showing its southern front to Talienwan and the western front to Kinchou. Chiulichan Village was the apex of this angle, the extreme right of the Japanese line resting at Chenchatien, while the extreme left was at Cheitsuho, a village due east of Chiulichan. Back of this angle the attacking force assembled in complete security.

The Russians apparently attempted to draw the Japanese attack last Saturday for their batteries opened fire slowly on the enemy on that day. The Japanese, however, refused to be drawn into an attack until the positions of the Russians, their guns and their strength, had been fully developed.

Draw Enemy's Fire.

To this end the Japanese began a series of careful manoeuvres, their officers working their way close enough to the Russian position to draw the enemy's fire. They thus secured fragments of shells for the purpose of ascertaining the calibre of the Russian guns. They discovered that the batteries on Nanshan Hill included four howitzers of about 15 centimetres calibre, ten old-style cannon of between 9 and 15 centimetres calibre, and two quick-firing guns of 12 centimetres. The Japanese discovered also a number of large emplacements, but they did not learn the number of guns contained therein. These emplacements faced to the north and to the east.

The guns fired by the Russians developed a range of 8,500 metres. Eight heavy guns, posted on the Russian right, in the vicinity of Hushangtao, also were discovered, and another strong Russian position developed by these reconnaisances was on another hill southwest of Nanshan Hill, where the Russians had a series of shelter trenches.

Russia's Fatal Gap.

On the shore of Talienwan Bay, close to the head of the bay, the Russians had established a series of positions. Here were set up searchlights, which nightly played over the Japanese angle in the hills to the northeast.

Further reconnaisances developed the fact that west of Liuchautien the Russians had no defences. Extending to the northward from Yenchiatien to the west coast of the Liaotung Peninsula there were no defences whatever, except the force routed at Kinchou. This gap in the defence was a fatal defect in the Russian position, and when it was perceived the Japanese extended their right to the north and east, enveloping Kinchou and the Russian extreme right. The Japanese left also was extended to Wangchiatung, on the shore of Talienwan Bay, and the centre moved forward.

Wednesday morning, at 5.30, the Japanese attacked Kinchou and for three hours they had an artillery duel with the batteries on Nanshan hill. The Russian gunners searched the Japanese lines with their fire, but failed to inflict much damage.

Resumed at Sunrise.

The battle was resumed at dawn on Thursday. Three Japanese gunboats then entered Kinchou Bay, and in co-operation with the artillery on shore, shelled the Russian positions on Nanshan hill. A Russian gunboat in Talienwan Bay steamed close to the shore and shelled the Japanese left. From dawn the batteries on both sides hammered away at each other. At an early hour the Japanese infantry moved forward, and at 5.20 on Thursday morning they entered Kinchou, the Russians retiring to the south. The fighting continued into Thursday night, the Japanese pressing to the south and storming Nanshan hill. They followed the retreating Russians through the southern hills.

The reports received here fail to cover the events on the Russian right. It is probable, however, that the Russians have abandoned these positions. No information is given concerning losses, they probably were heavy on both sides. The Russian resistance at Nanshan hill was stubborn. The Japanese made a series of assaults before the Russians finally yielded the position. The Russians abandoned this hill at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, retreating toward Nanquanling, where it is understood a second line of defences exist.

The Russians may rally at this line of defences unless they have been disordered by the defeat at Kinchou and Nanshan. The Russians had a series of mines planted at Tafangchan station, on the railroad, which were exploded. The station was destroyed.

The Japanese forces were under fire for sixteen hours.

The general staff here has received telegrams from the commanders commending the bravery and fortitude of their men.

A Bloody Affair.

Subsequent reports received here indicated that the storming of the Nanshan hill yesterday was a bloody affair. The Japanese centred their fire on the Russian batteries, in which work they were aided by four gunboats from Kinchou Bay. They succeeded in silencing many of the enemy's guns.

The Russians had constructed a series of trenches around the hill on a terrace protected by wire entanglements and other such devices.

The Japanese made a series of rushes, but they were in vain. The deadly rifle and cannon fire of the enemy checked them repeatedly.

Finally, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, the Japanese re-formed and stormed the crest of the hill. The Russians held to their position doggedly, and it was 7 o'clock in the evening before the Japanese finally gained possession of the ridge.

No Delay in Investigation.

Toronto, May 28.—On Monday, at Montreal, Judge Winchester will commence his investigation into the charge that United States engineers are being employed on G.T.R. surveys in preference to Canadians. His Honor returned from Ottawa yesterday, where he had been to receive his warrant as a commissioner to call evidence and investigate the charges. Subpoenas have been issued for General Manager Charles M. Hays and William Wainwright of the railroad company. Judge Winchester has been given power to enquire into the question of alien labor employed by the company. From Montreal Judge Winchester will proceed to Winnipeg.

To Void Judge's Order.

Toronto, May 28.—Argument by J. F. Hellmuth, K.C., was heard yesterday before the Court of Appeal to reserve the order granted by Chief Justice Moss in March allowing substitution of a petitioner in the Liberal petition against Dunlop of North Renfrew. Judgment was reserved.

Sentenced to Asylum.

Toronto, May 28.—Herbert Satchell, the young farmer accused of placing stones on the Metropolitan Railway tracks, has been adjudged insane and was yesterday ordered to be sent to the asylum.

Deckhand Badly Hurt.

Port Arthur, May 26.—James Lewis, a deckhand on the steamer Donnacona, met with a serious accident yesterday morning. He was engaged in taking off hatches when he slipped, falling into the hold, a distance of 20 feet. His right arm was broken, and he received a deep gash on the head, and is otherwise injured. He was taken to the hospital.

Killed in Runaway.

Winnipeg, May 28.—Robert Abbe of Westwood, Man., near Rapid City, was thrown from a lumber wagon by a runaway team and instantly killed yesterday. He came from England.

Conscription For Britain.

London, May 28.—The report of the Royal Commission of the volunteer and militia forces practically recommends conscription as the only means of providing a home defence army adequate for the protection of the country in the absence or partial absence of the regular troops. The Commissioners estimate that such a scheme would provide about 350,000 trained men annually at a cost probably less than that of the present militia system.

Canada Should Propose.

Ottawa, May 28.—Hon. A. B. Morine of Newfoundland addressed the Canadian Club of Ottawa last night on the subject of confederation with the Dominion. He repeated substantially the views which he expressed recently in an interview at Toronto. His enthusiasm in favor of union was evident, but his hopefulness was less marked. He held strongly to the opinion that Canada should make a definite proposition to the island.

Are you feeding your pigs on the food that develops brain and muscle and your children on the food that simply produces fat and heat?

No farmer wants to increase the brain and muscle elements in his cattle. Yet through ignorance of the laws of Nature he feeds them on the outer coatings of wheat (which contain the brain and muscle-producing elements) only grinding the starchy kernel of the grain (which practically contains only the fat and heat-producing elements of wheat) into white flour to make bread for human beings.

To be physically and mentally fit you require every element in the whole of the wheat. The only food you can get it in is —the only naturally organized food in the world. The shredding process makes it light and porous, thus presenting the greatest surface to the action of the digestive fluids, which makes it easy of digestion.

As whole wheat contains in exact proportions every element required by the human body, it follows that it must necessarily nourish every element of the body.

Triscuit the electrically baked whole wheat wafer, which contains no yeast, fats or chemicals, takes the place of ill-nourishing bread or crackers and makes ideal toast.

NOT NOW AS THEN.

The Kingston News, Conservative, asserts that the construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, will open the door to "grafting" on an extensive scale, and cites as proof the remark attributed to Hon. Alex. Mackenzie, that he had to stand on guard against assaults upon the public chest. This is no proof, for under the late Liberal Premier's guardianship the public chest was protected and the game of the "grafter" spoiled. The News has better reason from precedent. Because public works contracts were exhaustively milked under Conservative rule, is some ground for fearing that the process might be repeated if that party was again in power. The News might compile a list of the many millionaire fortunes made out of the building of the Canadian Pacific Railway, apparently considerably in excess of what would be represented by legitimate profits of business connection with the building of the railway. But it must be remembered that a Liberal Government is now in power, and though the genus "grafter" has not become extinct, he will not find the government of the day as "easy a mark" as he found their predecessors in office during the many years of the saturnalia of grab associated with certain periods of their rule.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The silver-lead industry in British Columbia is looking up. In connection with the Canadian Pacific smelter at Traill, silver is now being refined in considerable quantities. The other day over two tons of bar silver were shipped from Traill to the mint at San Francisco, and turned into coin for use in the Philippines. By August the smelter people will be manufacturing lead pipe at Traill, all that the Canadian market requires, and within a few months will start a white-lead factory somewhere in the east. A ton of pig lead makes over a ton of white-lead. The price of labour at Traill is higher than in the older provinces, besides, the older provinces will constitute the chief home market for white-lead, consequently the cost of freight will be reduced by having the factory in the east. The Dominion Government has been blamed for aiding the silver-lead men, but without doubt the bonus is accomplishing much good.

The Government is blamed for having allowed the Grand Trunk Pacific to employ certain American engineers and topographers in laying out the route of that line. As a matter of fact so soon as Sir William Mulock's attention was drawn to the matter he called on Mr. Hays for an explanation. Mr. Hays could not give an answer on the spot, the survey parties being away in the wilderness between Winnipeg and Edmonton, or Winnipeg and Lake Abittibi. This does not prevent the Opposition, however, from condemning him and Sir William Mulock, too, on the ex parte testimony of persons who complain that, although they are Canadian engineers and topographers, they have not been able to obtain employment on the work. The fairest way is to wait for the facts. And these will be brought out by the investigation the Dominion Government has empowered Judge Winchester to make. When one contrasts the record of Conservative protection of the interests of labour with that of the Liberals, one is fairly entitled to conclude that the present pretended interest of Conservative members smacks more of a desire to reap political advantage, than of a solicitude for the interests of Canadian labour.

The "foreign policy" of the Dominion Government is, it appears, at fault. A leading Conservative paper says so, and proves it by showing that an American company has received concessions from Newfoundland whereby it will ship Newfoundland fish to the United States, and, under an arrangement with Washington, enter them free of duty. Canadian fish will, of course, pay duty as heretofore. The weakness of this charge against Sir Wilfrid Laurier lies in the fact that Newfoundland is not a Canadian province, but an independent colony. If Newfoundland and her Premier, Sir Robert Bond, are disposed to manage their affairs without much regard for Canadian interests, it is because they have a perfect right to do so, and also because they have never forgiven our successful interference years ago against the Blaine-Bond treaty, which the Colonial Office hotel at the instance of Sir John Thompson. If Sir Wilfrid cannot control Newfoundland, he certainly cannot control the United States to the extent of preventing them from giving Newfoundland fish better treatment than ours. The question is a serious one for the fishermen of the Maritime Provinces. Practically speaking, Newfoundland is setting aside the Treaty of 1818 and profiting thereby, whilst we continue to enforce it. Furthermore, it is obvious that the new arrangements between Newfoundland and the States will tend to prevent the incorporation of the former with the Dominion. These are grave enough matters, but what sense is there in holding Sir Wilfrid responsible? He might as logically be held responsible for sowing the waters of the Yellow Sea with torpedoes.

WEATHER FORECASTS FOR MONTH OF JUNE,

As Foretold by Prof. Ira Hicks in Word and Works

The weather forecasts of Professor Ira Hicks for the month of May, as published in his paper, Words and Works, were remarkably accurate, consequently his predictions for June will be read with considerable interest. He says:—

A reactionary period of disturbances is central on the 1st and 2nd days of June, calling for higher temperature, falling barometer, increased humidity and progressive storms of wind, rain and thunder from the 1st to about the 3rd. Rising barometer, change to westerly winds, clearing and cooler will supplant and follow the storm area, the change behind the storms passing eastward across the country from about the 3rd to the 5th.

Western extremes will begin to feel the growing influence of the Vulcan storm period as early as the 4th and 5th. This period is central on the 6th, extending from the 4th to the 9th. This period will begin with change to much warmer in western sections, the barometer will fall first in the same section, and rising temperature, falling barometer and storms of rain, wind and thunder will march eastwardly across the country from about the 5th to the 9th. On and touching Tuesday the 7th these disturbances will be at their crisis in the regions central in the Mississippi and Ohio Valleys. Under pressure of the perihelion of the great planet, Jupiter, combined with the annual summer solstice perturbations, much electrical phenomena will attend all the storm periods in June. This Vulcan period will not be an exception. The tendency to much lightning in the evenings and throughout the nights will be very marked, even outside of the limits of the regular storm periods.

About the 10th and 11th of June every year our globe passes what may be called a north pole contrast with the solar equator. As a result of this peculiar relation of Earth and Sun, the Earth becomes greatly charged with magnetism and electricity. Thunder storms, general and excessive sheet lightning, volcanic disturbances and seismic phenomena are common results of this maximum electrical excitation. Such disturbances will reach a maximum about the 10th and 11th and continue in marked force and frequency until the end of the month.

A reactionary storm period will be central on the 12th and 13th, with the moon at now and extreme north declination on the 13th. The disturbances immediatly preceding these dates will run over into this period. The temperature will rise greatly, and the barometer will fall to storm readings on and touching the 13th, with many electrical storms in transit from west to east. This reactionary period will be within the Mercury brace, as seen by the accompanying storm diagram, which fact will not only add to the intensity of the disturbances, but will increase the probability of a continued spell of threatening stormy weather. Normally the temperature would fall, the barometer rise, and cooler, fair weather appear about the 14th to 16th, and such changes in modified degrees may appear; but the chances of continued thunder showers, with here and there storms of violent proportions, are good for many days, reaching into and through the next regular storm period.

To Prove what Anti-Pill, the Great System Treatment will do for you, Every Reader of this paper may have A Sample Bottle sent Free by Mail.

Derangement of the stomach is responsible for much sickness and suffering. Every organ of the body depends upon the stomach for its nutriment and strength—If the stomach is not working right the blood carries to the liver, heart, nerves and kidney tissue imperfect nutrition—They become weak and unable to perform their work—become clogged, diseased, and throw out their distress symptoms. Now you may get stimulative, temporary relief by the taking of a kidney, liver, nerve or heart specific, but the cause remains—The stomach is at fault, and so long as it keeps loading the blood with impurity—waste, so long will the blood transport and deposit disease breeding elements in the weak places—When you feel sick, help the stomach first. A well stomach means a well body. Anti-Pill, the Great System Treatment, is a new discovery that has a marvelous influence in correcting system ailments. Address, Wilson-Fyle Co., Niagara Falls, Ont., for free sample. Regular size, a month's treatment, 50 cents at Druggists.

Sold in Peterborough by James Lynch, Chemist and Druggist, Hunter street.

The next storm period is central on the 18th, and the Mercury period is central on the 16th, so that the two periods combine their influences from the 16th to the 21st. This period is also near the centre of the summer solstice, embracing the moon's perigee on the 16th, and lies moon at first quarter and on the celestial equator on the 20th. All these causes conspiring within the compass of this storm period, the chances for general, heavy and even dangerous storms are multiplied greatly at this time. The crisis of this period will fall from about Saturday the 18th, to Tuesday the 21st, the storms centering more decidedly on and touching the 20th. Look for startling and continuous displays of lightning throughout the nights at this period and most likely for many days through all the central parts of the month.

It is well to remember that the greater part of this summer solstice lightning—that is when in the form of what is known as sheet lightning—is entirely harmless. At this season banks of summer clouds often float and hang all around the horizon, in the evening and through the night emitting continuous flashes that illuminate the night like fourth of July pyrotechnics. Let no timid, nervous person suffer uneasiness or painful apprehension at such displays, as they are not in the least dangerous. The on-coming, concentrated thunder storm at this season is very different, and calls for all possible prudence. Time and again have we warned our readers, both in our Almanac and in Word and Works, against taking shelter under green trees and other similar places, during these vicious, near-by, thunder storms in June. Standing or walking in fresh moist earth, or riding on horseback, or in any vehicle forming direct metallic connection with the ground, are all equally dangerous in a sharp, June thunder storm. The nearer you can come to placing perfectly dry wood or rubber between you and all connection with the moist earth or air currents, the safer you will be.

The 23rd, 24th and 25th are central dates of a reactionary storm period. On these days there will be increased tendencies to decided storms, higher temperature, falling barometer, growing humidity, all followed by storms of wind, rain and thunder. Change to westerly winds, rising barometer and fair, cooler weather will come in from the west and north as the storm areas pass off to the eastward.

June comes to its close in the midst of a regular storm period. This period is central on the 29th, reaching from the 27th to July the 2nd. On Monday, the 27th, the first day of the period, the Moon is at full and extreme declination south, indicating that disturbances of this period will develop early in the period, and continue with greater or less intensity for several days. The centre of low barometric pressure will lie to the south, inducing northerly air currents, and causing cool, northely to north-easterly rains during most of this period, over all sections north of the centre of low barometer.

We have often explained the peculiarities of the June solstice storms, and the physical causes for the same; but new generations and new readers call for many and continued repetitions. At this time our earth is at the point in her orbit where, we may say, she reverses her direction and her north pole begins to move westward; the wind currents become confused and variable, often driving sudden thunder gusts, and drenching downpours of rain, up from points of the compass from which rains do not ordinarily come. Clouds that have passed to the east often whirl suddenly backward unexpected, surprising and overwhelming unwary localities with wind and torrents from easterly directions. Instead of the usual order, coming up from westerly points of the compass, many of our hardest rains strike us from easterly to south-easterly directions during the solstice period. Fact of the matter is, barometric depressions are detached and scattered into narrow, segregated localities, and these atmospheric well-holes constitute vacums into which the nearest passing thunder cloud is sure to rush, no matter from what direction.

In the nature of things June will bring many showers and some general, hard rains to most sections, but we do not believe that the rainfall will come up to the average, taking the country as a whole. This means of course that some sections will have a shortage of moisture before the close of the month. We believe that such sections will be in the north, to northwestern parts of the country. As to the seasonal conditions during the remainder of the summer, we will say that a Mars period dominates the last half of July and that the character of rainfall and weather prevailing as we enter this Mars period may be expected generally through July and August. We fear that there will be a shortage of moisture over much of the great grain producing sections of our country. No interested, practical observer of current events needs to be told that our forecasts for the month of May, up to going to press with June Word and Works, were fulfilled to the letter. Twenty to thirty people perished in storm and tornado, and property in proportion. — Irl R. Hicks.

DEATH BY SUICIDE

Thomas Rogers Deliberntely Steps Out of Boat Into Bay.

BELLEVILLE BOYS SAW HIM

Joseph McIlroy, a Wallace Township Farmer, Attempted to Kill Himself Because Weather Was Unfavorable For Seeding—Two River Drivers Drowned—Herbert McKenzie's Body Found—Cyclone Loses.

Belleville, May 28.—Thomas Rogers committed suicide in this city yesterday afternoon about 4.30. He spent Thursday night in the police cells, where he had applied for protection. He was turned out in the morning. Two boys saw the man get into a boat, push off and deliberately get over the side into the water. They at once raised an alarm, but when the police arrived the man had been in the water half an hour and life was extinct. At the police station Rogers gave his age as 64, his home Buffalo, his place of birth England, and his occupation farmer. He was well dressed, six feet high and weighed about 180 pounds.

Weather Causes Worry.

Listowel, May 28.—Joseph McIlroy, a farmer on the third concession of Wallace, attempted to commit suicide yesterday morning. He was found in his barn loft with his throat cut, but still living. It is supposed that he was discouraged by the contrary weather, which has retarded seeding and spring work in this section. His recovery is improbable.

River Drivers Drown.

Montmagny, Que., May 28.—Joseph Lacombe of Montmagny and Joseph Guillmette of St. Raphael were drowned Thursday afternoon while driving logs for Messrs. Price Bros. & Company on Riviere du Sud. Joseph Lacombe was married, and the father of a large family.

SECOND BODY FOUND.

David Mackenzie's Remains Recovered From the River Severn.

Severn Bridge, May 28.—The body of Herbert McKenzie was found late Thursday night, about half a mile down the stream, below where the body of Miss Agnew was discovered. The remains of the two were buried side by side yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Waskago. They were laid beside the body of the mother of Miss Agnew, who died several years ago The present Mrs. Agnew is the stepmother of the deceased girl. Investigation shows that the railing of the bridge over the stream was broken. The river runs very swift at this point, and it is thought that the two were sitting on or leaning over the bridge when it collapsed and threw them into the stream. Neither could swim, and it is surmised that the young man in his effort to save Miss Agnew was swept from her to death, and she seeing the fate he had met gave herself up. There is widespread sympathy for the parents of the two victims.

The Amherstburg Cyclone.

Amherstburg, May 28.—The property damaged by Thursday's cyclone is estimated at about $25,000. The wind struck the town when most of the people were at their mid-day meal, and owing to this fortunate circumstance no one was killed or injured by flying debris. The area of the storm was three miles wide.

Mrs. McNichol's Body Found.

Hamilton, May 28.—On May 19 Mrs. Thomas McNichol disappeared. As her mind was deranged on account of the death of five of her children, her friends feared that she had taken her life. Ever since they have been in a distressing state of suspense. Yesterday morning their worst fears were confirmed by the finding of her body floating on the bay near the Magee-Walton Co.'s icehouse.

Drowned in a Cistern.

Ridgetown, May 28.—An English family named Mohrmann, which lately arrived here, engaged with Henry Buller, and Wednesday evening they had the misfortune to lose by drowning their four and a half year old son. The little fellow in playing around in some way fell into the cistern.

Car Fell on Him.

Meaford, May 28.—Elmer Rows, employed at the Scamal Kent Co.'s factory, was yesterday instantly killed at 12 o'clock. A heavy car of lumber was being transferred from the dry kiln to the factory, and in some manner it left the track; falling on Rows, killing him instantly.

NO OPERATIONS NEEDED NOW

Gravel and Bladder Disease Cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Toronto Bricklayer Relieved of Those Terrible Troubles—Medical Science Makes Another Move Forward.

Toronto, Ont., May 27.—(Special.)—Medical science has at length awakened to the fact that Gravel and other bladder troubles are caused by disordered kidneys and that the modern method of curing them is to cure the kidneys with Dodd's Kidney Pills. This does away with those terrible operations that in past years have been all too common.

The case of William Thomas, bricklayer, 158 Mill street, this city, is one of the recent proofs of the efficiency of the treatment. Mr. Thomas says:—

"I had been troubled with Gravel and Bladder Disease for seven years. I had to go to the hospital and have water taken from me. I tried medicines of different kinds but they failed to remove the trouble.

"Hearing of cures by them prompted me to try Dodd's Kidney Pills, and after taking them for a time I passed a stone the size of a large bean. Four boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills made a complete cure in my case."

G. T. P. BILL PASSED

Division List Showed Government Majority of Forty-Six.

WARM DEBATE OVER A WORD

Original Petition Was Marked "Confidential," and Sir Wilfrid Laurier Takes Strong Ground Against Using Private Letters Without Writers' Permission—The House Proceedings on Friday Ended at 6.

Ottawa, May 28.—It was broad daylight yesterday morning when the Government's National Transcontinental Railway bill received its final stage in the Commons, and was sent up to the Senate.

Bitterness in Closing Hour.

The closing hours of the debate were marked by a bitterness which had not hitherto manifested itself during the progress of the bill through the House. The members of the Opposition were evidently chagrined at the publication of the original demand of the Grand Trunk Railway for a large subsidy and other privileges for a line to North Bay which the Finance Minister had submitted during the afternoon, and charged the Premier with having suppressed information to which they were entitled.

A Dignified Reply.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in a dignified reply, pointed out that the petition was marked "confidential," and that as the Government had not entertained the proposition or acted upon it he was not at liberty to publish it without the consent of the author. He asserted with emphasis that so long as he was Premier if anyone, be he rich or poor, addressed a confidental communication to him he would respect its secrecy, whatever code of ethics others might adopt with reference to such communications.

The explanation was not accepted by the Opposition, who, continued their denunciation of the Government until the debate collapsed from sheer exhaustion of the indignation, and the bill was passed without further division.

The Division List.

The division on Mr. Borden's amendment was defeated by 59 yeas to 105 nays.

Yeas—Messrs Alcorn, Armstrong, Avery, Barker, Bell, Bennett, Birkett, Blain, Borden (Halifax), Brock, Broder, Bruce, Carscallen, Champagne, Clancy, Clare, Clarke, Cochrane, Culbert, Daniel, Donnelly, Earle, Ganong, Gilmour, Hackett, Halliday, Henderson, Hughes (Victoria), Ingram, Johnston (Cardwell), Kaulbach, Kemp, Kidd, Lancaster, Lavell, Lennox, Leonard, MacLaren (Perth), McGowan, Monk, Morin, Northrup, Osler, Pope, Porter, Pringle, Puttee, Richardson, Robinson (Elgin), Rosamond, Sherritt, Smith (Wentworth), Sproule, Taylor, Thomson (Grey), Tolton, Vrooman, Wilmot, Wilson. Total yeas, 59.

Nays—Angers Archambault, Basinet, Beland, Blanchet, Borden (Sir Frederick), Bourassa, Bourbonnais, Brodeur, Brown, Bruneau, Bureau, Calvert, Campbell, Carbonneau, Champagne, Christie, Copp, Costigan, Cowan, Delisle, Demers (Levis), Demers (St. John), Desjardins, Douglas, Fielding, Fisher, Fitzpatrick, Fortier, Gallery, Galliher, Gauvreau, Geoffrion, German, Gervais, Gibson, Girard, Gould, Guthrie, Harwood, Hashard, Heyd, Holmes, Hughes (King's, P.E.I.), Hyman, Johnston (Cape Breton), Johnston (Lambton), Lang, Laporte, Laurier (Sir Wilfrid), Laurier (L'Assomption), Lavergne (Drummond and Artha), Lavergne (Montmagny), Law, Lewis, Loy Leblanc, Lemieux, Mackie, Mackinnon, MacLaren (Huntingdon), MacPherson, McCarthy, McCool, McEwen, McGuigan, McLennan, Maloulin, Marcel (Bagot), Marcel (Bonaventure), Mayrand, Meigs, Mignault, Monet, Morrison, Mulock (Sir William), Murray, Oliver, Parmelee, Paterson, Power, Prefontaine, Riley, Rivet, Ross (Ontario), Ross (Rimouski), Ross (Victoria, N.S.), Ross (Yukon), Roussiseau, Russell, Schell, Scott, Sifton, Sinclair, Smith (Vancouver), Stephens, Stewart, Sutherland (Essex), Thompson (Haldimand and Monck), Tobin, Tolmie, Tucker, Turcot, Turgeon, Wright. Total nays, 105.

The question for the third reading was finally put at 5.30 a.m., and the bill was declared passed upon the same division reversed.

SESSION SHORT ON FRIDAY.

Brief Debate on Hon. Sydney Fisher's Bill Respecting Sale of Seeds.

The rules of the House were suspended to permit of the receiving of a petition to incorporate the Farmers' Bank of Canada.

The following bill were introduced:

An act respecting the Montreal Terminal Railway, Mr. Marcil

An act respecting the Central Life Insurance Co., Mr. Morrison.

An act respecting the Ottawa Fire Insurance Co., Mr. Rosamond.

An act respecting the Kingston and Dominion Central Railway Co., Mr. Hardy.

Mr. Guthrie's bill to amend the criminal code, 1892, was dropped.

Sir Richard Cartwright introduced a bill to amend the General Inspection Act. Its object is to reduce semi-annually the fees charged under the existing law.

Restricting Sale.

Hon. Sydney Fisher moved a resolution restricting the sale of seeds of cereals, grasses, clovers and foreign plants, sold for the purpose of seeding containing the seeds of certain weeds, establishing a standard of timothy, red clover and alsike seeds marked No. 1 or otherwise designated as being of first quality, providing for the examination of such weeds and providing penalties for contravention of the act.

A bill along these lines was introduced at the last session of Parliament, but it was not pressed.

Mr. Fisher explained that under the new bill no one would be allowed to sell seed marked the highest quality unless it was up to a certain standard. He said he had many letters from farmers endorsing the bill. The bill would be put through with the present session of Parliament, but it would not come into operation before July 1, 1905.

The Budget Speech.

Mr. Fielding stated that the budget speech would probably be delivered next Thursday, if not early in the following week. He promised to make a definite announcement on Monday or Tuesday.

The House then went into committee of supply, taking up the estimate of the Department of Agriculture. An appropriation of $8,000 for renewing and improving the condition of the exhibit of the Imperial Institute, London, caused a brief discussion.

The item was passed.

The House adjourned at 6 o'clock.

Decision Reserved.

Toronto, May 28.—Decision was yesterday reserved in the appeal of the Grays in the election irregularities.

THE TRIUMPHS OF PE-RU-NA INCREASE.

Thousands of Chronic Ailments of Women Cured Every Month—Disguised Internal Catarrh the Enemy of Women—Pe-ru-na the Only Internal Systemic Catarrh Remedy Yet Devised—Prominent Cases in Illustration.

Nervous Depression.

Summer months are peculiarly the months of nervous diseases, especially nervous prostration and other depressed states of the nervous system. People who are not at all inclined to be nervous or suffer from weak nerves find this time especially trying. Sultry heat and electrical disturbances of the atmosphere are probably the cause of this.

Invalids need to be particularly careful to fortify the nervous system by the use of Peruna.

Miss Helen Bolof, Kaukauna, Wis., writes:—"Several times during the past two years or more my system has been greatly in need of a tonic, and at those times Peruna has been of great help in building up the system, restoring my appetite and assuring restful sleep. I know a great number of women who are using it for the troubles peculiar to the sex, and with the best results."—Helen Bolof.

Miss Louise Bertel, 194 Second street, Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:—"My health was excellent until about six months ago, when I seemed to have a collapse from overdoing socially, and the doctor ordered an entire change of scene and climate. As this was an absolute impossibility at the time, I had to try and regain my health in another way and was induced by a friend, who gave Peruna such a good recommend, to try Peruna. I cannot tell you the condition of my nerves when I began to use it. The least noise irritated me, and I felt that life was not worth living, but Peruna soon changed me into a well woman, and now I do not know I have nerves."—Louise Bertel.

Miss Jennie Finley, 70 Madison Street, Memphis, Tenn., a popular young society lady of that place, writes:—"Three years ago I had very poor health, and while I was only sick-abed occasionally, I was unable to enjoy life, and lacked vitality and strength. I was an easy subject to cold and malaria. Four bottles of Peruna changed my entire physical condition. My head stopped aching, my strength returned, and the poisons was driven out of my blood till I felt like a new and well woman once more. It is a truly great medicine and well worthy the good things its friends say about it, and it will always have my indorsement."—Jennie Finley.

Miss Lucy M. Riley, 33 Davenport Street, Cleveland, Ohio, writes:—"I wish to add my indorsement to thousands of other women who have been cured through the use of Peruna. I suffered for five years with severe backache, and when weary or worried in the least I had prolonged headache. This fall I caught a bad cold and was advised to take Peruna for it. Imagine my astonishment and pleasure to find that after taking two bottles not only was my cough gone, but I had no more backache or headache. I am now in perfect health, enjoy life and have neither ache or pain, thanks to Peruna."—Lucy M. Riley.

A newspaper contributor was lately admitted into the extensive suite of offices which constitute the headquarters of Dr. Hartman, who treats catarrh patients by the thousand. Among the busy swarm of assistant doctors, clerks, stenographers and bookkeepers, Dr. Hartman stopped long enough to say a few words.

"A large number of female patients visit me every year, but the number who are entered on my books as regular patients and are treated by correspondence is very much larger. Hundreds of letters are received and answered free every day. A yet greater multitude take my catarrh remedy, Peruna, and are cured, of whom I never hear. Some of this latter class write me years after their cure.

"I never allow a name published except by the written consent of the patient. We make no charge at any time. The medicine only is obtained by each patient at her own drug store. Those desiring to become regular patients have only to send address, duration of disease and treatment previously received, and directions for the first month's treatment will be sent at once."

Over half the women have catarrh in some form or another. And yet, probably not a tenth of the women know that their disease is catarrh. To distinguish catarrh of various organs it has been named very differently.

One woman has dyspepsia, another bronchitis, another Bright's disease, another liver complaint, another consumption, another female complaint. These women would be very much surprised to hear that they are all suffering with chronic catarrh. But it is so, nevertheless.

Each one of these troubles and a great many more are simply catarrh—that is, chronic inflammation of the mucous lining, of which organ is affected. Any internal remedy that will cure catarrh in one location will cure it in any other location. This is why Peruna has become so justly famous in the cure of female diseases. It cures catarrh wherever located. Its cures remain. Peruna does not palliate—it cures.

Wasn't to Be Fooled by a Sign.

An old fellow from one of Portland's most remote suburbs, while passing a certain hardware store in that city the other day, noticed a sign which read, "Cast Iron Sinks." The old fellow chuckled softly to himself; then, gradually, as the absurdity of it dawned upon him more forcibly, he broke into a loud guffaw. A passerby, attracted by the apparently unseemly mirth of the old man, made bold to ask what amused him so. "Why, gol durn it," he sputtered between spasms, "ef some folkses air not gettin' ter be reg'lar durn fules. The idee uv hangin' up er sign tellin' people that 'cast iron sinks.'"

The FINISHING touches

Before a young man feels he is properly attired it is necessary he should have a becoming Hat, whether it be a felt or a straw.

We never try to sell a young man a Hat that does not become him and suit him in every way. We have no old stock, so do not try to shove an old shaps on him at a special price.

We guarantee all our Hats to be the very latest styles, and the prices consistent with the quality of the goods.

A good Hat puts the finishing touches on a young man. We carry those Hats and would like to sell you one.

Get Your Sunday Reading.

An unusual choice of Sunday reading for the last Sunday in May, at the Peterborough Bookstore. Most of the June illustrated monthlies are to hand as well as new literature on various subjects. Come in to-night, early. You may need a hammock or a fan, or a few of the souvenir post cards, with ten different views of Peterborough. A. H. Stratton & Co.

Camera Club.

A Camera Club is being organized at the Y.M.C.A. and all members who wish to join should send in their names at once. The organization meeting will be held next week. The Y.M.C.A. possesses a splendid dark room, with up-to-date equipment, on the third floor, and all that is required is a good live club to occupy it.

A New Equipment.

The tonsorial parlours of Mr. J. Lewis, Hunter street, have undergone a transformation lately. A new system of compressed air has been installed, and massages by the new treatment may be enjoyed. The shop has also been equipped with other modern conveniences, and it is now one of the best fitted up shops in Ontario. 1d

Seven Sutherland Sisters Hair Growers

It will be gratifying to many to know that arrangements have been made for another series of interesting demonstrations of the Seven Sutherland Sisters Hair Grower in Peterborough. These demonstrations will again be conducted at the patent medicine store of Mr. W. B. Warne, 345 George street, commencing on Monday, May 30th. The sisters will be in daily attendance and may be consulted by all who desire special treatment for the hair or scalp. Gentlemen as well as ladies are invited to call. dw

NEW INDUSTRY IN OPERATION

Taylor and Company's Cement Works an Addition to Town's Industries

A Description of the Works—Product Turned out by the New Concern.

The new cement pipe works, of Taylor & Company, are now in operation, and are turning out a good quality of product. This is a new industry, and from present indications its success is assured. The works are situated on Victoria avenue, in the northern part of the town, near Hilliard's siding, and form the southern end of the Hilliard property, which was all recently purchased by the council, excepting this southern portion.

Two buildings are already erected on the grounds, in close proximity to the stone, gravel and sand pits, which form so important a portion of the material used. This material is conveyed into the main building by an elevator, which carries it to a large screen on the second floor, where it is separated into three different grades, which drop down into stalls on the ground floor, ready for the mixers. The machinery is driven by a twenty horse power electric motor, and produces the raw material required in a satisfactory manner. The mixing of the cement etc., is carefully done by hand, and put into moulds of various patterns for the different kinds of sewer and culvert pipes, building blocks, window sills, caps, etc. The "Star" cement is used altogether for this work, having been found to give the strongest, most lasting and satisfactory bond. After the moulds are taken off, the pipes, etc., are stacked up in the fitting yard to dry, ready for use.

Mr. W. Taylor, the practical man in connection with the works, formerly carried on a large brick yard industry of a similar character in Beaverton, as well as a sawmill, and other works. He has associated with him Mr. Warren Hall, who assists in taking charge of the workmen, and who is quite enthusiastic regarding the success of the new industry.

The works have just got well started, and the piling ground is being stocked with the various articles, so that builders, contractors, farmers and others who would like to see what is being accomplished in this line have now an opportunity of inspecting the same.

DIVISION COURT CASES YESTERDAY

Evidence Heard in Several Cases—Interesting Real Estate Case.

A number of cases came up before Judge Weller at the Division Court yesterday.

In the case of Mrs. Alma Fawcett vs. John Bateman for the sum of $10 claimed as wages, judgment was given in favour of the plaintiff, who was awarded $9. The counsel for the plaintiff was Mr. F. D. Kerr, and for the defence Mr. O. Lapointe.

In the case of the Best Stove Company vs. M. J. Cummings, for the sum of $9.77, judgment was awarded in favour of the plaintiff, the defendant failing to appear in court.

In the case of Margaret J. Doughty vs. John Middleton, for the sum of $20, judgment was given in favour of the defendant with costs.

In the case of J. T. O'Connell vs. George Minorgan for the sum of $87.50, the Judge reserved judgment. In this case the defendant had engaged O'Connell and Company to sell two properties on Stewart street, Peterborough, at $2000 and $1500, respectively. The defendants afterwards sold the property through another agent, without notifying O'Connell & Co., who claimed a commission of two and a half per cent. The defendant claimed that the property was to be sold by O'Connell & Co. inside of three weeks but there was nothing in the evidence to prove this. O'Connell & Co. made a sale of the properties, and on the same day received a letter from defendant informing him not to sell, the defendant stating that he had received a letter from his son advising him not to dispose of the properties. But it seems that previous to this the defendant had made a sale through another agent and the defendant claimed that this sale was made after the expiration of the three weeks which, according to his evidence, was agreed upon as the limit in which a sale was to made by O'Connell & Co. The Judge thought that if a property were put in the hands of a real estate broker for sale it could not be withdrawn legally so as to deprive the agent of his commission, when the time was not limited. He reserved judgment. W. H. Moore for plaintiff, and W. F. Johnston for defendant.

The cases adjourned were those of the Peterborough Sugar Co. vs. Peter Dawson for the sum of $10; E. Dawson vs. the Peterborough Sugar Co., for $36; J. Buckham vs. Peterborough Sugar Co., for $48.20; P. Dina vs. G. Olivister for $74.51; J. P. Porter vs Peterborough Sugar Co. for $13.32; Peterborough Harware Co. vs. Mrs. W. Spilsbury for $6.92; Dr. W. E. Brown vs. A. Nesbitt for $5.

In the case of A. M. Laidlaw vs. W. G. Perks for $26.50 judgment was given against the defendant.

In the case of Archie Fecteau vs. A. McDonald for the sum of $9, the action was disulssed with consent.

In the case of W. C. Harnett vs. Tate Optical Co. for the sum of $75, judgment was given in favour of the plaintiff for the $75 and $8 costs. F. D. Kerr for plaintiff and W. F. Johnston for defendants.

INCREASE IN FIRE INSURANCE RATES

Is Warranted by the Conditions of the Business

An Article on this Subject from the Finance Chronicle—Some of the Reasons Advanced.

The increased rates in fire insurance is something which a great many property owners in Peterborough are pretty deeply interested in at the present time, and an article on this subject from the Finance Chronicle, one of the most thoughtfully edited financial journals on the continent, will be read with profit by all interested in this subject. It is as follows:—

The advance in rates of fire insurance which is being made in consequence of the heavy losses by the Toronto conflagration having demonstrated the necessity for more adequate provision being made for such disasters, has brought out some criticisms of insurance companies, and suggestions to which we propose to pay attention in a business spirit.

Both property owners and insurance companies have cause for showing irritation under the provoking circumstances which have recently occurred, but the interests of neither can be served by recriminations.

It is affirmed that, owing to increased rates, merchants and others will carry their own insurance, and further, that new companies will be established who will insure properties at less rates than those which have been established since the Toronto conflagration. As to merchants and manufacturers carrying their own insurance, it is too imprudent a course to be adopted by any but very wealthy firms, who are absolutely independent of credit. No banker would extend accommodation by discounts or loans to customers whose premises and stocks were unprotected by insurance, nor would any lender of money on mortgage accept real estate as a security unless the buildings were insured in his interest. Manufacturers here, and in foreign countries would decline to supply goods to merchants who carried their own insurance, and our wholesale merchants would refuse credit to any retailer who, by taking this course, exposed himself to ruin, and his creditors to serious loss. Self insurance, or no insurance is too reckless a practice to find favour with business men.

As to new companies being established to sell insurance at "cut rates," it may be said that the field is quite open for new enterprises in this as in other forms of business. There have been a large number of companies founded here and in the States, whose object was to secure risks by low rates. These companies, as a rule, have had a short career; they kept in operation while conditions were favourable, but were swept away by a conflagration, or by a succession of adverse years. Companies of this class run the grave risk of being ruined by a local disaster, as their business is restricted to a narrow area, so that they cannot be compensated for a ruinous loss in one district by the more favourable business in other districts. Long and wide experience has proved "up to the hilt," that a fire insurance company to be permanent, sound, thoroughly reliable, must distribute its risks over areas in which the conditions vary, so that, year by year, an average loss ratio may be experienced, and reserves built up sufficient to put the company in a position to bear the strain of any local conflagration. The benefit of such an average loss ratio, and the protection of strong reserves are enjoyed by every policyholder. He may pay more for absolute protection than for protection bought cheaply, that will fail when it is subjected to an extra strain, but common prudence, ordinary business principles teach that it is the worst kind of economy to buy an article solely because of its low price, without considering whether it will prove equal to what it is required for.

The rates for fire insurance are being raised for the purpose of protecting policyholders, by putting fire companies on such a financial basis as will render them strong enough under any conditions likely to arise, to meet all their engagements.

It is interesting to note that the railway companies are raising their freight rates in consequence of heavy losses caused by the snow blockades last winter. Some compensation for these losses they aim at securing by more income from freight charges. They also are acting on the business principle that adverse contingencies must be provided for.

SUCCESSFUL SOCIAL OF CHARLOTTE STREET LEAGUE

Very Enjoyable Programme was Rendered Last Evening.

There have been many successful social evenings in connection with the Epworth League of the Charlotte street Church, but perhaps none more so than the entertainment given last evening. There was an unusually large attendance and everyone seemed to heartily enjoy the programme. The securing of autographs proved an excellent means of promoting a spirit of sociability and the competition for the prize, a beautiful volume of Scott's poems, was very keen. The prize was won by Miss Olive Kidd.

A programme of much interest was presented during the evening. The orchestra opened proceedings with a selection, after which Miss Free recited, in a most enjoyable style, and she was heartily encored. Mr. Wm. Bennett played two piano solos in an effective manner, following which Miss Bertha Parnell sang "Good-bye Sweet Day," displaying a voice of rich quality and pleasing expression. Miss O'Neill's violin solo was thoroughly appreciated. Miss Clara Bellegham sang "Shoogy Shoo" in her usual excellent manner after which Mr. Lattimer recited (for the benefit of the members of the Guild baseball team,) "Casey at the Bat," and was enthusiastically encored. A musical selection by Messrs. Richards, Tovey, Crandell and Peters was very popularly received, and the quartette responded to an encore. Miss Thomas gave a humourous reading which made everyone smile, following which Mr. R. N. Jolliffe sang "Island of Dreams." A selection by the orchestra closed an enjoyable programme. The chairman for the evening was Mr. W. Galbraith, President of the Young Men's Guild.

After the programme refreshments were served and a social time was spent.

ON THE ROCKS

WHAT would you think of a captain who attempted to navigate his vessel with a broken rudder? He would soon be on the rocks, would he not? Well, every man and woman who is suffering from kidney trouble without taking the proper means of curing this dangerous malady is attempting to ride safely over the rocks and shoals of everyday life with a broken rudder. It is impossible to keep off the rocks of rheumatism, dropsy, backache, sleeplessness, sick headache, bad breath, lack of ambition, lack of courage, dyspepsia, blood poisoning, weak heart, failing memory, irritable temper, sallow complexion, and a hundred and one other troublesome and dangerous ailments if the kidneys are allowed to remain out of order.

Bu-Ju, The Kidney Pill, is absolutely guaranteed to cure disordered kidneys, and thus eradicate all the troubles that arise from them. There is no use in treating the symptoms. The root of the evil, your kidney trouble, must be cured, and Bu-Ju is guaranteed to cure it.

Toronto, Sept. 8, 1903.

Claflin Chemical Co., Windsor, Ont.

Gentlemen:—I have bought and taken three boxes of your Bu-Ju Pills and I found them as represented. I can recommend them to any person who has kidney trouble. I received great relief as soon as I commenced taking them.

Yours truly.

LONDON'S OLD BRIDGE

STORIES WHICH ARE TOLD ABOUT THE WELL-KNOWN STRUCTURE.

Its Origin Lost in the Misty Past—Romans Likely Had One—The Second Stone Bridge—The Norwegian King Olaf's Feat—No Tradition of a London Ferry—Later Bridges.

The approaching opening of the new footways across London Bridge turns one's mind to that famous spot, and one wonders whether ever before a London bridge has been widened. I believe that this never has happened before, and that it has waited for the engineers of the twentieth century to hang footpaths on the outside edges of the bridge.

But it is impossible to say; for who, indeed, can tell with certainty how many bridges there have been over old Father Thames at this point, let alone what may have happened in the cases of the early ones. Some think that there was no London bridge at all until about 1,000 years ago. For my part, I like better, where it is quite impossible to get at the actual facts, to try to believe that all the old traditions and legends of London are true.

Trojan's Story.

To me, old Brutus, whom the goddess promised that he should "raise a second Troy" here and "found an Empire which time should ne'er destroy nor bounds confine," is as real as he is delightful; and when, after his captain, Corineus, had wrestled with and hurled the Albion giant Gogmagog into the sea, Brutus hit upon the site of London city for his new Troy, I feel quite sure that so masterful a gentleman must also have built a bridge across the Thames. Of course, in reality, I doubt the old boy's existence just as much as that of Diana, the prophetic goddess, herself. But it pleases me to imagine these old folk as genuine, and, after all—well, there is at least the Empire as proof of the prophecy!

In Roman Times.

Then the Gallic and Belgic tribes that came over long centuries before Caesar were cultured enough to know about bridges; and if Caesar preferred marching all the way up to Wallingford to cross the river, instead of using London bridge, is it not just as clear that he knew the bridge was not wide enough for him as it is that there was no bridge? At least we may be certain that the Romans built a London bridge. Dion Cassius gives one the belief that the Emperor did build a bridge. London at that time was so large a city that Queen Ecadicea in her rising could kill several thousand Romans there. It is hardly likely that so many highly civilized people would get along without a bridge, and yet that the wild Saxons who displaced them could not.

King Olaf's Feat.

Some years ago the head of a huge bronze statue of a Roman Emperor was found in the mud near the bridge. It is now in the British Museum. The body has not yet been discovered. How it came to be in the Thames none can tell. But I imagine that a band of old heathen Saxons rushed into the deserted streets of London, and, mistaking that statue for the god of the Britons, tore it down, and, carrying it along to the bridge, flung it into the river as a base opponent of God Woden.

I like, too, to believe in that fine old Norwegian King Olaf, who, finding the bridge in his way, tied his ships to it, set sail, and tore the structure down. That plan strikes me as much more kinglike than the method of the Danish monarch who dug a trench all round by Southwark, so that he could sail by; I always doubt that story; it is not picturesque enough, and, moreover, I believe Londoners would have objected to having their streets "up" in that way.

Never a Ferry.

It is odd, though, if London bridge is not of extremely ancient date, that there is no tradition of London ferry. "Old Moll's" father, John Audery, was, I fancy, only a ferryman in an interval between the destruction of one bridge and the building of another. What a pity it would be not to believe in Old John the ferryman and his beautiful daughter, Mary! He was very rich. But he was so mean that one day, to save the cost of a day's food, he pretended to be dead. But when he heard his servants carousing in joy at his death he returned to life, and one of the servants, thinking he was the devil, hit him on the head with a broken oar so heavily that he was killed. Mary's lover, hearing that the obnoxious parent no longer lived, galloped so furiously to his fair mistress that his horse fell and he broke his neck. So Mary gave all the old man's money to found a convent, St. Mary Overies, Eankside, and the priests who subsequently had the house were the first to build a bridge.

That bridge, we may fancy, was the one which replaced that torn down by Olaf. It was itself destroyed by a flood storm in 1090. The next bridge was also of wood. It was burned down in 1135.

Later Bridges.

Then came London's first stone bridge, which was erected at the cost of a special tax on wool. It was started in 1176, finished in 1208, and burned down in 1212, together with some 3,000 people who were on it watching the sight.

The second stone bridge was built on the wooden piles of the first at the cost of taxes on alien importers and alms begged throughout England! This was the famous London Bridge. It was over this one that Simon de Montfort rode, over this one that were set the heads of the great Scotsmen, Wallace and Simon Fraser, and, later, many others, both political and religious reformers. It was this one that was the centre of many a battle and of many a festivity. In 1632 a servant upset a warmpan in one of the houses on the city side; forty-two houses were burnt down as the result. In the great fire of London it suffered severely again. A hundred years later the houses on it were removed, and it survived with many repairs until 1825, when the present bridge was begun.—E. T. T., in London News.

ENGLISH PRACTICAL EDUCATION.

Girls Will Be Taught How to Care for Children.

The proposal made at the conference held by the London Women's Industrial Council to establish schools for training girls in the care of children will probably be carried out on a wider scale than was anticipated by the promoters. The scheme has met with exceptional favor among British educationists, and when the London County Council elections are over and the new educational authority is at work, a resolution on the subject is to be brought forward. The idea of the council was that such training should be for girls of the working classes, but the general feeling of the meeting was that some provision ought to be made for those of the upper and middle classes. The opinion among school authorities is strongly favorable to making it compulsory for all girls, and it is on these lines that the resolution will be framed.

A member of the council, of which, it may be remarked, Mrs. Mandell Creighton is president, was interviewed with regard to the scheme.

"I am sure you will not require any arguments in support of these schools," she said. "It has been recognized for a very long while that the modern girl is wofully deficient in her knowledge of home duties, particularly affecting the care of children. Cookery classes, lessons in household management and sewing are excellent things in their way, but it is time practical education went further. Supposing we can secure that at the day technical schools all girls shall receive twelve months' training in the care and upbringing of children, such education will be carried out on entirely practical lines. The scholars would be provided with Indian-rubber babies of life-size, wicker cradles and complete outfits of clothes appropriate to the two stages of what I will call baby's dress era, that is, the long-clothes and frock stage. This will constitute the scholar's equipment, and she will be taught how to nurse, feed and clothe the 'child,' how to doctor its ailments; in fact, she will just play at being mother during her lesson."

"Has such a system ever been tried before?" asked our correspondent.

"Not here. In many Swiss schools it forms a compulsory subject for examination, and the results have been wonderfully successful. I believe at many other places abroad the subject is taught, but in England it is quite an innovation. The great majority of girls now go out to work in factories or shops as soon as they leave school. They are inclined to sneer at 'housework,' and in thousands of instances are married without the faintest knowledge of the duties of wife and motherhood. We hope to remedy all that, and we shall, for our proposal has been splendidly received."—St. James' Gazette.

Scottish Stories.

A carpenter in a Scotch village, to oblige the local undertaker, who was ill, went to screw down a coffin lid. The sick man's wife gave him full and particular instructions respecting the task. "Weel," she asked when he returned, "hoo did ye get on?" "Fine," was the reply. "But there was hauf a sovereign in the corp's hand. What was that for?" "Oh," said the lady, "that's a custom some folks hae. He's supposed to gie that to the ferryman wha rows him o'er the river o' death." "Do yet tell me that? It's a queer warld. But I'm sayin', misses," "Yes," "I'm feared yon chap will hae to swim."

Sir Archibald Geikie, the eminent geologist, tells of a doctor who was attending a Scotch laird of the old school, and to save himself useless journeys had instructed the butler in the art of taking the master's temperature. "Well, John," said he one morning, "I hope the laird's temperature is not high." John looked thoughtful for a minute. "Weel, doctor," was the reply, "I canna say for certain, for, ye see, he de'd at twal' last nicht."

Another of Sir Archibald Geikie's stories tells of a funeral party at a railway station, and is typically Scotch, as showing the proverbial caution of those canny folk. A gentleman asked one who seemed to be a mourner, if he were with the funeral. "Man," said the person addressed, "I'm no just sure that it is a funeral, for the corp has missed the train connection."

World's Greatest Jewish Minister.

The Very Rev. Hermann Adler, D. D., Chief Rabbi of the United Hebrew Congregation of the British Empire, who is the greatest Jew minister in the world, began life sixty-five years ago. His father was Chief Rabbi before him. At University College he studied with such mixed friends as the late Lord Herschel and Louis Kossuth; but he also learned things at Prague and at Leipsic. It is just 40 years since he became minister of the Bayswater Synagogue; but he had preached his first sermon at the consecration of the Swansea Synagogue five years before that. Despite his religion, he was a friend and admirer of Dr. Manning, to whom he presented a testimonial on his silver jubilee, earned by the Cardinal's services to the persecuted Jews of Russia. He has written much on theology and history since his Jewish reply to Bishop Colenso, and is a contributor to the great Jewish Encyclopaedia, which is now appearing.

MENNONITES IN CANADA.

A Most Desirable Class of Agriculturists—Something of Their History Which Led to Their Migration to Canada.

In the persons of the Mennonites all agree that the West is getting a fine class of farmers. "Next to the Canadian and Western States men, the Mennonites are the most desirable class of agriculturists any country could get," was the observation of Mr. Genick, the interpreter at Winnipeg, to G. C. Porter, the traveling correspondent of The Toronto World. It is a curious illustration, too, of the forces that were forming two centuries ago, and are to-day contributing to the movement of these people. In fact, the connection between the causes that inspired the movement of these various continentals to Canada can be clearly traced. Peter the Great had the genius to discern the superiority of the German as a farmer as compared with his millions of indifferent peasant agriculturists. A century and a half ago he offered religious liberty, exemption from military duty and enormous land holdings to any German farmers, who would come to his Empire. The Mennonites, a peace-loving, Protestant sect, whose cardinal principle was aversion to bearing arms against their fellow men, accepted this offer. Thousands passed across the Province of Galicia and into the Russian domain. These exemptions were to continue a hundred years. During that period these Germans preserved all their national characteristics, passing frequently through the Galician province of Austria-Hungary in communication with their native country. Many settled in Galicia.

For some years after the 100-year limit expired the Mennonites were unmolested. All their ancient privileges were respected and their community was the most highly cultivated section of the Czar's Empire. Then came the demand that the pastoral people render military service to the monarch. The migration followed. As early as 1872 some of the sect came into Western Canada. The first settled at Gretna, on the Manitoba southern border. To-day it is one of the most flourishing sections in the world. The Frisen family, the descendants of Carliff Frisen, is the most prominent branch of the sect, and they have spread over several counties. Steadily the immigration has continued.

Spread Fame of Canada.

The Mennonites sent back good reports of Canada. Much of the literature passed into the hands of the Mennonites who had settled in Galicia. It spread also among the Galicians, where soil is scarce and the seven million population live in a space scarcely as big as York County. With farming conditions hard, immigrants were not difficult to secure. This accounts for the thousands of that class. So, too, did the fame of Canada spread south from these same Russian Mennonites into the rugged country along the foothills of the Caucasus between the Caspian and Black Seas until the Armenians were familiar with the generous returns Western Canada offers to him who would put his hand to the plow.

The course of the movement naturally passed beyond the Caucasus until the Nestorians, who were groaning under the burdens of despotic Persia, sent scouts into the far-famed western Empire, where one man was said to be as good as another as long as he behaved himself. This, then, is the remarkable story of the present invasion of the Dominion from a dozen different sources, the blending of a civilization of the voluptuous east with the red blood of the virile west.

Are Desirable Settlers.

Mr. Genick, the interpreter who does so much for these newcomers, is himself an example of this movement. He heard of Canada in exactly that way in Galicia eight years ago. He stopped his work in front of a long line of Asiatics, who were waiting to be registered and assigned to quarters, to explain to me, in his entertaining way the story of the vast migration. He said he had been trained to speak half a dozen different languages and gradually acquired his present knowledge. There were eight variations of the Slavonic which he acquired, but the natives speaking one could not understand those of other provinces. He had seldom met emigrants from any part of the earth he could not understand partially.

In detail he explained that Galicians are farmers, all of them, but in a small way. The Mennonites, however, because of the liberality of Peter the Great, had conducted farms on a scale that made them the most desirable people Canada could reach With a single exception, however, he believed the newcomers, even the most remote Persians, were actuated by the best motives in coming to Canada, and were honest, economical and industrious.

A feature that is worth further consideration in indicating the possibilities of the problem is that a large number of these people are from the same latitude as Canada.

Young and Vigorous.

About two-thirds of the continentals bring families with them, and it is noted that only the young and vigorous are in the parties. There are few men over fifty and less women of that age. The English settlers from the United Kingdom are given quarters to themselves. The women and children are quartered in an excellent hall adjacent to the C. P. R. depot and the men are housed half a mile distant in immigration hall. The continentals are kept separate and the sexes wholly.

It costs the average continental $40 to get to Winnipeg in the way of transportation. The Galicians come out through the Baltic, as do many Russians, while the Nestorians seek the ocean through the Mediterranean. Many of the latter class consume a month to six weeks in the journey, as much of it is made by the slow methods of the orient westwards through Persia.

Strenuous Music.

"Somebody has invented an instrument which enables one to feel music."

"I suppose it would be necessary to be taken home in an ambulance after feeling one or two of Wagner's pieces, wouldn't it?"

It is the cause and not the death that makes the martyr.—Napoleon.

An Encouraging Message

I have a message of hope and good cheer, of encouragement and inspiration to every suffering woman. I have endured the torture due to female troubles and the consequent despondency and mental agony almost to the point of despair, and I have been restored from this condition to a state of vigorous health, and to the happy, exhilerating frame of mind which accompanies physical well-being. This change has been brought about wholly by the use of ORANGE LILY.

In addition, I have had the privilege and pleasure of inducing multitudes of other suffering women to give ORANGE LILY a trial, and have received thousands of enthusiastic acknowledgements of the blessings it has brought to them. The following is a sample:

Truro, N. S., April 5, 1904.

Dear Mrs. Currah,—Your very kind letter was received yesterday. In reply to your question about my health, I am thankful to say that I am very well. As I have never given you a statement of my case you may be interested in it.

For several years I have suffered untold agony. This suffering was continuous, but I would have violent attacks every few weeks, each attack lasting several days. The first Sunday in November, I felt the pain increasing and so did not go to prayers. The rest of the family did go and soon after the forcing down pains seized me and I had to remain on the floor until their return. I was in great pain all night, and was very sick for a whole week.

Then Mrs. L. came to see me and told me of your wonderful medicine. I got my husband to send for it right away, as I was too sick to write myself. (My doctor could do nothing for me.) I have used 5 boxes of ORANGE LILY, have had three months of good rest, and am now well, never better in my life. I have not had the old pains since. I often ask my husband if it is myself that is going around and doing my own work. I can scarcely believe it. It brings tears of joy to my eyes. I could shout it to all the world. I cannot speak enough in its praise.

Your friend, MRS. E. H. F.

Receiving as I do, dozens of such reports each day, I felt impelled to make known to my suffering sisters the merits of ORANGE LILY. It differs from the other so-called remedies in that it is not taken internally. It is a strictly local treatment, and is applied directly to the affected organs. Its curative elements are absorbed into the congested tissues, expelling the stagnant foreign matter which has been irritating the membrane and oppressing the nerves, and a growing feeling of physical and mental relief is noticeable almost from the start. It is a positive, scientific remedy, and even if you use no more than the Free trial Treatment you will be very materially benefitted.

FREE TRIAL OFFER

I want every reader of this who suffers in any way from painful monthly periods, irregularities, leucorrhoea, inflammation or congestion of the womb, pains in the back, etc., to send me their addresses, and I will forward at once, without charge, 10 days' treatment. If your case is not far advanced it may entirely cure you, and in any event it will do you much good. I am so earnest in making this statement, and so positive that it is true, that I trust every sufferer who reads this notice will take advantage of my offer and get cured at home, without a doctor's bill.

MRS. P. O. CURRAH, WINDSOR ONT

ORANGE LILY is recommended and sold in Peterborough by Mr. W. B. Warne, Druggist, 345 George Street.

CREATED A SENSATION IN GALT

The Whole Country Ringing with Praises of

PSYCHINE

(PRONOUNCED SI-KEEN)

Mr Weaver, Cured two years ago, continues to spread the good news of his recovery from Grinder's

CONSUMPTION

Publicly corroborates the history of his restoration to health, as published recently by the daily press of Canada.

Doctors and specialists despaired of a cure and gave Mr. Weaver but three months to live.

MR. L. WEAVER, GALT.

Who desires to publicly confirm the history of his remarkable recovery, as published quite recently by the daily press of Canada. Mr. Weaver was as bad a case of Consumption as might well be imagined. He was employed for five years in the grinding room of James Warnock & Co's, better known as "The Axe Factory," in Galt. Here he contracted consumption from the steel-laden dust. He persisted with local physicians' treatment for over a year, also consulted a number of lung specialists. They all did their utmost to cure, but declared Mr. Weaver's an incurable case of grinder's consumption giving him but three months to live. Mr. Weaver himself, despaired of a permanent cure, as two of his brothers before him had already died of consumption.

It is but seldom that any remedy receives such strong endorsement as Psychine is receiving daily. Seldom indeed that the cured come forward voluntarily to state their case a second time so that all may be convinced of the truth. The instance herein reported from the busy town of Galt, Ont., is a typical instance of what is occurring in every city, town, hamlet and countryside in this broad Dominion. Scores of people living in Galt were long ago conversant with the facts of this notable case: while to others the publication of it in the daily press came as a revelation.

Scores of people recently called upon Mr. Weaver to see if all that had been published was really true. Medical men evidenced a desire to see the good work wrought with Dr. Slocum's famous remedy, Psychine (Si-keen). Mr. Weaver has also been the recipient of hundreds of letters from all parts of the country enquiring as to his case.

Sad and sorrowful is the first chapter of the story told by the man whose case has excited the interest of Lung Specialists and of medical men and whose cure and complete restoration to health is the talk of Galt and the wonder of the medical profession. Such, in brief, are the opening remarks of the case of Mr. Weaver, of Galt, whose portrait appears above.

Mr. Weaver is to-day a splendid specimen of manhood and the picture of robust health. His lungs give him no more trouble. He is strong and healthy, eats and sleeps well, and feels better than he has for ten years.

Mr. Weaver's Case as given to the press, January 30th, 1904.

Dr. T. A. Slocum:—For five years I worked as a grinder in the James Warnock, better known as the Axe Factory, here. The dust from the grinding did for me what it has done for many others. It gave me "grinder's consumption." I was compelled, of course, to quit work. I persisted with two local physicians, and also consulted a number of lung specialists. Their diagnoses were all alike:—"You have Grinder's Consumption, and may possibly live three months, but you are liable to drop off at any time." This was over two years ago.

I then almost abandoned myself to what seemed my fate, my two brothers having died of consumption a few years previous. I was in an advanced stage of the disease. I was thin and weak, had night sweats, chills and fever, and a terrible cough.

I saw your advertisement of "Psychine," and I determined to try it. Through the kind advice and assistance of REV. MR. KETTLEWELL, Methodist minister in charge here at that time, I procured your treatment. The very first bottle gave me great relief, and after taking six bottles I could walk down town and even work occasionally. Have since then entirely regained my health, and work hard every day. I can eat and sleep well. I feel better to-day than I have for years. I owe my life to Psychine.

Yours truly,
LEVI WEAVER.

Mr. Weaver's second statement after the above was published.

GALT, ONT.

Dr. T. A. Slocum:—The publication of the history of my case in Toronto and Galt papers has caused quite a sensation in this town. There have been scores of people ask me if such were really the case. I have also received by mail numbers of like enquiries. Some people hardly think it possible that I was so near death's door. But I can say for certain that Psychine saved my life and I bless the day I saw Psychine advertised and became convinced of its merits enough to try it. I have spread the good news in three counties, and shall ever continue to praise Psychine. Every word as published January 30th, is true to the facts of the case.

Yours truly,
LEVI WEAVER.

If you suffer from Lung Trouble, La Grippe, Asthma, Throat Diseases, Pneumonia, Catarrh of the Stomach, Bronchitis, Night Sweats, Loss of Flesh or Run-down System, or diseases where a tonic is required, there is no other medicine in the wide world that will act more promptly or effectively.

PSYCHINE is pronounced SI-KEEN.

For sale at all drug stores, or, if you have not tried it a sample can be obtained by writing to Dr. T. A. Slocum's laboratory, 179 King Street West, Toronto, Canada. Send for Dr. Slocum's Treatise on the prevention and cure of Throat and Lung Diseases.

A sample of Psychine will be sent free of charge to all who desire to test it. Write to-day to DR. T. A. SLOCUM, Limited, Offices and Laboratories, 179 King St. W., Toronto, Can.

WOMEN WHO SUFFER

From Weakness and Irritability, Tired, Languid Feelings and All the Discouraging Accompaniments of a Worn-out and Run-down System Find New Hope and New Health in the Use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

MRS. CRAVEN.

Especially at this season of the year nearly every woman feels the need of restorative treatment to renew the vitality of the body.

Headache, indigestion, spells of weakness and despondency and irregularities and weaknesses of one kind and another—all point to an exhausted condition of the system—to the need of just such help as can best be supplied by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Too many women suffer in silence, thinking that suffering is their lot and allowing serious diseases of the nervous system to develop when by the use of this great food cure they could be strong and well—not only happy themselves, but a blessing to all about them.

MRS. CHAS. S. CRAVEN, North Gower, Carleton Co., Ont., writes:—"I do not hesitate to recommend Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and would not begrudge fifty dollars for the good it has done me. For six years I suffered with severe pains in my right shoulder and numbness in my right arm. No tongue can tell what I suffered. The doctors said the trouble was from the nerves, but their medicines proved of no avail, so I resolved to give Dr. Chase's Nerve Food a trial. After using six boxes of this medicine my health was so greatly improved that I got more, and I used in all twenty-eight boxes, with the result that I am completely cured.

"Before using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I could not sew or do such work for five minutes without suffering agony in my shoulder. I do not feel that I can use strong enough words in recommending this medicine to all who suffer as I did. I shall be happy to reply to any who wish to write me personally."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. To protect you against imitations, the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box.

The Man Among Them

By IRVINE PARDEE

...Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure...

It was a cold winter in school district No. 4, township of Ingham, county of Hillsdale, but they were making it pretty warm for the schoolma'am just the same. Miss Lee had come from a city fifty miles away, bringing the very best recommendations, and had taken hold of the school to the satisfaction of everybody. The trouble was that she was twenty years old and good looking. She could not help being good looking any more than a dozen farmer girls in the district could help their plain faces, but scarcely a fortnight had passed when mothers and daughters were sneering and backbiting.

No homely woman, be she married or single, can help being jealous of a handsome one. In the society of a city the homely one has the sense to conceal her feelings, but in the country she attends a quilting bee on purpose to speak her mind. If the widowers, bachelors and young men had stood aloof there would have been no gossip or hard feelings, but that was just what they wouldn't do. They admired, praised and pestered, and, though not encouraged in the slightest by the little schoolma'am, they got her into a peck of trouble.

"MISS LEE, I'VE COME TO TAKE YOU HOME FOR THE NIGHT," SAID ABNER.

The thing may be said to have started with Uncle Ben Driggs, chairman of the school committee. He was a widower, sixty years old, and had been courting the Widow Hastings, five years his junior, but what does he do but offer the schoolma'am his calloused hand and aged heart before she had hardly got the school organized.

She promptly refused him, but the Widow Hastings was her enemy from that time on, and Uncle Ben heard her gossiped about without coming to her defense. In the course of six weeks Miss Lee had turned down another widower and two young men and thus made more enemies. Several engagements were in danger of being broken because Jim, Joe or John would insist that the teacher was the daisiest daisy that ever called up a class in geography. The girl knew that she was making enemies and being slurred and slandered, but as it was not her fault and she had no remedy she maintained silence. This subjected her to criticism again. As Hannah Jones remarked at Mrs. Doolittle's quilting bee:

"If she isn't trying her best to capture a man of some sort, why don't she come right out and say she wouldn't marry the best one that ever wore boots, same as I do? I tell you she is sly and deceitful, and she'll separate more'n one lovin' couple before she gets through with it."

Before New Year's came there was only one marriageable man for four miles around who hadn't offered himself at least once. That was Abner Joy, a man of thirty, who had a farm of his own and a sister for a housekeeper. He had admired, but so secretly and modestly that Miss Lee had not suspected. He looked upon her as a superior being who could not be approached by such as he.

No one mistrusted his feelings until one evening when there was a paring bee at Uncle David Saunders'. The gathering included over forty people, old and young, and, as it was Miss Lee's week to board at the Saunders house, she ought to have been there. She was not, however, and, though the night had come on with a storm, nobody worried about the schoolma'am, not even Abner. When he failed to find her there he argued that she had stopped at a nearer place. In the gathering were several girls and women with spiteful tongues and several young and old men who wanted to "get even," and so after an hour or two, when Miss Lee's name came up, innuendo was busy in a moment. It was noticed that Abner Joy turned red and white and hitched uneasily, but it was quite ten minutes before he stood up and said:

"I see that Miss Lee is not present here this evening. Does any one know why?"

"She's probably banting for a man," replied one of the girls, with a giggle, while Joe Allbright led the haw-hawing among the young men.

"Yes, she may be," said Abner as he looked around, with a dangerous gleam in his eyes, "but will Joe Allbright, Tom Smart and William Hall step outdoors with me for a moment?"

They followed him out, wondering what was up, but they were not long left in doubt. He turned upon them and gave the whole three a beautiful drubbing before they hardly knew that a fight was on. Then he called out Uncle Danforth, old bachelor, both of whom had been turned down, and, shaking his fist under their noses, he said:

"Mind you, this talk about Miss Lee has got to stop. The next man who even sneers at her has got to settle for it with me."

That didn't complete his work, however. He entered the house and said to the women:

"A pretty pack of wolves you are! You are gossiping about a woman whose shoes you are not fit to tie. It's gossip, slander and lies," and every one of you knows it, and I tell you I'll not stand any more of it. I can't roll you in the snowdrifts, because you are women, but I can and will hold your men folks responsible."

Half an hour later he was inquiring at Taylor's if Miss Lee was there, and again he stopped at Riker's. But he did not find her until he drove up to the schoolhouse. She sat there alone with her things on, and the open stove door was her candle. She had felt too weak and discouraged to face the storm, and didn't much care whether any one came for her or not.

"Miss Lee, I've come to take you home for the night," said Abner, as he entered the building.

"But why do you come?" she asked in surprise.

"Because I have constituted myself your champion. There won't be any more gossip. I'm ashamed of the people, but you'll see a change tomorrow."

"Wh—what have you done?" she asked between her sobs.

"Licked three or four men, promised to lick three or four more and told a dozen women what I thought about them," he laconically replied.

"But you'll—you'll"—

"Ask you to marry me? No, I won't—I'll be hanged if I do! Come along with me, and we'll pick up Sister Sarah at Saunders'."

"And you won't—won't"—

"Talk love? Not a word. I know you are ready to throw up the school and go back home, but don't give up. I've got my fists toughened up and want to use 'em often."

And when the summer days came and she closed her school with kind words from all she grasped the hand of Abner Joy and said:

"Abner, I have met a man down here—just one—and I hate to say goodby to him."

"Then why don't you come back and let him do some more fighting for you?" he asked.

"I—I guess I will, if you—you want me to," she replied as she drove away, and three months later she did.

Two Ways of Looking at It.

After the battle of Gettysburg a member of the sanitary commission ran across in the country some miles from the town a Dutch farmer who said he had never seen soldiers. "And why haven't yon seen them?" the question was put. "Why didn't you get your gun, go into town and help drive them out?"

"Why," said the farmer, "a feller might 'a' got hit."

A woman who lived in a little house close to the battlefield viewed the danger in a different spirit.

She was a red cheeked, wholesome young body who looked well after the ways of her household. She was asked if she felt afraid when the shells flew.

"Well, no," she replied. "Yon see, I was busy baking bread for the soldiers, and I had my dough raising. The neighbors ran into the cellars, but of course I couldn't leave my bread. When the first shell burst into the window and tore into the room an officer came in and said to me, 'You better get out of this,' but I told him I couldn't leave my bread. I kneaded the dough until the third shell crashed into the room; then I went down cellar. But first I put my bread safe into the oven."

Answering Invitations.

The well bred woman should make a point of answering all invitations promptly and dinner invitations by return of post if possible. First calls should also be returned as soon as other engagements permit. It used to be considered correct not to allow more than one Sunday to elapse before doing so, but that, like many other canons of politeness, is a thing of the past. Another custom often more honored in the breach than the observance is that of writing to thank one's hostess even after a visit of only a night or two.

Baby Bath Aprons.

Any mother with a young baby will quickly understand how convenient one or two aprons made of Turkish toweling will be in giving the baby his bath. The towels are simply put on bands, and usually two are worn, so the baby can be slipped into the drier one underneath after the first rubbing is over.

LANSDOWNE'S TRIUMPH.

What Former Governor-General of Canada Achieved in the Recently Concluded French Treaty.

Canadians are bound to feel a special interest in the achievements of Lord Lansdowne. We remember him as one of our former Governor-Generals who evinced more than ordinary thoroughness and capacity for public business. For this reason the Anglo-French agreement, recently executed by Lord Lansdowne, claims our attention. But it is important for other reasons. It touches us very closely in settling the French shore question, and thereby relieving of an embarrassment a colony which is destined in the fulness of time to be a part of the Dominion. The agreement is important also, because it is the most comprehensive international adjustment ever accomplished by purely diplomatic means. By it the two great powers saw off their grievances and wipe out all possible causes of irritation. Lord Lansdowne's report on this sweeping agreement, a personal triumph to him, has just come to hand.

Attempts That Have Failed.

By this document we are reminded that the interest of the British Government in the welfare of Newfoundland is not a recent phenomenon. It appears that successive Governments have fully recognized the enormous disadvantages to which Newfoundland was placed by the fishing privileges conceded to France in 1713, and extended by the treaty and the Royal declaration of 1783. The desire of the Crown to protect the French in the engagement of privileges already conceded induced it to agree to restrictions which subsequent generations found to be intolerable. Yet, as these restrictions had been guaranteed by treaty, and other assurances, Great Britain exercised its influence and authority to maintain them intact. At the same time for sixty years British Governments have been endeavoring to secure a peaceable release from France.

Recognized as a Duty.

Yet the British Government remained hopeful that a solution would yet be found for the problem and recognized that it had a duty in that connection. As Lord Lansdowne remarks: "It was obviously our duty to find some means of terminating the condition of things which I have described. It has been fraught with inconvenience to all concerned." It has involved a constant risk of collisions between two Governments, in consequence of disputes as to the rights of persons engaged in the fishing industries, both on shore and at sea. Such collisions have, in fact, been averted only by the tact, moderation and good temper exhibited by the naval officers of both powers, to whose cognizance these local disputes have in the first instance been brought."

The negotiations, which have proven successful, were begun as long ago as the Spring of 1903. They were given an impetus by the visit of the King to France, and the return visit of President Loubet to Great Britain, on which occasions a full and frank exchange of ideas was effected. The British Government frankly conceded that to obtain the abandonment of French claims in Newfoundland it would be necessary to compensate French fishermen and also the French nation. To do this without detriment to British interests was the problem Lord Lansdowne and his colleagues had to solve.

How France Is Paid.

It was arranged that the French fishermen should be compensated with money and the nation with territory. Great Britain did not hesitate to agree to foot the bill without asking a shilling from the colony which will be benefited by the arrangement. Three territorial concessions in Western Africa were made to France. By a "rectification" of the frontier of Gambia, a French colony, France is given access to the navigable portion of the Gambia River. A group of islands of small extent and of no intrinsic value, but which, in his hands of a hostile power, would be a serious menace to France, has long been held by Great Britain opposite to Kouakry, a French possession. These islands are known as the Iles de Los. They have been given to France by the British Government. The third concession is in Nigeria. Here the French convoys were at the disadvantage of having to pursue a circuitous and waterless route to reach Lake Chad. A strip of territory has been conceded, by means of which a direct route may be maintained. These are the considerations Great Britain has given for the extinction of the French shore claims.

Egypt for Morocco.

For the extinction of French claims in Egypt Great Britain has signed a quit claim so far as Morocco is concerned. The Egyptain claim was a serious handicap to development. Under the existing arrangement certain revenues are set aside to meet the interest and sinking funds of the bonds in respect of which Egypt defaulted when Great Britain stepped in as receiver. The surplus cannot be diverted to any other purpose without the consent of France. It appears that since 1890, so successful has British administration been to Egypt, a surplus of $27,500,000 has accumulated in the bank. The money is lying idle, and is being constantly increased. France has now conceded that the fund shall be used by the Egyptain Government, and it will be used for the development of the country. France also acknowledges the preponderance of Great Britain in Egypt and agrees to give its support to certain reforms which the British Government has in view. On the other hand Great Britain concedes that France has special responsibilities in respect of Morocco, which is constantly bordering on a state of anarchy. France agrees not to annex any territory, but to assist in establishing order and security.

To get that appetizing, brown appearance and outside crispyness on roasts of lamb, beef, etc.—to keep their goodness in them they must be basted. In the old style stove this necessitated reaching into the hot oven and moving the hot, heavy pan and holding it in the front of the oven while it was basted. A tedious performance with unsatisfactory results. The draw-out oven rack of the

CURTAIN CALLS.

The Code in Germany Differs From That In This Country.

"There is an unwritten code of etiquette among actors in regard to curtain calls that appears to differ widely in different countries," says a St. Louis man.

"A friend of mine was recently telling me about the custom that obtains in this respect in certain theaters and opera houses in German cities, and from what he says it is exactly the reverse of what it is here. Over there the star or leading player takes the first curtain call alone. If there is a second curtain call the star and associate player of the opposite sex appear together on the stage to respond to it, and should a third call from the audience be given the entire company appears in answer to it. The customs of our stage generally reverse this procedure. Among us the first curtain call is responded to by the entire company, the second by three or four or five of the principal players, the third by the leading man and woman alone, and then if there are more by the star or leading player.

"This is of course dealing with the subject in a general way and considering the circumstances as those which may ordinarily obtain. Where two or three players only are concerned in the scene that brings the applause, why, naturally the other members of the company would have no part in the responses."

The Friendship of Youth.

Two boys brought up together sometimes remain fast friends for life, but not so commonly as one might suppose. "I thought you had a little friend with you today, Tommy," said a lady to a child who was walking about alone and disconsolate. "I have a little friend, but I hate him!" was the reply. And the words contain a whole essayful of comment upon the value of friendship founded solely upon propinquity.—London Spectator.

His Excuse.

"How dare you, sir!" exclaimed the indignant girl.

"I couldn't help it, Maud," pleaded the now penitent young man. "You were so maddeningly kissable!"

Still, it was fully ten seconds before she quite forgave him.

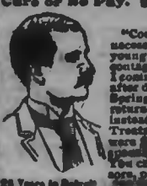
BLOOD DISEASE CURED.

If you ever contracted any Blood or Private Disease, you are never safe until the virus or poison has been eradicated from the system. Don't be satisfied with a "patch up" by some family doctor. Our New Method is Guaranteed to Cure or No Pay. No Names Used without Written consent.

Cured When all Else Failed



"Could I live my early life over, this testimonial would not be necessary, though I was no more sinful than thousands of other young men. Early indiscretions, later excesses, exposure to contagious disease all helped to break down my system. When I commenced to realize my condition I was almost frantic. Doctor after doctor treated me but only gave me relief—not a cure. Hot Springs helped me, but did not cure me. The symptoms always returned. Mercury and Potash drove the poison into my system instead of driving it out. I bless the day your New Method Treatment was recommended to me. I investigated who you were first, and finding you had over 25 years' experience and responsibility, I gave you my case under a guarantee. You cured me permanently, and in six years there has not been a sore, pain, ulcer or any other symptom of the blood disease."

TELEPHONE COMPANY COMMENCING WORK

Arranging for Construction Work to Proceed at Once.

Mr. W. Lytle, late of the Bell Telephone Co., now with the Canadian Machine Company, arrived in town last night and will have charge of the outside construction work for the company here. He is now looking over the ground preparatory to starting work on the construction. It is quite probable that within the next three weeks active work will be started. The manager has met with good success in securing subscribers, and already sufficient have signified their intention of subscribing to the new system to ensure a service well distributed throughout the town.

It is within the range of probability that even more underground wiring may be done than the agreement calls for, in view of the fact that there have been such a large number of subscribers signed.

A despatch from Kingston says that that city is following the example set by Peterborough, and the application of the Bell Company for a renewal of the franchise has been denied, and the Peterborough company, otherwise known as the Canadian Machine Telephone Company, will be asked to quote its terms to the city. The despatch adds that the majority of the council are in favour of the Peterborough company.

A PRESENTATION

To Mrs. Grundy Jackson by St. John's Sunday School.

The presentation to Mrs. Grundy-Jackson of a very beautiful picture of St. John's Church and Sunday School was a pleasant event which took place after Sunday school last Sunday. The Rev. Mr. Davidson made the presentation as a parting gift to Mrs. Jackson and a slight testimony of her earnest and valuable work among them for many years. Mrs. Jackson made a very suitable reply expressing great regret at her departure from them and urged the scholars to prepare themselves for Sunday School work as she had done working as a teacher since the age of 15 years. Mrs. Jackson left this week for Kingston.

OBITUARY.

Lamented Death of Mr. Joseph C. Sims

The death occurred this morning of Mr. Joseph C. Sims, at his residence, 739 Water street, at the age of 62 years. Deceased was born in Warminster, Wilts, England, and was married 33 years ago, to Maria Haines, who with one son Arthur and a daughter, Mrs. William Vickers, survives him. 21 years ago the family came to Canada and have lived in Peterborough ever since.

The funeral will take place from the family residence, Water street, on Tuesday, May 31st, at 3.30 p.m. to the Little Lake Cemetery.

TO-DAY'S MARKET.

There was only a small market today with prices about the same as on the past few Saturdays. There was plenty of butter at 17c and 18c, while eggs were worth 14c, as a rule. Chickens sold anywhere from 75c to $1.20 per pair, while a few turkeys went at $2.00. Outside the market building, rhubarb and little pigs, White, black and brown, were the predominating features. Potatoes sold at 75c. per bag.

A Correction.

WATERWORKS AND FIRE PROTECTION.

The function of a newspaper, properly conducted, is to watch over and guard, as zealously as may be possible, and judiciously, the moral and material interests of the community it serves. This is especially applicable to a newspaper published in a town of the size and importance of Peterborough, whose interests are so well worth promoting and protecting. In pursuit of such a policy and in the performance of such a duty, often delicate ground has to be traversed, but with proper motives this can be done with advantage to the town, now of city size, and city importance.

The Examiner is not given to alarmist pronouncements, but it is necessary to point out the need of measures looking to a betterment of our fire protection equipment. From causes, for which we, as a town, are not responsible, there has been a sharp advance in insurance rates. The disastrous fires in other places are responsible for this. But though we are not to blame, we must provide that not only shall there be no excuse for another raise in rates, but also that our conditions for preventing and dealing with fires shall be of the highest order. The reason for this is not merely to avoid an advanced rate of insurance, though this matter is important; yet it is less important than the prevention of destructive fires, which, while they may hit the insurance companies hard, hit the losers much harder. Few losses that fall upon an insurance company can be incurred without as great, almost, and sometimes greater, loss to the owner of the property destroyed.

We have before referred to the necessity of placing our fire alarm system in the best position and of also giving similar attention to our auxiliary, the fire engine. Neither of these is in a satisfactory condition, and all for the want of a little care and enterprise on the part of those responsible for their condition, for the expense involved is not by any means prohibitory.

Our Water Works system, as regards the mains and pumps, is at present comparatively perfect, or at least as good as any in the province. Since the system of mains was first put under ground, they have been practically relaid, and where not relaid, so strengthened and improved that they now are equal to any reasonable demands upon them. Our pumps are able to provide whatever pressure the mains may be required to transmit to a line of hose in case of fire, and we have the services of an excellent fire brigade.

The town took over the Water Works on the approval of a large majority of the ratepayers and at a reasonable price, a price that has permitted of a satisfactory revenue, conjoined to a sensible reduction of rates. The town is growing, the consumers of water are increasing, the demand upon the capacity of our water system is bound to grow, and provision must be made for all possible demands, and provision must be made, too, that, for fire as well as general purposes, the safety, solidity and reliability of our water system shall be placed absolutely beyond the possibility of failure to meet any demand that may be made upon it.

Without any intention of being alarmist in attitude, but animated only by a sincere interest in the welfare of the town, the Examiner would like to point out that it would be prudent for the Water Commissioners to take steps to provide, with the least possible delay, for the replacing of the present water works dam with a new, modern, solid, substantial and indestructible concrete dam.

One of the Water Commissioners, at a recent public meeting, made the statement in effect that the water conditions this spring seriously injured the existing dam, that it would require an expenditure of about $3000 to put it in proper repair, and that a similar amount for similar purposes would be required to be spent yearly for the next five years, when the dam would have to be rebuilt, at a cost of about $50,000.

Taking his estimate, based, as he said, upon the opinion of the engineer, we have, with an annual bill of repairs of $3,000 for five years, a total of $15,000, in one sense, utterly wasted,, for, according to the Commissioner, the $3,000 a year will have to be followed in five or so years by the erection of a new dam.

Then why not build a new dam at once, and save money, as well as place our water works system beyond the caprice of spring freshets? If we spend $3,000 a year for five years, in unavailing repairs, at the best only temporary in character, we shall have spent $15,000, the interest at four per cent., on a capital of $375,000. Is this wise, is it good business, when a new dam can be built for something like $50,000, which will never need repairs? The directors of the Cereal Company's works can now sleep peacefully while spring floods and ice-jams rage, for they know that their new concrete dam will give way to nothing less powerful than an earthquake.

There is no use in insisting upon the importance of having a Water Works dam that can be depended upon, and there seems to be no excuse for delay. Plans for a new concrete dam might be prepared at once, tenders called for with the least possible delay, contracts let and the work completed. The people would, no doubt, under the circumstances, credit the Water Commissioners with acting wisely and prudently in adopting immediate measures for the erection of a solid and substantial concrete dam.

The preliminary steps can be taken at once and the legislation required to authorize the issue of bonds, secured at the next sitting of the Legislature. There seems to be no excuse for delay. If, as Mr. Moore stated at the meeting in the opera house, we shall have to expend every year $3,000—the interest on $75,000—and at the end of five years have to build a new dam, we should, at that rate, be paying out every year $1,000 more than the interest on the cost of a new $50,000 dam, and then have nothing to show for our expenditure, and in the end have to construct a new dam, meanwhile being exposed to the possibility — perhaps the bare possibility — of the present dam collapsing, with consequences whose serious character will readily suggest itself to every mind. Is it wise to take the chances? Would it not be wiser to take immediate action for the construction of a new dam, which would be in place to stay and would ensure a continuous and adequate supply of water for both fire purposes and general purposes, and relieve the revenue of the water works from being eaten into every year to the extent of paying the interest on a capital of $75,000?

GENERALLY SPEAKING

THE METHODIST Conference is on here next week. The presence of a couple of hundred of live parsons should have a perceptible influence upon the morals of the town. It is to be hoped that the result will be an elevation of moral tone, though there are some doubting Thomases, who argue from the proverbial statement that ministers' sons are, as a rule, wild sprigs of the vine, little amenable to the good influences surrounding their lives in their homes, and instead of being model olive branches, are capable of developing a considerable crop of wild oats.

THAT MORBID VIEW has nothing however to do with church union, which will, apart from the official deliberations on the Conference floor, doubtless receive a practical fillip from the hospitality side of the occasion. If a Methodist minister, entertained in a Presbyterian home, as happily is many times the case, finds that the products of the Westminster Confession are reflected to his taste in the culinary products submitted to his gastronomical approval, he will be inclined to feel that from a material point of view, closer union with Presbyterianism is a desideratum; for ministers are only human, with material tastes cultivated to the point of realising the force of the fact, that if, as can be read in the Gospel according to Wesley, "cleanliness is next to godliness," good cooking is akin to a means of grace—there's a world of relationship between sound piety and a sound liver. Ministers, in their migrations and breaking of bread amongst "all sorts and conditions of men," like ordinary mortals, do not covet any more than ordinary mortals, gustatory proof of the truth of the old proverb, as forcible as it is frank—"the Lord sends meats and the devil sends cooks."

JESTING APART, the visit of the Methodist conference is an important event, to the town. It has shown that we believe in and practice the doctrine of hospitality, and it is to be hoped that in "entertaining strangers" many a home will realize that they have "entertained angels unawares"—that is, that the presence of ministers as guests will be governed to the moral up-building and strengthening in faith and the practice of vital piety of their pro tempore hosts. With church union a live topic of the day, the encountering of Presbyterians and Methodists in the comparative unformality of home association, will suggest to, and familiarize both hosts and guests with the possibility of a more important and more glorious intercourse in the unified communion of organic church association.

"GENERALLY SPEAKING" has no need to enjoin upon the people of Peterborough the practice of a whole-hearted hospitality to their guests. The hearty and ready manner in which they set wide their doors to the ministers of the Bay of Quinte Conference is proof that the hospitality dispensed, the welcome extended will be as hearty as its offer has been spontaneous. While not counselling hosts to assume "company manners" it might be urged that it is desirable that they should permit ministers to depart with the best impressions of the town possible. They should be shown the beauties and the solid importance of our town. They are men of influence, exerted over a wide area, and if we can send the ministers away with a good impression of Peterborough, we may feel sure that, notwithstanding the reticence of their class, they will not be averse to making it known.

AN OLD LAND-MARK with a history is now meandering down the streets in the south part of the town—on its last legs—on its way to its last resting place—not necessarily its grave, but the last foundation it will probably ever rest upon. The old rough-cast house which for the past forty years has stood facing the street at 374 Stewart, a few doors north of Simcoe street, is in the hands of Mr. Allen McCarthy, house-mover, who is removing it from its late resting place to Bolivar street. This venerable structure was built 60 years ago—in 1844—and then formed the kitchen of a residence of the late Charles Perry, which faced on Water street, somewhere on the site now occupied by the George street Methodist church. Mr. Perry was at that time engaged in a "general store" business on a site corresponding to the Toronto Bank, corner of George and Hunter streets. Forty years ago this house now "on the move" was removed from Water street to Stewart street and it has had during its stay there, occupants of all sorts and conditions of men—and women. Mr. McCarthy says that small as the building is—about 20 x 30, one story high, it is very heavy, the timber in it being enough, if economically sawn, to make three or four modern buildings of the same size. A modern building of the same size might almost be trundled through the streets on a wheelbarrow—by comparison. Speaking of the timber put in houses half a century ago, Mr. Jas. Stevenson says the timber used in his residence, on Simcoe street, built in 1855, was all "clear stuff" without a knot, the front door, four inches thick, being made from a single plank. And he only paid $8 per thousand for the best of the lumber—there was no worst lumber in those days. This lumber was procured from the late James Edwards, who at that time operated a saw mill situated at Sawers' Creek, near Lakefield, the outlet into the Otonabee of Buckley's Lake, now furnishing mart for the Lakefield Cement Works.

Nearest Approach.

(Canadian Associated Press Cable.)

London, May 26.—The Graphic, referring to Sir Chas. Bruce's article in The Empire Review on the political relations of Britain, France and Germany, says that the nearest approach to an open quarrel with Germany was the tariff war with Canada. The Graphic hopes that the slight shadow remaining will be clear away before the King sets out for Kiel, and trusts that the Canadian government will soon see its way to respond to the invitation to enter into renewed negotiations sent it by the German government three months ago.

Union Bank Wins.

Brockville, May 27.—At the Assizes yesterday, Mr. Justice McMahon gave a decision in favor of the Union Bank in their action to recover $1,075 from John Sheridan, which the latter found last June. It was proven to have been part of the $5,000 which disappeared in the transfer at this station in May, 1903.

Ultimatum To Hutton.

London, May 27.—(C.A.P.)—The Australian Government has informed General Hutton he must either give the contents of the secret messages passing between him and the British authorities or retire.

An Open Letter.

From the Chapin, S. C., News: Early in the spring my wife and I were taken with diarrhoea, and so severe were the pains that we called in a physician, who prescribed for us, but his medicines failed to give any relief. A friend who had a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera, and Diarrhoea Remedy on hand, gave each of us a dose and we at once felt the effects. I procured a bottle and before using the entire contents we were entirely cured. It is a wonderful remedy and should be found in every household. H. C. Bailey, Editor. This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

Wanted No Perquisites.

Richard Cobden was a striking illustration of a man who refused to take from his government perquisites that might well have been his.

When Cobden went to Paris in 1859 to negotiate the commercial treaty with France the government hired for him an elegant mansion. During the negotiations he lived in state, with carriages at his disposal.

The moment the treaty was signed at the Quai d'Orsay Cobden regarded his errand and his services as ended. He returned to his official headquarters and wrote to the Anglo-Parisian banker with whom a credit had been opened for him that the treaty had been signed, and his account with her majesty's government should be closed immediately.

He sent the letter, called a cab and drove, with his trunk, from his mansion to a hotel, where he slept that night as a private citizen in a room "two pair back."

Why a Boiled Lobster Is Red.

In all crustaceans, as indeed in almost everything in nature, there is a certain per cent of iron. Upon boiling the lobster is oxidised. The effect is largely due also to the percentage of muriatic acid which exists naturally in the shell. The chemical change which takes place here is almost similar to that which occurs in the burning of a brick. In boiling a lobster its coat ceases to be a living substance, and to a certain extent it takes a new character.

It is as a brick would be after burning. This effect can also be produced by the sun, but necessarily not so rapid, as the heat of that luminary, although more intense, is not concentrated sufficiently to produce the result. The sun also exercises a bleaching influence which consumes the oxide almost as fast as it is formed, leaving the shell white or nearly pure lime.

A WOMAN'S SYMPATHY

Are you discouraged? Is your doctor's bill a heavy financial load? Is your pain a heavy physical burden? I know what these mean to delicate women—I have been discouraged, too, but learned how to cure myself. I want to relieve your burdens. Why not end the pain and stop the doctor's bill? I can do this for you and will if you will assist me.

All you need to do is to write for a free box of the remedy which has been placed in my hands to be given away. Perhaps this one box will cure you—it has done so for others. If so I shall be happy and you will be cured for 2c—the cost of a postage stamp. Your letters held confidentially. Write to-day for my free treatment. Mrs F. D. CURRAH, Windsor, Ont. Orange Lily is recommended and sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warnem 345 George street. s-w

Mildewed Clothes.

Lime juice or lemon juice is the best friend of the women of the West Indies. Whenever the household linen or the wearing apparel becomes discolored from mildew in rainy weather a little lemon or lime juice and a bit of common salt will cause the spots to disappear. In this country mildew is generally held to be a thing impossible to remove. Many an article of clothing is thrown away solely for this reason while it is perfectly fit in every other way to wear. If the American housekeeper will try the West Indian recipe she will be able to overcome a difficulty hitherto regarded as almost unconquerable.

The Business Man

Though swiftly his business keeps bringing in wealth,
He groans. "What's the use, for I've now lost my health.
My friends were more careful, Abbey's Salt took each day,
And they are still young, while I'm old and gray."

When success depends on health, one can't afford to take risks with his digestive organs. A man can't think of business and biliousness together.

Many a serious error in judgement has been made because the brain has been befogged by an upset stomach or a torpid liver.

ABBEY'S SALT, taken in the morning keeps the blood cool, sends the business man to his office with active brain—and the mental and physical power to grasp every problem.

LIFE IS A PRIVILEGE.

Life is a privilege. Its youthful days
Shine with the radiance of continuous Mays.
To live, to breathe, to wonder and desire,
To feed with dreams the heart's perpetual fire;
To thrill with virtuous passions and to glow
With great ambitions, in one hour to know
The depths and heights of feeling; God in truth,
How beautiful, how beautiful is youth!

Life is a privilege. Like some rare rose
The mysteries of the human mind unclose.
What marvels lie in earth and air and sea!
What stores of knowledge wait our opening key!
What sunny roads of happiness lead out
Beyond the realms of indolence and doubt,
And what large pleasures smile upon and bless
The busy avenues of usefulness!

Life is a privilege. Though noontide fades
And shadows fall along the winding glades,
Though joy blooms wither in the autumn air,
Yet the sweet scent of sympathy is there.
Pale sorrow leads us closer to our kind,
And in the serious hours of our life we find
Depths in the souls of men which lend new worth
And majesty to this brief span of earth.

Life is a privilege. If some sad fate
Sends us alone to seek the exit gate,
If men forsake us and as shadows fall,
Still does the supreme privilege of all
Come in that reaching upward of the soul
To find the welcoming Presence at the goal
And in the knowledge that our feet have trod
Paths have led from and must wind back to God.

—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

A HINT TO MOTHERS.

If you have a child that is sickly, fretful, nervous, restless at night or suffers from any stomach or bowel troubles of any sort, give it Baby's Own Tablets. Don't be afraid of this medicine—it is guaranteed to contain no opiate or harmful drug. Give the Tablets to the sick child and watch the quick relief and rapid restoration to health and strength. Thousands of mothers are using this medicine for their little ones, and they all praise it. What stronger evidence can you want? Mrs. D. A. McDiarmid, Sandringham, Ont., says "Baby's Own Tablets certainly fill all the claim you make for them so far as my experience goes. I consider them a perfect medicine for children and always keep them in the house." You can get the Tablets from any dealer in medicine, or if you write the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., they will send you a box by mail post paid for 25 cents.

"Light of the World."

Mr. Holman Hunt, who has only lately finished a replica of his "Light of the World," which is to tour the world, recently entered upon his 87th year. As a very young boy he passed into the office of an auctioneer, and then went into the city office of a Manchester warehouseman. He sat by himself in a little room looking out on three blank walls through a window of ground glass, on which he drew flies, whose wings no doubt he regarded with envy. It is not without pathos that the happiest memory of that time of his life refers to the moment when, one morning, his employer said, "Shoo!" to the ink flies, and waved his handkerchief to disperse them. When he was sixteen or seventeen the boy triumphed so far as to persuade his father to let him practice painting for three days a week. For the untoward loneliness of his early years Fate made full amends to the painter. He had the luck to share his first studio with Rossetti; and in that bare room near Fitzroy square was founded the Pre-Raphaelite Brotherhood.

Another Democritus.

Lord Kelvin, the new Chancellor of Glasgow University, has been described as another Democritus. Of that ancient Greek father of the atomic theory we know nothing but what his pupils tell us; but Lord Kelvin's work is writ large in the annals of the Royal Society of Edinburgh, and its practical results are patent in this morning's paper. Among the least of the services of the great theorist to practice is his invention of the siphon recorder, which makes ocean cabling possible. Lord Kelvin has measured the size of the atom and the age of the earth; he has invented a compass, which no ship is without; and he has explained the nature of matter, by studying the vortex rings that issue from a smoker's mouth.—London Chronicle.

ENGLISH RED TAPE.

Censure For an Officer Who Saved Money For the War Office.

A zealous young officer in South Africa who had a knowledge and love of farming made his men collect oats which fell lavishly by the wayside as column after column carrying out hay passed up country. He plowed some land, sowed his oats and eventually reaped his harvest. This harvest, which was a heavy one, saved the country at least £2,000. But when his accounts were sent home the officials at the war office could not understand how they had come by something for nothing. Such a thing had never happened before. They impugned his motives and accounts, and the least of the charges brought against him in a long correspondence was that he had looted the oats. Months passed, and still the young officer had not been able to convince the war office that he was honest. Then a well known general intervened and testified that he himself had watched the experiment in farming by which the country had been saved a considerable sum of money. At last the war office ended the correspondence. Nothing that had been insinuated was withdrawn, although nothing was pressed further. The officer is left with the correspondence on his hands, and any one reading it could not hesitate to pronounce it as being in effect a severe censure.—Manchester Guardian.

Incense In Japan.

Japan is a land of incense. Mr. Lafcadio Hearn has told us in his delightful way about the incense of the temples. He says: "It makes one element of the faint but complex and never to be forgotten odor of the far east. It haunts the dwelling house not less than the temple, the home of the peasant not less than the yashiki of the prince. Shinto shrines, indeed, are free from it, incense being an abomination to the elder gods, but wherever Buddhism lives there is incense. In every house containing a Buddhist shrine or Buddhist tablets incense is burned at certain times, and in even the rudest country solitudes you will find incense smoldering before wayside images—little stone figures of Fudo, Jizo or Kwannon."

The costlier kinds of incense, instead of in rods, come in the form either of pastilles, wafers and lozenges or loose powder, and thus take the place of the western lady's sachet.

NO REASON YOU SHOULD GIVE UP

Because Your Indigestion has Become Chronic—Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets will Cure it Just the Same.

If your indigestion has turned to Dyspepsia and become chronic that is no reason you should despair. Others just as bad as you have been cured by Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. Take the case of Mrs. James Bradley of Smith's Cove, Digby Co., N. S. Here's what she says about it herself:—

"I had Dyspepsia for over nine years. I tried the best doctors in the place and never found relief. I had to starve myself from eating. No tongue can tell what I suffered.

"I bought six boxes of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets and six of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and before I had finished taking them I could eat most anything and sleep comfortably."

There is no need to comment on a statement like this. It's true. What was done for Mrs. Bradley has been done for thousands of others. Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets will do it for you.

Finger Nails and Disease.

It is interesting to watch the history of a case of disease as recorded upon the finger nails. When we look at the patient's nails, we see on each of them a distinct ridge, showing that the portion of the nail which has grown since the acute attack is much thinned out. If a person has broken his arm within eighteen months, the ridges on the nails of the hand of the affected arm may be seen, while they will be absent on the other hand. The more acute the illness the sharper will be the ridge. Extreme anxiety and mental depression have the same effect on the nails as physical disease.

THE QUEER MOROS.

Some of the Peculiarities of This Left Handed People.

To judge Moros by inflexible occidental standards of motives and morals is to lose at once the key to the situation. The very structure of their language differentiates them from ourselves. Verbs are in the passive voice. The man who was slashed and killed provoked the trouble. The under dog in the fight is always the aggressor. The thief is not blamed for "finding" things lying about at loose ends; the man who lost the property is the real criminal—besides, he is a fool. If he were a sensible man he would have exercised vigilance against the approach of the thief. Moros reverse everything. Like all orientals, they venerate the past and their folklore; myths and legends abound in tales not unlike those of the "Arabian Nights' Entertainment."

They turn to the left of the road, extend the left hand naturally in greeting, and the scribes write from right to left, turning the paper sidewise, as any left handed man would do.

A witty officer explained that the preference for the left was due to the desire to keep the right hand free in the event a stranger should need something done to him. The "explanation" may not be far from the truth.—Chaplain C. C. Bateman in Journal of the Military Service Institution.

Butter as Medicine.

Butter is so common a commodity that people use it and scarcely ever think what wonderful value lies at their hands in the pats of dainty yellow cream fat. But this delicate fat is as valuable as the dearer cod liver oil for the weakly, thin people, and doctors have frequently recommended the eating of many thin slices of bread thickly spread with butter as a means of pleasantly taking into the bodily tissues one of the purest forms of fat it is possible to get. Butter is a carbon, and all excess of it is stored up as fat in the body. It gives energy and power to work to those who eat heartily of it; so it is not economy at table to spare the butter even to the healthy folk.

Connubial Bliss.

Brother—I trust that you are happy with your husband, Maud? Maud—Oh, yes, as happy as one can expect to be with a man who is talking of himself half the time and of his first wife the other half.

His Impression.

"Of course you believe that polygamy is wrong," said the man who was discussing the Mormon question.

"My dear sir," answered Mr. Meekton, "it is not only wrong. It's foolhardy."

Sunshine Furnace

DOUBLE FEED-DOORS

Just about the meanest thing a furnace can have is a dinky little door. Ever have one? Hit the edge as often as the hole? One has to be an expert stoker to shovel coal into some furnaces. If you're not an expert you'll get as much on the floor as in the furnace.

The Sunshine furnace is equipped with a good, big door. You can put your shovel in and drop the coal just where it is wanted—no trouble, no taking aim, no missing, no scattering, or annoyance.

Everything about the Sunshine furnace is on the same scale of thoughtfulness.

THE GENTLEMAN FROM INDIANA

By Booth Tarkington.

Willetts and Ross Schofield were still standing on the roof at the edge out of the smoke, and both fired at the same time. The fugitives did not turn. They kept on running, and they had nearly reached the other side of the field when suddenly, without any premonitory gesture, the elder Skillett dropped flat on his face. The Crossroaders stood by each other that day, for four or five men ran out of the nearest shanty into the open, lifted the prostrate figure from the ground and began to carry it back with them. But Skillett was alive. His curses were heard above all other sounds. Lige and Schofield fired again, and one of the rescuers staggered. Nevertheless as the two men slid down from the roof the burdened Crossroaders were seen to break into a run, and at that, with another yell, fiercer, wilder, more joyous than the first, the Plattville men followed.

The yell rang loudly in the ears of [illegible] erson, who had remained back in the road, and at the same instant he heard another about behind him. He had not shared in the attack; but, greatly preoccupied with his own histrionic affairs, was proceeding alone up the pike, except for the unhappy yellow mongrel still dragged along by the rope, and alternating, as was his natural wont, from one fence to the other, crouching behind every bush to fire an imaginary rifle at the dog and then springing out with triumphant bellowings to fall prone upon the terrified animal. It was after one of these victories that a shout of warning was raised behind him, and Mr. Wilkerson, by grace of the god Bacchus, rolling out of the way in time to save his life, saw a horse dash by him, a big, black horse whose polished flanks were dripping with lather. Warren Smith was the rider. He was waving a slip of yellow paper high in the air.

He rode up the slope and drew rein beyond the burning buildings just ahead of those foremost in the pursuit. He threw his horse across the road to oppose their progress, rose in his stirrups and waved the paper over his head. "Stop!" he roared. "Give me one minute! Stop!" He had a grand voice, and he was known in many parts of the state for the great bass roar with which he startled his juries. To be heard at a distance most men lift the pitch of their voice. Smith lowered his an octave or two, and the result was like an earthquake playing an organ in a catacomb.

"Stop!" he thundered. "Stop!"

In answer one of the flying Crossroaders turned and sent a bullet whistling close to him. The lawyer paused long enough to bow deeply in satirical response; then, flourishing the paper, he roared again: "Stop! A mistake! I have news! Stop, I say! Horner has got them!"

To make himself heard over that tempestuous advance was a feat; for him, moreover, whose counsels had so lately been derided, to interest the pursuers at such a moment enough to make them listen—to find the word—was a greater, and by the word and by gestures at once vehemently imperious and imploring to stop them was a still greater. But he did it. He had come at just the moment before the moment that would have been too late. They all heard him. They all knew, too, that he was not trying to save the Crossroads as a matter of duty, because he had given that up before the mob left Plattville. Indeed, it was a question if at the last he had not tacitly approved, and no one feared indictments for the day's work. It would do no harm to listen to what he had to say. The work could wait. It would "keep" for five minutes. They began to gather around him, excited, flushed, perspiring and smelling of smoke. Hartley Bowlder, won by Lige's desperation and intrepidity, was helping the latter tie up his head. No one else was hurt.

"What is it?" they clamored impatiently. "Speak quick!" There was another harmless shot from a fugitive, and then the Crossroaders, divining that the diversion was in their favor, secured themselves in their decrepit fastnesses and held their fire. Meanwhile the flames crackled cheerfully in Plattville ears. No matter what the prosecutor had to say, at least the Skillett saloon and homestead were gone, and Bob Skillett and one other would be sick enough to be good for awhile.

"Listen!" cried Warren Smith, and, rising in his stirrups again, read the missive in his hand, a Western Union telegraph form. "Warren Smith, Plattville," was the direction.

Found both shell men. Police familiar with both, and both wanted here. One arrested at Erie in secondhand clothes store wearing Harkless' hat; also trying to dispose of a full dress coat known to have been worn by Harkless last night. Stains on lining believed blood. Second man found later at freight yards in empty lumber car left Plattville 1 p. m., badly hurt, shot and bruised. Supposed Harkless made hard fight. Hurt man taken to hospital unconscious. Will die. Other man refuses to talk so far. Check any movement Crossroads. This clears Skillett, etc. Come over on 9:15 accommodation.

The telegram was signed by Horner.

The man on the stage who does the trick of escaping from firmly tied ropes, submits to the bonds with a smile. He knows he can get out of the ropes that are being knotted. Put the same man in the woods and let Indian captors bind him to a tree for torture and he would struggle to the last against the bonds.

When the stomach is diseased there are bonds being woven every hour about the organs dependent on the stomach—heart, lungs, liver, kidneys, etc. The folly of mankind is to passively submit to the fastening of these bonds with no effort to escape until the pain they cause arouses fear.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It cures diseases of heart, liver, lungs, kidneys and other organs, when these diseases, as is often the case, have their origin in the diseased stomach.

"For a long time I was suffering and was hardly able to get about," writes Mr. Andrew J. Jennings, of Thomas, Tucker Co., W. Va., Box 36. "Was bothered with kidney trouble and my whole system was out of order; had no appetite. A friend of mine told me to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I did so and the first bottle restored my appetite. I took six bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and some of the 'Pleasant Pellets' and feel like a new person."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cleanse the clogged system from impurities.

Bailey, Foreign Manager.

the sheriff, and by Barrett, the superintendent of police at Rouen.

"It's all a mistake, boys," the lawyer said as he handed the paper to Watts and Parker for inspection. "The ladies at the judge's were mistaken, that's all, and this proves it. It's easy enough to understand. They were frightened by the storm, and watching a fence a quarter of a mile away by flashes of lightning any one would have been confused and imagined all the horrors on earth. I don't deny but what I believed it for awhile, and I don't deny but the Crossroads is pretty tough, but you've done a good deal here already today, and we're saved in time from a mistake that would have turned out mighty bad. This settles it. Horner got a wire to go soon as they got track of the first man. That was when we saw him on the Rouen accommodation."

A slightly cracked voice, yet a huskily tuneful one, was lifted quaveringly on the air from the roadside, where an old man and a yellow dog sat in the dust together, the latter reprieved at the last moment, his surprised head rakishly garnished with a hasty wreath of dog fennel daisies.

"John Brown's body lies a-moldering in the ground,
While we go marching on."

Three-quarters of an hour later the inhabitants of the Crossroads, saved, they knew not how; guilty, knowing nothing of the fantastic pendulum of opinion which, swung by the events of the day, had marked the fatal moment of guilt now on others, now on them who deserved it—these natives and refugees, conscious of atrocity, dumfounded by a miracle, thinking the world gone mad, hovered together in a dark, ragged mass at the crossing corners, while the skeleton of the rotting buggy in the slough rose behind them against the face of the west. They peered with stupefied eyes through the smoky twilight.

From afar, faintly through the gloaming, came mournfully to their ears the many voiced refrain, fainter, fainter:

"John Brown's body lies a-moldering in the ground,
John Brown's body lies a-moldering in the ground,
John Brown's body lies—mold— • • •
• • • • we go march • • • on."

CHAPTER X.

At the city hospital in Rouen that night a stout young man introduced himself to Barrett, superintendent of police; Warren Smith and Horner, sheriff of Carlow. He spoke in a low voice. "My name is Meredith," he said. "Mr. Harkless was an old and—and—" He paused for a moment. The Plattville men nodded solemnly. "An old and dear friend of mine," he went on with some difficulty, and Warren Smith took him silently by the hand.

"You can come in and see this man, the Teller, with us if you like, Mr. Meredith," said the superintendent. "Your friend made it very hot for him before the two of 'em got away with him. He's so shot and hacked up his mother wouldn't know him if she wanted to. At least that's what they say out here. We haven't seen him. He's called Jerry the Teller, and one of my sergeants found him in the freight yard. Knew it was the Teller, because he was stowed away in one of the empty cars that came from Plattville last night. And Slattery—that's his running mate, the one we caught with the coat and hat—owned up that they beat their way on that freight. Looks like Slattery—let the Teller do all the fighting. He ain't scratched. We've been at Slattery pretty hard, but he won't open his head, and we hope to get something out of this one. He's delirious, but they say he'll come to before he dies. Do you want to go in with us?"

"Yes," said Meredith simply, and a young surgeon presently appeared and led them down a wide corridor and up a narrow hall, and they entered a small, quiet ward.

There was a pungent smell of chemicals in the room. The light was low, and the stillness was imbued with a thick, oppressed murmur, incoherent whisperings that came from a cot in the corner. It was the only cot in use in the ward, and Meredith was conscious of a terror that made him dread to look at it, to go near it. Beside it a nurse sat silent, and upon it feebly tossed the racked body of him whom Barrett had called Jerry the Teller.

The head was a shapeless bundle, so swathed it was with bandages and cloths, and what part of the face was visible was discolored and pigmented with drugs. Stretched under the white sheet the man looked immensely tall—as Horner saw with vague misgiving—and he lay in an odd, talismanic fashion, as though he had been all broken to pieces. His attempts to move were constantly soothed by the nurse, and he as constantly continued such attempts, and one hand, though torn and bandaged, was not to be restrained from a wandering, restless movement that Meredith felt to be pathetic. He had entered the room with a flare of hate for the thug whom he had come to see die and who had struck down the old friend whose nearness he had never known until it was too late. But at first sight of the broken figure he felt all animosity fall away from him. Only awe remained and a growing traitorous pity as he watched the long white fingers of the Teller pick at the coverlet. The man was muttering rapid fragments of words and syllables.

"Somehow I feel a sense of wrong, Gay," Meredith whispered to the surgeon, whom he knew. "I feel as if I had done the fellow to death myself, as if it were all out of gear. I know now how Henry felt over the great Guisard. How tall he looks! That doesn't seem to me like a thug's hand."

The surgeon nodded. "Of course if there's a mistake to be made you can count on Barrett and his sergeants to make it. I doubt if this is their man. When they found him, what clothes he wore were torn and stained, but they had been good once, especially the linen."

Barrett bent over the recumbent figure. "See here, Jerry," he said, "I want to talk to you a little. Rouse up, will you? I want to talk to you as a friend."

The incoherent muttering continued.

"See here, Jerry!" repeated Barrett more sharply. "Jerry! Rouse up, will you? We don't want any fooling, understand that, Jerry!" He dropped his hand on the man's shoulder and shook him slightly.

The Teller uttered a short, gasping cry.

"Let me," said Gay and swiftly interposed. Bending over the cot, he said in a pleasant voice: "It's all right, old man; it's all right. Slattery wants to know what you did with that man down at Plattville when you got through with him. He can't remember, and he thinks there was money left on him. Slattery's head was hurt. He can't remember. He'll go shares with you when he gets it. Slattery's going to stand by you if he can get the money."

The Teller only tried to move his free hand to the shoulder Barrett had shaken.

"Slattery wants to know," repeated the young surgeon, gently moving the hand back upon the sheet. "He'll divvy up when he gets it. He'll stand by you, old man."

"Would you please not mind," whispered the Teller faintly—"would you please not mind if you took care not to brush against my shoulder again?"

The surgeon drew back, with an exclamation, but the Teller's whisper gathered strength, and they heard him murmuring oddly to himself. Meredith moved forward, with a startled gesture. "What's that?" he said.

"Seems to be trying to sing, or something," said Barrett, bending over to listen.

The Teller swung his arm heavily over the side of the cot, the fingers never ceasing their painful twitching. The surgeon leaned down and gently moved the cloths so that the white, scarred lips were free. They moved steadily. They seemed to be framing the semblance of an old ballad that Meredith knew. The whisper grew more distinct. It became a rich but broken voice, and they heard it singing like the sound of some far, halting minstrelsy:

"Wave willows—murmur waters—golden sunbeams smile, Earthly music—cannot waken—lovely—Annie Lisle."

Meredith gave an exclamation.

The bandaged hand waved jauntily over the Teller's head. "Ah, men," he said, almost clearly, and tried to lift himself on his arm, "I tell you it's a grand eleven we have this year! There will be little left of anything that stands against them. It's our championship. Did you see Jim Romley ride over his man this afternoon?"

As the voice grew clearer the sheriff stepped forward, but Tom Meredith, with a loud cry of grief, threw himself on his knees beside the cot and seized the wandering fingers in his own. "John!" he cried. "John, is it you?"

The voice went on rapidly, not heeding him, "Ah, you needn't bowl! Well, laugh away, you Indians! If it hadn't been for this ankle—but it seems to be my chest that's hurt—and side—not that it matters, you know. The sophomore's just as good or better. It's only my egotism. Yes, it must be the side—and chest—and head—all over, I believe. I'll try again next year—next year I'll make it a daily. Helen said, not that I should call you Helen—I mean Miss—Miss—Fisbee—no, Sherwood—but I've always thought Helen was the prettiest name in the world—you'll forgive me?—and please tell Parker there's no more copy and won't be—I wouldn't grind out another stick to save his immortal—she said—ah, I never made a good trade—no—unless—they can't come seven miles—but I'll finish you, Skillett, first; I know you! I know nearly all of you. Now let's sing 'Annie Lisle'"— He lifted his hand as if to beat the time for a chorus.

"Oh, John, John!" cried Tom Meredith, and sobbed outright. "My boy, my boy—old friend!" The cry of the classmate was like that of a mother, for it was his old idol and hero who lay helpless and broken before him.

Mrs. L. W. Warner, Riverdale, N.S., is glad there is such a remedy as

Burdock Blood Bitters.

IT CURED HER AND WILL CURE YOU.

She says: "I wish to add my testimony to the many others who have spoken so highly as to the unfailing virtues of Burdock Blood Bitters. I was all run down, had no appetite, lost all ambition, could not sleep much and had terrible headache and backache, and my food did not digest properly. I saw B B B. advertised, so concluded to give it a trial, thinking if it did no good it could do no harm. But after using one bottle I began to feel better, and by the time I had used three bottles I was feeling like a new person. I am so glad there is such a remedy provided for suffering humanity, and cannot praise it enough for I think there is no medicine like it on the market."

We Offer $1,000

For a Disease Germ That Liquozone Can't Kill

On every bottle of Liquozone we publish an offer of $1,000 for a disease germ that it cannot kill. We do that to convince you that Liquozone does as we claim.

Please note what that means. Any drug that kills germs is a poison, and it cannot be taken internally. Medicine is, therefore, almost helpless in any germ disease. Liquozone alone can kill germs in the body without killing the tissues, too.

Acts Like Oxygen

Liquozone is the result of a process which, for more than 20 years, has been the constant study of scientific and chemical research. Its virtues are derived solely from gas, made in large part from the best oxygen producers. By a process requiring immense apparatus and 14 days' time, these gases are made part of the liquid product.

The result is a product that does what oxygen does. Oxygen gas, as you know, is the very source of vitality, the most essential element of life. Liquozone is a vitalizing tonic with which no other known product can compare. But germs are vegetables; and Liquozone, which—like oxygen—is life to an animal, is deadly to vegetal matter.

We Paid $100,000

For the American rights to Liquozone—the highest price ever paid for similar rights on any scientific discovery. We did this after testing the product for two years, through physicians and hospitals, in this country and others.

That price was paid because Liquozone does what all the skill in the world cannot do without it. It does in germ diseases that which is impossible with drugs. It carries into the blood a harmless yet powerful germicide, to destroy at once and forever the cause of any germ disease. And no man knows another way to do it.

Liquozone is new in America, and millions who need it don't know of it. For that reason we are spending $500,000 to give the first bottle free to each of a million sick ones.

Germ Diseases

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Liquozone kills the germs, wherever they are, and the results are inevitable. By destroying the cause of the trouble, it invariably ends the disease, and forever,

AS A WORKING TOOL

for the student and the writer, as an authoritative reference book for schools, teachers, families, business and professional men, there is one book which offers superior advantages in the solid value of its information, and the ease with which it is obtained.

One's admiration for Webster's International Dictionary increases daily as it comes to be better known. It never refuses the information sought and, it never overwhelms one with a mass of misinformation illogically arranged.

The St. James Gazette of London, England, says: For the teacher, the pupil, the student and the litterateur, there is nothing better; it covers everything.

The New and Enlarged Edition recently issued has 25,000 new words and phrases, a completely revised Biographical Dictionary and Gazetteer of the World, 2000 pages and 2000 illustrations.

EPITHELIOMA

Covering One Side of Face and Reaching to the Eye

CURED BY CUTICURA

Which Acted Like a Charm After Doctors and Hospitals Failed.

Here is another of those remarkable cures of torturing, disfiguring skin humours daily made by Cuticura Resolvent, assisted by Cuticura Ointment and Soap, after physicians, hospitals and all else had failed.

"I feel it my duty to try to help those suffering from skin diseases. My case was a very bad one, covering all of one side of my face and had reached my eye. I had two or three doctors prescribe without any relief. They said my disease was Epithelioma. I was then advised to go to one of our hospitals, which I did, taking their treatment for some time. I had given up all hope when my husband asked me to try the Cuticura Remedies. My face being in such a very bad state, I used the Cuticura Soap with luke-warm water and a small silk sponge and then applied the Cuticura Ointment. I took one teaspoonful of the Resolvent four times a day. They acted like a charm, and in one week's time my face was cured entirely and has remained so. I certainly can recommend the Cuticura Remedies as infallible."

The purity and sweetness, the power to afford immediate relief, the certainty of speedy and permanent cure, the absolute safety and great economy have made Cuticura Remedies the standard skin cures, blood purifiers and humour remedies of the world.

AN ACCIDENT AT YOUNG'S POINT

Scow Loaded with wood Struck Pier and Sank.

On Thursday of last week while the steamer Alert was towing a scowload of wood from Stony Lake, an accident occurred to the scow. Just after the lockage had been made at the Point the scow broke lose from the steamer. The current at this place is very strong and before the scow could be secured it ran into the end of a boom which was hanging over a pier. The result was that a hole was punched in the scow and in a few minutes it sank. Fortunately the wood remained on the scow, and after the injury had been repaired the water was pumped out, and the scow towed safely to Lakefield.—Lakefield News.

LATEST SPORT

BASEBALL.

The game arranged and advertised for this afternoon between the local Midland League and Cobourg teams have been cancelled by the failure of the Cobourg team to put in an appearance. On Thursday Manager Whiteroft was in Cobourg and arranged personally for the game this afternoon, the Cobourg team promising to be on hand, and no other intimation had been received until after the arrival of the train this morning, when it was found that they had not come. The manager of the team was communicated with by telephone, and the excuse offered for the non-appearance of the team, was that one of the members was sick.

The management of the local team is very much disappointed over the treatment received at the hands of the Cobourg Club.

The League season will open here next Saturday with the Port Hope team playing the first game.

Last night the aspirants for the Examiner trophy in the Guild League played an exhibition game on the Benson avenue grounds. The teams were the St. Andrew's, last year's champions, and the George street nine. The game was the second of the series played this week. On Wednesday night on the MaDonel street grounds, St. Andrew's defeated George street easily by 10—3, the winners playing errorless ball. Last night the team representing George street was much stronger, and the score was more even, at the end of 3 innings each team having scored 4 runs. Mulhern pitched for the George street team, and had good control; Paterson was in the box for St. Andrew's, and was effective until the last innings, when he gave three passes. Both teams played good ball, the Presbyterians outbatting the Methodists. The teams were:

St. Andrew's — Reid lf, Foster ss, P. Kerr 3b, McDonald 2b, Thornton c, Paterson p, Anderson rf, Kerr cf, Elliott 1b.

George street — Metheral cf, Mann 2b, Parnell 3b, Robertson 1b, Miller lf, Dobbin c, Matthews p, Humbers ss, Cressman rf.

Mr. H. R. H. Kenner acted as umpire in a thoroughly satisfactorily manner.

The Sporting Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—In last evening's paper the Victorias resumed their wrangle about the Young Quakers challenging them to a game of baseball. Upon inquiry I find that two of last year's Victorias know nothing of a team of that name this year. I wish to inform the player who is taking so much of the Victorias' business in his hands, that I will put my team against his, and will guarantee him that his team will have to hustle to do anything and perhaps before the game is through his Vics. will be more of kindergarten students than were the Port Hopers, as he says the latter were. The Victoria man calls our challenge a piece of impudence. I do not see where it comes in, but I did see a lot of impudence and sarcasm in his last paragraph. If this man wants a game I will ask him to change his tactics, and see me personally and not publish his talk through the newspapers.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your valuable space, I am

Yours truly,
HARRY KINGSCOTE,
Manager Young Quakers.

DOURO.

The annual picnic will be held on Thursday, June 23rd. The object of the picnic is to obtain funds to decorate St. Joseph's church with stained glass windows. The work is being done by Mr. Lyons of Church street, Toronto.

The 40 Hours in St. Joseph's Church, Duoro, was a great success. Over 700 people attended their religious duties. Vicar General Browne, Rev. Father Derling, C.S.S.R., Toronto, and Rev. Fathers Fitzpatrick, of Ennismore, Crowley, of North Bay, John O'Brien, of Peterborough and Kellty, of Duoro, took part in the devotion. The 40 Hours commemorates the 40 Hours during which the Sacred Body of Christ lay in the Tomb.

JAPANESE WON TAKING 78 GUNS

Mikado Lost 3,500 Men in Fight for Capture of Kinchou.

RUSSIANS LEFT 500 DEAD.

Fighting at Dalny has Begun—Russia's Sacrifice of Nanquanling Causes Surprise—Vivid Description of the Storming and Taking of Nanshan Hill by the Japanese—Russians Offered Stubborn Resistance.

Washington, May 30.—The following cablegram has been received at the Japanese legation:

"Tokio, May 29.—Gen. Oku, commanding the army attacking Kinchou, reports that, in the attack on Nanshan Hill, the fourth division formed the right wing, the third division the left wing, and the first division the centre. The enemy consisted of one division of the field army and two batteries of field artillery, besides fortress, artillery and marines. The third division, taking advantage of the enemy's left wing, which was weakened by the bombardment from our fleet at Kinchou Bay, finally succeeded in carrying the enemy's position, while other divisions immediately followed it up. Thereupon, the enemy retreated in confusion, exploding magazines at Tafangshin. The trophies of battle consist of 68 guns and 10 machine guns, besides many other things. Our casualties are estimated at about 3,500. The enemy left on the battlefield over 500 dead bodies."

Fighting at Dalny Begun.

London, May 30.—Nanquanling and Sanchilipu, strong positions in the outer defences of Port Arthur, have been abandoned by the Russians without a battle, and the victorious Japanese, showing little fatigue from the hard won fights of Kinchou and Nanshan Hill, have begun an attack on Dalny. So run the latest reports from Tokio. It is understood that the garrison in Dalny is not large and the Russians will be unable to send reinforcements in their hurried retreat to Port Arthur. Fifty Russian guns have been captured.

The sacrifice of Nanquanling by the Russians causes considerable surprise. It consisted of a well-placed fort on the top of a high hill, commanding the railroad, and the only way toward Port Arthur. The railway station at Sanchilipu, northwest of Dalny, was blown up by the retreating Muscovites.

A GRAPHIC STORY.

Details of the Jap Attack on Nanshan Hill and of the Russians' Stubborn Resistance.

Tokio, May 30.—The Japanese assault on Nanshan Hill was one of the fiercest and bloodiest affairs in modern warfare. In the earlier rushes of the engagement every man participating was shot down before he reached the first line of Russian trenches. It was found necessary to stop these infantry charges and renew the artillery fire from the rear before the final and successful assault on the Russian position could be made. The success of this assault was brought about by one detachment of Japanese troops, more intrepid than their comrades, who succeeded in piercing the Russian line.

A Fortunate Incident.

A splendid stroke of fortune was the discovery and destruction by the Japanese of the electric wires leading to the mines at the eastern foot of Nanshan Hill. This prevented the Russians from exploding these mines when the Japanese infantry crossed the ground where they had been placed. It is possible that the fortune of the day hinged upon these mines. If the Russians had been able to explode them at the right time the losses among the Japanese troops would have been tremendous, and it is possible also that the Russians would have been able to hold the hill.

Russians Had 50 Guns.

Nanshan was splendidly defended. Nearly fifty guns of various sizes were mounted on the various emplacements and there were also numbers of two batteries of quick-firing pieces. This artillery was sheltered behind loopholes trenched on the terraces of the hill. The infantry manning the field pieces ran with them around the hill, thus using these guns for the protection of most important points. The Japanese began the fight by bringing all their field guns into action and concentrating their fire on the emplacements on the hill. By 11 o'clock in the morning the principal Russian batteries had been silenced. The two Russian field batteries then withdrew to Nanquanling Hill, and from there continued the fire on the Japanese until nightfall.

Wire Entanglements.

After the Russian batteries had been silenced the Japanese artillery opened on the enemy's trenches, the Japanese infantry advancing meanwhile to within rifle range. The Japanese gradually worked to within 400 metres of the Russian lines, where they encountered wire and other entanglements. They succeeded in discovering an opening in these obstacles, and getting finally to within 200 metres of the Russian trenches they rushed for the line.

Swept Up the Hill.

Several successive charges were made, but every officer and man in the attacking parties was shot down, 20 or 30 metres from the line. The charges were then stopped and the Japanese artillery renewed its preparatory fire on the enemy's position. Towards evening a detachment of Japanese carried a section of the Russian trenches, breaking through the enemy's line. Hundreds of comrades of these men, inspired by their success, sprang forward and then the entire Japanese line swept up the hill, driving the Russians from their positions. It was in the desperate infantry charges that the Japanese sustained the bulk of their losses.

In a State of Blockade.

Washington, May 30. — Minister Griscom cables the State Department from Tokio, under yesterday's date, that the Japanese Government declares the Liaotung Peninsula, from Pieswo to Pulantien, to be in a state of blockade.

Japs Captured 70 Guns.

Tokio, May 30.—The Japanese casualties at Nanshan are now estimated at 3,500. The number of Russian guns captured exceed 70.

Chinese Getting Out.

Liaoyang, May 30.—Most of the Chinese merchants are closing their stores and winding up business in expectation of serious events. Those remaining in business have raised the prices of meats and other products. A Chinese personage here is believed to be organizing a movement against the Russians.

Japs Entice Frontier Guards.

Kaiping, May 30.—The Liaotung frontier guards have several times came into collision with the Japanese cavalry. Japanese tactics has been to retreat and entice the guards toward the Japanese infantry, which lay in wait.

Japs Attacking Dalny.

Rome, May 30.—A despatch from Tokio says Major-General Fock, the commander of the Fourth Siberian Rifles, was severely wounded at Kinchou. The Japanese are now attacking Dalny.

A Battle on Friday.

Che Foo, May 30.—A Chinaman who arrived from Dalny yesterday, having left there on Saturday, says that a Japanese scouting party was seen by villagers in the vicinity of Dalny, and that a battle took place Friday at Yingchongtse, a point on the railroad about ten miles northwest of Dalny.

Dalny Practically Evacuated.

Che Foo, May 30.—Dalny has been practically evacuated, according to the statements of Sikh and Russian refugees' arriving here yesterday by junk. All valuables ammunition, and most of the troops have been taken to Port Arthur. The only civilians remaining are the electrical engineers in charge of the mines laid in the harbor, and also those set to destroy docks and piers.

Country People's Work.

Seoul, May 30.—M. Hayashi, Japanese Minister to Corea, has notified the Foreign Office that the Japanese military authorities are constantly complaining that telegraphic communication with Gensan is frequently interrupted. The Japanese military authorities suspect that the country people are cutting the lines at various unfrequented points.

Revised Hatsuse Casualties.

Tokio, May 30.—Revised figures show that 61 non-commissioned officers and 378 bluejackets were killed and thirteen non-commissioned officers and fifty bluejackets slightly wounded, and twelve bluejackets seriously wounded in the sinking of the Japanese battleship Hatsuse, and that 286 perished on the Yoshino.

The Baltic Fleet.

Paris, May 30.—The Echo de Paris' St. Petersburg correspondent learns that the Baltic fleet will leave in two detachments. The first, consisting of four battleships, is due to start June 24.

Russia Makes An Offer.

London, May 30.—The Tientsin correspondent of The Daily Express says that Paul Lessar, the Russian Minister to China, has informed Prince Ching that Russia will finally evacuate Newchwang, provided China grants a concession for a railway from Kalgan across Chinese Mongolia to Kiakhta, 80 miles from Lake Baikal, or that Russia will evacuate Manchuria outright if China leases the Ili territory to Russia.

Jap Demand on China.

London, May 30.—The Standard's Tientsin correspondent telegraphs that Uchida, the Japanese minister at Pekin, has demanded an immediate reply to the inquiry previously sent to the Waiwupu, as to whether China is prepared to hold and administer the territory the Japanese have conquered, otherwise Japan must appeal to other powers to undertake the responsibility at the expense of China.

They're samples, that's the secret, and they come to us duty free and without freight. That's why you can buy them at a saving of forty per cent. Samples are never worse than the stock bought from them. Will you save money?

Suits Tailored Cloths—Man-tailored Suits—Suits with an apparent New York touch, yet purely Canadian in workmanship, though we have to give New York credit for the style—the smart little or big features that make them SWELL SUITS.

BUT THEY'RE ALL REDUCED

Their smartness and general goodness impelled us to buy more than we should have of the "BETTER SUITS." That's why we changed the prices. They run this way now:—

$25.00, $27.50, $30.00, $35.00 Suits for $15.00

$12.50, $15.00 and $19.50 Suits for..... $10.00

About 20 Suits in all! Be early! No half-way measure!

SKIRTS of Mixed and All-wool Materials, in walking and dress lengths and assorted colours, all regular sizes, worth $2.87 $4.50, $5.50 and $6.00. To be cleared at $2.87

The above lines are thus priced to clear "quick" to give more room for WASH SUITS, etc. Do not delay; these cannot last but a few days.

MONDAY, MAY 30, 1904.

ON THE PENITENT'S BENCH.

Mr. Borden is not very accurate in his use of terms if he deems that the Government project for the building of a transcontinental railway is hostile to the principle of public ownership. The Government's scheme is eminently a public ownership scheme. The public will own the line from Winnipeg to Moncton as absolutely as a man owns the house which he builds with his own money. That is surely public ownership. It is a long step in the direction of those who advocate that the means of transportation should be in the hands of the Government. It is a bolder assertion of the principle than any Government has yet made, for the Intercolonial was a political rather than a commercial undertaking. It avoids the perils of public construction and public operation. It secures during the critical years of construction and operation the vigilance, thrift and masterly supervision of private interests, but it retains the ownership and the right at the end of a stated period to decide as to whether the time has arrived for operation as well as ownership.

What is the Opposition policy but a counsel of despair? For months last year and for many weeks this year the question has been subjected in Parliament to oceans of talk, and it may be said without exaggeration that the Opposition arguments answered themselves. The task of the Government press has been light, for it has only been necessary to wait and the Opposition speakers abolished the arguments of each other. The Government has gone a long distance along the road in the direction of modern ideas with regard to the relations between the railway and the State. All that was open for Mr. Borden to do was to go still farther and declare for public construction and public operation. The hollowness and insincerity of the thing is absurdly apparent. Did any one ever hear a word from the gentlemen to Mr. Speaker's left, with the one exception of Mr. Maclean, in favour of public ownership until party exigencies drove them there? Has the Conservative press been influencing public opinion in its favour? Where are the speeches and articles by which Conservative voters were to be instructed on the merits of this radical departure in their views and principles? Not a line. What Conservative newspaper has been inculcating the doctrines into which Mr. Borden has plunged? At the last municipal elections the people of Ottawa voted in favour of public ownership of the electric lighting of the streets. In due time the question came before Council. But the advocates of public ownership in the Council were not cheered by daily arguments in favour of that principle in the columns of The Citizen. The Citizen, which is willing to adventure on the unknown seas of building and managing railways, could not trust its own city fathers with the lighting of the city. Yet there can be no doubt that it is in municipal services that public operation should be first tried. No observant person doubts but that public ownership and operation of services that in their nature are monopolies is a progressive idea which will not stop until it has covered the whole field which legitimately belongs to it. But the wisest friends of the movement are convinced that it is better that it should make its way gradually and justify itself by its works. Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his colleagues have accorded it the widest recognition that it has yet received on this continent in this very contract of which its opponents complain that it does not recognize public ownership.

The Government's record in this respect has been consistent. Soon after its advent to office it pushed two important transportation projects to completion, namely, the deepening of the canals and the extension of the Intercolonial Railway to Montreal. During all the time these earnest public ownership gentlemen were in office they were content to have the people's railway, the Intercolonial, end in a ploughed field, and they chivalrously agreed to tie its hands, so that it would not be too offensive a rival of the Canadian Pacific's short line to the Maritime ports. When Mr. Blair proposed to remove the shackles and bring the Intercolonial to Montreal he was most virulently attacked and accused of all sorts of turpitude. One can fancy how that chorus would have been revived with tenfold power if the Government had proposed a further extension, such as Mr. Borden himself now advocates. Mr. Borden's declaration for public operation is insincere in every way, except in that it is an unconscious tribute to the fact that it is very difficult to discover a reasonable basis of opposition to the policy which the Government has just carried through to its third reading.—The Globe.

LUMBER AND IMPLEMENTS.

The Conservatives are saying that the Government, in the language of the Mail and Empire, is "playing into the hands of the Yankee implement combine" by refusing to increase the duty on binders, mowers and harvesters. Well, the duty on these articles was once 35 per cent. Who reduced it to 20 per cent.? Mr. George E. Foster, in 1894. Why? Was he, too, playing into the hands of the Yankee combine? By no means. He said in his budget speech on that occasion (Hansard, March 27, 1894) that the reduction would "have the effect of greatly cheapening one of the largest items of expenditure to which the farmer has been subjected, especially in grain-growing districts." For this reason, and none other, Liberals have kept the duty exactly where the Conservatives then put it.

The Conservatives profess to be astonished, too, that the Government does not tax lumber. The lumbermen of British Columbia desire such a tax, which, however, would be a serious burden on the Northwest settler. How does lumber come to be free? Mr. Foster abolished the duty of 20 per cent. in 1894. Why? These were his reasons (Hansard, March 27, 1894):—

"This is a special concession, and, I hope, will prove a useful one in Manitoba and the Northwest. There was no one feature of our examination into the condition of things in that part of the country which impressed itself so forcibly on my mind as the combine which existed for the distribution and sale of lumber. Every town was parcelled out. One or two men were selected to whom was given the monopoly of selling in each place. The prices were fixed and if they sold a fraction of a cent under the fixed prices their privilege was taken away and given to somebody else. That monopoly bore heavily on the people of that country, where lumber is so essentially necessary in the making of barns and houses, and I came to the conclusion that, if possible, help should be given by putting lumber upon the free list, and that has been done."

The late Mr. Davin (April 2, 1894) characterized the abolition of the 20 per cent. duty on rough lumber as a "tremendous boon to the Northwest and Manitoba." Another Conservative member, Mr. Boyd, then, as now representing the Manitoba constituency of Macdonald, took credit to himself (April 10, 1894) for having exposed the doings of the combine to Mr. Foster and the Cabinet at large.

That the British Columbia lumbermen have had a combine quite recently, is confessed by themselves. Let the duty be restored and American lumber shut out, and they and the Lake of the Woods lumberman would doubtless grind the face of the settler again. A great flow of immigration is now pouring into Manitoba and the Northwest. If the present Government were to reimpose the lumber duty, the Conservatives would be the first to attack them, and with reason, for obstructing the flood by enhancing the cost of living and of producing the cost of living and of producing to the newcomers.

MOUNT PLEASANT.

(From our own Correspondent.)

We regret to record the death of one of our old residents, Mr. John D. Garnett. He with a number of other worthies who have long since passed away, was the organizer of the first Sunday school here. It was called the "Mount Pleasant Union Sabbath School," some of the men of that day were bitterly opposed to union of either Sunday school or churches, but we are now living in a more enlightened age, when progress is the motto of the day, even in religious matters. Men can now see the errors of the past and that still exist. We copy from "The Banner" of May 13th, 1904, the following:—"With profound regret we chronicle the death of Mr. John D. Garnett, which occurred last Wednesday at his home in Minniska. The deceased has been a resident of this district for the past 21 years, having moved to the West in 1883, first settling in "Castleavery" and six years later moved to Minniska. He leaves a sorrowing widow, five sons and two daughters, Mrs. Wm. Shield at Mount Pleasant, Ontario, Walter, at Otonabee, Dickson in Southern Manitoba, William, Earnest, Harry and Miss Susan at home, also two sisters living in the United States. The funeral which was largely attended, took place on Friday. A short service was held at the house after which the remains were conveyed to Minniska church ,where a memorial service was conducted by the Rev. Wm. Edmison (formerly of Peterborough.) In speaking of the deceased, he stated that a good citizen and Christian man had been taken away. Mr. Garnett was an elder of the church at Minniska and had led the singing of the congregation for years, he had helped almost to the last in the Sunday school and in every way had proved himself a constant worker for the uplifting of the community." We sympathize with those whom are left to mourn for the absent one. Let us take warning and be able to say with the psalmist "Lord make Me to Know Mine End, and the Measure of My Days, what it is, that I May Know how Frail I am."

The 24th was ushered in by booming of cannon. Flags were flying in honour of our late beloved Queen Victoria."

FOREPAUGH, AND SELLS BROTHERS

Circus and Show Here on Saturday July 2nd.

Many new Features will be Introduced —An Enlarged Show of Special Merit.

It will be good news to the people of this vicinity to learn that we will have a circus this season, and that it will be the big Adam Forepaugh and Sells Brothers united shows, which will appear in Peterborough on Saturday, July 2nd.

It has now been three years since these great circuses exhibited here, and this season all new features, never before seen here, are promised in profusion.

First there will be Porthos, who makes a thrilling descent of 100 feet on his bicycle, and then leaps in mid-air over ten elephants, a distance of 50 feet. The French Lecussons, will be seen for the first time in this country in sensational equestrian feats. Diavolo will loop-the-loop on a bicycle and the Aurora Zouaves, the champion soldiers of the world, will be seen in marvellous military manoeuvres. A strange and unfamiliar acrobatic dancing and musical wonder, is the Szarvasi Frencz Troupe of Hungarian Magyars, so far at least, as this country is concerned, in a class entirely by themselves. They come from their native land with the highest of royal and popular endorsement. Mons. Hubert, also making his first appearance here might be termed as at once an amalgamation of juggling, jockey and Samson. Assuredly the feat of leaping from the ground to the back of his horse, while holding aloft a sulky by its thills, and that of balancing a park cart on his chin, are unparalleled in our arena. Volatile, fun-loving France, also sends us her four most famous male and professional fools, in the four Martinetts, appearing in stellar conjunction with nearly 50 other champion clowns. The scope of the three rings, elevated stages, coliseum course, and highway pageants has been enlarged to include, mammoth, expert and historical features, which would mightily please even Mars himself.

OMEMEE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The prospects for all kinds of good crops were never more promising.

At McQuade's crossing one and one-half miles east of Omemee, the evening express struck and demolished Mr. Richard Hamilton's rig, while driving with his stallion and another beast. Mr. Hamilton had a close call.

The Victoria Day celebration passed off here very successfully. A fine programme of sports on land and water was run off, for which prizes were given by Peterborough, Lindsay and Omemee citizens, and a large number of visitors from those places favoured us with their presence, as well as those from Toronto and other places. The Collegiate cricket club team of Lindsay won from Omemee.

The concert held by Presbyterian C. Endeavour proved a great success. A pleasant feature of the day was the absence of drunks and disorderlies.

MIDLAND WANTS CANAL COMPLETED

Its Claims Ably Advocated by Mayor of that Town.

Transportation Commission Holds a Session at Georgian Bay Port Some of the Information Gleaned.

A special despatch from Midland to the Globe says: The Transportation Commission took evidence here Thursday night, the official view of the port being presented by the Mayor, Mr. Douglass L. White, jr., in a carefully prepared statement, advocating the completion of the Trent Valley Canal, which, in his opinion would compel the G.T.R. to improve their line to a condition equal to that of the New York Central. Mr. White considered three routes available — the all-water route from Fort William to Montreal, the route via the Trent Valley Canal and that by water to Midland and by the G.T.R. to Montreal.

The rate is now five cents a bushel from Fort William, and should be four cents, which would leave all a reasonable profit. The cost of making the Welland Canal capable of carrying such vessels as the W. D. Matthews would be between $35,000,000 and $50,000,000, while the Trent Valley Canal could be completed for $6,000,000. The Trent Valley Canal route would develop Ontario, and even if it did not carry a bushel of grain would act as a regulator to prevent the railways asking improper rates. Mr. White was confident the Grand Trunk Railway should be able to carry wheat from Midland to Montreal as cheaply as grain could be carried by water. To obtain this of course the roadbed, grades and bridges would have to be improved up to almost the standard of the New York Central.

In answer to a question as to whether the Government should help the railways to make these improvements instead of spending money on the canal, Mr. White said he thought the railway appeared willing to make the improvements of their own accord, and instanced the improvements already being made. At present the G.T.R. can take out with one locomotive only seventeen cars—that is, 550 tons—while the New York Central trains are from 60 to 70 cars. Mr. White estimated that if the G.T.R. could take 40 cars per train with one locomotive at two cents a bushel, this would increase the earnings per train load by from $225 to $640. Mr. White advocated that the elevator facilities here should be increased from one and a half million bushels to at least four millions, and in conclusion urged the commissioners to advise the increase of terminal facilities at ocean ports, the lack of which, he thought, more than shortage of rolling stock, congested traffic.

Mr. W. J. Parkhill, collector of customs, gave the following grain statistics for this port: 1900, 7,000,000 bushels; 1901, 4,750,000 bushels; 1902, 15,000,000 bushels.

Captain F. Burke, of the steamer Midland Queen, suggested certain improvements in navigation aids in the way of additional fog signals and gas buoys on a few points already less effectively marked. Fogs were prevalent on Georgian Bay in the spring and on Lake Superior in the summer. The Captain was confident that good ice breakers at Fort William and at this port would undoubtedly add a month to the season, carrying it from April 1 to December 22. The run from Fort William was made in 58 hours, the round trip taking about six days. The entrance to this harbour, the captain thought, was not so well lighted as Depot Harbour although this harbour is the best on the Georgian Bay in his opinion.

New York, May 30.—Seven freight and coal piers of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad in Jersey City were destroyed by a fire that started a few minutes after 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon in Pier 12. The loss is estimated at $1,000,000. Four persons were injured.

Perdicaris' Peril.

Washington, May 30.—The kidnapers of Ion Perdicaris and his step-son, Varley, in Morocco, have submitted their terms for ransom, and the State Department has decided that it is absolutely impossible to accept them.

Fire Causes 12,000 Loss.

St. Thomas, May 30.—The Lindop mill here was burned Saturday morning early. Mr. Lindop's loss is $12,000, of which $10,000 is on the building and machinery and $2,000 on material.

Ashore With 450 Laborers.

Kingston, Jamaica, May 30.—The British steamer Rosetti, having on board 450 laborers from the United Fruit Company's plantation, went ashore off Port Royal Saturday night, while on her way to Bocas del Toro Costa, and up to the present time all efforts to refloat her have proved futile. The vessel lies in an exposed condition.

WHAT YOU LIKE

GOVERNMENT'S GUARANTEE

Order-in-Council Issued Declaring That All Provisions of the Act Have Been Complied With—Probability That the Extensive Plant at Sault Ste. Marie Will Be in Operation Within a Week.

Toronto, May 30.—The "Soo" reorganization scheme has been completed. Within a week the extensive plant at Sault Ste. Marie should be in full operation. At a special meeting of the Ontario Cabinet on Saturday morning, presided over by Hon. J. M. Gibson, in the absence of the Premier, an order was passed, declaring that the provisions under which the bonds of the company are to be guaranteed by the government, have been complied with.

The Order Issued.

The order declares: "That the Government of the Province of Ontario is satisfied that the provisions of section 7 of the act entitled 'an act respecting aid to the Algoma Central and Hudson Bay Railway, and associated industries at Sault Ste. Marie,' passed during the session of the Legislative Assembly of Ontario, have been complied with, and that all conditions precedent to the delivery of the Government guarantee referred to in the said section 7 of the said act have been performed."

It was wired to the Government representatives in New York, and the necessary cash was handed over to the Canadian Improvement Company by Orvis Brothers, stock brokers, of New York, representing the Government.

The whole transaction was completed on Saturday.

The Government's Precaution.

The Ontario Government has exercised the most particular care in ascertaining that every provision of the act was complied with. All the unsecured creditors who have not expressed a willingness to accept first mortgage bonds as security will be paid in cash, and after these claims have been met there will be $1,000,000 left for working capital, the Government having insisted that this should not be impaired in any way.

Lake Superior Corporation.

New York, May 30.—The Herald says: Consummation of the reorganization plan of the Consolidated Lake Superior Company was effected Saturday at the offices of the Morton Trust Company. The great Lake Superior corporation has disappeared. Out of its ruins has arisen the Lake Superior Corporation, which succeeds to all its rights and is now the owner of all its property, with a much reduced capital of $40,000,000 of stock, $3,000,000 of income bonds and $10,000,000 of first mortgage collateral trust five per cent. gold bonds, making in the aggregate $33,000,000 of securities. According to Mr. Dos Passos, Speyer & Co., whose loan is now liquidated, receiving a cheque for about $2,583,000. In the transaction many million dollars were turned over Saturday, the contributions having been made by the stockholders, the underwriting syndicate and the $2,000,000 contributed by the Ontario Government through Blair & Co. In all these transactions the Morton Trust Company acted as a sort of clearing house, receiving and disbursing all the money. The board of directors of the Lake Superior Corporation will be named this week.

THE WORST KIND.

After Piles have existed for a long time and passed through different stages, the suffering is intense—pain, aching, throbbing, tumors form, filled to bursting with black blood.

Symptoms indicating other troubles may appear to a thoroughly Pile-sick person.

This is when Hem-Roid, the only internal, the only absolute Pile cure, brings ther esults that has made its fame.

It will cure the most stubborn case in existence and bonded guarantee to that effect goes with each package.

It is to be had the drug store of James Lynch, 166 Hunter street, Peterborough. 3

Threatened His Family.

Corinth, May 30.—Albert Pound, who has been living with his wife and two small children, on a farm about three miles west of the village, was arrested Saturday for threatening to murder his family, and committed for further trial and expert examination at St. Thomas. Evidence given goes to show that he has had spells of insanity, and in one of these fits, having had trouble with some boys, he came in the house and commenced sharpening a razor, telling his wife the whole family would be dead in half an hour.

Difficulties of a Census.

Johannesburg, May 30.—The unaudited figures of the Transvaal census just published show a total population of 1,268,818—viz., whites 299,327, natives 915,698, other colored persons 23,891. As evidencing the difficulties of the enumerators, it may be stated that one trooper of the constabulary was drowned in the Zoutpansberg region and another was mauled by a lion in the Sable district, while many contracted fever.

The Babies' Troubles.

The greatest suffering of childhood is caused by eczema, scald head, chafing or other forms of skin irritation or eruption. Because of its extraordinary soothing, healing power Dr. Chase's Ointment is of inestimable value in the home where there are small children. No mother who has learned the secret of ways in which Dr. Chase's Ointment can be used would think of being without it in the house.

LIFT LOCK TO OPEN IN JUNE.

Will Probably Take Place Between the Middle and the End of the Month.

On Saturday the water was let into the upper reaches of the canal at the lift lock, and the tests were conducted with satisfactory results. The air compressor plant was put into operation and found to work satisfactorily. The tests are progressing satisfactorily, according to the statement of one of the engineers in charge of the work, and it is expected that the lock will be ready for the official opening during the month of June, though the date has not been decidrd upon as yet, but it will only be a matter of a short time now, and it should be understood by the public that everything in connection with the work of preparation at the lock is satisfactory to those in charge, and the work is proceeding even better than had been anticipated. The opening, according to the best information available will be between the middle and the end of June.

BIG EXCURSIONS HERE THIS SEASON

The First will Come on Friday June 3rd

During the summer of 1904, from present prospects, Peterborough will be the objective point of a greater number of excursions than any season previous. Evidently Peterborough's attractions are at last commanding attention and during this season there will doubtless be many thousands of summer visitors.

The first excursion will be run by the Ladies Aid Society of Brighton Methodist Church, on June 3rd, from stations on the main line of the G. T.R. from Belleville to Port Hope.

The points of interest mentioned as being attractive in Peterborough are "The largest lift lock in the world," American Cereal Company's mills, the C. G. E. works, Peter Hamilton Manufacturing Company, Canadian Cordage Company, Peterborough Lock Manufacturing Company, Colonial Ink Company."

Peterborough is referred to as the "coming city of Central Ontario."

This excursion is but the first of many which will come to Peterborough this year. On Saturday, June 4th, about 600 excursionists will be here from West York, on the Farmers' Institute annual excursion, which this year comes to Peterborough.

STRANGERS TEA.

An Enjoyable Evening Spent at the Y. M. C. A. Last Night.

DOES THE CAP FIT?

An Unpleasant Predicament of two Peterborough Young Men.

The Lakefield News says: "Two ladies and two gentlemen drove up from Peterborough to the village on Tuesday last and on their arrival the two gentlemen got out at one of our hosteleries, presumably for a cigar. On coming out of the hotel they found to their surprise that the young ladies had driven off and returned to Peterborough without them. We do not know whether the walking was good that day or not."

WHAT WE MAY EXPECT.

In a few years we shall read epitaphs like this, says the Portland Oregonian:

Here lies
JOHN PITTSBURG SKIBO SMITH
Who was born in a
CARNEGIE TOWN,
Educated in a
CARNEGIE INSTITUTE,
Studied in a
CARNEGIE LIBRARY.
At the age of thirty he became a
CARNEGIE HERO,
And has now gone to be with
CARNEGIE.

And the Oregonian might have added the usual conclusion of an epitaph with the variation the temperature might suggest:—

Where it is hoped

Cured His Mother of Rheumatism.

"My mother has been a sufferer for many years with rheumatism," says W. H. Howard, of Husband, Pa. "At times she was unable to move at all, while at all times walking was very painful. I presented her with a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and after a few applications she decided it was the most wonderful pain reliever she had ever tried; in fact she is never without it now, and is at all times able to walk. An occasional application of Pain Balm keeps away the pain that she was formerly troubled with." For sale by all druggists.

SAD DEATH AT ST. JOSEPH'S HOSPITAL.

Mr. Thos. O'Sullivan died after Brief Illness.

A sad death occurred last night at St. Joseph's Hospital, when Mr. Thomas O'Sullivan, of Campbellford, died after a short illness. The deceased only entered the hospital on Thursday and there was no anticipation that his illness would prove serious until within an hour before his death, which occurred about 5 o'clock yesterday evening.

The deceased came to town on Victoria Day to spend a few days and to recuperate from a slight indisposition from which he was suffering. He was taken ill, however, with pneumonia, and was taken to the hospital where his daughter, Sister Antonette is one of the nurses. He rapidly became worse, his death occurring as stated.

His son, Father Frank O'Sullivan, of Lindsay, formerly of the Cathedral there, and Sister Antonette, were at his side when the end came. The other surviving members of the family are: Two sons, George and John, and one daughter, who, with Mrs. O'Sullivan, live at Campbellford.

The body was taken to Campbellford this afternoon and the funeral will take place to-morrow forenoon at Campbellford.

BOARD OF HEALTH'S SESSION THIS MORNING.

A Short Meeting.—Samples of Bad City Water.—The Business.

A meeting of the local Board of Health was held in the town clerk's office. There were present Messrs. R. Neill, chairman; W. Eyres, A. Parker, Mayor Ruger, Dr. McNulty.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed.

A communication was received from Mrs. A. M. Campbell, complaining of the bad condition of the town water, which she was obliged to use as her well had been closed. She asked that the matter be looked into.

Mr. Green was present at the meeting and showed a sample of town water which looked as though it had been taken from some mud puddle along the road.

The Mayor moved that the chairman and Mr. Eyres be a committee to interview the water commissioners regarding the bad water which was complained of. The motion was carried.

It was the opinion of the Board that the sample of water shown was the result of a pipe being repaired or some such cause and the matter will be thoroughly investigated.

A communication was received from Mr. Ed. Flaherty stating that he had often asked for city water, but to no effect and requesting that he be given the city water as soon as possible.

A number of accounts were presented and left over until another meeting.

The Board adjourned to meet in committee on Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock.

A MISSIONARY SERMON AT ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

Rev. N. Tucker, of Toronto, Preached an able Sermon Yesterday Morning.

At St. John's Church yesterday morning Rev. Norman Tucker, M. A., of Toronto, organizing secretary of the Missionary Society of the Canadian Church, preached an eloquent and forceful sermon to a large congregation. He spoke of the general work of the society of which he sketched a brief history. He referred to the remarkable growth during the past year when $75,000 had been asked for and raised. There was great need for workers in the West, where there was a large field for church work. The speaker referred to the site of St. John's Church as the most picturesque he had ever seen in his travels over the Dominion from Atlantic to Pacific. With all the advantages possessed by the congregation they should lead the way in missionary effort. He congratulated the congregation warmly upon the liberal response to the missionery call last year when there was a small surplus over the amount asked for, and expressed the hope that they would not fail in their effort of this year to surpass last year's record.

At the evening service Mrs. Ryerson Ritchie of Cleveland., a former resident of Peterborough, sang a solo in beautiful voice which greatly delighted the congregation.

Rev. Mr. Tucker preached at St. Luke's in the evening.

COBOURG'S ESTIMATE OF MR. CULVERWELL

Says he has Fooled that town Along with Others.

The Cobourg Sentinel Star, of Friday, has the following to say of Mr. J. A. Culverwell:—

"Mr. J. A. Culverwell, the merry-go-round man, we see has taken up the Port Hope Trent Canal project, and in a windy manner is making himself heard throughout the press. This promoter has fooled Lindsay, Peterborough and Cobourg. He has pulled the wool over the eyes of Mayor James of Bowmanville, and is thick in with Port Hope. We think Port Hope had better drop him, or they will be hoodoed. We want the canal for Cobourg, but Mr. Culverwell would have no standing here, and we can play a waiting game, for, if we have the best route, we will get it; if Port Hope has the best, we will warmly endorse her claim, but Mr. Culverwell should play out and not bob up serenely every little while.

Underwear to Suit the Thermometer.

When it comes to fine light summer underwear for men, young men and boys, who would ever think of buying before seeing LeBrun's stock? Nobody who bought there before. These are the days of light apparel, and this is the store to buy if you want to buy right. We have just the right weights and the right qualities to make you comfortable in cotton, balbriggan, natural wool, silk and wool, etc. The keep-you-cool kind, ranging in price from 25c a garment up. Many of these undershirts and drawers are priced as low as would be expected two months from now. All our underwear is dainty and not expensive. H. LeBrun & Co.

PURITY is the first consideration in buying a Refrigerator. The Brantford is always PURE and CLEAN—lined with zinc or enamel—perfectly cleanable—never stale or musty—walls packed with mineral wool. All prices from $7.50 up to $75.00.

PETERBOROUGH WON FROM THE T. A. S.

In a well Contested Game of Baseball on Saturday

Score was 7-4—Twirlers did Splendid work—Batting was Light and Fielding Sharp.

Owing to the non-appearance of the Cobourg baseball team on Saturday afternoon the Peterboroughs played an exhibition game with the T.A.S. of the Kawartha League and won after a close contest by 7—4. The game was an exciting one throughout and up to the 8th innings was anybody's game. The T.A.S. gave the Midland League coming champions a great argument and put up a fine article of ball. The game was marked by snappy fielding, strong pitching and light hitting on both sides. The Peterboroughs only weakness appears to be in batting, but they should improve in this respect as the season progresses. Flaherty had barrels of speed mixed up with puzzling benders and for the greater part of the contest had the Kawartha League nine guessing but in the sixth a base on balls and a hit assisted by an error netted two runs while a single and a home run in a row gave two more in the seventh. Callahan and Quinlan both pitched nice ball, having a splendid assortment of curves and shots.

The Peterboroughs started the scoring in the first innings, when a couple of errors, a two bagger, by Lamonte, and Simpson's single gave two runs. They were shut out until the seventh when after two were out Sheridan singled to left and scored on Lamonte's fly to right, which Derocher dropped. Graham's corking two bagger to left-centre was wasted as Lamonte was caught at the plate. In the eighth Simpson fanned, Flaherty got four wide ones and Fitzpatrick missed three. Wareham's two bagger scored Flaherty, and Pilling got to third on a wild throw of Quinlan's, Wareham scoring. Whitcroft's liner for two bases scored Pilling. In the ninth, Simpson singled to centre, Flaherty died at first, Fitzpatrick bunted and Simpson was caught at the plate; Wareham's hit scored Fitzpatrick. Pilling ended the game by fanning.

The T.A.S. did not have a look in until the sixth, when Callahan got to first on Sheridan's error, and stole second. White received a pass and A. Latimer's beautiful drive to centre scored both runners. Latimer was out trying to make his double good for three bases. In the 8th Derocher singled to centre and H. Latimer hit a long fly to left which got lost in the grass and both runners scored. Quinlan grounded to Flaherty, while White and Callahan fanned.

The teams were:—

Peterboroughs — Sheridan 3b, Lamonte ss, Graham c, Simpson rf, Flaherty p, Fitzpatrick cf, Waram lf, Pilling 1b, Whitcroft 2b.

T.A.S. — Callaghan p and 3b, White cf, A. Latimer lf, Trainer 1b, Grady 2b, Craig ss, Derocher rf, H. Latimer c, Quinlan 3b and p.

Score by innings:—

Umpire, Clark Earls.

Peterborough ... ...200000131—7

T.A.S.... ... ...000002200—4

HEARD ON THE BLEACHERS.

Flaherty struck out 15 and gave two passes. Callaghan fanned two and passed one while Quinlan retired three on strikes and gave two charities.

A sharp double play in the second spoiled the Peterborough's chances for a score.

Trainer made a great one handed catch of a thrown ball in the third.

In the first three innings Flaherty struck out seven men, the other two knocking little grounders to him. It was pretty work.

Craig made a sensational catch of Simpson's line drive in the fourth.

In the fifth the T.A.S. batters were retired on pop flies to the infielders.

Lamonte beat out a pretty bunt in the fifth.

In the sixth, Flaherty retired the side on five balls, throwing three strikes in a row to the last batter.

Craig did great work at short. His catch of Waram's fly in the sixth brought forth much applause from the stand.

Lamonte's one-handed pick up of Trainer's grasser in the 7th, was a fine piece of work.

Graham's two bagger in the 7th, was a corking drive.

In the 8th Pilling was on second, with Whitcroft at bat. The latter hit six fouls in a row, and each time Pilling reached third, but had to walk back. "Whittie" banged out a pretty two baser in the end.

In the 8th with the bases full, and two out, A. Latimer made a fine running catch of Graham's fly to left.

Craig made a nice one handed pick up of Sheridan's grounder in the 8th.

Lamonte is a very heady baserunner. In fact the base running of the Peterboroughs was first class on Saturday.

A. Latimer pulled in two different sky scrappers in left garden.

Not one of the Peterborough outfield had a single chance.

Graham caught White trying to purloin the middle station in the 4th by a perfect throw.

In the 8th Quinlan threw the ball at Lamonte, who was coaching, instead of to the first baseman, and a run was lost.

In the first and last innings Flaherty retired the batters on strikes, fanning the first three up in each case.

Graham handled Flaherty's offerings in good style.

Callaghan and Quinlan each pitched splendidly and neither was batted heavily.

In the seventh, with two out and Lamonte on second Graham hit a fly to left; Lamonte went to third, but stayed there, thinking the hit was foul. Graham kept on running, and Lamonte was forced off third, and caught at home, as Umpire Earls called the ball fair.

T. A. S. SMOKER IN OPERA HOUSE.

Will Hold a Gigantic Concert on Tuesday, June 14th.

The Athletic Section of St. Peter's T.A.S. announce a gigantic smoker and concert in the opera house on June 14th. A good programme is being arranged, and the medals won at the Victoria Day Field Day of Sports, will be presented to the winners. Eugene Hartubise, the champion amateur wrestler of Canada, will be on the programme, and the event promises to be one of the most successful of its kind ever held in Peterborough.

AT THE POLICE COURT.

Drunk and Disorderly Cases this Morning before the Magistrate.

There was not a great deal doing at this morning's police court. Chas. Clark was charged with being drunk and disorderly in a public place on the 21st of May. He pleaded not guilty and was discharged, it being evident from the evidence that the wrong man had been secured.

A young man was charged with being disorderly on May 21st. He pleaded not guilty and was discharged.

Another youth was found guilty of being drunk and disorderly and was fined $2 and costs, or $5.75 altogether.

A wages case was enlarged for a week.

The assault case of Irvis vs. Waram was withdrawn by the plaintiff.

CRUSHED BY A HOUSE

Fatal Accident to a Farmer Near Village of Fullerton.

ENGINE STRUCK LITTLE GIRL

Mrs. David M. Green Dropped Dead at Belleville—Alfred Moore, Aged 24, Drowned in the Humber River at Toronto—Dr. Griffith, Ph. D. Drowned in the Adirondack—A Strike Breaker Murdered.

Mitchell, May 30.—John McDougald, a farmer living near the Village of Fullerton, was killed Saturday morning while moving a house from his place to that of his neighbor, Samuel Davis. The rear trucks slipped from under the house, and McDougald was crushed beneath it. He was about 40 years of age, and leaves a wife and five children.

Engine Struck Girl.

Belleville, May 30.—At 7.30 Saturday night a possibly fatal accident occurred at the railroad crossing on Grier street. A girl 12 years of age, Jane Payne, was watching a freight train going west when another freight from the east came up without the girl seeing it, the steambox of the engine striking her and knocking her into the ditch. Beyond few scratches on the little one's face, her injuries are all internal.

Mrs. David M. Green, aged 52 years, dropped dead on Saturday evening at her home on Dundas street.

Alfred Moore Drowned.

Toronto, May 30.—At 8 o'clock on Saturday night, the Humber River claimed another victim. The fatal canoe was the vehicle used by death. Alfred Moore, a traveler, living at 62 West Lodge avenue, lost his life. He, with a companion, whose name could not be ascertained, went out for a canoo ride shortly after 6 o'clock, and when a short distance above Nurse's Hotel, in some manner the canoe was upset and Moore was drowned before his comrade could render him aid. Young Moore was only 24.

Educationist Drowns.

Utica, N. Y., May 30.—Dr. George W. Griffith, Ph.D., for twelve years superintendent of the Utica public schools, was drowned Saturday in Honnedaga Lake, in the Adirondacks, near his camp, while rowing. He was an expert swimmer and oarsman, but being caught in a squall was overcome. Dr. Griffith was one of the best known educators in the State. He was 50 years of age.

Strike Breaker Murdered.

New York, May 30.—Two strike-breakers employed on Pier 18, North River, were attacked by five men in Jersey City Saturday night, and one, Dominic Sokoposki, 28 years old, was killed. His companion was beaten but not seriously injured. Edward Griffin was arrested.

Explosion Kills Three.

Maysville, Mo., May 30.—Three men were killed, one seriously and several bruised in an explosion in a stone quarry near here Saturday.

O.J.C. SPRING RACES.

Toronto, May 30.—Weather fine, track fast, were the satisfactory conditions at the Woodbine Park Saturday, the seventh day of the Ontario Jockey Club's spring meeting. The record:

First Race—¾ mile, 3-year-olds and over. 1 Cantaloupe, 2 Loncate, 3 Geo. Perry. Time, 1.15.

Second Race—¾ mile, 2-year-old fillies. 1 Como, 2 Mistiss, 3 Miss Karl. Time, 1.02.

Third Race—1 1-16 miles, Valley Farm Handicap, 3-year-olds. 1 S. Dream, 2 Elliott, 3 S. Arabia. Time, 1.48.

Fourth Race—2 miles, Tallyho Steeplechase. 1 F. David, 2 Burnap, 3 Bedlington. Time, 4.56.

Fifth Race—1½ miles, Woodstock Plate, 3-year-olds. 1 Fort Hunter, 2 Spring, 3 Judge. Time, 1.55½.

Sixth Race—¾ mile, maiden, 3-year-olds and up. 1 Family Man, 2 Panella, 3 Tom O'Day. Time, 1.16.

Seventh Race—¾ mile, 3-year-olds and up. 1 Dynasty, 2 Mixer, 3 La Greque. Time, 1.15½.

Death of Senator Quay.

Butler, Pa., May 30.—Col. M. S. Quay, senior Senator for Pennsylvania, passed away Saturday after an illness more or less persistent for the last year, and which the doctors diagnosed as chronic gastritis. Col. Quay, in health, was a great eater, and his troubles in later years dated from overdraughts on his vital system due to heavy eating, smoking and the great nervous strains which he underwent. Senator Quay celebrated his 70th birthday last fall.

Eleven Ordained.

Kingston, May 30.—An ordination service was held in St. George's Cathedral Sunday morning when eleven candidates were admitted to the ministry of the Church of England. Besides the bishops, a number of the diocesan clergy were present.

Give Slaves For Arms.

Berlin, May 30.—A writer in The Vossiche Zeitung yesterday asserts that the rebellious Herreros in German Southwest Africa pay the English and Portuguese traders for weapons and the ammunition in slaves as well as in cattle.

Dr. Sutton's Barn Burned.

Cookaville, May 30.—Dr. Sutton's barn with two valuable horses and a quantity of hay and oats was burned here Saturday night. The total loss is about one thousand dollars, not insured. Cause unknown.

Comfort for Old People.

Much of the suffering of the aged is due to the kidney derangements which lead to backache, rheumatism lumbago and body pains. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills bring comfort to the old folks by keeping the kidneys healthy and active, and so eliminating from the body the poisonous waste matter which causes pains, aches and fatal disease.

SUPPORT OF THE NAVY.

Johannesburg Mass Meeting Endorsed the Principle of Colonial Co-operation—Speech By Lord Milner.

London, May 30.—(C.A.P.)—A Johannesburg mass meeting addressed by Mr. Wyatt enthusiastically endorsed the principle of colonial co-operation in the support of the navy. Lord Milner said the colonies were vitally interested in the welfare of the navy and all ought to contribute to its maintenance and expense. The navy should be more than English, and should be as much Canadian, African and Australian. Colonial contributions towards the maintenance of the navy were steps in the direction of Imperial Federation. He did not care whether the Federal Council of the Empire, sat at Ottawa, Sydney or South Africa, provided in the future the British people held together.

Sir George Farrar claimed that the Transvaal in return for its naval contribution should have representation on the Defence Committee.

The Standard declares that Lord Milner's speech was at the psychological moment. Following on the startling report of the Royal Commission that something must be done towards giving all the inhabitants of the King's dominions a full understanding of the problem, it says that Canada has not yet mastered the proposition, but it has been comprehended by Australia, the Cape, Natal and Newfoundland.

AFTER A FIGHT OF 11 HOURS

British Then Expelled the Thibetans From Village of Palla.

London, May 30.—The Daily Mail's correspondent at Chumbi, India, says the British expedition, on May 26, after a fight of 11 hours, expelled the Thibetans from the village of Palla, close to the British camp at Gyangtse. A British lieutenant and three Sepoys were killed and three officers and nine men were wounded. The Thibetans suffered heavily and thirty-seven of them were taken prisoners. Palla is a walled stronghold, from which the Thibetans started building works with a view of outflanking the British position.

Thibetan Investment Raised.

Gyangtse, Thibet, May 30.—The Thibetans have abandoned their investment of the British rear and communication with the mission has been restored.

Fight Stops Train.

Vienna, May 30.—While 300 Hungarian recruits were waiting for the train at Neusohl a quarrel was started among some of their number. The belligerents took possession of the permanent way as their battlefield, and for three-quarters of an hour all traffic was at a standstill while the recruits fought with the utmost fury, regardless of everything about them. The fury of the fight may be gauged by the fact that two of the recruits were killed and twenty-eight received serious injuries.

Rev. Father Hauck Dead.

Hamilton, May 30.—Rev. Father Philip Henry Hauck, rector of St. Joseph's Convent, died yesterday afternoon in St. Jospeh's Hospital, after an illness lasting several weeks. He has been stationed in Hamilton since last November. The dead priest was about 41 years of age. He was educated at St. Jerome's College, Berlin, and the Grand Seminary, Montreal. In 1894 he was ordained by Bishop Dowling.

To Oppose Mr. Rockefeller.

London, May 30.—At the meeting of the Broxburn Oil Company at Glasgow Saturday the chairman, Sir David Richmond, said that there was a prospect of a Dutch-Russian combine, backed by the house of Rothschild, to oppose the Standard Oil Company of America in European markets.

Neuralgia of the Heart

An Ailment Which Terrifies its Victims—Indicated by Pains About the Heart and Quick, Loud Breathing—Cured by

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

It is quite natural to be alarmed when the heart becomes affected, but there is no reason to despair of being cured.

The great majority of heart derangements are due to exhaustion of the nerves and a watery condition of the blood. By overcoming these causes of trouble with the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the heart will be restored to health and its action again become normal.

Mr. James G. Clark, Fosterville, York County, N.B., writes:—"I have been a great sufferer from what the doctors said was neuralgia of the heart. The pain started in the back of the neck and worked down into the region of the heart. Though I had taken a lot of medicine of one kind and another, I could not get anything to help me until I used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

"When I began this treatment I could not rest in bed, except by sitting upright, on account of the dreadful pains about the heart and the quick, loud beating. The change which Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has made in my condition is wonderful. It has entirely overcome these symptoms and is making me strong and well. If this statement will help to relieve the suffering of others, you are at liberty to use it."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

To protect you against imitations, the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box. 1

THE GENTLEMAN FROM INDIANA

By Booth Tarkington.

* * * * * * *

Two pairs of carriage lamps sparkled in front of the hospital in the earliest of the small hours, these subjoined to two deep hooded phaetons, from each of which quickly descended a gentleman with a beard, an air of eminence and a small, ominous black box, and the air of eminence was justified by the haste with which Meredith had sent for them and by their wide reputa. They arrived almost simultaneously and hastily shook hands as they made their way to the ward down the long hall and up the narrow corridor. They had a short conversation with the surgeon and a word with the nurse, then turned the others out of the room by a practiced innuendo of manner. They stayed a long time in the room without opening the door.

Meredith went out on the steps and breathed the cool night air. A slender taint of drugs hung everywhere about the building, and the almost imperceptible permeation sickened him. It was deadly, he thought. To him it was imbued with a hideous portent of suffering. The lights in the little ward were turned up, and they seemed to shine from a chamber of horrors, while he waited as a brother might have waited outside the inquisition, if indeed a brother would have been allowed to wait outside the inquisition.

Alas, he had found John Harkless. He had lost track of him as men sometimes do lose track of their best beloved, but it had always been a comfort to know that Harkless was somewhere, a comfort without which he could hardly have got along. Like others, he had been waiting for John to turn up—on top, of course—he had such ability, ability for anything, and people would always care for him and believe in him so that he would be shoved ahead no matter how much he hung back himself; but Meredith had not expected him to turn up in Indiana.

He remembered now hearing a man who had spent the day in Plattville on business speak of him: "They've got a young fellow down there who'll be governor in a few years. He's a sort of dictator. Runs the party all over that part of the state to suit his own sweet will just by sheer personality. And there isn't a man in the district who wouldn't cheerfully lie down in the mud to let him pass over dry. It's that young Harkless, you know. Owns the Herald, the paper that downed McCune and smashed those imitation 'White Caps' in Carlow county." He had been struck by the coincidence of the name, but he had not dreamed that the Carlow Harkless was his friend until Helen's telegram had reached him that evening.

He shivered. His name was spoken from within, and Horner came out on the steps with the two eminent surgeons, and the latter favored him with a few words which he did not understand. He did understand, however, what Horner told him. Somehow the look of the sheriff's Sunday coat, wrinkling forlornly from his broad, bent shoulders, was both touching and solemn. He said simply: "He's conscious and not out of his head. They're gone in to git his antemortem statement." And they re-entered the ward.

Harkless' eyes were bandaged. The lawyer was speaking to him, and as Horner went awkwardly toward the cot Warren said something indicative of the sheriff's presence, and the hand on the sheet made a formless motion which Horner understood, and he took the pale fingers in his own very gently and then set them back. Smith turned toward Meredith, but the latter made a gesture which forbade the attorney to speak to him and went to a corner and sat down, with his head in his hands.

"John, is it you?"

A sleepy young man had been brought in, and he opened a notebook and shook a stylographic pen so that the ink might flow freely. The lawyer, briefly and with unlegal agitation, administered an oath, and then there was silence.

"Now, Mr. Harkless, if you please," said Barrett insinuatingly, "if you feel like telling us as much as you can about it."

He answered in a low, rather indistinct voice very deliberately, pausing before almost every word. It was easy work for the sleepy stenographer.

"I understand. I don't want to go off my head again before I finish. If it were only for myself I should tell you nothing, because if I am to leave I should like it better if no one were punished. But that's a bad community over there. They are everlastingly worrying our people. They've always been a bother to us, and it's time it was stopped for good. I don't believe very much in punishment, but you can't do a great deal of reforming with the Crossroaders unless you catch them young, before they're weaned. They wean them on whisky, you know. I realize you needn't have sworn me for me to tell you this."

Horner and Smith had started at the mention of the Crossroads, but they subdued their ejaculations, while Mr. Barrett looked as if he had known it, of course. The room was still, save for the dim voice and the soft transcribings of the stylographic pen.

"I left Judge Briscoe's and went west on the pike to a big tree. It rained, and I stepped under the tree for shelter. There was a man on the other side of the fence—Bob Skillett. He was carrying his gown and hood—I suppose it was that—on his arm. Then I saw two others a little farther east in the middle of the road. I think they had followed me from the Briscoes' or near there. They had their foolish regalia on, as all the others had. There was plenty of lightning to see. The two in the road were simply standing there in the rain looking at me through the eyeholes in their masks. I knew there were others—plenty—but I thought they were coming from behind me—the west.

"I wanted to get home—the courthouse yard was good enough for me—so I started east toward town. I passed the two gentlemen, and one fell down as I went by him, but the other fired a shot as a signal, and I got his hood off his face for it. I stopped long enough, and it was Force Johnson. I know him well. Then I ran, and they followed. A little ahead of me I saw six or eight of them spread across the road. I knew I'd have a time getting through, so I jumped the fence to cut across the fields. I lit in a swarm of them. It had rained them just where I jumped. I set my back to the fence, but one of the fellows in the road leaned over and smashed my head in, rather—with the butt of a gun, I believe. I came out from the fence, and they made a little circle around me. No one said anything. I saw they had ropes and saplings, and I didn't want that exactly, so I went in to them. I got a good many masks off before it was over, and I can swear to quite a number besides those I told you."

He named the men slowly and carefully. Then he went on: "I think they gave up the notion of whipping. We all got into a bunch, and they couldn't get clear to shoot without hitting some of their own, and there was a lot of gouging and kicking. One fellow nearly got my left eye, and I tried to tear him apart, and he screamed a good deal. Once or twice I thought I might get away, but somebody hammered me over the head and face again, and I got dizzy, and then they all jumped away from me suddenly, and Bob Skillett stepped up and—and shot me. He waited for a flurry of lightning, and I was slow tumbling down. Some one else fired a shotgun, I think, I can't be sure, about the same time from the side. I tried to get up, but I couldn't, and then they got together for a consultation. The man I had hurt—I didn't recognize him—came and looked at me. He was nursing himself all over and groaned, and I laughed, I think; at any rate my arm was lying stretched out on the grass, and he stamped his heel into my hand, and after a little of that I quit feeling.

"I'm not quite clear about what happened afterward. They went away—not far, I think. There's an old shed, a cattle shelter, near there, and I think the storm drove them under it to wait for a slack. It seemed a long time. Sometimes I was conscious, sometimes I wasn't. I thought I might be drowned, but I suppose the rain was good for me. Then I remember being in motion, being dragged and carried a long way. They carried me up a steep, short slope and set me down near the top. I knew that was the railroad embankment, and I thought they meant to lay me across the track, but it didn't occur to them—they are not familiar with melodrama—and a long time after that I felt and heard a great banging and rattling under me and all about me, and it came to me that they had disposed of me by hoisting me into an empty freight car. The odd part of it was that the car wasn't empty, for there were two men already in it, and I knew them by what they said to me.

"They were the two shell men that cheated Hartley Bowlder, and they weren't vindictive. They even seemed to be trying to help me a little, though perhaps they were only stealing my clothes, and maybe they thought for them to do anything unpleasant would be superfluous. I could see that they thought I was done for and that they had been hiding in the car when I was put there. I asked them to try to call the trainmen for me, but they wouldn't listen or else I couldn't make myself understood. That's all. The rest is a blur. I haven't known anything more until those surgeons were here. Please tell me how long ago it happened. I shall not die, I think. There are a good many things I want to know about." He moved restlessly, and the nurse soothed him.

Meredith rose and left the room with a noiseless step. He went out to the stars again and looked to them to check

"I set my back to the fence."

the storm of rage and sorrow that buffeted his bosom. He understood lynching, now the thing was home to him, and his feeling was no inspiration of a fear lest the law miscarry. It was the itch to get his own hand on the rope. Horner came out presently and whispered a long, broad, profound curse upon the men of the Crossroads, and Meredith's gratitude to him was keen. Barrett went away soon after, and Meredith had a strange, unreasonable desire to kick Barrett, possibly for his sergeant's sake. Warren Smith sat in the ward with the nurse and Gay, and the room was very quiet. It was a long vigil. They were only waiting.

Health is a magnet which irresistibly draws the man to the woman in life's mating time. A great many women covet beauty and are constantly seeking means to beautify themselves. Let a woman first seek perfect health.

There can be no general good health for women while there is disease of the delicate womanly organism.

$500 REWARD FOR WOMEN

WHO CANNOT BE CURED.

Backed up by over a third of a century of remarkable and uniform cures, a record such as no other remedy for the diseases and weaknesses peculiar to women ever attained, the proprietors of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in legal money of the United States, for any case of Leucorrhea, Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb which they cannot cure. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.

"I used four bottles of your 'Favorite Prescription' and one of 'Golden Medical Discovery,'" writes Mrs. Elmer D. Shearer, of Mountnope, Lancaster Co., Pa., "and can say that I am cured of that dreaded disease, uterine trouble. Am in better health than ever before. Everyone who knows me is surprised to see me look so well. In June I was so poor in health that at times I could not walk. To-day I am cured. I tell everybody that Dr. Pierce's medicines cured me."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Send 50 one-cent stamps for the cloth-bound volume. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, Proprietors, Buffalo, N. Y.

NO SECRET.

There is no secret about Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil. The label tells the whole story. There is a knack in making it. The only secret about it is the secret of its success.

This year, when cod liver oil is very scarce and high, all kinds of cheap, inferior oils are used to take its place, and all sorts of things presented as substitutes. Think of petroleum being taken as a substitute for cod liver oil! —too absurd. Think of the so-called wines, extracts and cordials of cod liver oil! —they are simply the shadow without the substance; no food value in them.

Scott's Emulsion—"The Old Reliable" is the same yesterday, to-day and forever.

Its quality and purity can be absolutely depended upon at all times.

We'll send you a sample free upon request. SCOTT & BOWNE, Toronto, Ontario.

Quakers Lost in a Protested Game—Bridgenorth Defeated Last Year's Champions—Other Sports.

BRIDGENORTH WON FROM Y. M. C. A. TEAM

In an Exhibition Game on Saturday by 2-0

A Good Game of Football at Bridgenorth—Winners had Better Team—Scoring was done in first Half.

The Y.M.C.A. Football Team met their first defeat in two years at the hands of the fast Bridgenorth team on Saturday evening, the score being 2—0. The game was an exhibition one and served as an excellent practice for both teams, as each has won its district championship, and will enter the semi-finals in the Midland League. The better team won on Saturday, and it is up to the losers to get down to hard practice, and strengthen the weak spots on the team before their game with Locust Hill, or the Stratton Cup will slip from their grasp.

The Bridgenorth boys have secured new grounds this season, which are certainly an improvement over last year's. The visitors were bothered somewhat by the fact that the grass was longer than that to which they were accustomed, but the winners would probably have won on any field on Saturday. The play was comparatively fast and interesting throughout and was devoid of any rough work on the part of either team. As regards weight, the teams were well matched, but in combinat on work, shooting and kicking the winners had the advantage.

The "Y" team which played on Saturday, had never been together before as a team, there being some changes on the line-up which beat the Wanderers a few days ago, and Shortell and Ford were missed. In spots the team showed good form, but as a rule the forwards appeared disorganized and failed to work together effectively, there being a tendency to bunch too frequently near the centre of the field. Some very good material was shown however, and with proper practice and training the "Y" team should be able to make a better showing. McFadden in goal allowed an easy looking one to pass him in the first half, but did some pretty work in the second period. Morgan was the star of the team, and did the bulk of the defence work, checking and kicking in great shape. Roberts played a useful game at right back, doing his best work in the second period. The halves worked hard against the swift opposing forwards, Noble at centre half was there with his red socks, which as usual took the fancy of the crowd, and played a good game for the team. Cameron also played a hard and effective game. On the forward line Doughty and Boyle played well together and did good work throughout. McDonald at centre showed up in splendid fashion, while Merrell and Nelson on right wing worked with a will, but the steady work of the Bridgenorth defence kept them from scoring. Sayles was in the game for only a few minutes and had no chance to shine. The team needs more practice in combination and team work, and their defeat of Saturday will no doubt be an incentive to "dig in" and get in shape for future matches.

The winners presented a fast and well-balanced aggregation which should make things interesting in the semi-finals. There was not a weakness in the bunch, and everyone shone at some stage. Freeborn, in goal, was not often called upon, and T. Cullen and Forsythe, the backs, attended to everything which came their way. Coones at centre half, is a beautiful kick, and played a splendid game. J. Cullen and G. Mann were the stars of the forward line, each doing brilliant work, while the Kelly Brothers at right wing were fast and dangerous at all times. Jopling, who did great work for the team here in the game with Wanderers, was unfortunately injured while making a rush a few minutes after the game commenced and retired, Sayles going off to even up matters.

The conflict was witnessed by a large number of spectators, who gave the Bridgenorth boys every possible encouragement from start to finish.

The teams lined up thus:—

Bridgenorth.	Y. M. C. A.
Goal.
Freeborn	McFadden
Backs.
Forsythe	Morgan
T. Cullen	Roberts
Half-backs.
Scott	Cameron
Coones	Noble
Brumwell	Sayles
Forwards.
N. Kelly	Nelson
B. Kelly	Merrill
J. Cullen	McDonald
Mann	Boyle
Jopling	Doughty

Referee—J. W. Kelly.

The game began about 7 o'clock. Each goal was attacked in turn. Jopling was hurt in a few minutes and went off with Sayles. After 6 minutes of mud to end play, the Bridgenorth forwards got clean through the "Y" defence, which was drawn out and T. Cullen shot the first goal. And the air was full of shouts, hats, small boys, etc.

The winners had struck their gait, were making things interesting in the vicinity of the "Y" goal. A couple of corner kicks were of no avail; occasionally there was a dangerous looking rush made on the winner's goal, and a score was narrowly averted more than once by quick work on the part of the Bridgenorth defence. After 25 minutes' play, G. Mann took the long shot on goal which fooled McFadden and again was glee and rapture in the hearts of the Bridgenorth supporters. And why should not there have been? The score was 2—0 at half-time.

The "Y" boys had a little heart-to-heart conversation at half-time and scolded one another for not scoring and allowing the other fellows to score. They started in to score three goals in a row in the second half, but something went wrong in the scoring division and those goals did not materialize. But Bridgenorth could not score either so that is some consolation. McFadden had several long shots to keep him busy, but he took care of everything nicely. So the game ended, Bridgenorth 2; Y.M.C.A. 0.

A FEW REMARKS.

Bridgenorth was happy to turn the tables from last year.

Coones at centre-half for Bridgenorth is certainly a splendid player.

The boys came to the conclusion that the hoodoo was Noble's red stockings.

"That man Morgan is a dandy" was the opinion of the Bridgenorth critics.

Bridgenorth should give Bowmanville a great struggle in the semi-finals.

Well, the "Y" team can't be always winning. Just wait until they play a league game.

It was an ideal day for football, the slight wind blowing having but little effect on the play.

Some one whispered that Noble and Merrill were too much affected by the Bridgenorth maidens to score any goals.

Noble, Morgan and McFadden were the only members of last year's regular "Y" team, which played on Saturday.

Alf Smith lingered so long enjoying the scenery (?) at Chemong Park that he had to run fully quarter of a mile to catch the 'bus. He says there are nice girls in Bridgenorth.

It must have been an off day for sports in Peterborough anyway on Saturday. The Quakers got licked, so did did the "Y", and Cobourg failed to show up to give the baseball team a chance to beat them.

BASEBALL.

St. Paul's Guild team will practice to-night at 6.30 in the Central Park.

• • • •

The B.A.C. Baseball Club hereby challenges the George street team to a game of ball to be played (Wednesday night.

• • • •

The opening game in the Guild League will be played at the Charlotte street Guild grounds on Patterson street, this evening, when St. Luke's and the Charlotte street boys will clash. Both teams will be represented by strong nines and a warm contest is assured.

• • • •

The George street team will practice to-night in final preparation for their game with All Saint's in the Guild League to-morrow night. A full turn-out of the players is requested.

• • • •

St. Paul's Young Men's Guild has made application to play the following men in the Guild League:—J. Sharpe, W. Stacey, A. Laing, Dr. Wightman, M. Rosenburgh, A. Gillespie, R. Craig, R. Thompson, R. Sturgeon, R. Cameron, R. P. Watt, B. Carmichael, J. Watt, E. Ford, T. Boyd, F. Howson, H. Humphries, J. H. Connal, R. S. Hall, W. G. Ferguson, R. Walker, M. Moore, F. S. Hall, W. Walkey, T. Henderson.

• • • •

Parker, Oshawa's twirler, held the hard-hitting Cobourgs down to two solitary hits last Tuesday, while Oshawa secured four singles off McAllister, Cobourg's star artist. All the Midland League teams appear to be strong in the box this season.

• • • •

On Saturday, June 4th, the Peterborough baseball team will play in Port Hope. This game was scheduled to take place on August 10th, but Manager Whitcroft has consented to play it earlier, at the request of the Port Hope team. Anyone wanting to see the game may leave here on the 11:45 a.m. train and return at 5.35 p.m.

• • • •

The team to represent George street to-morrow night in the game with All Saints will be chosen from the following players: Dobbin, Mulhern, Robertson, Mann, Parnell, Parker, Miller, Metheral, Dredge, Hutchinson, Cressman and Humbers.

• • • •

To-day the Auburn team is playing in Lindsay in the Kawartha League.

• • • •

On Saturday afternoon the final game in the junior series of the public school league was played between the South Central and North Ward teams, the former team winning by the score of 21—3. The teams were:

North Ward — Howson, Greer, Belleghem, Hawley, Kirn, Spenceley, Hurt, Parnell.

South Central — Nicholls, Pilling Roy, Dunford, Kamap, Taylor, Warham, Winch, Pilling Rob, Minorgan.

J. Pilling umpired very satisfactorily. This game finishes the junior series and has resulted in the juniors of the South Central being the champions. The Central and Mark street junior team dropped out of this series to make greater efforts in the senior series. If the School Board would present two trophies, one for each of the series, the school boys would appreciate it very much, and it would tend to the development of good honest sport amongst the boys.

• • • •

The Bobcaygeon Independent has some good advice on the game and how it should be played. That journal says:—

"The Kawartha League is getting to work, and several capital games have been played, in all cases the game being greatly improved, and the general run of the game much smoother, all knowing what had to be done, and not attempting dishonourably to do what ought not to be done. That is the great point to be kept in view by the League. Make the young fellows play a clean, fair, gentlemanly game. A man's character shows even more clearly in his play than in his work. The fair, honest chivalrous lad on the play ground will be a good citizen. The sneaky, tricky, jockeying, bullying lout on the play ground, is not pleasant to think about as a citizen. In this country where no attention is given to education on the play grond the little work in this line, of such vital importance, that can be done, is through the junior game clubs, and the responsibility of the management of such clubs is therefore great. A number of games have been played, in Lindsay, Fenelon Falls and Peterborough, and all accounts are gratifying."

FOOTBALL.

The Quakers have protested their game with Caughnawaga on Saturday, on the ground that four Norwood players figured on the Caughnawaga line-up.

• • • •

Caughnawaga and Keene will play their postponed game at Keene on Wednesday.

• • • •

Harwood failed to show up at Keene on Saturday, and Keene claims the game by default.

• • • •

The Quakers will practice to-night at 6.45 at the Oval.

SPRINTING.

Next Saturday in all probability, the five-mile race between A. J. Burns and Ed. Renton will take place. Both men are now in good condition, and the race is bound to be a close one.

LACROSSE.

• • • •

The Ontarios of Port Hope will cross sticks with the T.A.S. team here next Saturday in a Trent Valley League game. The visitors are strengthening their team for the game, and will have several new faces on the line-up.

• • • •

Oshawa has dropped out of intermediate C.L.A., which leaves this district with three teams,—Orillia, Lindsay and Peterborough. The local team was scheduled to play in Oshawa on June 1st.

• • • •

The following T.A.S. lacrosse players are requested to practice every night this week: O'Brien, Boyle, Derocher, Mahoney, B. Doris, Meagher, Donovan, McCormack, Whaley, McGrath, McCabe, Parnell, Gorham, H. Donovan, Mulligan, J. McNichol, Morrow, O'Neil, J. Anglesey, T. O'Connor, L. Dorris, J. O'Brien.

BASKET-BALL.

A meeting of the Arrow basketball club will be held on Wednesday evening at eight o'clock. All senior members are requested to attend.

MISCELLANEOUS.

George Buller will accept the challenge of Louis Levesseur to a 100 yds. race. The challenger is 18 years of age.

LAWN TENNIS.

An effort is being made to reorganize the Y.M.C.A. Tennis Club. Provided 20 members enroll at $1.00 each. The cinder courts will be fixed up at once. Names of those who intend to join should be handed in at the office to-day or to-morrow.

7 Sutherland Sisters' HAIR GROWER

Miss IDA ROADHOUSE, Peterboro' Ontario

Seven Sutherland Sisters' Hair Grower and Scalp Cleaner shows results from the very first. Here is more proof that we have the greatest hair grower science ever produced.

Seven Sutherland Sisters

Dear Ladies,—Having been benefited by the use of your Hair Grower and Scalp Cleaner, I take much pleasure in recommending same. At the time of your visit to Peterboro' last October, I showed you my head, which I thought was a hopeless case, and after looking at the bald spot on my head which was then about the size of a fifty cent piece, and enlarging more every day, you advised me to try your wonderful remedy, which is worthy of being termed so. I did, and to my surprise, before I had used one of your large sized bottles of Hair Grower and only half a package of Scalp Cleaner I could see a covering of a sort of scales and upon continuing to use it the scales fell off without leaving a mark of any kind. My hair now on the bald spot is about three inches long and growing more and more every day to my delight. I cannot really recommend it enough and am thankful that such a remedy came to my rescue.

Yours truly, IDA ROADHOUSE,

Peterboro' Ont., Box 860.

During the two weeks' demonstration of Seven Sutherland Sisters' Hair Grower, at W. B. Warne's Drug Store, Miss Roadhouse will be in daily attendance between the hours of 7 and 8 in the evening, and will be glad to answer any enquiries regarding her case.

PORT ARTHUR'S FALL PREDICTED

Now Timed to Take Place on or About June 20th Next.

Nothing Important Has Developed Since May 29th Beyond Outpost Encounters—Kuropatkin Between Fires at Home and Abroad—Russia's Advisers Lack Courage to Advise Him as to Best Course.

London, May 31.—The attack on Port Arthur, The Chronicle's Tokio correspondent telegraphs, is expected to begin about June 15. Correspondents leave here June 10, in time to see the capture probably about June 20. The correspondent also says that about 10,000 Russians have been sent up the Liao River in junks to Tieling.

The Morning Post's Shanghai correspondent wires that several Japanese transports are landing troops in Northeast Corea.

According to correspondents at Japanese headquarters, up to May 29, nothing important had developed beyond outpost encounters. Japanese troops are largely engaged in building roads and bridges.

The Standard's correspondent says that the force that landed at Takushan appears to have struck the fringe of the rainy season. The downpour has been very heavy.

Kuropatkin's Hard Luck.

Gen. Kuropatkin, the Telegraph's correspondent at St. Petersburg, says, is fighting two enemies, one at home, the other in Manchuria. While his military reputation is undergoing a terrible ordeal, he also is accused of failure as Minister of War to make proper preparations for war. The Emperor is alleged to be so dissatisfied that he would dismiss both Alexieff and Kuropatkin were it not that he fears the effect of public opinion.

The general impression among the highest classes is that the fall of Port Arthur ought to connote the end of the war, and that if the Japanese succeed in this aim, Russia's best interest would be to make peace, but nobody, the correspondent avers, possesses the moral courage to make such a suggestion to the Emperor.

Japs Occupy Aiyangpienmen.

London, May 31.—A despatch to The Central News from Tokio, yesterday, says the Japanese captured a quantity of powder and fifty-six railroad cars at Liushutun. The despatch also says that the Japanese, after defeating the Cossacks at Aiyangpienmen, northeast of Fengwangcheng, occupied that place and reinforcements were sent forward to support them.

The Report Has Color.

St. Petersburg, May 31.—There is no confirmation of the general staff of the reported defeat of 2,000 Cossacks at Aiyangpienmen (northwest of Fengwangcheng), but the message from General Kuropatkin recording the Japanese advance from Kuandiansiang (Kwantien) to Siamatsza, lends color to the Tokio report in view of the fact that Aiyangpienmen lies between the above points.

Kuro Reports Jap Advance.

St. Petersburg, May 31.—The war office has received the following despatch from Gen. Kuropatkin, under yesterday's date: "I this morning received a report stating that the Japanese advance on Kwantien has begun from Siamatsza. The numbers of the enemy are not known."

Chased By the Japanese.

London, May 31.—The Standard's Che Foo correspondent says that a Russian gunboat, believed to be the Bobr, which was in action at Talienwan Thursday, has arrived from Port Arthur. She was chased by Japanese, but was able to take some refugees from Dalny.

Jap Objective Is Port Arthur.

Liaoyang, May 31.—The impression at headquarters is growing that the main objective of the enemy is Port Arthur, and it would not be surprising if the actual assault on that fortress began within a fortnight.

Russian Scouts Captured.

Tokio, May 31.—Gen. Kuroki, reports a number of outpost affairs, and the capture of eight Russian scouts.

PATAL MILITARY WALK.

Many of French Pedestrians Succumb to Hardships of Race.

Paris, May 31.—Fatal results followed the army walking match Sunday from the Place de la Concorde to St. Germain and back, a distance of about twenty-eight miles, in which 2,000 soldiers from many regiments took part. Reports received by the Minister of War show that forty-two men are missing and a number of them are said to have succumbed to hardships. Besides those missing, thirty-four men were taken to the hospitals along the course in various stages of prostration. Six were in a serious condition, one man is dead, and another in a dangerous condition. Some reports place the number of dead at four.

TORONTO RAILWAY'S PART.

Judge Winchester Recommends That Toronto Council Have Power to Cancel Franchises of Such Corporations.

Toronto, May 31.—Judge Winchester, in his report on the election investigation presented to the Mayor yesterday morning, finds the Toronto Railway Company guilty of taking part in the election, at least to the extent of $30, to secure the return of Mr. Richardson, that there was bribery in the payments of money to "Ginger" Robinson on behalf of Messrs. Richardson, Ramsden and McMurrich, because it was for the men's votes as well as services; that a case was not made out against ex-Controller Wm. Burns for voting twice; that prima facie cases were made out against Frank T. and Thomas W. Slattery for voting twice for controller, and submits eleven recommendations, including a numbered ballot, for municipal elections, Council to have power to cancel the franchise of a company that wrongfully engages in an election; that Council have power to order a recount; that there be only one ballot, and that Council appoint both deputy returning officers and poll clerks.

The Judge states that the investigation occupied 22 days, and 898 witnesses were examined. He reviews the evidence taken at considerable length.

Seventh Race—5½ furlongs, 3-year-olds and up. 1 Alpaca, Australina, 3 Tom O'Day. Time, 1.09¼.

Four Cock Fighters Fined.

Hamilton, May 31.—Four sports who attended the cock fight on May 24 that was interrupted by Special Officer Nichol, appeared before the police magistrate yesterday morning and were each ordered to pay a fine of $10, with $4 added for costs. The unfortunates were: Albert Goodale, Ancaster; Tommy Meehan, Hunter street; Larry Kelly, North Macnab street; Jack Fuller, Grimsby Township. The officer says he will have another bunch ready for the court on Thursday.

Truth Will Come Out Sometime.

Paris, May 31.—The Minister of War has caused the arrest of an officer, who is understood to have been connected with the Dreyfus affair. The officer, who is held in close confinement in the fortress of Mount Valerian, is said to be charged with using considerable sums of money at the court-martial in Rennes in order to secure the conviction of Dreyfus.

Sticks to the Past.

London, May 31.—(C. A. P.)—The General Assembly of the Church of Scotland has decided against the adoption of the uniform version of the metrical psalms prepared by Canada and the United States on the ground that its adoption meant too great a breaking with the past. Scotland already had a uniform version, and the Canadian-American version had altered considerably some of the greatest psalms.

Death in a Well.

Toronto, May 31.—Caught some fifteen feet below the surface of the ground by the collapse of earth in a well, William Reid met death by suffocation in East Toronto town last night. The accident happened about half-past seven, and it was two hours before the body was recovered. The unfortunate man was between 45 and 50 years of age, and leaves a widow and family.

RESURRECTION OF THE "SOO"

Thanks to what is known as the "Soo" guarantee bill, passed at the last session of the Legislature, the Speyer & Co. mortgage on the works of the allied industries amounting to, with interest, $5,0550,000, has been wiped out and the works have been handed over to the re-organized company who will operate them to their full capacity. Before long we may expect these immense and varied industries to resume operations. The bill in question enabled the floating of a loan of $2,000,000 to assist in paying off the Speyer mortgage and the unsecured creditors. This was done and according to the conditions of the the bill the re-organized company has a million dollars of working capital besides.

The Ontario Government was criticized by the Opposition, even assailed by the Opposition, for undertaking a scheme whose failure was predicted. The Government in guaranteeing by legislation the bonds to enable the works to be put on their feet again, established a precedent, if a request and conditions that can never in all thoman probability be repeated, can be called a precedent.

They entertained the proposition with reluctance, but the circumstances very strongly demanded the action taken. Here were industries costing between twenty-eight and thirty millions of dollars lying dormant, and the province was asked to guarantee the bonds of a reorganized company, who would take over and operate the works, which, when in operation gave employment to a small army of 3,500 men, the population of an average Ontario town. The guarantee was extended upon the most ample security, and the result is that the works will again be in full operation, and the development of northern Ontario will proceed apace. The Government in lending its endorsation to the bonds of the reorganized company, incurred no risk, made no expenditure of money, but has brought about results which amply justify the course that was taken. The operation of the numerous works at the "Soo" will be a great boon to Sault Ste. Marie and vicinity, and the province at large. The most important results will come from the operation of the steel and rail mills, the only mills of the kind in Canada. The activity in railway construction of the immediate future, will create a strong demand, and we shall have the pleasure of knowing that in respect of steel rails Canada is self contained, and independent of foreign sources of supply.

BORDEN'S "STATESMANSHIP."

Those Conservative organs that talk glibly about Mr. Borden's "statesmanship" in declaring "for the principle" of public ownership and operation of railways assume much, says the Hamilton Times. Mr. Borden has made no such declaration. He tried a great number of courses in his work of serving the opposition to the new transcontinental line, and these all failing him, he made one grand-stand play of moving a long preamble alleging statements that the House has voted to be untrue; and then, after having set out that the country will have to bear almost the entire cost of the G.T.P. while the railway company will bear almost none—which is not the fact—he set forth that it would be "more in the public interest" that the Government should build the whole line. That is a very different thing from a "profession of faith in Government ownership" as a "principle." Mr. Borden has pretty well boxed the compass in the G.T.P. matter; now the party may set about finding where it is at.

The Mail and Empire, which has strongly opposed public ownership, finds the dose a hard one to swallow, and its leader to-day is most amusing. It devotes a column to the subject, but in no part does it express approval of the principle of Government ownership! The nearest approach it makes to approval of even Mr. Borden's equivocal amendment is in this paragraph:—

Mr. Borden says if we pay we must own. If the money of the people goes into this affair in such huge blocks the country is entitled to a share of the results of the investment, either in the shape of lower taxes or of reduced rates. If we are going to contribute nine-tenths of the cost of a railway for private parties to own, let us pay the additional one-tenth and own and control it ourselves. With this reasoning no one can disagree.

"If" Mr. Borden's amendment, like the Mail's editorial, rests on an "if," and his "principle" hangs on a contingency book supported by a falsehood. "If we are going to contribute nine-tenths of the cost of railway for private parties to own," says he, "let us pay the additional one-tenth and control it ourselves." It has never been proposed to make such a deal, and Mr. Borden knows it, so his latest alternative policy based on the assumption stands out as a very paltry trick. The Mail in its interviews keeps this "if" well to the front, showing that it does not regard Mr. Borden's amendment as involving the general principle of public ownership, which it and the party generally have always opposed. It represents Mr. W. P. Ellis as saying that "if the Dominion was to be called upon to bear nine-tenths of the cost of building the road it would be better for the country to contribute the additional one-tenth and own and operate it." And so with others interviewed.

Mr. Borden's motion assumes that we pay nearly all the cost of the road and have no right of ownership and control; and that a Government-built road would be preferable to such an arrangement. That is all—and it is false. We build and own the eastern section and lease it under well-defined conditions of control. We pay not a dollar toward the western section, but we guarantee a proportion of the road's bonds, and if there should be default requiring us to pay, we take the road. We bind the company to Canadian territory, Canadian ports and ships, conditions of construction and operation, and we control rates. Every item of that bargain gives Mr. Borden's "if" assumption the lie, and makes the pitiful wishy-washy amendment he hung upon it appear childish and ridiculous.

TELEPHONE COMPETITION.

There was a profitable and interesting discussion of telephone franchises at the meeting of the Peterborough City Council when the franchise was given to the Canada Machine Telephone Company, to compete with the Bell Telephone Company, says the St. Thomas Journal. Mr. F. D. Mackay presented the case for the Canada Machine Company, and answered the arguments of the Bell Company's solicitor, Mr. Mackay, who is a former newspaper man, has studied the telephone situation thoroughly and he declared that in the States there was not an exclusive franchise except in one city, the Government of which was very hard to approach except in a certain way. It was a recognized fact across the line, that to have efficiency there must be competition. This was borne out by reports of Boards of Trade and other bodies, which had investigated the question with a view to arriving at some basis whereby a good service could be given without two telephones. It was stated that business men said that two telephones were a nuisance, and this was the one argument that the Bell Company could produce why a new franchise should not be granted. Reference was made to the old Ontario Company, which at one time existed in Peterborough; all were aware of its history. It gave a service at $12.50 per year, and put up a construction that was not a good one, and worked under the very worst conditions. While it existed there was a better and cheaper service.

Mr. Mackey is certainly right when he argues competition improves the service. We know from experience in Peterborough during the existence of the two companies, that the service was far better than an recent years.

Sued by His Doctor.

"A doctor here has sued me for $12.50, which I claimed was excessive for a case of cholera morbus," says R. White, of Coachella, Cal. "At the trial he praised his medical skill and medicine. I asked him if it was not Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy he used as I had good reason to believe it was, and he would not say under oath that it was not." No doctor could use a better remedy than this in a case of cholera morbus, it never fails. Sold by all druggists.

THE WATER SUPPLY ON THE FARM

Importance of Having Wells of Pure Water

Special Attention Should be Paid to Water Used in Creameries and Cheese Factories.

Some rather startling facts in regard to the water supply of our farms, cheese factories and creameries, were brought out at the conference of dairy instructors and experts, held at Ottawa last fall, the official report of which is now being distributed by Mr. J. A. Ruddick, Chief of the Dairy Division, Ottawa. In discussing the sanitation of cheese factories and creameries, Dr. Connell, bacteriologist at the Kingston Dairy School, pointed out that one great sanitary requisite is good water. Most of our factories obtain their water from shallow wells, only a few using water from deep wells, springs, creeks, or rivers. Good water can be secured from shallow or surface wells, yet such water is always classified as suspicious by sanitarians, when it is used for drinking purposes. The reason for this simply is that such water is ground water, derived by seepage through soil of the rain or snow water. Shallow wells are usually placed quite close to the houses or factories which they are to supply, and thus the soil in their neighborhood is apt to become contaminated, and this contamination is sooner or later carried by seepage into the well. Fortunately, the soil is an excellent filtering and cleansing agent, but it is only able to dispose of a certain amount of contaminating material. Such disposal takes time, so that if there is a particularly heavy rain the contaminating matter may be carried far into the earth below the purifying layer, and thus soak unchanged into the wells. If a large amount of this contaminating material finds its way into the soil, the earth becomes "soured" and can no longer dispose of or purify the waste, which tends to soak into and mix with the ground water. Some surface wells are so constructed as to be mere surface drainage pits; that is they are not raised above the surrounding earth, and hence receive the surface washing direct. Farmers and cheesemakers ought to realize that a surface well does not get its water from some hidden source below, but is simply a collecting reservoir for the ground water derived from rain and snow water. And further, that if the soil in the neighborhood of such a well is saturated with slop water and house or factory drainings, that sooner or later these will make their way into the well.

Some Tests.

Prof. Shutt's chemical analyses of farm well water have shown the majority of the wells to be little better than cesspools. From 100 to 200 samples a year are analysed at the chemical laboratory of the Central Experimental Farm, and not one-fifth of these can be passed as safe and wholesome. By far the greater number are utterly condemned, while others are reported as suspicious, putting them in the category of those that are unsafe to use. The bacteriological examinations of Dr. Connell and Prof. Harrison of the Ontario Agricultural College, show similar results. Dr. Connell mentioned that out of a dozen factory waters sent him last summer, no one was found fit for use. All were badly contaminated, and for drinking purposes would be immediately condemned. Later Dr. Connell had an opportunity of seeing two of the wells from which the samples were taken. Both were subject to direct gross contamination from drainage water, lying under the factory floors, and the streams of dirty slime could be seen opening into the wells about four feet below the surface. Both these waters are very foul, so foul that animals would not touch them. Such a well is generally termed a "mineral" one in the section, probably because the sulphuretted hydrogen of decomposition causes an odor somewhat like that of natural sulphur water.

Improvement Necessary.

A factory well cannot be kept uncontaminated, so long as the drainage and whey disposal system of the factory is not carefully looked after, so that the first essential for a pure water supply from the ordinary well is good drainage. Next is the proper construction of the well, including its covering, so as not to permit surface washings flowing in. As Prof. Shutt pointed out, this drainage matter, apart from its actually poisonous character, is the very material upon which microbes and germs live, and water polluted from the barnyard, privy, etc., is always loaded with countless millions of bacteria. It is impossible to turn out first-class dairy products, where such water is used, so even from the dollars and cents standpoint, improvement in this respect is imperative.

It is not the smell or appearance of water that denotes its condition. Many samples of water, which to the sense of smell or sight or taste are perfect, yet simply reek with filth. The bacteria which we cannot detect by our senses are far more dangerous than those which we can detect

MORALS BEFORE ATHLETICS.

President Roosevelt has been giving a little speech to the boys of Groton school. Mr. Roosevelt seldom misses an opportunity to inculcate what he is pleased to term strenuousness; and he did not on this occasion. He is reported as saying:

"It is necessary for a boy to demonstrate that he has the power to accomplish things. He must be able to accomplish something, or he must step aside for those who can do so. If a boy is a mollycoddle, manly boys will have little use for him. If he does not possess the spirit and the pluck to make him successful in athletics he will probably not amount to much in after life."

Now, there is much to be said for athletics, but worship of athleticism may be overdone, and it is overdone when it views a man as a mere muscular animal. Athletics are not the purpose of a boy's life—no more than acquiring facility in the two step is that of a girl's. A boy is not necessarily a "mollycoddle" because he is not an athlete, or because he does not delight in taking the lives of the birds and beasts. He is not necessarily less than the best type of of man because he does not haze his juniors, impose on those over whom he is placed, or strut about with a chip of defiance on his shoulder itching for a fight. We do not disparage athletics — they have their uses; but we are sometimes inclined to question whether in their modern development, and considering the effect on mind and body, they do more good than harm. Many of the men to whom mankind is most indebted for great benefits were not athletes. Their work for the world, their manliness, unselfishness, and power to accomplish things, are an eloquent refutation of the Roseveltian doctrine.

The President's glorification of the physical—of the lower part of man—approaches idolatry. As the Chicago Chronicle points out, his address would have been improved if he had told the boys that good moral principles, such as truth, honesty, respect for parents and loyalty to friends, were more important even than athletics.—Hamilton Times.

NON JURY SITTINGS ARE BEING HELD.

Five Cases Before the Hon. Chief Justice of Common Pleas.

Sittings Were Opened Yesterday—Statement of Various Claims.

The non-jury sittings opened Monday afternoon before the Hon. Chief Justice, Sir William Meredith. The cases which came up or are to be heard, were as follows:—

Christie et al vs. Harrison, et al.—The plaintiffs are William Christie, a farmer residing in the Township of Asphodel, and his wife Margaret Christie, and John Harrison and Richard Walsh, defendants, farmers residing in Asphodel. In this case the plaintiffs claim the sum of $465.00 as mentioned in a certain trust deed, and interest thereon, from the time the defendants received the same, to bar the trusts of a trust deed executed between the plaintiffs and defendants on or about the 28th of April, 1903, and costs. D. O'Connell for plaintiff, and Hall & Hayes for defendants.

Christie et al vs. Harrison, et al.—The plaintiffs are William Christie and Margaret Christie, and the defendants John Harrison, Richard Walsh and Charles Finn, farmers residing in Asphodel. The plaintiffs claim to have set aside the indenture of certain lease, mentioned in the statement of claim, and to have the trust deed mentioned in the same claim carried into execution to recover the possession of certain lands and premises, and costs. The plaintiffs' solicitor was D. O'Connell and Hall & Hays for defendants.

Jane Fife vs. Robert Fife. — The plaintiff Jane Fife is the wife of the defendant, Robert Fife, a retired farmer and fruit grower, residing in the Township of Smith. The plaintiff is living apart from her husband in the town of Peterborough. In this case the plaintiff claimed a declaration that she is entitled to alimony from the defendant and also an interim alimony sufficient under the circumstances, and that the defendant be ordered to pay the same, and that for these purposes all necessary directions may be given and accounts taken. The plaintiff also asked for costs. It was claimed that the defendant had grossly abused and ill treated the plaintiff who had always been a dutiful and faithful wife towards her husband. Messrs. Dumble & Johnson for plaintiff and Hall & Hayes for defendant.

Frazer vs. Clark. — The plaintiff, Thomas Frazer, a Division Court Clerk, residing in the Village of Norwood, and defendant Elizabeth Ann Clarke, a widow, residing in Township of Seymour, in County of Northumberland. The plaintiff is administrator, with the will annexed of the estate of Ezekiel Nixin, deceased, and the defendant is sole executor of the last will and testament of Stephen Philip Clark, deceased. The plaintiff claims the sum of $995.62, with interest and costs, and that in default thereof certain mortgaged premises may be sold and the proceeds applied in and towards payment of the debt. The plaintiff's solicitor was G. J. Sherry, of Norwood; A. B. Colville of Campbellford, acted for the defendant.

Colonial Motor Company vs. Colonial Ink Company.—In this case the plaintiffs claimed that on or about the 14th of August, 1902, they were owners in fee simple or otherwise well entitled to a certain parcel of land and premises in the town of Peterborough north of Hunter street and west of George street. On or about the above date the plaintiffs leased to the defendants for a term of one year, to be computed from Aug 25th, the above mentioned land at a yearly rental of $250. The indenture of lease contained a clause to the effect that the lessees should have the option to purchase the premises during the term of one year for the price of $3000, provided that on or before the 25th day of June, 1903, they should give the lessors written notice of their intention to exercise their option to purchase the premises. On or about the 18th day of June, 1903, the defendants gave notice of their intention to exercise their option. The plaintiffs were willing to carry out a sale of the premises for the sum of three thousand dollars, but the defused to pay the same. The plaintiffs claimed that the defendants be ordered to pay the sum of $1000 and interest thereon from Aug. 25, 1903, and the costs. Edmison & Dixon for plaintiffs, and Donnistoun, Peck, Kerr and Stevenson for the defendants.

Howden Estate vs. Sugar Company. —The plaintiffs, John J. Howden, and William G. Howden, are butchers residing respectively in the township of Otonabee and township of North Monaghan, in the County of Peterborough, and the defendants are the Peterborough Sugar Company. In this case the plaintiffs claim to have agreed to sell certain lots to defendants who entered into possession of the lands, and were still in possession of the same. The articles of agreement provided that $11,000 should be paid in cash and stock at different times. The articles of agreement provided that unless the payments were punctually paid, at the time and manner mentioned, the presents should be null and void. During the year 1903, the defendants requested the plaintiffs to draw beets for them and erect certain fences, and the plaintiffs expended $31.65 in so doing, and the defendants had not paid the plaintiffs for so doing. The plaintiffs had not received their full purchase money and claimed judgfor the specific performance of the agreement; in default of specified performance of the agreement an order from the Honourable Court that the said agreement be delivered up to be cancelled, the possession of the said lands, the sum of $31.65 for work done, and costs. Messrs. Dennistoun, Peck, Kerr and Stevenson for the plaintiffs, and Mr. A. P. Poussette for defendants.

Dr. R. A. Fraser was in Toronto on Saturday on business.

Messrs. Harry Thompson and Hubert McBain, both of Peterborough, passed through the village on Saturday afternoon en route to Burleigh, where they spent Sunday.

Miss Margaret Eastwood of Buckhorn, and her sister Cora, accompanied by Mr. Brown of Port Hope, spent Tuesday in Lakefield

The Court of Revision was held in the town hall on Friday, when several items in the assessment of property in the village were brought up and disposed of by the township.

Miss White of Peterborough, has been the guest of Mrs. Wes. Sherin for the past few days.

Miss Patterson of Peterborough, who has been visiting the Misses Griffin in the village, has returned to her home.

Miss Tanner and Mrs. H. G. Fitzgerald, spent Monday in Peterborough visiting with friends.

Messrs E. A. Tanner & Bro., are having photographs taken of the different points of interest in the village and expect ere long to offer for sale a unique line of picture post cards with views characteristic of the village.

While Mr. J. Hendren was driving a spirited team on the watering cart he narrowly escaped what might have proved to be a serious runaway last Saturday. The team being somewhat nervous gave a sudden start, and Mr. Hendren attempted to pull them in, but the snap on the rein broke and left him powerless, but an onlooker noticed the accident, and came to his rescue catching the horse by the head.

QUAKER TEAM WAS DEFEATED

By a Caughnawaga-Norwood Team on Saturday

Score was 2-0 Four Norwood men Played and Game was Protested.

The Quaker Football team encountered their first defeat of the season at Norwood on Saturday, when a combination of the Caughnawaga and Norwood teams won from them by a score of 2-0. It will be remembered that the Norwood team disbanded about a week ago and the Caughnawaga team applied for a permit to play four of their players. The executive justly refused this request as it was directly contrary to the constitution, but, nevertheless, when the Quakers stepped upon the field on Saturday afternoon, they found four of Norwood's star players, Nicol, Lamey, Finlay and Howson on the Caughnawaga. They entered a protest with the referee which will be decided to-morrow night, and the game will in all probability be thrown out.

The Quakers were fairly beaten, as the combination against them was a strong one and played in fine form. During the first half the play was fairly even, the winners having but slight advantage. For the first half of the second period the winners had the best of the argument and Howson scored two goals. The Quakers then woke up and had the ball in the vicinity of the opponents goal for the rest of the game, but failed to score, though there were several very narrow escapes for the winners. The play was fast and comparatively clean throughout.

The Quakers did not seem to get going until towards the close of the game, when it was too late to win. The forwards bunch far too much and the boys will have to overcome this defect to win in the semi-finals. Bellegham stopped many a warm one between the flags, and Simpson's long punts were as usual strongly in evidence. Jimmy Doris played a star game on Saturday and was always very effective. P. Fitzgerald played a great game at centre half and was well supported by Parnell and M. Guerin, Cundal, a new man on the forward line was about the best of the quintette, playing a dashing game throughout and but for a little hard luck would have scored. The other forwards did not play up to their usual form until the second half was considerably advanced. But all put up a good game and considering that they were playing the pick of two strong teams, have no reason to feel downcast over the result.

For the winners Howson and Lamey played great ball on the forward line, [illegible] and Finlay were prominent on the defence. The team was a fast and well balanced one.

The line up was thus:—

Quakers.... ... ...Caughnawaga.
Goal
Bellegham ... ...Prest
backs.
Simpson ... .Finlay
Doris ... ...J. Lonergan
half-backs
Parnell ... ...Nichol
P. Fitzgerald... ... ...Kemp
M. Guerin ... ...Coughlin
forwards.
Renton ... ...McNichol
Cundall ... . Howson
J. Guerin ... ...Lonergan
C. Fitzgerald ... ...Crowley
Brooks ....Lamey
Referee—Art Noble.

The first half was fairly even, both goals being attacked in turn, but no goals resulted. The Caughnawaga boys had the wind in their favour and the Quakers were expected to do better in the second period. After three minutes' play Howson and Lang worked in a rush past the defence and the former scored. About ten minutes later he repeated the dose by a lucky shot. From this out the Quakers had the advantage but could not score.

On the Side.

The Quakers have won three, lost one and tied one, scoring seven goals to their opponents' four.

The Quakers are not at all downcast over the result.

The Quakers feel confident that they can trim any strictly Caughnawaga team.

The four Norwood men all did great work.

Cundall of the Quakers proved to be a rich find.

The Quakers have the sympathy of the Y.M.C.A. team.

Keene is scheduled to play here next Saturday.

Kept Poor by Doctor's Bills.

Many a family is kept poor by doctors' bills when just as good and oftentimes better results could be obtained by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, which sell for 25c a box of twenty-five doses. As one pill a day is the most frequent dose under any circumstances there is no medicine obtainable which costs so little and at the same time which brings about such excellent results in derangements of the Kidneys, liver and bowels.

Russian Letters Captured.

Tokio, May 30.—Certain Russian correspondence, which has been intercepted by the Japanese at the blockade of Port Arthur, gives the information that some Russian torpedo boat destroyers have been sunk by mines outside of Port Arthur, as well as the details of the placing by the Russians of the mines which effected the destruction of the Japanese battleship Hatsuse, May 15. The letters were taken from a junk seized by the Sixth Japanese squadron, blockading Port Arthur. One letter said that a torpedo boat destroyer had successfully placed a series of mines during the night which preceded the loss of the Hatsuse. How many Russian torpedo boats were lost is not mentioned, but it is indicated that there were at least two.

Obituary.

In Douro on Monday the death occurred of John O'Donovan, aged 80 years. The funeral will take place to-morrow morning from his late residence, lot 1, concession 12, Douro, at 9.30 o'clock, and proceed to St. Peter's Cathedral, thence to the Roman Catholic Cemetery for interment.

WHERE TO GO TO-NIGHT.

For a night of enjoyment with our American cousins attend the concert given by the Ithaca Conservatory of Music Concert Company of Ithaca, New York, U.S.A. St. Audrew's Lecture Hall at 8 p.m. Adults. 25c; Children, 15c.

Hear the praise of the press:—"The concert given by the Concert Company of the Ithaca Conservatory of Music was a charming entertainment. The selections were in admirable taste and exquisitely rendered. The beautiful enunciation and expression of the contralto; the excellent quality of tone of the soprano, the strong clear touch of the violinist all show the ability and thorough training of these artists. We heartily believe the company is without a rival."

Seven Sutherland Sisters Hair Growers

It will be gratifying to many to know that arrangements have been made for another series of interesting demonstrations of the Seven Sutherland Sisters Hair Grower in Peterborough. These demonstrations will again be conducted at the patent medicine store of Mr. W. B. Warne, 345 George street, commencing on Monday, May 30th. The sisters will be in daily attendance and may be consulted by all who desire special treatment for the hair or scalp. Gentlemen as well as ladies are invited to call. dw

CASES WERE DISPOSED OF IN QUICK ORDER.

Non-Jury Sittings Concluded Yesterday Afternoon.

The non-jury sittings lasted about three hours, the cases being disposed of as follows:—

The case of Frazer vs. Clark was settled out of court.

In the Fife vs. Fife case the Chief Justice directed that judgment be entered in terms of the consent minutes filed.

In the Colonial Motor Company vs. Colonial Ink Company case the record was withdrawn.

In the case of Howden vs. Peterborough Sugar Company, it was directed that the usual judgment for specific performance be entered, three months to be allowed to pay what was due provided they paid the $125 on account in 10 days, if not usual one month to be allowed. In default in either case, recision, and the plaintiff to be entitled to retain the land conveyed to him, and the money paid on account of the purchase money. Plaintiff to have costs.

In the Christie vs. Harrison and Walsh, and Christie vs. Harrison, Walsh and Finn, judgment was entered in terms of consent minutes.

LADY BRUTALLY ASSULTED LAST SUNDAY EVENING

Unknown Man Concealed Behind a Fence Attacks Mrs. Moncrief.

A brutal assault occurred on Sunday evening on the Keene road, near Downer's Corners. Mrs. J. Moncrief, who had been attending church in the fifth ward, was returning to the Dickson Farm, east of Concession street, which her husband is managing, and when about to enter the roadway leading to the house she was attacked by a man who was lying concealed behind the fence. Mrs. Moncrief was thrown down and then struck several times about the face, receiving very painful injuries. Her cries were heard by a neighbour who ran to her assistance. The villain, seeing some one approaching, made his escape, and has not so far been captured. Mrs. Moncrief was quite ill from the severe shock. She knows of no cause for the assault, and has no idea who the man was. A man was seen in that vicinity by those going to church earlier in the evening, but no trace of him is to be found.

POLICE COURT.

At the police court this morning, the three Italians charged with taking part in an affray on the evening of Victoria Day, were again remanded for eight days, as one of the witnesses who was stabbed was unable to appear to-day. The counsel for the defence asked that the prisoners be allowed out on bail, and the Magistrate stated that bail of $500 each would be required.

A case of selling liquor during prohibited hours was enlarged until to-morrow morning.

Ripe Canadian Tomatoes.

Just received, a small consignment of those choice Canadian hot-house tomatoes, which pleased our customers so much last season. These goods are the very finest to be had at any season of the year. S. A. OKE, 376 George street, telephone 18.

PRESENTATION TO C. B. ROBERTSON

Honoured by C. G. E. Employees Before Leaving Town

Made Recipient of Gold Chain and Locket—Popular with his Fellow-Employees—Leaving for North West.

Last night a large number of the employees of the Canadian General Electric Company, gathered at the Y.M.C.A. to bid farewell to one of their number who is leaving shortly for the Northwest. Mr. C. B. Robertson was the honoured guest of the evening. For fourteen years an employee of the company, and latterly foreman of the machine shop, Mr. Robertson has been identified with the interests of the men during his long service for the company, and was one of the organizers of the Mutual Benefit Society, and one of its strongest supporters. He was a leader among the men, the respect and esteem of whom he won and retained. He is an ex-alderman under the old ward system, and represented the south ward faithfully and well. Last night he was made the recipient of a solid gold chain and locket, the latter suitably engraved. An address, in which the respect of the men for Mr. Robertson, and their regret at his approaching departure, were fittingly expressed, was read by Mr. R. Anson, the presentation being made by Mr. H. Gould, on behalf of the staff. The chairman of the evening was Mr. M. Mowry, president of the Mutual Benefit Society, who, in a short introductory address, referred to the loss which the society would sustain in Mr. Robertson's departure, and spoke of the great assistance he had been in its organization, and subsequently in its maintenance.

Mr. Robertson will leave to-morrow for Didbury, Alberta, where with Mr. Eyra Good, late of the firm of Wills & Good, he will engage in an extensive ranching business. The stock and equipment is being shipped to-day from the C.P.R. station, and Mr. Robertson will follow it shortly.

He will leave town followed by the best wishes of his host of friends for success in his new venture, and from the business-like manner in which the enterprise has been undertaken there is little doubt of its success.

Mr. Robertson was a sergeant in the 14th Field Battery.

THE SOCIAL WORLD.

Interesting Personal Items Gathered by Reporters.

Mrs. E. Singer and Miss Lottie left this morning to visit her sister, Mrs. Dave Tucker, in Warsaw.

MR. ANDREW D. RUSSEL DIED IN WINNIPEG

Former Resident of Peterborough Passed away on Sunday.

The sad intelligence reached town yesterday of the death of Mr. Andrew D. Russel, in Winnipeg, on Sunday morning. The deceased, who was born at Baltimore, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Russel, who are living in Peterborough, at the corner of George and Dublin streets. For nineteen years he was a resident of Peterborough, being employed for a lengthy period in the Hall-Innes dry goods store. Five years ago he left for Winnipeg, where he has resided since, being for the past two years in the employ of the C.P.R. Company's office. He was married to Miss F. H. Hamilton, daughter of Mr. Frank Hamilton, of the fifth ward, who, with a son, are left to mourn his loss. His parents, a sister, Mrs. A. Waddell, of the fifth ward, and a brother, Charles, of Philadelphia, are the sorrowing members of the family. The late Mr. Russel's death was caused by pneumonia, after an illness of ten days. The deceased had been in poor health for some time previous to his demise.

The late Mr. Russel had a large circle of friends in Peterborough, who will learn with sincere regret of his death. He was home last Christmas for a few days visiting his parents and many friends, and it was little thought at that time he would be called away in such a short time. He was a member of Court Peterborough, No. 29, Canadian Order of Foresters.

The funeral took place in Winnipeg this afternoon.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT OCCURRED AT LINDSAY

Lance Bell Shot by a Revolver in the Hands of his Chum.

The Lindsay Post says: On Saturday evening about nine o'clock, Master Alfred Parkin, eldest son of Capt. Jos. Parkin, and Master Lance Bell, a playmate, both aged about twelve years, were in close communion on Mr. G. S. Parkin's lawn. They had unearthed a prize in the shape of a revolver of 38 calibre, and while Master Parkin was examining its mechanism, the weapon exploded, and an instant later Lance exclaimed "Oh, Allie, I'm shot!" and fell. Assistance soon arrived and the boy was carried to Dr. McAlpine's office, where it was discovered that the bullet had entered the right shoulder, and ranging downwards under the skin had passed out on the same side without injuring any vital part. Dr. McAlpine, after cleaning and dressing the wound conveyed the young lad to the Ross Hospital, where he occupies a private ward.

DOURO'S GREAT JUBILEE PICNIC

Will be Held this Year on June 23rd.

On Thursday, June 23rd, the people of St. Joseph's church, Douro, will hold their annual picnic in the usual place, the King Edward Grove, one mile south of the parish church. This beautiful ground was once owned in the past by the late Dennis O'Brien, and is now the property of Timothy Garvey. Special interest attaches itself to the picnic this year from the fact that conjointly with it the pastor of St. Joseph's, Rev. Father Kelly, celebrates his 25th anniversary of his appointment as parish priest in the County of Peterborough. A number of the leading men in the town and county, together with many well known in Dominion and Provincial politics, will be present and deliver addresses. The usual games and sports will be run off under the management of an eggicient committee.

For the benefit of the younger portion of the parish a dancing pavilion has been erected and a first-class orchestra will be on hand to enliven the proceedings.

Needless to say the dinner provided by the ladies will be fully up to the Douro standard, and nothing need be added.

The first puff you get of O'Brien's Cigars puts them in the "good smoker class—the kind you like to sit down with after a good meal. 423 George St

Auburns Won Fast Game in Lindsay—Opening Game in Guild League—News of Other Sports.

AUBURN WON FROM LINDSAY

In a Kawartha League Game Played Yesterday.

Score was 11-9—Good work by Auburns Twirler—Won First out of Town Game.

The Auburn baseball team went to Lindsay yesterday to play their first out-of-town game in the Kawartha League, and came home victors, the score being 11—9 in their favour.

The visitors were pitted against a team comprising a number of the senior Lindsay players, and that they were able to wrest a victory from the home team is greatly to their credit.

The Auburns played good ball after the first two innings ,and deserved their win. In the first two innings the home team scored 6 runs, while the visitors failed to tally. In the next time at bat, however, the woollen men brought in three, and in the seventh five, the scoring ending in the eighth with three, giving a total of eleven, while the home team after the first two lucky innings only tallied one each in three innings, the fourth, sixth and eighth. The pitching honours were about even, both men striking out ten men, and both had good control. McCorry, after the first two innings was given good support, and that the Lindsayites succeeded in running up the score in the early stage of the game was not the pitcher's fault.

Pilling at third, also played a good game, having four put outs and no errors to his credit. Belleghem carried off the batting honours, having three hits. In the whole game Lindsay secured fourteen hits to twelve for the Auburns, Workman getting four safe ones for the losers.

Miller, the senior Lindsay man, led the list with errors, four being placed against his name. Errors lost the game for Lindsay, twelve being the number made by them against only half that number for the Auburns.

The teams and score is as follows:

OPENING GAME OF GUILD LEAGUE

Charlotte St. Team Secured a big Lead over St. Lukes Last Evening.

The Guild League was formally opened for the season of 1904 last evening at the Paterson street grounds when the Charlotte street nine secured a big lead over the St. Luke's team in the first half of the opening match. The score was decidedly lop-sided, standing 27—1 in favour of the Methodist youths at the conclusion of the third innings. The contest was witnessed by a large crowd of enthusiasts, who gave liberal support to the players. Rev. E. A. Lanzfeldt of St. Luke's, was present and threw the first ball over the plate as an opening ceremony.

As the score would indicate the winners had a walkover. The losers showed a lack of practice and team work and errors of judgment gave the winners many of their runs. Oldham on the slab had great difficulty in locating the plate and was batted freely throughout. The losers however, seemed to be playing in hard luck from the outset and should make a better showing on Thursday when the game will be concluded.

The Charlotte street boys put up a fast article of ball. Roddy on the slab was practically invincible, fanning five batters and allowing but one scratchy single. Only three of the losers reached first base during the game and one of these was caught stealing second. The fielders gave their twirler good support, putting up a snappy game.

The game was called in the third with the winners at bat and two men out, it being too dark to see the sphere. The teams were as follows:—

Charlotte Street,—H. Roddy, p; W. Thornton, c; N. Jolliffe, 1b; J. Squires, 2b; E. Roddy, 3b; N. McWilliams, ss; J. Sanderson, lf; R. Dormer, cf; E. Carr, rf.

St. Luke's,—J. Oldham, p; H. Graham, c; S. Gibbs, 1b; H. Crane, 2b; B. Gillespie, 3b; G. Crowe, ss; G. Armstrong, lf; W. Tighe, cf; H. McWha, rf.

Mr. H. R. H. Kenner gave general satisfaction as umpire.

Score by innings:—

Charlotte Street	...	...	...	10	4	13	—	27
St. Luke's	...	...	...	1	0	0	—	1

The concluding four innings of the game will be played on the same grounds on Thursday evening.

LACROSSE.

The Executive Committee of the Lacrosse Club met last night and arranged some matters in connection with the season's work. An invitation was received from Millbrook to send a team there on Friday, but this could not be accepted. A first-class team will be placed on the field to play Weston on Saturday, on the occasion of the big excursion of West York Farmers' Institute.

• • • •

There will be no practice of the lacrosse team to-night, but to-morrow night, and each Wednesday night, practice will be held at the T.A.S. grounds, and every other night the Oval will be the scene of practice. Every member of the senior and intermediate teams is asked to turn out to practice.

• • • •

Three or four new men have lately come to town, and the lacrosse team management has been pleasantly surprised to find that they are lacrosse players. They will be found on the line-up of the team this season.

• • • •

The Tecumsehs won from the Chippewas in the Senior C.L.A. series on Saturday, by 7—4.

• • • •

St. Catharines beat Brantford at the later place on Saturday by 3—2 in a senior C.L.A. game.

• • • •

"Tony" Roach will figure on the Montreal Shamrock's line-up this year. He has played on the Port Hope lacrosse and hockey teams for several seasons, and his absence will be greatly felt by the Onturios.

• • • •

Lindsay is scheduled to play in Orillia on Thursday.

• • • •

In the T. V. L. this week, Tweed goes to Havelock on Friday, and Port Hope players the T.A.S. here on Friday.

• • • •

T.A.S. and Ontarios of Port Hope, play their first game in T. V. League series Friday evening at 6.45 on the T.A.S. grounds.

FOR TWO CENT RATE

Mr. Maclean's Bill Referred to the Railway Committee.

ADD TO PAY OF THE MILITIA

Sir Frederick Borden Explains the Increase—The Budget Next Tuesday—Mr. Bourassa's Complaint Against Lord Strathcona—Resolution Passed For the Prohibition of Cigarettes—Protection of Crossings.

Ottawa, May 31.—After many weeks of Government legislation the public bills and resolutions standing in the names of private members were once more given a chance in the House yesterday. Full advantage of the opportunity was taken, and several important matters were discussed. Sir Frederick Borden presented the regulations for the increased pay of the militia. The House adopted in committee the resolution introduced by Mr. Maclaren of Huntingdon some weeks ago, that it is expedient to bring in a bill to prohibit the importation, manufacture and sale of cigarettes. There was no discussion on the bill yesterday. Several bills amending the railway act were discussed, the most important one being Mr. Maclean's, and the principal provision being that fixing two cents a mile as the maximum railway passenger rate. This met with favor from the Opposition, but the House eventually accepted a suggestion by Hon. Mr. Fitzpatrick that the bill be referred to the Railway Committee, who should investigate the matter.

The Budget Next Tuesday.

Hon. W. S. Fielding announced that the budget would be brought down on Tuesday of next week.

Hon. Mr. Fielding brought down supplementary estimates, amounting to $10,000, on account of the reconstruction of the Ottawa post-office, destroyed by fire. He explained the amount was necessary to carry on the work for the remainder of the current fiscal year, which ends on the 30th of June.

Mr. Bourassa's Complaint.

Henri Bourassa made complaint that Lord Strathcona, High Commissioner in London, discussed publicly some phases of the political relations of Canada and the Empire. He insisted that a Canadian official should take no part in the politics of Great Britain. Recently the Prime Minister had stated that W. T. R. Preston had no authority to speak for Canada in certain matters he had discussed; he wanted some such course pursued with regard to Lord Strathcona.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier explained that Lord Strathcona, socially and politically, was highly thought of in Great Britain. While His Lordship sometimes gave his opinions on political questions, Sir Wilfrid said he had never known him to speak on behalf of the Dominion Government.

Union Label Bill.

Ralph Smith moved the second reading of his bill to enable labor unions to register their labels under the trades marks act.

Speaker Belcourt ruled the second reading out of order under the rule which prohibits the introduction of a bill relating to trade or the restraint of trade without notice in the form of a resolution.

"I give notice to that effect than," said Mr. Smith.

To Amend Criminal Code.

Mr. Lancaster moved the second reading of his bill to amend the Criminal Code. The object of the bill is to prevent persons under 21 years of age, arrested on a criminal charge, from electing as to how they shall be tried without first securing the advice of their parents as guardians.

Mr. Fitzpatrick suggested that a good many criminals under 21 years of age know how to take care of themselves on such matters without any advice. He thought it would be sufficient to give persons under 16 the protection provided for in Mr. Lancaster's bill.

The amendment was adopted.

Cigarette Resolution.

Without a word of discussion the House went into committee on the resolution: "That it is expedient to bring in a bill to prohibit the importation, manufacture and sale of cigarettes," and passed it. The bill will be brought down at next sitting of the House.

Protection of Crossings.

The House having gone into committee on the bill, Mr. Lancaster, the champion of the cattle-guard movement of last session, explained the necessity of amending the Railway Act as proposed.

The bill states that "whenever in a city, town or incorporated village a railway crosses a highway at rail level, the said speed of ten miles an hour shall in no event be exceeded, unless the railway company keeps a watchman at such crossing to warn all people using the highway of approaching trains."

Canada-French Line.

Sir Richard Cartwright stated that since the beginning of the present session the Government has entered into negotiations with the Armstrong Company, shipbuilders, with the object of establishing a line of steamers between Canada and France.

The Treadgold Investigation.

Mr. Casgrain was informed that a new commission has been issued to Mr. Justice Britton to continue and terminate the investigation into the Treadgold and other concessions in the Yukon. The commissioner expects to make his report about July 1.

Only to the Cabinet.

Mr. Barker of Hamilton, wanted to know to what persons, or what dates, and under what circumstances was the application of George A. Cox, Charles M Hays and William Wainwright read to the House by the Minister of Finance on May 27 communicated wholly or in part previous to the same being so read to the house. Sir Wilfrid Laurier replied that the application was communicated to the Cabinet, and no one else shortly after it was received.

Timber Protection.

The Minister of the Interior stated that the Government had been informed of the resolution passed at the fifth annual meeting of the Canadian Forestry Association, setting forth the necessity of protecting the timber along the route of the Transcontinental Railway from fire risks with the construction of the road, and also asking for an examination into the water sources of Canada. Mr. Sifton said that an efficient protective service would be instituted where the railway crosses Government lands. The question of enquiring into the water sources of the country is under consideration.

Pay of the Militia.

In reply to Mr. Henderson, re the rate of pay to be allowed the militia at the annual camps, the Minister of Militia said that under the act long service and good conduct will be allowed at the rate of 20 cents for the first year, 40 cents for the second and 50 cents for the third year. Several conditions are laid down. To be entitled to this pay, which is in addition to the regular rate of 50 cents a day, privates and non-commissioned officers must be duly enlisted in a regiment outside of the permanent corps.

They must perform the full amount of drill for which their regiments are called out. They must be reasonably efficient in the performance of their duties, in the use of the rifle, or whatever weapon their corps is equipped with. They must have received no punishment beyond admonition or reprimand. If these conditions are not complied with all right to good service standing is forfeited. The act will come into force on June 1. 1904, but privates and non-commissioned officers who have served continuously for three years will come under its provisions.

Two-Cent Passenger Rate.

W. F. Maclean moved the second reading of his bill to amend the Railway Act. The bill, besides providing for a minimum rate of two cents a mile for passengers on railways, contains three other amendments. It deprives the chairman of the Railway Commission of power to override the decision of his two colleagues on questions involving points of law. It brings the express companies within the jurisdiction of the Railway Commission. It provides that compensation in connection with independent telephone companies gaining access to railway stations shall be based on actual damages sustained by the company, and aside from any claim to recognition for violated contract or rights.

Mr. Maclean fought unsuccessfully against sending his bill to the Railway Committee. Like Mr. Lancaster's bill to amend the Railway Act it was passed on to the Railway Committee.

The Minister of Justice gave the assurance that the purpose of the Government in sending it to that committee was not to shelve the bill but to expedite its full consideration.

POISONED.

Rank Poison is Created when Food does not digest, and that is when Sickness Commences.

If the man or woman who does not feel right, will at once look to putting the stomach right they will strike the right key—Every ache and every pain is a cry of poison, too much of which has been made in the process of converting food into nutriment. It may be the backache or sideache of the kidneys telling they are overtaxed and cannot filter the poison—It may be weight, pain or distress in the stomach that tells of fermentation and decomposition instead of digestion—It may be headache, dull, depressed, which tells poison has reached the fluid which surrounds the brain cells. The first cause is the same—lack of gastric juice to properly digest. ANTI-PILL, the Great System Treatment, is a new discovery which so acts on the mucous membrane of the stomach, a natural supply of gastric juice is assured. To prove the wonderful action of ANTI-PILL, you may have a free trial bottle by addressing Wilson-Fyle Co., Niagara Falls, Ont.

Tortured with Pain. Too Weak to Work.

ULCERS, BOILS AND PIMPLES ALL OVER HER BODY

Such was the condition of Mrs. Samuel Deitz, Zurich, Ont.

She happily found relief from her terrible suffering by using

Burdock Blood Bitters.

A remedy without a rival for the cure of all diseases and troubles arising from bad blood. A record extending over a quarter of a century and thousands of testimonials will prove this. Mrs. Deitz writes: "Too weak to work, tortured with the pain of ulcers, boils and pimples all over my body, especially on my face. I had almost made up my mind to give up trying to have them cured. I was ashamed to have any person come to see me, my face was in such a terrible state. I tried everything I could think of but got worse and worse. I was then led to try Burdock Blood Bitters and was surprised at the wonderful change the first bottle made. Altogether I took seven bottles and am now completely cured and am in perfect health again. I feel that B.B.B. saved my life."

FRANCE AND THE VATICAN.

Chamber of Deputies Hears Interpellation on Government's Attitude.

Rome, May 31.—The Chamber of Deputies were crowded yesterday to hear the discussion on the interpellation on the attitude of the Government towards the Vatican protest against President Loubet's visit. Signor Mazza, Republican, called the note of the Papal Secretary of State, Morry del Val, a perfect insult. He recalled that the Pope had not protested against the atrocious offences to religion in France. His Holiness had now risen against a king, who, according to the Vatican, had stolen the pontifical patrimony, designating his Majesty as a usurper. The note, therefore, was a declaration of war.

Sig. Mazza asked the Government to take energetic action to prevent the invasion of church into the king's affairs. The Government had forgotten all pride and the national dignity by answering the Vatican insult, by giving hospitality to Cardinal Svampa when the king, on Saturday, went to Bologna. The Government permitted the people of France to defend Italian rights. The Liberals and the extreme parties applauded and the galleries joined.

Sig. Guerei, Radical, followed, saying that "this time the Vatican was not protesting, but bleating."

Sig. Sabrins, Socialist, interrupting, said: "Call it 'braying.'" (Laughter.)

Pears' Brickmakers Strike.

Toronto, May 31.—There was not a brick made in Pear's brickyard at Toronto Junction yesterday. The men are out on strike for higher wages. This is the largest brickyard in the western part of Toronto and involves the paving brick plant as well. A speedy settlement is looked for.

Received African Prince.

London, May 31.—King Edward held a brilliant levee yesterday morning. After the levee the King received in audience the Alake of Abeokuta (Upper Guinea), a picturesque West African potentate. The British Government has agreed to buy all the Alake's lahos cotton for three years.

THE GENTLEMAN FROM INDIANA

By Booth Tarkington.

At 5 o'clock he was still alive—just that, Smith came out to say. Meredith sent a telegram to Helen which would give Plattville the news that Harkless was found and was not yet gone from them. Horner left for the station to catch a train. There were things for him to do in Carlow. At noon Meredith sent a second telegram to Helen as barren of detail as the first. He was alive; was a little improved. But this telegram did not reach her, for she was on the way to Rouen, and half of the population of Carlow—at least so it seemed to the unhappy conductor of the accommodation—was with her.

They seemed to feel that they could camp in the hospital halls and corridors, and they were an incalculable worry to the authorities. More came on every train, and nearly all brought flowers and jelly and chickens for preparing broth, and they insisted that the two latter delicacies be fed to the patient at once. They were still in ignorance of the truth about the Crossroads and spent the day (it was Sunday) partly in getting in the way of the attendants and partly in planning an assault upon the Rouen jail for the purpose of lynching Slattery in case Harkless' condition did not improve at once. Those who had heard his statement kept close mouths until the story appeared in full in the Rouen papers on Monday morning. But by that time every member of the Crossroads White Caps was lodged in the Rouen jail with Slattery. Horner and a heavily armed posse rode over to the muddy corners on Sunday night, and the sheriff discovered that he might have taken the Skilletts and Johnsons single handed and unarmed. Their nerve was gone. They were shaken and afraid, and, to employ a figure somewhat inappropriate to their sullen, glad surrender, they fell upon his neck in their relief at finding the law touching them. They had no wish to hear "John Brown's Body" again. They wanted to get inside of a strong jail and to throw themselves on the mercy of the court as soon as possible. And those whom Harkless had not recognized made no delay in giving themselves up. They did not wish to remain in Six Crossroads. Bob Skillett, Force Johnson and one or two others needed the care of a physician badly, and one man was suffering from a severely wrenched back. Horner had a train stopped at a crossing so that his prisoners need not be taken through Plattville, and he brought them all safely to Rouen.

It took nearly a week to persuade the people of Plattville that it was better for them to go home, and it was only the confidence inspired by the manner of the two eminent surgeons (they lay in wait at all hours to interview these gentlemen) that did persuade them to return—this and the promise of two daily bulletins.

As many of them said on their return, Plattville didn't "feel like the same place," and a strange thing had happened—for the first time in five years the Carlow County Herald missed fire altogether. Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday passed. Mr. Fisbee only sat staring out of the dingy office windows with Parker in a demented silence. There was no Herald; there was no one to get it out.

In the Rouen hospital John Harkless feebly moved on his bed of pain. His constant delusion was that the universe was a vast, white heated brass bell and he a point at the center of it, listening, listening for years, to the brazen hum it gave off and burning in hot waves of sound.

Finally he came to what he would have considered a lucid interval had it not appeared that Helen Sherwood was whispering to Tom Meredith at the foot of his bed. This he knew to be a fictitious presentation of his fever, for was she not by this time away and away for foreign lands? And also Tom Meredith was a slim young thing and not a middle aged youth with an undeniable stomach and a baldish head who by the preposterous necromancy of fever assumed a grotesque likeness of his old friend. He waved his hand to the figures, and they vanished like figments of a dream; but, all the same, the vision had been realistic enough for the lady to look exquisitely pretty. No one could help wishing to stay in a world which contained as charming a picture as that.

But the next night Meredith waited near his bedside, haggard and dishevelled. Harkless had been lying in a long stupor. Suddenly he spoke, quite loudly, and the young surgeon, Gay, who leaned over him, remembered the words and the tone all his life.

"Away—and away—across the waters," said John Harkless. "She was here—once—in June."

"What is it, John?" whispered Meredith huskily. "You're feeling easier, aren't you?"

And John smiled a little, as if, for the moment, he saw and knew his old friend again.

That same night a friend of Rodney McCune's sent a telegram from Rouen: "He is dying. His paper is dead. Your name goes before convention in September."

CHAPTER XI.

MR. ROSS SCHOFIELD was engaged in decorating the battered chairs in the Herald editorial room with blue satin ribbon, the purchase of which at the Dry Goods Emporium had been directed by a sudden inspiration of his superior, Mr. Parker of the composing force. It was Ross' intention to garnish each chair with an elaborately tied bow, but as he was no sailor and understood only the intricacies of a hard knot he confined himself to that species of ornamentation, leaving, however, very long ends of ribbon hanging down after the manner of the pendants of rosettes. Mr. Schofield was alone at his labor, his two confreres having betaken themselves to the station to meet the train from Rouen.

It was a wet, gray day. The wide country lay dripping under formless wraps of thin mist, and the warm, drizzling rain blackened the weather beaten shingles of the station, made clear reflecting puddles on the unevenly worn planks of the platform and dampened the packing cases too thoroughly for occupation by the station lounger. The bus driver, Mr. Bennett, and the proprietors of two attendant "cut unders" and three or four other worthies whom business or the lack of it called to that locality availed themselves of the shelter of the waiting room, but the gentlemen of the Herald were too agitated to be confined save by the limits of the horizon.

They had reached the station half an hour before train time and consumed the interval in pacing the platform under a big cotton umbrella, addressing each other only in monosyllables. Those in the waiting room gossiped eagerly and for the thousandth time about the late events and particularly about the tremendous news of Fisbee. Judd Bennett looked out through the rainy doorway at the latter with reverence and a fine pride of townsmanship. He declared it to be his belief that Fisbee and Parker were waiting for her now.

For all Carlow knew why Fisbee had gone to meet the strange lady at the station when she had come to visit the Briscoes, why he had come with her to the lecture, why he had taken supper at the Briscoes' three times and dinner twice when she was there. Fisbee had told the story to Parker on a melancholy afternoon as they sat together in the Herald office, and Parker had told the town. It was simple enough indeed, and Fisbee's past was a mystery no longer. It might have been revealed years before had there been anything in particular to reveal and if it had ever occurred to Fisbee to talk of himself and his affairs. Things had a habit of not occurring to Fisbee.

Mr. Parker, very nervous himself, felt his companion's elbow trembling against his own as the great engine, reeking in the mist and sending great clouds of white vapor up to the sky, swooped down the track, rushed by them and came to a standstill beyond the platform. Fisbee and the foreman made haste to the nearest vestibule and were gazing blankly at its barred approaches when they heard a silvery laugh behind them and an exclamation.

"Upstairs and downstairs and in my lady's chamber! Just behind you, dear!"

Turning quickly, the foreman beheld a blushing and smiling little vision, a vision with light brown hair, a vision enveloped in a light brown rain cloak and with brown gloves from which the handles of a big brown traveling bag were let fall as the vision disappeared under the cotton umbrella, while the smitten Judd Bennett reeled gasping against the station.

"Dearest," the girl cried to the old man, "you should have been looking for me between the devil and the deep sea, the parlor car and the smoker! I've given up cigars, and I've begun to study economy, so I didn't come on either!"

The drizzle and mist blew in under the top of the "cut under" as they drove rapidly into town, and bright little drops sparkled on the fair hair above the new editor's forehead and on the long lashes above the new editor's cheeks. She shook these transient gems off lightly as she paused in the doorway of the office at the top of the rickety stairway.

Mr. Schofield had just added the last touch to his decorations and managed to slide into his coat as the party came up the stairs, and now, perspiring, proud, embarrassed, he assumed an attitude at once deprecatory of his endeavors and pointedly expectant of commendations for the results. (He was a modest youth and a conscious. After his first sight of her as she stood in the doorway it was several days before he could lift his distressed eyes under the new editor's glance or, indeed, dare to avail himself of more than a hasty and fluttering stare at her when her back was turned.) As she entered the room he sidled along the wall and laughed sheepishly at nothing.

Every chair in the room was ornamented with one of his blue rosettes, tied carefully and firmly to the middle slat of each chair back. There had been several yards of ribbon left over, and there was a hard knot of glossy satin on each of the inkstands and on the doorknobs. A blue band passing around the stovepipe lent it an antique rakishness suggestive of the charioteer, and a number of streamers suspended from a hook in the ceiling encouraged a supposition that the employees of the Herald were contemplating the intricate festivities of May day. It needed no ghost to infer that these garnitures had not embellished the editorial chamber during Mr. Harkless' activity, but, on the contrary, had been put in place that very morning. Mr. Fisbee had not known of the decorations, and as his eye fell upon them a faint look of pain passed over his brow. But the girl examined the room with a dancing eye, and there were both tears and laughter in her heart.

"How beautiful!" she cried. "How beautiful!" She crossed the room and gave her hand to Ross. "It is Mr. Schofield, isn't it? The ribbons are delightful. I didn't know Mr. Harkless' room was so pretty."

Ross looked out of the window and laughed as he took her hand, which he shook with a long up and down motion, but he was set at better ease by her apparent unconsciousness of the fact that the decorations were for her. "Oh, it ain't much, I reckon," he replied, and continued to look out of the window and laugh.

The diver dies without air to breathe. The consumptive dies without lungs to breathe the air, or of lungs rendered incapable of breathing by disease. The blood as it flows in and out of the lungs indicates the consumptive's progress. As the lungs grow weaker less oxygen is inhaled and the blood changes from scarlet to purple. Oxygen is the life of the blood as the blood is the life of the body.

The effect of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery upon weak lungs is to strengthen them, to enable the full oxygenation of the blood, arrest the progress of disease, and heal the inflamed tissues. Lung diseases have been and are being cured by "Golden Medical Discovery," in cases where deep-seated cough, frequent hemorrhage, emaciation, weakness, and night-sweats have all pointed to a fatal termination by consumption!

"Some years ago I was almost a helpless victim of that dread disease—consumption," writes Mr. Chas. Fross, P. M., of Fitka, White Co., Ind. "I was confined to my room for several months; my friends and neighbors had given up all hope of my recovery, until one day a friend advised me to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and after I had taken the contents of the second bottle I began to improve. After taking six bottles I was, I honestly believe, delivered from the grave and entirely cured. I am now a strong and hearty man."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cleanse the clogged system from accumulated impurities.

Kidney trouble was the trouble.

Doan's Kidney Pills

Cured Mr. George Graves, Pitts Ferry, Ont., of a very bad case of kidney trouble.

He tells about the cure in the following words: "I cannot recommend Doan's Kidney Pills too highly. I never took anything that did me so much good. I had a severe pain in the small of my back and could scarcely get up or down without help. I could hardly urinate, but when I did the pain was terrible. I was in the Hotel Dieu, Kingston, last winter and when I came out I was some better but not cured. It was then I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised. Since taking them I have been completely cured and have not had any trouble with my kidneys since."

must win upon their merits. The International Dictionary has won a greater distinction upon its merits and is in more general use than any other work of its kind in the English language.

A. H. Sayce, LL.D., D.D., of Oxford University, England, has recently said of it: It is indeed a marvelous work; it is difficult to conceive of a dictionary more exhaustive and complete. Everything is in it—not only what we might expect to find in such a work, but also what few of us would ever have thought of looking for.

A supplement to the new edition has brought it fully up to date. I have been looking through the latter with a feeling of astonishment at its completeness, and the amount of labor that has been put into it.

THE GREAT SUCCESS OF "SALADA"

CEYLON NATURAL GREEN TEA is due solely to the fact that it is better tea, being absolutely "pure." Sold in the same form as the famous "SALADA" Black Tea in sealed lead packets only. By all grocers.

The oven of an Imperial Oxford Range and the old-fashioned spit before an open fireplace do better roasting than any other cooking apparatus invented.

In the olden days the spit had to be kept turning to get all sides of a roast cooked. It is much the same with the ordinary cook-stove. The heat of the oven is greatest on the fire side—roasts, bread, pies, cakes, etc., have to be turned and twisted to get them cooked at all. The result is uneven, unsatisfactory cooking—good food ruined. The diffusive flue construction of the draws fresh air into the flue chamber, super-heats it and diffuses it evenly over the oven, thus heating it quickly, thoroughly and uniformly—back, front and sides are at the same equal temperature. The result is juicy, tender roasts, light, dainty pastry, evenly raised bread—successful cooking.

When you buy an Imperial Oxford Range you get the result of over sixty years' thought and experience in scientific construction of cooking apparatus.

A CHALLENGE.

The Examiner hereby challenges the Review to a game of baseball. Ever since last winter's hockey defeat the Review have been murmuring about how well they play baseball and about revenge and other things, and the Exam. is willing to meet them at any date in the near future, except Sunday, for the ballishyers of the Review are foxy enough to ask a game fixed for Sunday and then quietly arrange with the police to be at hand to stop the game before our contemporary is whitewashed.

The Port Hope Guide speaking of the game which Cobourg promised to play here Saturday, says: — "Manager Whitcroft, of the Peterborough Baseball Club went to Cobourg on Thursday afternoon and made arrangements with the team of that town to play an exhibition game in Peterborough on Saturday last. He returned to Peterborough late on Thursday and went to considerable expense in advertising and had everything in readiness and Cobourg failed to put in an appearance. The Manager of the team was communicated with and offered the lame excuse that one of the players was sick. This is an old trick of Cobourg's and they should be made to make good the loss sustained by the Peterborough team or else take a back seat in the league. There is no room for such teams as these in the Midland League."

FOOTBALL.

All members of the Y.M.C.A. football team are requested to be at practice this evening at the Oval at 6.45 sharp. Secretary Merrill is very anxious that all players should be on hand so that a good work-out may be had. A meeting of the players and those interested in the team's welfare will be held after the practice in the Y.M.C.A. parlours at 8 o'clock sharp.

The Committee appointed by President Morgan of the Midland League, to decide the protest of the Quakers in the game Saturday with Caughnawaga, will meet to-night at 6 o'clock in the Examiner office. The committee consists of Messrs. E. S. Clarry, R. M. Glover and J. W. Kelly, Bridgenorth.

LACROSSE.

The following T.A.S. lacrosse players turned out for practice last evening: — O'Brien, Boyle, Derocher, Mahoney, B. Doris, Meagher, Donovan, F. McCoy, Whaley, McGrath, McCabe, Parnell, Gorham, H. Donovan, Mulligan, J. McNichol, Morrow, O'Neil, J. Anglesey, T. O'Connor, L. Dorris, J. O'Brien.

The team has elected Mr. Fred Derocher, captain and manager, and the selection is an excellent one. Fred is a splendid player, possesses a thorough knowledge of the game, and is immensely popular with the players.

KILLS AS WELL AS TORTURES

Fatal Results From Indigestion Unless Promptly Cured—Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets the one Sure Cure.

Don't imagine because you say the pains and aches and discomforts that follow a hearty meal are "only indigestion" that you are not wrestling with a dangerous malady.

Indigestion not only tortures; it kills. It weakens the body so that it is an easy mark for infectious diseases. It is the cause of Appendicitis. The time to check it is now. The means of checking and curing it is Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. The proof is thousands of cures like that of Ademard Coderre, of St. Jacques de L'Achigan, Que. Mr. Coderre writes:—

"I suffered from Dyspepsia caused by inflammation of the stomach. I tried different medicines without getting any relief, when hearing of cures by Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets led me to try them. Two boxes cured me completely."

JAPANESE NOW OCCUPYING DALNY

Russians Fled in Great Haste and Left Much Good Property.

General Kuropatkin Reports a Number of Skirmishes—Says a Squadron of Japanese Was Almost Annihilated by Cossacks—St. Petersberg Correspondent of Paris Paper Gives up General's Idea.

Che Foo, June 1.—(11 a.m.)—An unconfirmed rumor is current among the Chinese that a battle occurred six miles from Port Arthur yesterday (Tuesday.)

The engagement resulted in the Russians retiring on Simatsi, followed cautiously by Japanese detachments. Three companies of Japanese are reported to have ambushed a patrol of the Nerinsky regiment near Hunsian, wounding three Cossacks. A fourth Cossack had his horse killed under him. Fearing capture he buried his rifle. He was captured, but subsequently escaped, dug up his rifle and rejoined his regiment.

Severe fighting is reported along the railway between stations Vfagoy and Vfandien. The Japanese suffered heavily, and would have been annihilated had not infantry reserves come up and forced the Russians to retire into Vfangoy.

Continuous Clashes.

Liaoyang, June 1.—Continuous fighting has taken place northeast of Fengwangcheng and the railway about Kinchou since May 27. A sharp action has taken place eastward of Simatsi, 35 miles north of Fengwangcheng, which lasted from the morning of May 27 until daylight, May 30. Both sides suffered seriously, although the detailed losses are not available.

To Fortify Yiakow.

London, June 1.—The Tokio correspondent of The Chronicle telegraphs: "Russian strategy has undergone another change. Yinkow is to be again fortified. Four guns have been brought from Newchwang, the garrison increased and the harbor mined."

On to Port Arthur.

London, June 1.—The correspondent of The Standard at the Japanese army headquarters, telegraphing under date of May 31, says:

"Repeated reconnaissances show that the enemy's troops are not within 15 miles of Fengwangcheng or east of Tayang River for 30 miles in the direction of Siuyen. Motienling Pass may delay, but it cannot prevent the Japanese advance to Port Arthur, as the pass can be turned on either flank."

The Morning Post's correspondent at Shanghai learns that the Russians hanged a number of Chinese who had been caught signalling to the Japanese fleet near Vladivostock.

Stationary Till July 1.

Paris, June 1.—The correspondent in St. Petersburg of The Echo de Paris says: "A friend of General Kuropatkin's tells me that before his departure the general said: 'The first month it will be said that I am inactive; the second that I am incapable, and the third that I am a traitor, because we will be repulsed and beaten, although that will not seriously affect the result of operations. I shall let people talk, firmly adhering to my resolution not to march before July 1, when I shall have the overwhelming masses I need.'"

ANNIHILATED JAP SQUADRON.

Russian Officials Report a Check to Mikado's Forces May 30.

St. Petersburg, June 1.—The following official despatch has been received by the general staff:

"From May 29 to May 30 all has been quiet in the neighborhood of Fengwangcheng.

"At 10.30 p.m., May 27, a force of Japanese infantry from Kuandiansian commenced a frontal flank attack upon a position occupied by our Cossacks near Shoago, 15 versts northwest of Kuandiansian. The Japanese, under cover of the darkness, opened a running, desultory fire, using field search-lights. The Cossacks retired on foot to Chanlin Pass, two versts west of Shoago, and subsequently on Aiyangpienmen, sixteen versts west of Chanlin Pass. The firing ceased at 2 a.m. May 28, when the Japanese ceased the pursuit at the entrance of Chanlin Pass.

Japs Suffered Heavily.

"The same day the first section of a Japanese detachment approached Aiyangpienmen, but afterwards retired to the summit of the hills west of the town. At 10 a.m. they formed up in order of battle, the force consisting of two battalions, with another in reserve. At 11 a.m. a battery of artillery took up a position and opened fire with shrapnel. While crossing the valley the Japanese infantry, advancing in close formation, suffered heavily. At 11.20 the Cossacks, observing that the Japanese were turning their right flank, retired in good order on Saimatsza. The fire of the rear guard ceased at 2 p.m. We lost two officers and seven Cossacks.

"On May 30 the Japanese advanced towards Saimatsza. Their movements were watched by Cossacks. When this telegram was despatched the Japanese had not arrived at Saimatsza.

"Up to May 29 the Japanese had not occupied Siuyen.

Annihilated the Japs.

"Shortly before noon May 30 our cavalry opened fire near the railroad station at Vagenfuehuchu against an advancing Japanese force consisting of eight companies of infantry, eight squadrons of cavalry and four machine guns. During the ensuing battle our mounted Sotnias brilliantly attacked a Japanese squadron on the enemy's left flank and almost completely annihilated it. The Sotnias then attacked the infantry, but retired under the fire of machine guns. The advances of the Japanese infantry in order to turn our left flank was stopped by the fire of our battery, which inflicted considerable loss on the enemy. Our losses have not yet been definitely ascertained.

SPECIAL SESSION OF COUNTY COUNCIL

To Appoint Successor to Mr. G. Stewart, County Treasurer

List of Applicants—Resolution of Condolence Adopted.

A special meeting of the County Council convened this morning for the purpose of filling the vacancy in the Treasurership of the County caused by the death of the late incumbent, Mr. Geo. Stewart.

There were present, Mr. Warden Peck, in the chair, and Councillors T. J. Johnston, G. W. Fitzgerald, T. M. Hunter, Robt. Shaw, John Monogue, W. T. Buck, W. T. Curtis, D. Moloney and H. A. Moore.

Mr. Warden Peck briefly addressed the Council, stating the object of the meeting, and expressing deep regret at the occasion of calling it, the death of the late County Treasurer. He said:—

"Since the last meeting death, in whose soverignity we must all sooner or later bow, has again been near us and we have lately stood beside the last resting place of the body of our County Treasurer, Mr. George Stewart. Mr. Stewart's death was deeply regretted by all communities and in all sections of the county. He had been in public life for a long period; had been a member of this Council for 12 years and for a term Warden of the County.

He was a man with a very strong sense of right; honourable and straightforward in all things, and these qualities coupled with a very gentle, kindly disposition, attracted him to all with whom he came into association, and no one in the county was more highly thought of than he."

There was necessity for the vacancy being filled at once, so that the new incumbent would have time to prepare his work for the regular session of the council on June 21st. The office of treasurer was an important one, and though there might be differences of opinion as to the merits of individual applicants, yet he was sure that the man having the best qualifications for the office would be selected. The Warden concluded his remarks by welcoming to the council Mr. H. A. Moore, County Councillor, No. 5 division, who was elected to fill the seat occupied by the late Richard Crowe, of Dummer. Mr. Moore had faithfully served his township as reeve, and was for a time a member of the council, which would, no doubt, be glad to have the benefit of his advice in conducting the business of the county.

RESOLUTION OF CONDOLENCE.

The following resolution was unanimously adopted:—

Moved by Thomas J. Johnston, seconded by William Buck, and Resolved:—

That the County Council, of the County of Peterborough, in council assembled, hereby tender to the family of the late George Stewart, Treasurer of the County, their sincere condolence and heartfelt sympathy with his bereaved family in their severe affliction they have sustained in the death of an affectionate and much beloved and revered father.

That this council bear willing testimony to the fidelity and industry he applied to the discharge of the duties of his office and to his many estimable qualities as a man, remembering, as many of the members do, his association with themselves in the capacity of councillor. In this connection the pleasant memories of personal association with him are conjoined with recollections of the wisdom and faithfulness with which he discharged his duty as a representative, which amply justified the confidence in his ability, represented by his elevation to the highest office in the county, that of Warden.

And that the Clerk be instructed to forward under the seal of the County a copy of this resolution to his bereaved relatives.

APPLICATIONS FOR TREASURERSHIP.

The Warden then read the list of formal applications for appointment to the office of County Treasurer: T. G. Eastland, G. W. Bonnett, Wesley Sherin, R. J. Kidd, M. W. Matchett, Jas. Middleton, Ed. M. Elliott, C. Young, R. P. Watt, T. E. Bradburn.

A resolution was adopted referring the applications to the Committee of the Whole Council, and to permit applicants to address the committee as to their qualifications and claims to appointment.

LOCAL MAN TO BE PRESIDENT

Of the Cornnell Brewing and Malting Company.

The current issue of the Ontario Gazette gives notice of the incorporation of the Cornnell Brewing and Malting Company, Limited, with head office at Lindsay. The applicants for the charter are: William Hewitt Meldrum, of the Town of Peterborough, in the County of Peterborough, and Province of Ontario, grain merchant; James Frederick Cornnell, brewer, and James Merritt Knowlson, insurance agent, both of the town of Lindsay, in the County of Victoria, and Province aforesaid; George William Prescott, of the City of Toronto, in the County of York, and Province aforesaid, commercial traveller, and Martin William Brandon, of the Village of Fenelon Falls, in the said County of Victoria, accountant, and any others who may have become subscribers to the memorandum of agreement of the company, and their successors, and the business of the company is to carry on the business of brewing beer and the manufacture of malt. The share capital of the company is to be forty thousand dollars divided into four hundred shares of one hundred dollars each, the head office of the company to be at the town of Lindsay, and the provisional directors of the company to be William Hewitt Meldrum, James Frederick Cornnell, James Merritt Knowlson, Georeg William Prescott, and Martin William Brandon, hereinbefore mentioned.

SUFFERED 25 YEARS

With Catarrh of the Stomach---Pe-ru-na Cured.

Congressman Botkin, of Winfield, Kan.

In a recent letter to Dr. Hartman, Congressman Botkin says:

"My Dear Doctor—It gives me pleasure to certify to the excellent curative qualities of your medicines—Peruna and Manalin. I have been afflicted more or less for a quarter of a century with catarrh of the stomach and constipation. A residence in Washington has increased these troubles. A few bottles of your medicine have given me almost complete relief, and I am sure that a continuation of them will effect a permanent cure."—J. D. Botkin.

Mr. L. F. Verdery, a prominent real estate agent, of Augusta, Ga., writes: "I have been a great sufferer from catarrhal dyspepsia. I tried many physicians, visited a good many springs, but I believe Peruna has done more for me than all of the above put together. I feel like a new person."—L. F. Verdery.

The most common form of summer catarrh is catarrh of the stomach. This is generally known as dyspepsia. Peruna cures these cases like magic.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advise gratis.

A GOOD ADMINISTRATIVE RECORD.

Toronto News (Conservative)

The imposition of additional taxation upon the railways of Ontario, as provided for in the new Assessment Act, is described by The Montreal Star as having "the pungency" of direct taxation. The Ross Government increases the tax, the railways increase the freight rates, therefore the people pay the tax, is the way The Star puts it. As a matter of fact the increase in freight charges applies to but one line of manufactures. But admitting the premises of The Star to be correct, which is not the case, wherein does blame attach to the Ontario Government? The regulation of railway rates is not a matter that greatly concerns the Provincial authorities. That is for the Dominion Government and the Railway Commission. It is imperative, however, that some way should be found of increasing the Provincial revenues, and the taxation of railways appears to be equitable, as it certainly is popular. The Provincial Treasurer, doubtless, would not admit that the increase in the tax is justification for higher freight rates. His function is to provide funds to meet the constantly increasing obligations of the Province. The method adopted meets with favour by all classes of the community, with the probable exception of railway managers.

The people ordinarily overlook the necessities of Provincial administration. They forget that the Government has assumed large responsibilities that might have been shifted on to the shoulders of the municipalities. The maintenance of asylums and reformatories requires a large sum each year. The grants to hospitals and charities involve an increased appropriation annually. The Government might easily evade these expenditures or tax the municipalities for such purposes. Generous treatment has been accorded the agricultural interests, with the most satisfactory results. The products of the farm have increased in some cases one hundred per cent. by reason of the educational campaign conducted by the Department. These facts justify the expenditures of the past, and the continuance of an aggressive campaign in the future. For that purpose money is essential. Education has been liberally supported. For grants to schools, and for the administration of the Department a large sum is annually required. Services such as we have enumerated are progressive in their demands. The plans of yesterday will not do for to-day nor to-morrow. Increasing expenditure is inevitable. Consequently the Government is well within the limits of sound policy when the growing needs of the Treasury are met by additional imposts upon the transportation companies, which have enjoyed such marked prosperity in this Province during the past few years.

There is little fault to find with the administrative methods of the Ontario Government. On the whole, the business of the Province has been conducted prudently and with due regard for efficiency and economy. The Shannon deal stands out as a blot upon the record. The Sault guarantee was unjustifiable. These, with the Gamey disclosures and the condoning of corrupt acts at the ballot box, have discredited the Ross Government. But, so far as the actual work of administration goes, there is a long and admirable record behind the Liberal party in the Legislature. Innuendoes designed to leave the opposite impression will not be effective. The loss of confidence the Government has suffered is not due to Departmental scandles, nor to proved cases of mal-administration. It is owing to the neglect to punish election frauds committed in behalf of the party, and the desperate methods that have been employed to retain power.

With its high opinion of the administrative record of the Liberal Government, which is in every way justified, the News is hardly consistent in its attitude of deadly hostility to the Government, and, incidentally, at least, its advocacy of the fitness of the Opposition to succeed them. The Conservative Opposition has hardly under any leader shown even negative qualities justifying their claim to be entrusted with the administration of affairs. Much less, under its present practically multiplex leadership, without any definite policy, can its claim to office be regarded seriously. The News insists upon the alleged corruption of the Liberal party as a disqualifying condition, but it cannot have the assurance to claim that Conservatives are any less corrupt, especially in view of the fact that the Conservatives as the originators and organizers of corrupt methods have an unrivalled record. Therefore the News practically takes the position that the Liberal Government gives good, honest and effective administration, and it never has had the assurance to say that the Conservative Opposition, as at present constituted, is capable of doing the same. Even if it argues, which is not the case, that Conservatives are no more corrupt than Liberals, it has no logical ground for demanding the extinction of the present Liberal Government in order to bring an incompetent Opposition into office.

FIGURES THAT TALK FOR WESTERN CANADA.

Total Wheat Crop in 1902 Sixty-Eight Million Bushels—Facts Intended to Appeal to United States Farmers.

Mr. George K. Muuro, a former resident of Peterborough, now a resident of Grand Forks, North Dakota, yet still with a warm corner in his heart for Peterborough and Canada, has favoured the Examiner with a copy of the Minneapolis Journal, which contain three large, closely printed and excellently illustrated pages of matter, setting forth the advantages of the Northwest of Canada as a home for the farmer, and contrasting its fertility, and the prices of its lands with the worn out farm lands of the United States. Although the matter referred to is in the form of the advertisement of a land company, yet the statements it contains are in accordance with the facts, and doubtless appeal strongly to American farmers who desire to better their condition by coming under better agricultural conditions, better laws and political institutions. As the information will also interest Canadians, the following extract is submitted:—

Average yield per acre in 1902—

Manitoba	26 Bushels
Territories	22.3 Bushels
Territories (1901)	25.27 Bushels

Average for ten years—

Manitoba	21.5 Bushels
Territories (Six years)	19.42 Bushels
Minnesota (Best spring wheat state)	14.2 Bushels

WESTERN CANADIAN GRAIN CROPS IN 1903.

Total acreage (Manitoba 3,689,990 acres, Territories 1,383,430 acres) a total of 5,073,424 acres.

	Wheat. Bushels.	Oats. Bushels.	Barley. Bushels.	Flax. Bushels.
Manitoba (per acre, 16.1)	40,116,878	33,035,774	8,707,252	564,440
N. W. Territories (per acre 19)	16,111,569	14,179,705	1,741,209	292,852
Totals	56,228,437	47,215,479	10,448,461	857,292

1903 was considered a bad year in Western Canada.

Difference between 30 bushels to the acre (a common yield in Western Canada) on $10 land, and 10 bushels to the acre (average in some states) on $30 land:—

	Cost of 160-acre farm.	Int. charge at 6 pct.	Income at 70c bushel
Western Canada	$1,600	$ 96	$3,360
Wornout United States wheat land	4,800	288	1,120
In favour of Western Canada	$3,200	$192	$2,240

And don't forget that there is a vast amount of Government land in Western Canada that may be homesteaded, or that good land may be bought for less than $10; whereas, there is almost no good land left in the states at $30. You know what good land is worth in Minnesota or Indiana, for example.

How do Americans like Western Canada? Let their invading numbers tell:

Year.	American Immigrants	Year.	American Immigrants
1897	712	1901	17,987
1898	9,112	1902	26,388
1899	11,945	1903	49,408
1900	15,500
Total			131,052

Why do Americans go to Western Canada in such numbers?
To share in the abounding prosperity of a new country.
Good laws, Cheap lands or free homesteads, Low taxes, Big crops.

Mr. G. S. Roxburgh left on Saturday for Ottawa, where he has procured a situation in the Interior Department for the summer.

Mr. Robert Webster, who is an employee of the Messrs. Finlay & Son hub and spoke factory, met with a serious accident on Friday. He was in charge of the big saw wheel and was cutting elm hubs when the log got displaced and in reaching over to replace it his hand came in contact with the saw, cutting and crushing three fingers. The first finger had to be amputated at the first joint.

Mr. Daniel Rogers, sr., who works in the same establishment, also met with an accident. He was handling hubs when one fell, breaking one of his toes.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Fraser, of Hastings, were visiting friends in town on Monday, before leaving for Carstairs, N.W.T., where Mr. Fraser intends starting a hardware business.

HEALTH FOR GIRLS.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Make Strong Healthy Rosy-Cheeked Lasses.

"I was attacked with appendicitis," says Miss Fabiola Grammont, daughter of Mr. Charles Grammont, a prosperous farmer of Champlain, Que., "and while the doctor who attended me cured me of this trouble, it left behind after effects from which it seemed almost impossible to recover. I grew weak and very pale; my appetite was poor; I suffered at times from severe headaches; and the least exertion left me completely worn out. I tried several remedies, but instead of getting better I was gradually growing worse. Any work about the house left me weak and dispirited, and I felt almost like giving up. At this time a friend who had used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills with much benefit, strongly urged me to give them a trial. I got a box, and as I did not feel any better when I had used them, I would have given them up but for the fact that my friend urged that one box was not a fair trial. I then decided to continue the use of the pills, and by the time I had taken three boxes I found my condition was improving. I used eight boxes in all, and by the time I had taken them all my old time health had returned. My appetite had improved, I had gained in weight and the glow of health had returned to my face. I cannot too strongly recommend Dr. William's Pink Pills to all pale and weak girls."

Good blood is an absolute necessity, and the only way to have a constant supply of rich, red health-giving blood is to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Every dose helps to make new blood, and to drive from the system such troubles as anaemia, languidness, neuralgia, dyspepsia, rheumatism, etc. You can get these pills from any medicine dealer, or by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50 by writing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.

THE LATEST NEWS FROM NORWOOD.

Personal Mention and Other Items of Interest from the Eastern Town.

Norwood, May 30.

Mr. John Maidens, of Campbellford, was in town on Monday.

Mr. Ira Moore and Mr. Edwin Searight spent Sunday at the home of Mr. C. Searight.

Dr. and Mrs. A. J. Robertson were in Toronto for last week.

The death of Nancy Elizabeth Jinkins, wife of Mr. Frank Jinkins, of lot 8, concession 6, Dummer, occurred on Friday last. The deceased was buried on Sunday in the Norwood Cemetery.

Mr. Terrence Smith of town, has purchased the McGregor House from Mr. E. J. King, who has been its proprietor for the last two years.

INDIAN RIVER.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Dr. Evans is thinking of taking a post graduate course in Varsity.

Miss Annie Borland spent a few days last week in the vicinity of Norwood visiting with friends.

Mr. Richard Caryoneskye, who has spent the river in a tent on the banks of the Indian river, where he has been very successful in trapping and hunting, has recently moved to more commodious quarters on the boundary with his wife and little boy, where they will make baskets. He belongs to the Oneida tribe, and his wife to the Chippewas.

A couple of our young men spent last Saturday afternoon on the river. They report having had a pleasant time, but their game bag on their return was not too well filled.

The farmers in this vicinity have all completed their spring work, and are now expecting haying time.

On the 24th of May a picnic was held on Mr. Hall's lawn under the auspices of the Sunday school classes of Misses Lily Duff and M. Minore. A football match was played during the afternoon between the Buffers and the Duffers, which resulted in a score of 2—1 in favour of the Buffers. Mr. M. H. Minore refered the game to the entire satisfaction of both teams. Races were the next in order and very appropriate prizes were awarded. After tea, which was served on the lawn, and to which all did ample justice, the Loafitis and the Soaphites indulged in a baseball match, which resulted in a score of 25 to 24 in favour of the latter. A Mr. William Fitzgerald wishes to obtain another team, as he has only got two at present.

Indian River lacks a baseball club, although there are those in the vicinity who with practice would develop into expert ball players. We would like to see a club formed, and a team regularly at practice. We could obtain the valuable services of Mr. M. H. Minore as coach and captain and Mr. W. J. Grigg could initiate the players into the mysteries of baserunning and fielding. Why should not the people of Indian River, who have shown themselves to be among the best association football players of the country likewise demonstrate their superiority in this favourite sport as well? There certainly is talent in the vicinity for it, and with practice they should be in a position to challenge any team in the district.

THEY KNOW IT.

Thousands of people throughout the country know that the ordinary remedies for piles—ointments, suppositories and appliances — will not cure.

The best of them only bring passing relief.

Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid is a tablet taken internally that removes the cause of Piles, hence, the cure is permanent. Every package sold carries a guarantee with it.

It is perfectly harmless to the most delicate constitution. A month's treatment in each package. Sold at $1.00.

HAVELOCK BUDGET OF INTERESTING NEWS.

Things of Interest Happening in the Railway Town.

Great Week in Sport—Lacrosse Team Suffers Defeat—Other News Items.

Havelock, May 30.

A very pretty and quiet wedding took place at the home of Mr. J. Morrow, of town, on the evening of the 24th May, when his daughter, Edith, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to one of our town boys, Mr. Stanley Barlow. The marriage ceremony was performed by the Rev. A. E. Camp. The bride was charmingly dressed in white silk, carrying a very pretty bouquet. The bridesmaids were Miss Smith, Miss Johnston and Miss Forsythe. Mr. Barlow has lived in the town for the past eight or ten years and has won the esteem of everybody. A number of very beautiful and useful presents were given by friends, and Mr. and Mrs. Barlow left on the Midnight train for their honeymoon to Killarney, Man., amid the songs of the boys who just arrived from Marmora in time to give them a send off.

The local lacrosse team went over to Marmora on the 24th to cross sticks in a friendly game of lacrosse with the team of that town, but although lacrosse was played for the first few minutes, it soon began to look interesting and not like lacrosse. The teams lined up for play at about 4.15 p.m., the Havelock bunch being much the lighter in weight. On the the draw-off, A. McGuire, Havelock's swift centre, won and Joe Muldoon got the ball and by a brilliant rush, just to give Marmora an idea of how he could play, walked down the field and scored in less than thirty seconds from the time of the face-off. After this Marmora thought it best to watch Joe closely as he looked to be rather a dangerous man. Up to the end of half time the score was 3—3, and the Havelock men were certainly getting a lot of punishment. After this the game was rough and heavy and by some misunderstanding the ball was put into the Havelock nets which was not counted, making the score 5—5. The line-up for Havelock was as follows:—B. Hogg, Main, Ford, Lancaster, Powers, McGuire, Muldoon, McNicholl, Ferguson, Easterbrook and Stibbs. Mr. John McWilliams refereed the game.

The juniors, who played in Madoc on the same date, went down to defeat by their sturdy opponents, but think that if they have the pleasure, as they claim it was on account of being used as gentlemen all the time of their stay, that they will be able to trim the Madoc bunch.

The first League game of the season will be played here on Friday, June 3rd. The boys are getting into shape and are confident of winning.

The baseball team which played in Marmora on the 24th, did themselves credit by trimming the Marmora bunch by 8 to 5, with an innings to spare. The credit is largely due to D. A. Ford, the pitcher, who struck nine men out to Currie's three. The game was umpired by Mr. Charles Milne of Toronto, to the satisfaction of both teams. The line up was as follows:

Havelock — R. Campney cf, J. Black 1b, E. Dorricott 2b, H. Toman c, W. Rose ss, D. Ford, p, J. E. Kelsey rf, W. Thompson lf, R. E. White 3b.

Marmora — Curry p, Inkster c, McWilliams 1b, Hubble rf, McIver lf, Gladney cf, Phillips ss, Bradley 2b, Stevens 3b.

Mr. Ward Patterson is the happy father of a son. The event took place on Sunday evening.

Miss Clara Davis of Tweed has been visiting friends in town.

Mr. J. Sleight has been ill for some time but he is improving now.

Mr. Robert Elliott of Cordova, has moved to Niagara Falls South.

A very pleasant and enjoyable evening was spent on Monday in the Methodist church at the at home given by the Epworth League. Two or three loads of young people drove down from Norwood.

On Saturday afternoon representatives from Marmora, Campbellford and Havelock, met at the Dineen House for the purpose of organizing the Trent Valley Baseball League. The following officers were elected:

Hon. President — Mr. John Carey, Havelock.

President — Mr. J. Snell, Marmora.

Vice-President — Mr. R. J. Maynard, Campbellford.

2nd Vice-President — Mr. W. B. Ritchie, Havelock.

Secretary-Treasurer — T. W. Wood, Campbellford.

Committee — J. A. Hubble, W. H. Thompson, H. Dryden.

The following rules regarding the League were formulated:—

1. $3 entrance fee, payable before June 10th, 1904.

2. Any club not appearing to play a scheduled game, provided five days' notice has not been given, shall pay $10 forfeit for such unplayed game; forfeit to be posted with the treasurer of the League before the first scheduled game is played.

3. Games to be governed by Spalding's official guide.

4. Umpires to be appointed by home teams, names to be given before the first schedule game.

5. Players must be bona fide residents of the town 60 days before the first game scheduled. Teams found playing other than bona fide residents shall forfeit the game to the opposing team.

6. Schedule, two games to be played by each team at home and abroad.

7. Teams must not consist of more than 15 men certified, and names must be furnished signed by the president of local and league before July 10. In the event of a tie game to be played when executive decides. Two balls to be furnished at each game. Teams pay expenses, get the gate receipts. Postponed games to be played subject to the approval of the President.

The following is the schedule:—

Marmora at Campbellford, June 10.
Campbellford at Havelock, June 17.
Havelock at Marmora, June 22.

Campbellford at Havelock, Aug. 26.
Havelock at Marmora, Sept. 2.

STRANDED PAUPERS

Phase of Immigration Threshed Out in the House.

DISTRIBUTION OF IMMIGRANTS

Hon. Mr. Sifton Suggests That the Farmers' Organizations in Ontario Take Up the Subject and Make Suggestions to the Department—Port Arthur and Fort William Harbors—Inspection of Grain.

Ottawa, June 1.—The date of prorogation, it is hoped, has been materially advanced by the adoption yesterday of the motion of Sir Wilfrid Laurier to devote the greater part of Wednesday and Thursday to Government business for the remainder of the session. This gives Government measures precedence on all other days than Mondays, and was justified by the advanced state of private business. The report that large numbers of European immigrants who have recently arrived in Canada are penniless was brought to the attention of the House by Mr. E. F. Clarke, and the subject of pauper immigration was thrashed out. The debate disclosed the fact that Canadian medical examination is most rigid, and that the class of immigrants arriving are desirable.

Mr. Borden's Testimony.

Mr. R. L. Borden took advantage of the opportunity to speak of the excellence of the Galician settlers. Mr. Sifton, in response to suggestions from both sides of the House, promised to see what could be done in the way of distributing immigrants now seeking employment among the different Provinces. The advisability of making Port Arthur and Fort William free ports was suggested during the debate upon the bills establishing a harbor commission for those ports. Sir Richard Cartwright, in connection with the measure respecting the payments of bounties upon lead-bearing ores smelted in Canada, informed the House that the measure of last session had materially increased the output of the mines.

To Increase Bonding Powers.

A petition was received on opening yesterday afternoon from the Huron & Ontario Railway Company, praying for legislation to increase their bonding powers from $10,000 to $20,000 a mile.

Mr. Morrison introduced a bill respecting the Similkameen & Kercmos Railway Company.

The House adopted a resolution by Sir Wilfrid Laurier that after to-day to the end of the session, Government orders have precedence on Wednesdays and Thursdays after questions put by members. The Premier explained that the business of private members was much farther forward than that of the Government.

Pauper Immigrants.

Mr. Clarke called the attention of the Government to the fact that a number of immigrants, chiefly Galicians, are stranded in Montreal, where they are a charge on the city's charity. He read Canadian Associated Press despatches recording the statement of a Montreal correspondent, that thousands of lately arrived immigrants are walking the streets and being sent to the jails for protection. Mr. Clarke declared that the obligation of caring for them is on the steamship companies that brought them out, not on the City of Montreal.

Mr. Rosamond stated that a dozen men of these stranded immigrants had found their way to Almonte, where they are now perfectly helpless. Having no means of support they are dependent on charity.

Mr. Monk said it was the Government's duty to come to the rescue of these people. Unlike the United States, which was enforcing its laws against pauper immigration more rigidly every day, Canada seemed content to allow undesirable immigrants to flow in.

Hon. Clifford Sifton said that the Canadian Government had no control over what any private agency in England might do, but he would endeavor to find what could be done in this direction. The officers of the Department were doing their utmost to deprecate the work of voluntary organizations. Many mechanics had been sent out to Canada by such organizations, and only yesterday a cable had been sent by the Department of the Interior to Lord Strathcona, strongly urging that only farmers or farm laborers should be sent out from England to Canada. Mr. Sifton stated that most of the stranded immigrants in Montreal are Italian navvies. He promised to give special attention to the complaints that had been made.

Mr. Clarke asked if the Government had not authority to charge the steamship companies with expenses in connection with the maintenance of pauper immigrants.

Mr. Sifton replied that the steamship companies were liable to pay the expenses of inspection and transportation. He believed that the immigrants coming to Canada are far superior as a class to the emigrants going into the United States.

Mr. Borden pointed out that the Government could beyond doubt exercise control over steamship companies making use of Canadian ports.

Jabel Robinson failed to see how Canada would benefit from the importation into Canada of people who cannot speak the English language.

Mr. Puttee of Winnipeg exposed a popular trick perpetrated by unscrupulous agents who send mechanics to the large cities, giving them guarantees of employment, and when the mechanics arrive at the cities they find that the guarantee is no good. Action should be taken against these organizations.

Mr. Sifton said he would be glad if the farmers' organizations of Ontario would take up the subject of distribution of immigrants and make suggestions to the department.

The debate was continued by Messrs. Holmes, Heyd, Hughes, Avery, Wright (Renfrew), Uriah Wilson, and Roche of Halifax, after which the matter dropped.

Ontario to Be There.

Mr. Lemieux, the Solicitor-General, replying to a question by the leader of the Opposition, said that the Government would be represented before the Privy Council early in July, when it was understood the appeal of New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island against the judgment of the Supreme Court upholding the Federal redistribution of last session would be argued. He understood also that Ontario and Nova Scotia would be represented at the hearing.

Bounties on Lead.

The House, in committee, passed a resolution, on motion of Sir Richard Cartwright, providing that the bounty authorized last session may be paid on lead bearing ores mined in Canada and delivered at a Canadian smelter on or after July 1, 1903. The Minister explained that the session was long, that the Bounty Act did not come into effect until October, and the intention was by the resolution to make it retroactive to the first of July. He believed the bounty had stimulated the mining of low grade ores. Some 70 or 80 thousand dollars had been paid in bounties.

Grain Inspection Bill.

After recess, Sir Richard Cartwright moved the second reading of the bill respecting the inspection of grain. He said it was desirable to refer the bill to a special committee in order that its provisions should be carefully examined. The members of the committee are: Messrs. Campbell, Ross (Ontario), Douglas, Tillson, Bickerdike, Sifton, Scott, Robinson (West Elgin), Henderson, Smith (Wentworth), Wilson.

Port Arthur Harbor.

Mr. Prefontaine's bill respecting the harbor of Port Arthur, Ont., was read a second time. The bill provides for the appointment of a Harbor Commission to control Port Arthur harbor. Another bill introduced by Mr. Prefontaine places Fort William under the control of a Harbor Commission. The Boards of Trade of the two towns requested this legislation. No salaries will be paid the Commissioners.

The bill was passed.

PROMINENT MAN TAKES HIS LIFE

Mr. James McIndoo in a Demented Condition Commits Suicide.

Found in a well Early this Morning—Mind Deranged by his Troubles—A Respected Citizen.

A very sad tragedy was enacted last night at Springville, when in a temporary state of deranged mind, James McIndoo, during his life a respected and prosperous citizen of that community, took his own life. The deceased a few weeks ago sustained a sad bereavement in the death of his wife, and prior to that time he had worried over the death of his step-daughter, which occurred some months ago, and the continued illness of his wife, and these troubles evidently preyed upon his mind to such an extent that his neighbours noticed him acting strangely, and that he was changed from his usual cheery disposition to a state of melancholy, and was not responsible for all his actions.

Last night he visited at the home of Mr. Thomas Hunter ,and arranged some matters in connection with his business affairs. It was noticed however, that he was not himself, and talked rather irrationally. He left there about 9 o'clock, going home, and shortly after he arrived there he went upstairs as if to retire. The rest of the household went to bed, and passed the night uneventfully. Mr. McIndoo, apparently did not sleep, nothing in itself unusual for it is known that for some time past he has suffered from sleeplessness, and sometime during the night he came downstairs, partially dressed, and uncovered the well, which was situated a short distance from the house. This must have been a 'gruesome task; the poor man in the pouring rain, struggling to open the way to his own death, for the 2-inch planks were securely spiked down and must have required desperate wrenches to detach them, the whole act showing the desperate earnestness of the man. What is remarkable is that the planks were found neatly piled along side the well. Having made everything ready he let himself down into the water of which there was about 8 feet, and where he was found this morning in a standing position. The planks covering the well had been securely spiked down, and it was seen that considerable trouble had been experienced in prying them off. The well was only about twelve feet deep, and the pump had been knocked to the side of the well, showing evidences of a struggle. The flesh on his hands was also torn some.

This morning, the hired boy arose at the usual time, and went out to the barn, all unconscious of the awful scene which had been enacted during the night. He performed his duties around the barnyard, and shortly afterwards, Mr. McIntosh, the man who gathers the milk for the cheese factory, drove into the yard on his daily visit. Although he passed the well he did not notice that the covering had been removed, until he was driving out of the yard, when his attention was drawn to it, and also that of the boy. They thought it strange, and made an investigation, the result of which revealed the horrible truth, for there they saw the body in the water.

An alarm was at once sent to the neighbours, and when sufficient help had arrived the body was removed from the water.

The death was a particularly sad one in view of the circumstances. He left two small girls, aged 12 and 8 years respectively, who are now both motherless and fatherless.

The deceased, until a short time ago, when his trouble had caused his mind to wander, was one of the most highly respected men in the community, strictly honourable in all his dealings, a frugal, industrious and well-to-do gentleman, and his death in this manner has caused a severe shock to the community.

The deceased was a son of Mr. William McIndoo, a retired farmer living in Pontypool, and has two brothers and five sisters living, the brothers being Joseph, of Buffalo, and Mowat, of Nanimo, B.C. The sisters are: Mrs. Wm. Shannon, of Vancouver, B.C.; Mrs. S. McRoberts, of Green, Iowa; Mrs. Chas. Billings, Calgary, Alta.; Mrs. Jas. McRoberts, of Millbrook, and Mrs. W. H. Hooper, of Manvers.

Dr. Gray, coroner, was notified this morning, and decided that an inquest was unnecessary.

INVITED TO REMAIN.

Unanimous Invitation to Rev. J. G. Lewis of Mark Street Church.

At a recent meeting of the Quarterly Official Board of the Mark Street Methodist Church an unanimous invitation was extended to Rev. J. G. Lewis to remain a second year as pastor of the church. The Board expressed great satisfaction with the work of Mr. Lewis, during the past year, the finances being in a most healthy condition, while there was a substantial increase in membership. The spiritual work had also been stimulated and the congregation had received great blessing from the earnest preaching of the pastor.

At St. Andrews Church.

Scores of people were turned away from St. Andrew's Church Sunday evening when a most profitable service was held. Rev. J. G. Potter preached an eloquent sermon from the text "Unless you become converted and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the Kingdom of Heaven." Matthew 18 3. Master Clarence Glass, the Toronto boy soprano delighted the large congregation with his solo "Ave Marie" and the duet by Master Clarence and Mr. Sydney Glass was also rendered in a beautiful manner.

A Heavy Fine.

At the Police Court this morning a local hotel keeper was fined $40.00 and $7.50 costs for selling liquor in prohibited hours, on Sunday, May 22nd. The prosecution was conducted by Mr R. H. Wood and Mr. E. O'Connell appeared for the defence.

SUDDEN DEATH OF MR. JOHN PARNELL.

Old Resident Taken off by Heart Failure This Morning

The sudden death of John Parnell, Water street, occurred at his home this morning after a very brief illness. He had been ailing slightly for a few days, but was up this morning and in fact last night rested better than he had done for some time. He was sitting on a chair in his room and was alone. The family below heard a noise as if something was falling and when his son went upstairs he found his father lying on the floor in a dying condition. A doctor was called for immediately, but death had already occurred when he arrived.

The deceased, who was 65 years of age, was born on the Atlantic Coast, shortly after his parents had come from England. He removed to Peterborough when quite young, and had lived here ever since, winning the esteem and respect of those with whom he was associated. He leaves to mourn his loss, a widow, three sons and four daughters,—Mrs. King, Mrs. Sanderson, Mrs. Harvey and Miss Bertha. The sons are, Richard, Walter and Fred, all living in town.

One brother, Richard, of Peterborough, and four sisters, Mrs. E. Thompson, of town; Mrs. Chambers, of Montreal; Mrs. Sperry and Mrs. L. Turner, of town, also survive him.

This is the culmination of a series of troubles which have visited this family. Five members of the family were recently sick at the same time with diphtheria, and are but now recovering from that disease.

The funeral will take place on Friday afternoon to the Little Lake Cemetery.

SUCCESSFUL CONCERT AT ST ANDREWS

Ithaca Conservation of Music Gave an Enjoyable Programme.

The concert in St. Andrew's school room last evening by the Ithaca Conservatory of Music was an excellent one. The attendance was not as large as the company merited, but considering the unfavourable weather and the counter attractions of late, there was a fairly large number present. It was the initial appearance of this company of artists in Peterborough and they created a very favourable impression and will be welcomed back at any time. The company is composed of Miss Jane Cook, soprano; Miss Bessie T. Cook, contralto; Mr. Albert Moree, reader, and Mr. Howard J. Barnum, violinist. The programme was most interesting, the selections being all well rendered and encores were frequent. The contralto, violinist and reader were much above the ordinary, while the soprano was only fair and hardly up to the standard of the others.

Mr. Barnum, violinist was very fine, he being a thorough master of his instrument. His violin was one of exquisite tone while the technique of the player was quite brilliant and the execution faultless. He played two numbers, Hauser's "Rhapsodie Hongraise," and Raff's "Cantina," and was heartily encored on each occasion.

Mr. Moree, reader, while especially successful in his humourous numbers, was equally at home in dramatic selections and proved himself to be an entertainer of more than usual ability. His selections were exceedingly well rendered and he was received in a most popular manner. His numbers were "When Rubenstein Played the Piano," "The Schoolmaster Beaten," and monologue "Pro and Con."

Miss Bessie Cook, contralto was heard with great pleasure in her selections. Her voice in the lower register is full and clear and of excellent quality, but the high tones were rather thin in tone. She sang "O Dry Those Tears," and a lullaby, the latter being splendidly suited to display the rich qualities of her voice.

Miss Jane Cook, soprano, possessed a well-trained voice, but which was lacking in richness and was of a rather light and thin quality. She sang two numbers "Villanelle," and "Vanity Fair," and was encored on each occasion.

The Misses Cook were heard in two pleasing duets, "Annie Laurie" and "When the Bloom is on the Rye," each being rendered with artistic taste and were very enjoyable numbers. The violin was played very effectively in obligato parts in some of the numbers.

TOLD STORY OF JEAN VAL JEAN

Interesting Lecture by Rev. Dr. Cleaver of Toronto

St. Pauls Church well Filled to Hear Eminent Lecture—An Enjoyable Evening.

Last night at St. Paul's church, Rev. Dr. Cleever, of the Sherbourne street Methodist church, Toronto, delivered to a large audience his famous lecture, "Jean Valjean," and the reputation which the reverend gentleman gained on the occasion of his former appearance here, was fully sustained last night. The audience listened spell bound during the two hours in which the speaker told the story of Victor Hugo's work, the title of which formed the subject of the lecture.

Many of those present last night heard the speaker deliver the same lecture on a previous occasion, in the same church, and the pleasure experienced in listening to its initial delivery was fully duplicated last night when the lecture was repeated. The story of "Jean Valjean," is so well known that a synopsis of the lecture, which was an abreviated account of the experiences of Hugo's hero, is unnecessary. The speaker not only told the story, however, but drew many practical lessons from the depiction of the characters contained in the story and added a strong moral tone to it, portraiting the many admirable traits in the character of Jean Valjean, and teaching lessons by the points in which he displayed weaknesses.

The lecturer gave evidence of the fact that he had not only studied the story and characters described, but that he had familiarized himself with the motives and emotions of the persons whose story he was telling, and he pictured these emotions so clearly that everyone in the audience entered into perfect sympathy with the spirit of the story, and the result was that the undivided attention of those fortunate enough to avail themselves of the opportunity of hearing the eminent lecturer, was held throughout the entire evening.

His descriptive powers are wonderful, and to hear him tell of an incident is to see the incident enacted. It is safe to say that the audience which listened to the Reverend Doctor never spent a more thoroughly enjoyable evening, and the auspices under which the lecture was delivered is to be congratulated upon providing such an entertaining evening's programme. A large number of the visiting members of the Bay of Quinte Methodist Conference were among the audience.

The lecturer was introduced by Rev. Dr. Torrance, after the opening prayer by Rev. J. A. Wilson.

THE NEW PASTOR OF GEORGE STREET

Rev. W. J. Crothers, M. A., D. D. who is to Succeed Rev. J. P. Wilson B. A.

Rev. W. J. Crothers, M. A., D.D., who is to succeed Rev. J. P. Wilson, in the pastorate of the George street church, was born at Philipsburg, P.Q. and was educated at the local schools and at McGill University, where he graduated in Arts with honours in 1872. He entered the ministry the same year and was ordained in 1876. From that time up to June, 1892, he was a member of the Montreal Conference, being stationed at Ottawa and Carleton Place. In the last named year he accepted a call to Port Hope, where he remained until 1897, when he was appointed to Napanee and later to Bridge street, Belleville, where he is at present the pastor. He was elected president of the Bay of Quinte Conference in 1900, and has been a member of the last four general conferences. He was one of the few Canadian representatives at the Ecumenical Conference, held in London, Eng., in Sept., 1901. He is is a governor of the Wesleyan Theological College, Montreal, from which he received the degree of D.D., in 1896. His work in the ministry has been characterized by a marked degree of success.

REV. DR. CROTHERS, M. A., who is named in the first draft of stations, as the new pastor of George Street Church.

Most folk who eat "FORCE" think it tastes the best of all breakfast foods. They say, "It goes right to the spot."

That's because Nature is on the spot. She knows at the first taste what she can make the best blood, and bone, and brain out of.

Nature says, "Give me 'FORCE.'"

G. T. ALIEN INQUIRY.

Judge Winchester Continued His Investigation at Montreal Tuesday.

Montreal, June 1.—Judge Winchester continued his investigation yesterday re the Grand Trunk alien labor. J. R. Stephens was once more examined by his Honor in regard to the employment of Americans.

Mr. Stephens emphatically stated that so far from trying to get Americans, the very reverse of that was his thought and purpose. As a fact, he had given employment to some four persons who were Americans.

There was the case of Raymond Heckman, who had been employed at Winnipeg. That gentleman was no longer in the service of the company. He did not know where he was. It was quite untrue to say that, in view of this enquiry, he had made arrangements to have him employed by the C.P.R.

As to the case of Mr. Goodman, he had seen what excellent work he had done at Winnipeg, and he invited him to come to Montreal. Mr. Mellen, recently in his office, had left the Santa Fe Road and reached Montreal about a fortnight after he did. He did not send for him, but he put him on the pay roll at $125 per month.

There were four in all who had been on the Santa Fe Road who came to Montreal and who had obtained employment on the Grand Trunk.

MR. BLAKE AND ERIN

Gives Up His Professional Work to Serve His Constituents.

DUBLIN FREEMAN'S TRIBUTE

Proposal By Which 7,000 Pauper Children May Be Sent Out to Canada to Work on Small Farms—Burial of Gen. McNeill Attended By Sir Charles Tupper and Lord Strathcona—Music in Canada.

London, May 31.—(C.A.P.)—Edward Blake, M.P., speaking at Longford, said that in the choice before him of giving up either the representation of the constituency or his professional work, he decided to give up the latter, remaining their representative as long as they wished him to do so. Speaking on the new land act he said the farmers must never forget that they had at their backs the old safeguard, unsatisfactory as it was, on judicial rent, that they need not buy the land on any terms the landlords demanded.

Mr. Blake's Sacrifices.

London, May 31.—(C. A. P.)—The Dublin Freeman, commenting on Edward Blake's Longford address, says that never has any patriot sacrificed so much on behalf of Irish liberty from the time he first joined the Irish party. Though willing to serve in the ranks his advice has been sought and has always been moderate, sane, firm and reliable.

7,000 Pauper Children For Canada.

London, May 31.—(C. A. P.)—Representatives of the pauper guardian boards throughout England at a meeting in London will urge the Local Government Board to send pauper children to Canada or some other colony at the expense of the guardians to work on small farms, either training them for agricultural life in England or for other work. Out of 63,000 indoor paupers' children in England and Wales the guardians exercise control over 7,724. Out of these 7,000 it is believed would pass the Canadian Government medical tests. A speech in support of the scheme was made by R. Lewis of New Brunswick.

Gen. McNeill Buried.

London, May 31.—(C. A. P.)—Sir Charles Tupper and Lord Strathcona attended the funeral of Major-General Sir John Curstairs McNeill.

Music in Canada.

London, May 31.—(C. A. P.)—Albert Visetti, writing to The Daily Telegraph, says that a musical spirit is abroad in Canada. He expects as a result of his tour that instead of going to the continent he will see many Canadian faces at the Royal Academy of Music or at the Royal College.

Dr. Grace to Preside.

London, May 31.—(C. A. P.)—Dr. W. G. Grace, president of the English Bowling Association, presided at a meeting when it was resolved to tender a banquet to the Canadians in London on June 21. The international matches will be held in Glasgow on July 11, 12 and 13, and it was decided that the English team should be composed of two rinks from the south and two north of the River Trent.

Not Envious of Britain.

London, May 31.—(C.A.P.)—The National Zeitung of Berlin makes a plea for a good understanding with Britain. It says Germany does not envy England, Canada, Egypt, the Indian Empire, or South Africa. Germany never expects to become a colonial power.

Empire Day.

London, May 31.—(C. A. P.)—Henry Haydon writes to The Graphic that the one thing conspicuously absent from the keeping of Empire Day was the religious aspect. At the next celebration he wants great services in St. Paul's and all the cathedrals of the Empire.

Wireless to Canada.

London, May 31.—(C.A.P.)—The Marconi high power tower at Pisa will be ready in August or September to communicate with Canada.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

FATHER AND DAUGHTER

Were Great Suffering From Kidney Disease and Pains in the Back—Now Unite in Praise of

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS.

Those who are best acquainted with the merits of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills do not wonder at their immense popularity as a family medicine.

In thousands of cases they have cured where physicians and ordinary medicines have failed. This is the test by which they have been proven.

Here is a letter we have just received from Prince Edward Island.

Miss Kate Doyle, lot 1, postoffice, P. E. I., states:—"About three years ago my father was seized with a severe form of kidney disease, which caused him much suffering, as well as anxiety lest the ailment should become chronic or prove fatal. We immediately obtained Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and he began at once to improve under this treatment, the symptoms gradually disappearing, until he became quite well again. Since then we always keep these pills in the house for use in the case of sickness of this kind.

"For some time I suffered from pains in the small of the back and accompanying ills, and though I was treated by a doctor at considerable expense, I could obtain no lasting benefit until I used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, which seemed to be exactly suited to my ailment. Father and I are greatly pleased with the excellent medicine and wish to recommend it to others."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Company, Toronto.

To protect you against imitations, the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box. 2

THE GENTLEMAN FROM INDIANA

By Booth Tarkington.

She went to the desk and removed her gloves and laid her rain cloak over a chair near by. "Is this Mr. Harkless' chair?" she asked, and, Fisbee answering that it was, she looked gravely at it for a moment, passed her hand gently over the back of it and then, throwing the rain cloak over another chair, said cheerily:

"Do you know, I think the first thing for us to do will be to dust everything very carefully?"

"You remember, I was confident she would know precisely where to begin," was Fisbee's earnest whisper in the willing ear of the long foreman. "Not an instant's indecision, was there?"

"No, siree," replied the other, and as he went down to the pressroom to hunt for a feather duster which he thought might be found there he collared Bud Tipworthy, the devil, who, not admitted to the conclave of his superiors, was whistling on the rainy stairway.

"You hustle and find that dustbrush we used to have, Bud," said Parker. And presently as they rummaged in the nooks and crannies about the machinery he melted to his small assistant. "The paper is saved, Buddie—saved by an angel in light brown. You can tell it by the look of her."

"Gee!" said Bud.

Mr. Schofield had come, blushing, to join them. "Say, Cale, did you notice the color of her eyes?"

"Yes. They're gray."

"I thought so, too, show day and at Kedge Halloway's lecture. But say Cale, they're kind of changeable. When she come in upstairs with you and Fisbee they were jest as blue—near matched the color of our ribbons."

"Gee!" repeated Mr. Tipworthy.

When the editorial chamber had been made so neat that it almost glowed, though it could never be expected to shine as did Fisbee and Caleb Parker and Ross Schofield that morning, the lady took her seat at the desk and looked over the few items the gentlemen had already compiled for her perusal. Mr. Parker explained many technicalities peculiar to the Carlow Herald, translated some phrases of the printing room and enabled her to grasp the amount of matter needed to fill an issue.

When Parker finished the three incompetents sat watching the little figure with the expression of hopeful and trusting terriers. She knit her brow for a second, but she did not betray an instant's indecision.

"I think we should have regular market reports," she announced earnestly. "I am sure Mr. Harkless would approve. Don't you think he would?" She turned to Parker.

"Market reports!" Mr. Fisbee exclaimed. "I should never have thought of market reports, nor do I imagine would either of my—my associates. A woman to conceive the idea of market reports!"

The editor blushed. "Why, who would, dear, if not a woman or a speculator, and I'm not a speculator, and neither are you, and that's the reason you didn't think of them. So, Mr. Parker, as there is so much pressure, and if you don't mind continuing to act as reporter as well as compositor until after tomorrow, and if it isn't too wet—you must have an umbrella—would it be too much bother if you went around to all the shops—stores, I mean—to all the grocers and the butchers and the leather place we passed, the tannery, and if there's one of those places where they bring cattle, would it be too much to ask you to stop there—and at the flour mill, if it isn't too far, and at the dry goods store—and you must take a blank book and a sharpened pencil, and will you price everything, please, and jot down how much things are?"

Orders received, the impetuous Parker was departing on the instant when she stopped him with a little cry, "But you haven't any umbrella!" And she forced her own, a slender wand, upon him. It bore a cunningly wrought handle, and its fabric was of glistening silk. The foreman, unable to decline it, thanked her awkwardly, and as she turned to speak to Fisbee he bolted out of the door and ran down the steps without unfolding the umbrella, and then as he made for Mr. Martin's emporium he buttoned it securely under his long Prince Albert, determined that not a drop of water should touch and ruin so delicate a thing. Thus he carried it, triumphantly dry, through the course of his reportings of that day.

When he had gone the editor laid her hand on Fisbee's arm. "Dear," she said, "do you think you'd take cold if you went over to the hotel and made a note of all the arrivals for the last week and the departures too? I noticed that Mr. Harkless always filled two or three—sticks, isn't it?—with them and things about them, and somehow it 'read' very nicely. You must ask the landlord all about them, and if there aren't any, we can take up the same amount of space lamenting the dull times, just as he used to. You see, I've read the Herald faithfully. Isn't it a good thing I always subscribed for it?" She patted Fisbee's cheek with her soft hand and laughed gayly into his mild, vague old eyes. "It won't be this scramble to 'fill up' much longer. I have plans, gentlemen, and before long we will print news; and we must buy 'plate matter' instead of patent insides; and I had a talk with the Associated Press people in Rouen, but that's for afterwhile. And I went to the hospital this morning before I left. They wouldn't let me see him again, but they told me all about him, and he's better, and I got Tom to go to the jail, and he saw some of those beasts, and I can do a column of description besides an editorial about them, and I will be fierce enough to suit Carlow, you may believe that. And I've been talking to Senator Burns—that is, listening to Senator Burns, which is much stupider—and I think I can do an article on national politics. I'm not very well up on local issues yet, and I"— She broke off suddenly. "There, I think we can get out tomorrow's number without any trouble. By the time you get back from the hotel, father, I'll have half my—my stuff written—'written up,' I mean. Take your big umbrella and go, dear, and please ask at the express office if a typewriter has come for me."

She laughed again with sheer delight, like a child, and ran to a corner and got the cotton umbrella and placed it in the old man's hand. As he reached the door she called after him, "Wait!" and went to him and knelt before him and, with the humblest, proudest grace in the world, turned up his trousers to keep them from the mud. Ross Schofield had never considered Mr. Fisbee a particularly sacred sort of person, but he did from that moment. The old man made some timid protest at the girl's action, but she answered: "The great ladies used to buckle the Chevalier Bayard's spurs for him, and you're a great deal nicer than the Chev—You haven't any rubbers! I don't believe any of you have any rubbers!" And not until both Fisbee and Mr. Schofield had promised to purchase overshoes at once and in the meantime not to step in any puddles would she let the former depart upon his errand. He crossed the square with the strangest, jauntiest step ever seen in Plattville. Solomon Tibbs had a warm argument with Miss Selina as to his identity, Miss Selina maintaining that the figure under the big umbrella—only the legs and coat tails were visible to them—was that of a stranger, probably an Englishman.

In the Herald office the editor turned, smiling, to the paper's remaining vassal, "Mr. Schofield, I heard some talk in Rouen of an oil company that had been formed to prospect for kerosene in Carlow county. Do you know anything about it?"

Ross, surfeited with honor, terror, and possessed by a sweet distress at finding himself tete-a-tete with the lady, looked at the wall and replied, "Oh, it's that Eph Watts' foolishness."

"Do you know if they have begun to dig for it yet?"

"Ma'am?" said Ross.

"Have they begun the diggings yet?"

"No, ma'am, I think not. They've got a contrapshun fixed up about three mile south. I don't reckon they've begun yet, hardly. They're gittin' the machinery in place. I heard Eph say they'd begin to bore—dig, I mean, ma'am; I meant to say dig"— He stopped, utterly confused and unhappy, and she understood his manly purpose and knew him for a gentleman whom she liked.

"You mustn't be too much surprised," she said, "but in spite of my ignorance about such things I mean to devote a good deal of space to the oil company. It may come to be of great importance to Carlow. We won't go into it in tomorrow's paper beyond an item or so, but do you think you could possibly find Mr. Watts and ask him for some information as to their progress and if it would be too much trouble for him to call here tomorrow afternoon or the day after? I want him to give me an interview if he will. Tell him, please, he will very greatly oblige us."

"Oh, he'll come all right," answered her companion quickly. "I'll take Tibbs' buggy and go down there right off. Eph won't lose no time gittin' here." And with this encouraging assurance he was flying forth when he, like the others, was detained by her solicitous care. She was a born mother. He protested that in the buggy he would be perfectly sheltered. Besides, there wasn't another umbrella about the place. He liked to get wet anyway. had always loved rain. The end of it was that he went away in a sort of tremor wearing her rain cloak over his shoulders, which garment, as it covered its owner completely when she wore it, hung almost to his knees. He darted around a corner, and there, breathing deeply, tenderly removed it, then borrowing paper and cord at a neighboring store wrapped it neatly and stole back to the printing office, on the ground floor of the Herald building, and left the package in the hands of Bud Tipworthy, charging him to care for it as for his own life and not to open it, but if the lady so much as set one foot out of doors before his return to hand it to her with the message, "He borrowed another off J. Hankins"

Left alone, the lady went to the desk and stood for a time looking gravely at Harkless' chair. She touched it gently, as she had touched it once before that morning, and then she spoke to it as if he were sitting there and she would not have spoken had he been sitting there.

"You didn't want gratitude, did you?" she whispered, with sad lips.

Soon she smiled at the blue ribbon, patted the chair gayly on the back and, seizing upon pencil and pad, dashed into her work with rare energy. She bent low over the desk, her pencil moving rapidly. She seemed loath to pause for breath. She had covered many sheets when Fisbee returned, and as he came in softly in order not to disturb her she was so deeply engrossed that she did not hear him, nor did she look up when Parker entered, but pursued the formulation of her fast flying ideas with the same single purpose and abandon. So the two men sat and waited while their chieftainess wrote absorbedly. At last she glanced up and made a little startled exclamation at seeing them there and then gave them cheery greeting. Each placed several scribbled sheets before her, and she, having first assured herself that Fisbee had bought his overshoes, and having expressed a fear that Mr. Parker had found her umbrella too small, as he looked damp (and indeed he was damp), cried praises on their notes and offered the reporters great applause.

With the humblest, proudest grace in the world.

The Burdens of Modern Civilization.

Normally a woman should have no discomfort so far as feelings of discomfort are concerned, at each recurring period. But modern civilization has added its conditions of ever-present suffering to a large proportion of American women. The great bulk of such cases is due to inflammatory or congested conditions within limited territories which can be overcome by the right treatment. Of course, this local irritation is followed by headaches, backaches, nervousness, irritability, and, indeed, often results in nervous prostration or collapse which might have been avoided by proper treatment.

$500 REWARD FOR WOMEN

WHO CANNOT BE CURED.

Backed up by over a third of a century of remarkable and uniform cures, a record such as no other remedy for the diseases and weaknesses peculiar to women ever attained, the proprietors and makers of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in legal money of the United States for any case of Leucorrhea, Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb which they cannot cure. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.

AS A WORKING TOOL

for the student and the writer, as an authoritative reference book for schools, teachers, families, business and professional men, there is one book which offers superior advantages in the solid value of its information, and the ease with which it is obtained.

One's admiration for Webster's International Dictionary increases daily as it comes to be better known. It never refuses the information sought and it never overwhelms one with a mass of misinformation illogically arranged.

The St. James Gazette of London, England, says: For the teacher, the pupil, the student and the litterateur, there is nothing better; it covers everything.

The New and Enlarged Edition recently issued has 25,000 new words and phrases, a completely revised Biographical Dictionary and Gazetteer of the World, 2380 pages and 5000 illustrations.

Our name is on the title-pages of all the authentic dictionaries of the Webster series.

PSORIASIS AND ECZEMA

Milk Crust, Scalled Head, Tetter, Ringworm and Pimples

COMPLETE TREATMENT

For Torturing, Disfiguring Humours, From Pimples to Scrofula, From Infancy to Age.

The agonizing itching and burning of the skin, as in eczema; the frightful scaling, as in psoriasis; the loss of hair and crusting of the scalp, as in scalled head; the facial disfigurement, as in pimples and ringworm; the awful suffering of infants, and anxiety of worn-out parents, as in milk crust, tetter and salt rheum—all demand a remedy of almost superhuman virtues to successfully cope with them. That Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Pills are such stands proven beyond all doubt. No statement is made regarding them that is not justified by the strongest evidence. The purity and sweetness, the power to afford immediate relief, the certainty of speedy and permanent cure, the absolute safety and great economy have made them the standard skin cures and humour remedies of the civilized world.

Complete treatment for every humour, consisting of Cuticura Soap to cleanse the skin, Cuticura Ointment to heal the skin, and Cuticura Resolvent Pills to cool and cleanse the blood may now be had of all druggists. A single set is often sufficient to cure the most torturing, disfiguring, itching, burning and scaly humours, eczemas, rashes and irritations, from infancy to age, when all else fails.

Cuticura Resolvent, Liquid and in the form of Chocolate Coated Pills, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Soap are sold throughout the world. Depots: London, 27 Charterhouse Sq.; Paris, 5 Rue de la Paix; Australia, R. Towns & Co., Sydney; Boston, 137 Columbus Ave. Potter Drug & Chemical Corp., Sole Proprietors.

OBITUARY.

Death of Miss Bridget Scully After a Prolonged Illness.

The death occurred on Monday evening of Miss Bridget Scully, the daughter of Mr. Patrick Scully at the family residence, 16 Stewart street. The deceased young lady, who was but 18 years of age, had been ill for some time, and her death was not unexpected. Much sympathy is felt for the sorrowing family. The funeral took place from the family residence this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, to St. Peter's Cathedral, and thence to the Roman Catholic cemetery.

LATEST SPORT

LADIES GOLF.

The spring competition of the ladies golf club took place yesterday afternoon, and resulted as follows:

First prize for best drive — Miss Clementi; second, Miss J. Dennistoun.

First for best brassy — Miss Clementi; second, Miss A. Kingan.

First for best approach and putting — Miss Clementi; second, Miss J. Dennistoun.

LACROSSE.

The following T.A.S. lacrosse players will turn out for practice this evening: — O'Brien, Boyle, Derocher, Mahoney, B. Doris, Meagher, Donovan, F. McCoy, Whaley, McGrath, McCabe, Parnell, Gorham, H. Donovan, Mulligan, J. McNichol, Morrow, O'Neil, J. Anglesay, T. O'Connor, J. O'Brien. A team from the above players will meet Port Hope here on Friday evening at 6.30, and although the boys have not had many work outs, still they intend making it interesting for the visitors. Secretary Doris has over twenty players signed.

• • • •

Herbie O'Flynn, who played last year with the Athletics, is playing on a New York team this year.

FOOTBALL.

Caughnawaga plays Keene this afternoon in the latter place in a postponed game in the Midland League.

• • • •

Locust Hill to-day sent its membership fee and is ready to go into the semi-finals.

• • • •

The Committee appointed by President Morgan to decide the protest entered by the Quakers on the result of their game with Caughnawaga on Saturday, when the latter team played four men who had played with Norwood earlier in the season, met last night in the Examiner office, and heard evidence on both sides, the Caughnawagas being represented by Mr. T. A. Coughlan and the Quakers by Mr. J. E. Sullivan. It was shown by the evidence submitted by Mr. Coughlan that the Caughnawaga team had unintentionally violated the constitution, through a mis-interpretation of one of the clauses, and the violation in the opinion of the committee was not deserving of the punishment provided by the constitution.

The protest of the Quakers was consequently sustained, and the game thrown out, and ordered to be played over again, the Quakers to get their expenses for the trip, and the Caughnawagas are to play only regularly registered players.

The committee consisted of Messrs. E. S. Clarry, R. M. Glover and J. W. Kelly.

TUG-OF-WAR.

The Cordage Company tug-of-war team, challenges the Quaker Oats team to a pull on June 9th at Buckhorn, on the occasion of the Cordage Company's picnic. A reply is requested to be sent to the secretary.

BASEBALL.

The Guild League Executive meets to-morrow night at 8.30 in the Y.M.C.A. board room.

• • • •

The Lindsay Post commenting on the game on Monday between the Auburns and Lindsay says:—

"The Peterborough boys played very good ball but also had a number of errors marked down to their credit. McCorry pitched good ball and his judgment was excellent. Belleghem who is the senior backstop, did good work behind the bat. Both teams need a great deal more practise at the bat and also in the field.

While practicing with the Charlotte street Guild baseball team prior to the match with St. Luke's on Monday night, Mr. Stanley Canniff had the misfortune to break the thumb of his right hand. The injury, which was a very painful one, was attended to by Dr. Bradd. The Charlotte street team will lose a splendid player by Mr. Canniff's enforced absence from the game.

• • • •

St. Luke's and the Charlotte street Guilds will play again to-morrow evening.

• • • •

The game between the George street and the B.A.C. teams will take place to-night at the Benson avenue grounds at 6.45.

• • • •

Last night the second game in the Guild League was played, the opposing teams being All Saint's and George street; the game being played on the All Saint's grounds, the home team winning the first half of the game by 10—0. Only three innings were played last night, the remaining four to be worked off to-morrow night. The George street team was considerable handicapped by the absence of their pitcher, Mulhern, and in his stead, Robertson pitched the first two innings and Humbers finished the game. They were batted freely and some bad errors in the field enabled All Saint's to pile up the score, which they did with a vengeance, tallying eight in the second and two in the third.

On the other hand the home team played good ball. Pilling in the box was very effective and was given good support.

The All Saint's team played the better ball and deserved to win.

The teams were:—

George Street,—Humbers, Miller, Dredge, Moore, Mann, Dobbin, Robertson, Parker, Curtis.

All Saint's,—Rickey, C. Campbell, Bullen, J. Pilling, S. Campbell, Barker, Adamson, Dusty, Hickey.

Mr. L. Thornton umpired the game, giving good satisfaction.

Miss Ida Roadhouse, Peterboro' Ontario

Seven Sutherland Sisters' Hair Grower and Scalp Cleaner shows results from the very first. Here is more proof that we have the greatest hair grower science ever produced.

Seven Sutherland Sisters

Dear Ladies.—Having been benefited by the use of your Hair Grower and Scalp Cleaner, I take much pleasure in recommending same. At the time of your visit to Peterboro' last October, I showed you my head, which I thought was a hopeless case, and after looking at the bald spot on my head which was then about the size of a fifty cent piece, and enlarging more every day, you advised me to try your wonderful remedy, which is worthy of being termed so. I did, and to my surprise, before I had used one of your large sized bottles of Hair Grower and only half a package of Scalp Cleaner I could see a covering of a sort of scales and upon continuing to use it the scales fell off without leaving a mark of any kind. My hair now on the bald spot is about three inches long and growing more and more every day to my delight. I cannot really recommend it enough and am thankful that such a remedy came to my rescue.

Yours truly, IDA ROADHOUSE.
Peterboro' Ont., Box 858.

During the two weeks' demonstration of Seven Sutherland Sisters' Hair Grower, at W. B. Warne's Drug Store, Miss Roadhouse will be in daily attendance between the hours of 7 and 8 in the evening, and will be glad to answer any enquiries regarding her case.

JAPANESE ARMY WAS REPULSED.

Said to Have Lost Two Hundred Men Killed in a Smart Fight.

RUMORS OF RUSSIAN DEFEAT

Part of Kuropatkin's Army Said to Have Been Routed—Reports of Heavy Fighting Near Port Arthur are not Confirmed—Che Foo Reports Beginning of Land Attack on Port Arthur.

St. Petersburg, June 2.—General Sakharoff has telegraphed as follows, under yesterday's date, to the general staff:

"According to reports the Japanese commander in the action of May 30, near Vanafangow, had three battalions of infantry in reserve. Our losses were 17 men killed and 23 wounded, and Lieut. Meyer and another officer, whose name has not been ascertained, wounded. The Japanese losses were very considerable. One squadron of the Thirteenth Japanese Cavalry was annihilated in a hand-to-hand encounter and another squadron which came to its assistance suffered great loss from the fire of our frontier guards and riflemen. We captured nineteen horses."

Russians Report of Fight.

Liaoyang, June 2.—The Japanese lost two hundred killed and a number of horses kill 1 in the fight at Vagenfuchu Monday. The Russians opened fire in the morning and after two hours and a half long range fire the Japanese under General Akkiama prepared to charge and crush the force which had been harassing them for 21 days.

The Japanese infantry, numbering four battalions of 300 men to a company, and eight squadrons of cavalry attempted to advance, but the Russian batteries opened and soon the slope up which the enemy was advancing was covered with black spots, and the enemy was forced to scatter and retire. Some of the Japanese cavalry were wonderfully dashing, charging with shouts upon the Russians who met and scattered them.

Rumored Russian Defeat.

London, June 2.—No confirmation yet has been received of the reported heavy fighting near Port Arthur or with Kuropatkin's army, although the latter is not regarded as improbable. Rumors persist that court influence is being exercised to induce General Kuropatkin to assume the offensive in an endeavor by a victory to retrieve the Russian military reputation.

The Daily Telegraph's St. Petersburg correspondent says: "A recent council of war decided that Kuropatkin should risk an engagement. The Emperor ratified this judgment, even going so far as to authorize the despatch of troops from the German frontier to the Far East, on the ground that as Germany was benevolent, she might be trusted safely. All hopes are centred now on Kuropatkin, who will make desperate efforts to save Port Arthur."

Against these statements must be placed the official contradiction communicated to the Associated Press and already cabled that General Kuropatkin would move southward.

The correspondent of The Standard at Tokio announces that non-combatants are quitting Gensan, owing to incursions of small parties of Russians into Northeastern Corea. The situation there is not deemed a serious one.

Anarchy at Dalny.

The Times' correspondent at Che Foo cables: "During the interval of 80 hours between the Russian evacuation of Dalny and the Japanese occupation, anarchy prevailed. The local Chinese officials allowed the prison to be forced, with the result that about 20 cutthroats had the run of the town.

"Some time will be required to make the ports of Dalny and Talienwan safe for shipping to enter, as the Sanshantao Islands have been connected very skillfully with the mainland by mines zigzagging over a large field. The damage to the Russian works ashore is insignificant. The Japanese have much railway material on the way."

No Mediation.

Rumors of mediation in the Russo-Japanese war caused a rise of half per cent. in consols and a general upward tendency on the London market yesterday afternoon, but the rumors have found no confirmation in diplomatic centres.

Port Arthur Attacked.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 2.—A special cable from the staff correspondent of The Indianapolis News at Che Foo, dated June 1, says:

The Japanese land attack at Port Arthur was begun yesterday morning. Russian forces that were driven southward from Dalny and Kinchou by the Japanese, assisting the garrison at Port Arthur, and the Russian navy has joined in the movement to repulse the enemy. There may be several days of skirmishing and outpost work before the Russian city is taken, but it is the opinion of refugees who have arrived here from the besieged "Gibraltar" that the Russians eventually must succumb to overwhelming numbers.

THE MILITIA CAMPS.

Militia Order Issued Concerning the Training in Rifle Shooting.

Ottawa, June 2.—In a militia order issued last night, the attention of all officers of the militia and captains of rifle associations, is called to the extreme danger to the public, even on the safest range, in allowing untrained men to handle the rifle without supervision. Practically when men have received a reasonable preliminary training, it should be impossible for a shot to miss the target by more than five or six feet, except in the cases where shots strike the ground first and ricochet. In the latter case the life of a bullet is always limited to a comparatively short distance, and the danger is to that extent minimized, but in the case of wide shooting, a bullet may travel a very long distance to one side or the other before coming to the ground. There is no possible excuse for a man being allowed to shoot till he has been taught to shoot and the honor officer of each unit will be held responsible that proper precautions are taken in regard to this matter before untrained and new shots are allowed to practice without close and sufficient supervision.

Camps and Their Dates.

The following units of active militia formed into provision brigades will be represented for 12 days' training in camps of instruction at the places and dates specified:

London camp, Ont, June 7 to 18—No. 1 Co. R.C.R., No. 1 Co. C.A.S.C., No. 6 Bearer Co., No. 6 Field Hospital Co., First Infantry Brigade, 26th, 27th, 32nd, and 33rd Regiments, 2nd Infantry Brigade, 12nd 28th, 29th and 30th Regiments.

Niagara camp, Ont., June 14 to 25—No. 2 Co. R.C.R., No. 2 Co. C.A.S.C., Nos. 4 and 7 Bearer Companies, Nos. 4 and 7 Field Hospital Companies, 14 Cavalry Brigade, R.C.D., G.G.B.G., 1st Hussars, 2nd Dragoons and 9th Toronto Light Horse, 1st Artillery Brigade, 4th, 7th, 9th Field Batteries, 3rd Infantry Brigade, 37th, 80th, 44th and 77th Regiments, 4th Infantry Brigade, 12th, 31st, 34th and 36th Regiments, 5th Infantry Brigade, 20th, 23rd and 35th Regiments.

Kingston camp, Ont., June 28 to July 9—No. 3 Co. C.A.S.C., No. 2 Field Hospital Co., 2nd Cavalry Brigade, 3rd Dragoons, 4th Hussars, 2nd Artillery Brigade, 5th and 8th Field Batteries, 6th Infantry Brigade, 4th, 47th and 46th Regiments, 7th Infantry Brigade, 16th, 47th and 48th Regiments.

MR. ED. M. ELLIOTT GETS THE OFFICE.

Appointed County Clerk and Treasurer.

Other Business at the Special Session of County Council.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON.

At four o'clock the Committee of the Whole Council rose, having completed their work.

Council went into session, and after routine,

Mr. Menogue presented the report of the Committee of the Whole on Appointments, as follows:

1.—That the offices of Clerk and Treasurer be united.

2.—That the resignation of R. P. Watt as County Clerk be accepted.

3.—That Edward M. Elliott be appointed Clerk and Treasurer at a salary of $1,200 per annum, he to give security to the satisfaction of the Warden and Chairman of the Finance Committee to the amount of $10,000, in addition to his further personal bonds for $5,000.

4.—That R. P. Watt be allowed a sum equivalent to three months of his late salary as Clerk from this date.

Respectfully submitted,
J. MENOGUE,
Chairman.

County Council Chamber, 1st June, 1904.

The report was adopted, and a by-law carried.

Mr. T. J. Johnston presented the report of the Roads and Bridges Committee as follows:

1.—That the letter from the solicitor of Mr. Wm. O'Leary, making claim by reason of non-repair of Pigeon Creek bridge, be referred to the Joint Com-Committee o fthe Town and Counties of Peterborough and Victoria.

2.—That Messrs. Buck and Moloney be appointed to inspect the bridge on the boundary over Indian River, Evans' Bridge and the Keene and Ailandale bridges and report at the next meeting o fthe council.

3.—That Mr. Fitzgerald be a commissioner to pay the wages of the men working on the Pigeon Creek Bridge, he to procure a proper voucher for all payments, and that a copy of the pay-list be sent to the Town of Peterborough and county of Victoria with a request for the payment of their share of the expenditure.

4.—That Mr. Moore be appointed commissioner for the expenditure of $50 for improvement of Lakefield road in place of the late Richard Crowe.

T. J. JOHNSTON,
Chairman.

County Council Chamber, Peterborough, June 1st, 1904.

The report was adopted and a by-law passed confirming it.

Mr. Shaw brought up the matter of holding the entrance examinations at Hall's Bridge, which was referred to the Warden, with the understanding that the Inspector be informed that it is the wish of the council that examinations be held there this year. Mr. Shaw pointed out that the examinations had been held there other years and the omission to hold them this year would be an inconvenience to a large number of persons.

Mr. R. P. Watt, the retiring clerk, thanked the council for the honorarium allowed him in the report of the Committee on Appointments, and also for the kindness he had received from the council during his three and a half years' service as County Clerk.

The Warden said that he was sure he voiced the sentiments of the council, when he said that the acceptance of Mr. Watt's resignation was due to no default in duty, or inefficiency of service, but solely to the decision of the Committee of the Whole to amalgamate the two offices.

On motion the matter of the posting of the late Treasurer's books from the time of his illness, was referred to the Warden, with power to act.

TERRIBLE ACCIDENT AT TWEED LAST NIGHT

Robert Carr had Both Legs Taken off by a Freight Train.

A terrible accident occurred near Tweed last evening about 9 o'clock. Mr. Robert Carr a carter in Tweed, was returning to his home along the railroad track. The rain was descending very heavily and Carr, who was without means to protect him from the rain, crawled under a freight car on a siding in hopes that there would soon be a cessation of the heavy rain. A shunting engine came upon the siding unknown to Carr and coupled with the freight and in so doing Carr was knocked from his position and the car wheels passed over both legs, one being taken off at the knee, while the other was terribly crushed. He crawled out and was soon picked up and given medical attendance. He was brought to Peterborough on this morning's 5.10 C.P.R., and taken to the Nicholls Hospital, where it was found that both legs will have to be amputated below the thigh, provided the patient recovers sufficiently to undergo the operation. To-day he was suffering greatly from the shock, but hopes are entertained that he will survive the dreadful accident. Drs. Greer and Eastwood are attending him.

Mr. Carr is a married man with three children.

Booked For Canada.

London, June 2.—(C.A.P.)—Twenty-one passengers rejected by the steamer Kroonland as physically unfit and brought back to London were rebooked by eastern agents for Canada via New York. The Allan Line steamer Carthaginian sailed yesterday with 275 fine, robust passengers for Canada.

Output of Gold.

London, June 2.—(C.A.P.)—A Parliamentary blue book issued yesterday shows that in 1902 the British Empire supplied more than half the gold supply of the world, Australia furnishing 24 per cent., the Transvaal 12 per cent. and Canada 7 per cent.

Daily Examiner.

THURSDAY, JUNE 2, 1904.

PROSPEROUS CONDITIONS.

Judging by the continued upward tendency of the Canadian customs returns, the commercial prosperity of Canada is still in full swing. For the eleven months of the present fiscal year the receipts from customs duties have been $3,747,097 in excess of the returns of the corresponding period of last year; and at the rate of increase in May — $368,760 — the customs returns for the fiscal year 1903-04, will be considerably over four millions in excess of those of last year, large as they were. In Toronto in the past twenty-one days the large sum of $725,965 has been paid in customs duties, and by the end of the fiscal year it is expected that the total of customs duties paid in Toronto will reach the unparalleled sum of eight million dollars. This indicates that Toronto is a great distributing centre, not only for Ontario, but for the Dominion, as shown by the fact cited the other day that Toronto manufacturers of clothing are finding a great market in the Northwest. And this market is bound to increase as the population increases, and the conditions of the prosperity of the people are provided for. These conditions are involved in the construction of the new transcontinental railway, and the improvement of transportation facilities represented by the completion of the Trent Valley Waterway. Why, when these projects are of such manifestly important advantage to the country at large, and, especially, Toronto, the latter's representatives in Parliament oppose the railway, and the press and prominent citizens are indifferent as to the canal, is hard to understand.

GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP.

Twenty-one Liberals of Winnipeg —immortal tailors of Tooley Street! —out of the three or four thousand in that city have signed a protest against the Government's transcontinental project. In their opinion the line should be owned and operated by the State. Eighteen of the 21 are directly or indirectly connected with the Winnipeg Tribune, a paper once Liberal but now free-lance and semi-Socialist. Government ownership and operation have attractions for a good few persons in Manitoba. Their idea, probably well-founded, is that it would be easy for the settlers to combine and force Ministers, Liberal or Conservative, to grant excessively low rates on wheat and merchandise especially about election time. This, they say, is done on the Intercolonial, why not in the West?

Because, for one thing, it would be unfair to the majority of the Canadian people. Judging by our experience of the Intercolonial, a transcontinental Line under Government management would not pay operating expenses, much less interest on the borrowed money sunk. If, as the Conservatives say, it would cost $150,000,000, the aggregate deficit would probably reach $6,000,000 a year—$1,500,000 for interest, $1,500,000 on operating. The lower, that is, the less profitable the rates conceded to the West, the greater annual drain on the country at large. Obviously the farmers of Ontario and most of those in Quebec, who are served exclusively by company lines, would be paying commercial rates on their own shipments and receipts plus a yearly tribute to make good the loss occasioned by the political rates given to shipments to and from the West. The only possible way of doing justice all round would be for the Government to buy all the company lines in Canada and make the a part and parcel of a huge State-managed system. Granting for the sake of argument that such a coup is desirable, where would the purchase money come from? And how could the enormous deficits be met if not by taxing the people through the nose? What the Western settler gained by low rates would be more than offset by additions to the tariff and other forms of money-raising necessitated by the transaction.

The notion that the State is a good fairy that can work miracles for mankind dies hard. In reality the State in Canada, on which the Winnipeg Tribune sets so much store, is nothing more than the ruling politicians whom it denounces every day as fools and rogues. By a well-known mental process it has builded an idol of material that it despises, and, like the African savage or the pagans mentioned by Isaiah, falleth down unto it and worshippeth and prayeth unto it and saith, "Deliver me for thou art my god." The Tribune and papers of its type give us a highly idealised account of the results of State management in Australia, France, Germany, Italy, etc., quite ignoring the other side of the story as well as keeping out of sight the fact that an arrangement that works satisfactorily in one country may prove sadly defective in another owing to the difference in social, political and economic conditions. Our experience of State ownership and operation is confined to the Intercolonial, which has been a going concern for thirty years, and no one can read the blue book history of that read without concluding that a fresh experiment in that direction is not desirable at the present time.

JUST SEEMED TO TO SUIT HIS CASE

Welland Merchant Restored to Health by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Doctors and Medicine Failed—Dodd's Kidney Pills Succeeded—Other Cases They Just Seem to Suit.

Welland, Ont., June 1st. — (Special) —J. J. Yokom, a prominent merchant of this place, is telling his friends of his remarkable cure of a terrible Kidney Disease by Dodd's Kidney Pills. Mr. Yokom's statement is as follows:

"For more than a year I had been ailing with Kidney Trouble in all its worst symptoms. I had a distressed feeling in my head, little or no appetite and a feeling of languor. I became greatly reduced in weight.

"Doctors and medicines failing to give me any benefit, I became despondent, when by good luck I chanced to try Dodd's Kidney Pills, and from the first they seemed to suit my case. After taking five boxes the old trouble had gradually disappeared and I was feeling better than I had in many years."

Dodd's Kidney Pills suit the case of every man, woman and child who has any form of Kidney Disease. They always cure and cure permanently.

A SUMMER SCHOOL FOR NATURE STUDY.

The Macdonald Institute at the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, will provide a Summer School for teachers during the coming vacation. The term will extend from July 5th to July 29th inclusive, and the work will consist of practical nature study, suitable for our public schools.

The classes will be under the direction of Dr. W. H. Muldrew, of the Macdonald Institute, and Professor William Lochhead of the Biological Department in the Ontario Agricultural College, assisted by teachers of special fitness in the various subjects of the course.

The Macdonald Institute is situated on the grounds of the Ontario Agricultural College about one mile from the City of Guelph and is reached by the electric street railway.

The course will be thoroughly practical, involving daily excursions, lectures and laboratory work, the preparation of nature study collections and courses of reading in illustration of the subjects discussed. A leaflet giving fuller information may be had by application to Dr. W. H. Muldrew, Dean of the Institute.

FROM THE ORIENT TO THE OCCIDENT.

Russian Prince and Newspaper Man Renew Acquaintence

Former Peterborough Man's Peculiar Experience—Met Prince in India.

Mr. H. A. Littledale, formerly a member of the Examiner staff, now connected with the Winnipeg Tribune, had rather an unique experience in the prosecution of his duties the other day. It is told by himself in a late issue of the Tribune, as follows:—

Some would call it fate, some the direction of Providence, but others, more prosaic, will say it was just mere coincidence. The writer himself is not decided on the point.

The affair occurred in the Leland hotel on Thursday night, the scene, the room of Prince Dukhotomsky, of St. Petersburg, Russia.

The writer had gone to see that Russian noble with the object of an interview in mind. When the visitor was ushered in the Prince was staring curiously at the newspaperman's card. He immediately advanced, smilingly, saying, "I am honoured to make your acquaintance, Mr. L——." Then he continued in his peculiar broken English, "Ah! do you know that I have a book of your name in my library at St. Petersburg. It is about lower Thibet and is written by a gentleman who went into the upper country with his wife."

"The author was my father," rejoined the reporter.

"Yes." He jumped up from his chair, excitedly crossed he room, and after shaking hands most cordially said with a profound bow, "It is a pleasure for me to meet his son."

"Yes, we lived in India," went on the newspaper man in explanation, "at a place in the north-west called Baroda."

"Baroda! Why I know it well. I was there twelve years ago when our Emperor visited India. I was his private secretary at the time."

"Well, then, I must have met you before," added the reporter. "I have often heard my father speak of the Czar's visit. They had quite a little adventure out shooting, did they not?"

"Ah, yes," he exclaimed with a characteristic motion of the hands, "I remember the incident perfectly now. They came under the cross fire of another section of the party and your father stood in front of our Emperor. Is it not so?"

"I believe it is."

"But I only remember you as a young boy," he went on. "It is curious that we should meet again so long afterwards and so far from the former place."

Oil in Canada.

Ottawa, June 1.—The Senate reconvened yesterday after ten days adjournment. Senator Perier moved for a return of geological and other export reports in the hands of the Government, showing the existence or the probabilities of existence of petroleum at Athabaskas Landing and in adjoining districts, also the districts in which crude oil has been discovered with quantities produced in 1902 and 1903. Hon. R. W. Scott promised to bring down all the information in possession of the Government.

Kept Poor by Doctor's Bills.

Many a family is kept poor by doctors' bills when just as good and oftentimes better results could be obtained by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, which sell for 25c a box of twenty-five doses. As one pill a day is the most frequent dose under any circumstances there is no medicine obtainable which costs so little and at the same time which brings about such excellent results in derangements of the Kidneys, liver and bowels.

Overcome By Smoke.

Windsor, Ont., June 2. — Dr. Prouse's house was on fire yesterday morning and before aid arrived Miss Prouse was almost suffocated by smoke. The doctor worked over her for some time before she recovered. Mrs. Prouse was also overcome and had to be carried out. The loss is estimated at $200.

PETERBOROUGH MAN DIED IN KAMLOOPS.

Mr. David Jameson Died in British Columbia.

The Inland Sentinel, of Kamloops, B. C., of May 20th, contained the following account of the death of Mr. David Jameson, son of Mr. Thos. Jameson, of town:—

On Wednesday afternoon about five o'clock, the earthly career of David Jameson, for several years on the Inland Sentinel staff, was brought to a close. Nearly five weeks ago he was attacked by erysipelas, which was followed by pleurisy and then a return of erysipelas, resulting in such extreme exhaustion that his enfeebled vitality was too low to overcome it, and he gradually sank, death finally closing the scene.

The deceased, a native of Peterborough, Ontario, came to this Province from Winnipeg, where he worked for some years, about 15 years ago, and worked on the Vancouver World and News-Advertisor and other newspapers at New Westminster and Vancouver. In 1897 he came to Kamloops, to join the Sentinel staff, and shortly afterwards was made foreman, a position he occupied till the time of his fatal illness. He was nearly 49 year sof age and leaves two married sisters and a brother all resident in Ontario.

"Dave" as the deceased was familiarly called and spoken of by all who knew him, young and old alike, was an industrious workman, loyal to the core to the office for which he worked, and possessed of many sterling qualities. By his death the Sentinel has lost a faithful employee and friend. The funeral took place yesterday afternoon at four o'clock from Gordon's undertaking establishment, under the direction of the local chapel of the Typographical Union, of which body the deceased was a member. The pall bearers were S. D. Macdonald, Wm. Bishop, J. Mackin, F. E. Young, H. Stone and Chas. Armstrong, Rev. I. W. Williamson conducting the burial service.

The funeral was largely attended and the members of the local Cigar Maker's Union attended in a body.

A PRESENT FOR THE OLD FOLKS.

FOR THE STOMACH'S SAKE.

An eminent physician says, "human life should last five times the years it takes to mature"—thus if twenty-one is maturity we should live over a hundred years, but there are not many reach the century mark. A great deal more longevity would exist if the stomach did not get crippled and played out—That organ gets plenty of abuse, and is deserving of attention—It is the starting point of most ailments, and it needs the first attention when symptoms of sickness appear. If an elderly stomach can be kept working right, you may be sure of a ripe and contented old age, comparatively free from physical burdens. The great new discovery, ANTI-PILL, the Great System Treatment, has a grand effect in helping old and deranged stomachs. Any aged person who will address a Postal to Wilson-Fyle Co., Niagara Falls, Ont., will get a free trial bottle by return mail.

DEATH OF S. R. CALLAWAY.

Famous Railway Manager Who Achieved His Own Greatness.

Toronto, June 2.—Samuel R. Callaway, president of the American Locomotive Company, and former president of the New York Central Railway, died in New York City yesterday. Death followed an operation for poistoiditis. He had been ailing for several weeks.

Mr. Callaway was born in this city on Dec. 24, 1850, on Temperance street, and it was in this locality that he grew up and reached manhood. His parents were only in fair circumstances in life, and Callaway's brilliant career in the railway world was entirely due to his independent efforts.

He used shorthand as his first stepping stone as a youth. He entered the office of the late W. K. Muir, then general superintendent of the old Western Railways, at Hamilton, and on Mr. Muir's appointment with the Detroit, Grand Haven and Milwaukee, with headquarters at Detroit, accompanied him and so rapid was his rise that in 1875 he became superintendent of the road.

Five years later he became, in 1880, manager of the Chicago and Grand Trunk line, subsequently becoming vice-president of the Union Pacific. He then successively assumed the presidencies of the New York, Chicago and St. Louis, Toledo, St. Louis and Kansas City, Nickel Plate, Lake Shore and Michigan Southern and New York Central Railway lines, the last named appointment taking place in 1898, Chauncey Depew being his predecessor.

In 1901 he accepted the presidency of the American Locomotive Company, a position which offered greater emolument.

Mr. Callaway was a railway man in the strictest sense of the word. He is survived by a widow, formerly Miss Ecclestone of Parkdale, and a family of several members.

Strike a Good Thing.

Montreal, June 2.—The opinion of the directors of the Dominion Steel Company on the strike was given out yesterday by Hon. Senator Forget as follows: "This strike is the best possible thing for the company. We have been running along not making a dollar, the plant being operated clearly in the interests of the men and with the hope that the Dominion Government would see fit to give us the benefit of a protective tariff. As it now stands, we will simply close down the manufacturing plant indefinitely and proceed with the work of building up the different mills now under construction."

Campbell Met Hays.

Montreal, June 2.—D. Campbell, third vice-president of the Order of Railway Telegraphers, had a conference yesterday afternoon with Manager Hays in regard to the telegraphers' advances, and the conference will be continued to-day.

MR. HAYS' EVIDENCE

Preference to Canadian Engineers Other Things Being Equal.

LIMITED FIELD IN CANADA

Stated to Be the Cause Why Grand Trunk Pacific Was Compelled to Send Outside of the Country For Men Needed—Canadians Not Inclined to Leave Present Positions

Montreal, June 2.—General Manager Hays of the G.T.R., made the following statement yesterday before Judge Winchester:

"When Mr. Stephens was engaged he was told that this was a Canadian enterprise, and other things being equal Canadian engineers should have the preference. Owing to the abundance of employment during the last three years, it has been exceedingly difficult to get trained men with the necessary experience for such work, where the highest excellence is required. It is simply owing to the limited field in Canada and the unwillingness of Canadians to leave their present positions that we are sometimes compelled to send outside the country for the men we need."

"Are there not men here with that qualifying experience?"

"Undoubtedly. But they are all very busy and not inclined to leave their present positions."

"Have you advertised for such men?"

"No. If we did, we would need a special staff to look after the applications."

"And if your policy has not been carried out, your instructions have been disobeyed?"

"That is the natural conclusion."

"Would the fact that Mr. Stephens is an American citizen affect him?"

"That you must judge for yourself."

"You are an American citizen yourself, Mr. Hays—I don't ask that in an offensive sense?"

"I am. I do not consider that an offensive matter at all," remarked Mr. Hays, with a smile.

Mr. Hays then closed with the following suggestions: "I wish to state that if there is any feeling on the part of any here in Canada that we desire to be otherwise than fair in dealing with these questions, or treat applications other than on their merits, I am quite willing to make it a pre-requisite of employment on the G. T. P. surveys that such applicants procure the personal endorsement of the executive committee of the Canadian Society of Civil Engineers, recognizing is at the standard Canadian society. We want the highest excellence and best serves we can get, and would like it understood that applications with such endorsement would be given first consideration in giving positions. Of course, our officers must determine these matters themselves, but we are willing to make that suggestion."

Mr. Stephens was then re-examined as to his salary, which was settled at $7,500 a year.

Judge Winchester has closed his enquiry at this point.

REV. J. P. WILSON, ELECTED PRESIDENT

Of Bay of Qninte Methodist Conference This Morning.

REV. DR. CARMAN'S ADDRESS.

Last Night's Meeting Devoted to Young People's Problems and Giving—To-day's Sessions.

In his address last night at the Methodist Conference, Rev. J. P. Berry, B.A., probably the most enthusiastic supporter of Epworth Leagues in the Conference, gave a very strong argument in favour of the organization of Young Men's Guilds, though, as a matter of fact, he did not mention such a society. He admitted that the Epworth League had not fully met the purpose for which it was instituted, that of reaching the young people, and, especially, the young men, and at the present time the Leagues were conducted almost solely by young women, and the young men were still outside the church to a very great extent.

The Young Men's Guilds were organized to meet this very condition, and although no mention was made of them in Mr. Berry's address, the facts stated here have impressed upon those who have this matter at heart, the necessity for some organization which will appeal to the young men, and hold them for the Church, and the experience of the Guilds has given ample evidence that they are meeting the needs of the situation.

At yesterday afternoon's session of the Conference no business of general interest was transacted to any extent, the session lasting about an hour.

Rev. E. Farnsworth was appointed, upon motion of Rev. J. P. Wilson, to preach at the Salvation Army Barracks next Sunday evening.

THE EVENING SESSION.

Last night in the George street Methodist church, the first open session of the Methodist Conference was held, addresses being delivered by by Rev. S. T. Bartlett, Rev. J. P. Berry, B.A., and Mr. W. W. Chown, Mayor of Belleville. The subjects dealt with were:—The Sunday School, Epworth League, and Proportionate and Systematic Giving.

Notwithstanding the disagreeable weather there was a good audience gathered, nearly all the ministers and lay delegates being present, in addition to a large number of others. The chairman of the evening was the President of the Conference, Rev. T. J. Edmison, B.A., B.D., of Brighton, who, in opening the meeting referred to the pleasure it gave him to meet in Peterborough on such an occasion as this. Many years ago he had attended Sunday School in the small church, which at that time stood opposite the site of the present church. It was also in connection with George street church that he had done his first Sunday School work. The present gathering, therefore, being one largely devoted to the discussion of work among young people, was one of especial interest to him.

Preceding the delivery of the first address, the choir sang an anthem, "O Worship the King," by Maunder, after which Rev. S. T. Bartlett, of Napanee, spoke for thirty minutes most interestingly on the work of the Sunday Schools. Mr. Bartlett is an enthusiastic worker among the young people, and his work along this line is remarkably successful. His address was a practical one, and in it he called the attention of those present to some facts in connection with the work of the Sunday School in the Conference, which were not particularly pleasant to contemplate. He remarked that although he would like to say cheering things, facts were stubborn, and figures showed that during the last year, as shown by the last report available, the membership of the Sunday Schools in this conference had decreased from 37,000 to 32,000, and during the last four years in Canada the membership had declined 56,000.

This is a serious state of affairs. All of these have not died. This is an issue which must be faced by the church. He believed that sufficient effort was not being made to bring the younger children into the church for while during the last year 4,000 infants had been baptized by the ministers of this conference, there are only 417 names on the cradle roll of the church.

"What can we do," asked the speaker, "to prevent this loss?"

The last report of the Sunday school Committee of the Conference, made three suggestions, by the adoption of which it was believed that the difficulties confronting the church in this respect might be overcome. In these suggestions he heartily concurred.

The first was that better pastoral care of the young people be given. In this respect, he said, there was a wide discrepancy between the practice and the principles of the ministers, because, as a matter of fact, the pastors appear to really look upon the children as belonging to the Evil One, and it is not until after eight, ten, twelve or fourteen years of the child's life is past that they make any attempt to bring it into the church.

This question was considered of such importance at the last General Conference that a commission, comprising such able men as Dr. Burwash, Dr. Rose and Dr. Shaw, was appointed to investigate the matter.

It was necessary, the speaker thought, that pastors should give more attention to the children in the public services of the church. He knew that some preachers raised the objection, "Oh, they're only children," but they must not let the children slip away from them, and this, he was inclined to think, they were doing, as was evidenced by the fact that there were 1514 less in the Primary Department of the Sunday school than last year.

He did not think that the church recognized the true value of children. He emphasized the value of the Junior League as a means of holding the children in the church. He knew this organization was not popular with the majority of the preachers, but it was most valuable. Many thought that he was an enthusiast on this question, and he claimed that he had a right to be.

The second suggestion was that there be more efficient teaching in the Sunday School. The first essential to efficient teaching is a more painstaking teacher. The mission of the teacher is to build up the child.

He was afraid that often the church made it hard for the children to do right, instead of making it easy. In order for teachers to successfully teach they must (1) know the truth, (2) believe it and (3) live it. The teachers, therefore, should be the very best people in the church. He believed that the great trouble was that the teaching and preaching was not simple enough. He instanced a number of cases of amusing misinterpretations of teaching by children.

The third suggestion made in the report was that more thorough official oversight of Sunday School work be given. The Sunday School Committee of the Annual Conference had been made a Standing Committee as a measure of exercising this oversight, but he was sorry that as far as this conference was concerned this committee did no work during the past year. In fact he did not know that a single communication had passed between the members.

The speaker hoped that these suggestions would be acted upon by the ministers and laymen of the church.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Rev. J. P. Berry, B.A., who is another enthusiast in work among young people, spoke on the question of Epworth Leagues, and remarked that it was an inspiring fact that Christ and all His Apostles were young men. He believed that these were chosen because they were well fitted to do the work. There is, however, a saddening effect in looking at conditions to-day to see that so few young men are found in the church. In fact they are conspicuous only by their absence. The Epworth League was organized to harness youthful energy to work for Christ, but it is a regrettable fact that the League has not succeeded in getting hold of these young men, and to this extent the success of the League is limited. This limited success, however, does not indicate that the League has not done good work.

The speaker remarked that in this age methods do not count for much, and were not sufficient. Individual, personal work was what brought results.

The speaker had investigated the conditions and had tried to find out why it was that young men did not identify themselves with the church, and he believed in the light of his investigations that the preachers were pursuing a wrong course in their work among young men. He believed that they must get back to Christ. Preaching must be made a personal matter.

The church is not following Christ in the matter of amusements. The former emphasized the giving up, instead of taking up. He did not wish to be misunderstood on this point. He hated dancing and card playing but he thought the church was going at the work of reaching wrong men in the wrong way, and according to his idea it was a mistake to point out to them what they must "give up" to become Christians. Christ's work was to make a life count, and to realize the best there is in man, and he believed that the preachers had not lived up to their privileges in telling of the true life of the Christian. The reason that the church had received little from the young men was because they had asked little.

Young men must be taught that in their sport and in every department of life, Christian principles may be used.

The forward movement for missions among young people was being successful, because it was interesting young people in church enterprises. In this conference this movement had raised $369 more than last year, with one district still to be reported on. This was highly encouraging.

The Epworth Leaguer's motto was "Look Up, Lift Up," but, asked the speaker, are the members of the League living up to this motto? He closed with an appeal to the church to give this matter earnest consideration.

SYSTEMATIC AND PROPORTIONATE GIVING.

A prominent layman of the church was the last speaker of the evening, Mr. W. W. Chown, Mayor of Belleville, addressed the Conference on the subject of Systematic and Proportionate Giving. He was glad that the subject was given a place on the Conference programme. He recognized the fact that it was not by any means a popular subject with a great many, but he believed that all should give, not only systematically, but proportionately, and he also believed that a tenth share be given to the Lord. The Scripture says, "the tenths are the Lord's," and if under the law a tenth was required, what should it be under grace? He believed that those who gave a tenth were better off financially, though, of course, this was the lowest motive in prompting giving.

If all the church members gave a tenth, it would not be necessary to resort to ice socials, and other equally or more questionable means of raising money. It has been said that no one who gave a tenth to the church has ever been know to fail in business. He would wipe out every tea meeting and social as a means of raising money. (Applause.)

Mr. Chown's address was a thoughtful consideration of the subject of giving, and was intently listened to by those in the audience.

This closed the evening session.

THIS MORNING'S SESSION.

The annual session of the Bay of Quinte Conference opened this morning in the George street church, when a large number of ministers and laymen were in attendance. Rev. T. J. Edmison, president, presided. After devotional exercises the roll call was proceeded with.

The programme for the morning included an address on "Church Union," by Rev. Dr. Carmen, General Superintendent, and the election of President of the Conference for the ensuing year, the honour falling upon Rev. J. P. Wilson, B.A., of the George street church.

DR. CARMAN ON "CHURCH UNION."

Rev. Dr. Carmen was greatly pleased to be present on such an occasion when there was an opportunity to look into the important questions of the church at large, and to discuss such when the best intelligence and interests of the men of the church were brought forth. He was much affected in listening to the roll call,

LAMENTED DEATH OF MRS. HASKILL

Mother of Mrs. Fred and Alf. Haskill Died in Port Hope.

The many friends of Messrs. Alf. and Fred Haskill, of town, will sympathise with them in the loss they have sustained in the death of their mother. The Port Hope Guide has the following obituary notice:—"The subject of this notice, Aurilla Gage, was born in the township of Hamilton, near what is known as Gage's Creek, in October, 1824. She was married on November 19th, 1845, to her late husband, Mr. Jedutham Haskill, and settled in Port Hope, where she has resided until her death which occurred on Monday, May 30. Four sons and three daughters live to mourn her loss. Frederick and Allen reside in Peterborough; Edward and Wilkins, Port Hope; Ellen, Mrs. Chestnut, town; Mrs. C. Adamson and Maude at home. Mrs. Haskill was a member of the Baptist church, and a sincere Christian lady. All her old friends mourn her departure."

COUNTY CLERK AND TREASURER ELLIOTT.

As recorded in our news columns, at the special meeting of the County Council yesterday, Mr. Ed. M. Elliott, of Smith, was appointed County Clerk and Treasurer. The council has made a wise selection, and there is reason to believe that the new incumbent will efficiently and satisfactorily perform the dual duties of his dual office. He has all the elements of a good official He is in the prime of life, having been born in the Township of Smith, 38 years ago. He is an advanced farmer, and endowed with unusual natural ability and strong common sense, emphasized by a good education. He has for the past ten years been identified with the important work of the Farmers' Institute of West Peterborough. For seven years he was its president. He was also actively identified with the Central Exhibition and was on its Board of Directors last year. Mr. Elliott was also Vice-President of the Peterborough Cheese Board, and Secretary and salesman of the Trewern Cheese Factory. He enjoys a large degree of the confidence of the citizens of his native township, and for three years has been a municipal representative — one year as councillor and two as reeve.

By virtue of these several connections with the public, Mr. Elliott is very widely known, and as widely respected throughout the country where the intelligence of his appointment to so responsible a position, will be received with pleasure and with a confidence that the interests of the public, so far as he is officially responsible for them, will be well protected. The Examiner extends its congratulations to Mr. Elliott and trusts that the confidence reposed in him by the County Council and his numerous friends in Peterborough and West Peterborough will be amply justified. Mr. Elliott took the oath of office and this morning entered upon his duties, which it is hoped he will long be spared to discharge.

REV. J. P. WILSON CONFERENCE PRESIDENT.

Rev. J. P. Wilson, B. A., who was to-day elected president of the Bay of Quinte Methodist Conference, was born in the County of Lennox, in a Methodist parsonage, and is the son of the late Rev. David Wilson, a decendent of the U. E. Loyalists, on his mother's side, of which fact he is very proud. He was educated at Napanee, graduating from the high school there and attended Albert College, from which he graduated in Arts with honours in 1872. Rev. Mr. Wilson in his University career had no intention of entering the ministry. His University education was obtained with the view of fitting him to take up the practice of law, but his early training and his father's love for the work of the ministry influenced him, and he entered the ranks of that noble band of heroes, to whom no biographer has yet been able to give sufficient tribute. As a junior pastor he supplied at Gananoque,

REV. J. P. WILSON, B.A.,

Brockville, and Demorestville, being ordained in 1878, since when he has been stationed at Tamworth, Picton, Kingston, Napanee, in 1887 being called to Brandon, Man., where he remained a full term, and during his pastorate the membership of the church and Sunday School was more than doubled, and on leaving to come to Ontario again although having received an invitation to Winnipeg, he brought many valuable testimonials from the people of the church to which he had ministered so successfully. After returning he was stationed at Madoc, Colborne, Oshawa, (Simcoe Street) and Peterborough. He has filled many important positions in the church; among them, Journal Secretary of the Bay of Quinte Conference, member of the Alma College Board, member of Board of Examiners for 10 years, Secretary of Board of Examiners for Victoria University. Chairman of Bowmanville district, and was during his pastorate here Chairman of Peterborough District. He has accepted an unanimous invitation to become the pastor of Bridge Street Church, Belleville, and goes to that church after serving a four years' term here, (the longest period which a minister can remain in one church). His labours here have been abundantly crowned with success. The exercise of the chief function of his sacred office—ministration to the spiritual needs of his flock—has been attended with what to human seeing, is marked success. The membership roll of the church has been lengthened, and his tact and quiet firmness have smoothed many difficulties and established an influence over his congregation, which has resulted in harmonious relationship between the membership of this flock, and between pastor and people, unexcelled in the history of the church. In Mr. Wilson a quiet and placid outside masked ability which found expression in his quietly forceful pulpit utterances, characterized by gospel quality and by sanctified common sense. The material interests of the church, possibly as a necessary result of moral betterment, have also been adequately dealt with. The indebtedness, which at the time of Mr. Wilson assuming charge of the church, was about $21,000, has in four years been reduced to $8,000, and the general financial conditions have been strengthened. Behind his quiet and unobtrusive demeanor, was a sincere and appealing geniality that made him persona grata to all with whom he came into association, even beyond the pale of his official pastoral influence. He made himself widely respected by all classes of the community, and the feeling of deep regret at his removal from town will, by no means, be confined to the personnel of his own pastorate.

Rev. Mr. Wilson, will, no doubt, carry the ability as an organizer and a leader developed in his successful relations to the George Street Church, to the discharge of the higher responsibility, with which he has been charged, and no doubt the recognition of these, and other outstanding qualities by his brethren of the Bay of Quinte Conference, has resulted in his advancement to the dignified position he holds by its choice. The Examiner begs to heartily congratulate Rev. Mr. Wilson, and to express the wish, amply warranted by past experience, that he may have a very successful term of office. That he will worthily maintain the best traditions of the office, and very amply justify the wisdom of his selection, admits of no question by those who know him best and at his best—his normal condition.

MR. DEVLIN'S QUERY

Did Canada Decline to Contribute to the Navy?

THE WHITE PLAGUE REPORT

British Commission Presents Interim Report and Finds That Human and Bovine Tuberculosis Are Practically Identical—Many Experiments Were Made and Resulted in Disproof of Prof. Koch's Theory.

London, June 1.—(C.A.P.)—Charles Devlin, M.P., has given notice in the House of Commons that he will call attention to Lord Milner's Johannesburg speech, and ask if the Government approves his suggestion, and, if so, when will they establish an Imperial Council; also if Canada was asked to contribute to the navy but declined.

Canadians Complain.

London, June 1.—(C.A.P.)—Charles Devlin, M.P., (Nationalist), in the House of Commons complained of the great discomforts suffered by Canadian passengers arriving at Londonderry on account of the bad accommodation and delay in the examination of baggage.

See Colonies First.

London, June 1.—(C.A.P.)—T. Gibson Bowles, M.P., (Conservative), on the second reading of the Anglo-French convention bill yesterday, moved an amendment that no scheme for the improvement of the relations between the two countries will be satisfactory, which affects the rights of other powers or a British self-governing colony without previous communication to them or their assent being obtained.

The White Plague.

London, June 1.—(C.A.P.)—The Royal Commission appointed in August, 1901, to inquire into the relation between human animal tuberculosis has arrived at a conclusion justifying the issuance of an interim report, according to which the commission finds that human and bovine tuberculosis are practically identical. The commission states that exhaustive experiments proved that the disease produced in animals by tuberculosis material, whether of human or of bovine orgin was identical, both in its broad general features and in the finer histological details. The commission's records include the results of the post examinations. This disproof of Professor Koch's theory is regarded by the English press as of the highest importance, as bearing the impossibility of infection through milk.

Women and the Colonies.

London, June 1.—(C. A. P.)—At the Royal Colonial Institute, Sir C. Smith, presiding, Mrs. Archibald Colquhoun read a paper on "Women and the Colonies." She said the attitude of the English woman towards the colonies was one of suspicion and fear. Proof of this lay in the fact that out of 3,000 applications to the British Women's Emigration Association during 1903 only 316 went out. They must look to Canada as the chief field for colonization, and where there was crying need of domestic servants and mother's help. The best way of spreading the female population more evenly throughout the Empire was to send out a sister for every brother. There were over a quarter of a million more men than women in Canada, New Zealand and Australia. She would like to see girls diverted from hospitals and art and music schools to Canada, where divinity was the only profession barred. Instead of a course of Browning and Dante lectures this year she wanted to see a course on the colonies, especially Canada, where there was no loss of social status in doing household work. The chairman said the ignorance of the middle classes about the colonies was due to the very few books dealing with the British Empire.

Strathcona and Bourassa.

London, June 1.—(C. A. P.)—Lord Strathcona, speaking to the Canadian Associated Press in regard to the Bourassa charges, said he had been most scrupulous to know no party politics since assuming the Commis-

She says: "I wish to add my testimony to the many others who have spoken so highly as to the unfailing virtues of Burdock Blood Bitters. I was all run down, had no appetite, lost all ambition, could not sleep much and had terrible headache and backache, and my food did not digest properly. I saw B B B. advertised, so concluded to give it a trial, thinking if it did no good it could do no harm. But after using one bottle I began to feel better, and by the time I had used three bottles I was feeling like a new person. I am so glad there is such a remedy provided for suffering humanity, and cannot praise it enough for I think there is no medicine like it on the market."

JAPS NOW IN DALNY.

Russians Left So Hastily That They Left Much Good Property.

Tokio, June 1.—The Russians evacuated Dalny so hastily that they failed to destroy much property, which will prove highly valuable to the Japanese. General Oku's scouts report that one hundred storehouses remain uninjured. The railroad station, with 200 passenger and freight coaches, are uninjured. The Russians destroyed the big pier and blocked all the deck entrances with sunken steamers. They destroyed all the small railway bridges in the vicinity of the docks, but left the jetties uninjured.

Reports from Che Foo state that in the Russian evacuation of Dalny and Talienwan bandits attacked both towns, but order was restored on the entrance of the Japanese troops. The Japanese captured the naval guns taken from Port Arthur to Nanshan Hill.

DEATH OF JUSTICE FERGUSON.

Passed Away Tuesday Afternoon After Brief Retirement.

Toronto, June 1.—Without having regained consciouness Hon. Thomas Ferguson, Justice of the High Court of Ontario, passed away yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock at his residence, "East Lawn." He had been ill for the past two years, and for the last month was confined to his bed, although he was on the bench at the recent civil assizes.

He was 76 years of age and one of the three veterans of the High Court bench. He served for over a quarter of a century, and presided over many of the famous criminal cases that have been tried in this province. The second trial of the Hymans brothers, the Dominion Bank case, when Pare, Holden, Mackie and Ponton were the leading figures; the memorable McWherral murder trial, the long fought John Eaton insurance case, and the sensational Melanchthon arson case were among those presided over by Justice Ferguson.

The only remaining members of the family are Mrs. George Burnett of Toronto, and Miss Frances, at home.

ASSASSINATION IN RUSSIA.

GRAND TRUNK PACIFIC.

Committee on Railways Has Reported the Bill, Confirming the Agreement.

Ottawa, June 1.—The committee on railways yesterday morning reported the bill respecting the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company, which confirms the agreements entered into by the company and the Government. Among the provisions of the bill is one providing that the company may be organized when $1,000,000 of capital stock is subscribed, instead of $2,000,000, as required by the original charter.

The bill of last year was amended in order to permit the issue of paid-up non-assessable stock in consideration of guarantees, or other services rendered the company, due regard being had to the then market value of the stock. The company is also given all powers necessary to carry into effect the agreements between the company and the Government until the time for completion and operation of the line, which is limited to Dec. 1, 1911. Construction is to commence within two years.

The bill extending the time for completion of the works of the Essex Terminal Railway Company to May 15, 1909, was also reported.

Triumphs of Modern Surgery.

Wonderful things are done for the human body by surgery. Organs are taken out and scraped and polished and put back, or they may be removed entirely; bones are spliced; pipes take the place of diseased sections of veins; antiseptic dressings are applied to wounds, bruises, burns and like injuries before inflammation sets in, which causes them to heal without maturation and in one-third the time required by the old treatment. Chamberlain's Pain Balm acts on this same principle. It is an antiseptic and when applied to such injuries, causes them to heal very quickly. It also allays the pain and soreness. Keep a bottle of Pain Balm in your home and it will save you time and money, not to mention the inconvenience and suffering which such injuries entail. For sale by all druggists.

STRIKE OF 1,800 MEN.

Dominion Steel and Iron Company's Men Out at Sydney, N.S.

Ottawa, June 1.—A private telegram from Sydney, C.B., last evening announced that the employes of the Dominion Iron and Steel Company would go on strike at 12 o'clock last night. This means that 1,800 men will be idle in Sydney today. It is stated in the private telegrams received here that the company has declined the demands made by the men, and makes the following proposition:

The Provincial Workingmen's Association is asked to meet the president of the company on June 16 to discuss the statement that the company pays rates equal to similar industries in Canada.

If the men refuse to accept this the company is prepared to arbitrate under the terms of the Nova Scotia Arbitration Act.

Under this arrangement the association would appoint one arbitrator and the company one arbitrator. The two would choose a third arbitrator, or failing to agree, the third arbitrator would be a judge of the Supreme Court, to be chosen by the Nova Scotia Government.

Mr. Plummer, the president of the company, is in England and cannot return before June 16.

From Law to Literature.

Winnipeg, Man., June 1.—J. S. Ewart, K.C., has announced his retirement from law to devote himself to literature. He will spend the next few months in the Parliamentary library at Ottawa.

THE DRUGGIST RECOMMENDED IT

Because he Knew of Scores of Severe Cases of Piles that were Positively Cured by

DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

The writer of the letter quoted below suffered dreadfully from itching protruding piles for six years.

Like thosts of others, he was only disappointed with the many treatments he tried, until his druggist told him of what Dr. Chase's Ointment was accomplishing as a cure for this wretched ailment.

Mr. G. W. Cornell, who is with the Shaw Milling Company, St. Catharines, Ont., writes:—"In justice to Suffering humanity I write to tell you of the world of good I obtained from the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment. For about six years I was the victim of itching and protruding piles and was in dreadful agony day and night. Doctors were unable to help me and I could get nothing to relieve the suffering. I was about as miserable a creature as was to be found on the of the earth.

'One day my druggist, Mr A. J. Greenwood, advised me to try Dr. Chase's Ointment, which I did and obtained relief from the first box and and complete cure with the second. My trouble was caused by heavy lifting, and I consider that Dr. Chase's Ointment would be cheap at fifty dollars a box in view of the good it did for me. A feeling of sympathy for others similarly affected prompts me to give this testimony."

Dr. Chase's Ointment, 60 cents a box, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Company, Toronto.

To protect you against imitations, the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box. 3

THE GENTLEMAN FROM INDIANA

By Booth Tarkington.

"It is all so splendid!" she cried. "How could you do it so quickly? And in the rain too! It is just what we need. I've done most of the things I mentioned, I think, and made a draft of some plans for hereafter. Doesn't it seem to you that it would be a good notion to have a woman's page—'For Feminine Readers' or 'Of Interest to Women'—once a week?"

"A woman's page!" exclaimed Fisbee. "I could never have thought of that. Could you, Mr. Parker?"

Before that day was over system had been introduced, and the Herald was running on it, and all that warm rainy afternoon the editor and Fisbee worked in the editorial rooms. Parker and Bud and Mr. Schofield (after his return with the items and a courteous message from Ephraim Watts) bent over the forms downstairs, and Uncle Xenophon was cleaning the storeroom and scrubbing the floor. An extraordinary number of errands took the various members of the printing force up to see the editor in chief, literally to see the editor in chief. It was hard to believe that the presence had not flown, hard to keep believing without the repeated testimony of sight that the dingy room upstairs was actually the setting for their jewel, and a jewel they swore she was. The printers came down chuckling and gurgling after each interview. It was partly the thought that she belonged to the Herald, their paper. Once Ross, chuckling, looked up and caught the foreman giggling to himself.

"What in the name of common sense you laughin' at, Cale?" he asked.

"What are you laughing at?" rejoined the other.

"I dunno!"

The day wore on, wet and dreary outside, but all within the Herald's bosom was snug and busy and murmurous with the healthy thrum of life and prosperity renewed. Toward 6 o'clock, system accomplished, the new guiding spirit was deliberating on a policy, as Harkless would conceive a policy were he there, when Minnie Briscoe ran joyously up the stairs, plunged into the room waterproofed and radiant and caught her friend in her eager arms and put an end to policy for that day.

But policy and labor did not end at twilight every day. There were evenings, as in the time of Harkless, when lamps shone from the upper windows of the Herald building; for the little editor worked hard, and sometimes she worked late; she always worked early. She made some mistakes at first and one or two blunders which she took much more seriously than any one else did. But she found a remedy for all such results of her inexperience, and she developed experience. She set at her task with the energy of her youthfulness and no limit to her ambition, and she felt that Harkless had prepared the way for a wide expansion of the paper's interests, wider then he knew. She brought a fresh point of view to operate in a situation where he had fallen perhaps too much in the rut, and she watched every chance with a keen eye and looked ahead of her with clear foresight. What she waited and yearned for and dreaded was the time when a copy of the new Herald should be placed in the trembling hands of the man who lay in the Rouen hospital. Then she felt if he, unaware of her identity as he was and as he was to be kept, should place everything in her hands unreservedly, that would be a tribute to her work. And how hard she would labor to deserve it!

After a time she began to see that as his representative and editor of the Herald she had become a factor in district politics. It took her breath, but with a gasp of delight, for there was something she wanted to do.

Rodney McCune had lifted his head, and the friends of his stricken enemy felt that they and the cause that Harkless had labored for were lost without the leader, for the old ring that the Herald had beaten rallied around McCune. "The boys were in line again." Every one knew that Halloway, a dull but honest man, the most available material that Harkless had been able to find, was already beaten. If John Harkless had been "on the ground to work for him," it was said, Halloway could have received the nomination again, but as matters stood he was beaten and beaten badly, and Rodney McCune would sit in congress, for nomination meant election.

But one afternoon the Harkless forces, demoralized, broken, hopeless, woke up to find that they had a leader. There was a political conference at Judge Briscoe's. The politicians descended sadly at the gate from the omnibus that had met the afternoon train—Boswell and Keating, two gentlemen of Amo, and Bence and Shannon, two others of Gaines county, to confer with Warren Smith, Tom Martin, Briscoe and Harkless' representatives, Fisbee and the editor of the Herald. They entered the house gloomily, and the conference began in dejected monosyllables. But presently Minnie Briscoe, sitting on the porch pretending to sew, heard Helen's voice, clear, soft and trembling a little with excitement. She talked for only two or three minutes, but what she said seemed to stir up great commotion among the others. All the voices burst forth at once in exclamations, almost shouts. Then Minnie saw her father, seated near the window, rise and strike the table a great blow with his clinched fist. "Will I make the nominating speech?" he cried. "I'd walk from here to Rouen and back again to do it!"

"We'll swim out!" exclaimed Mr. Keating of Amo. "The wonderful thing is that nobody thought of this before. There are just two difficulties —Halloway and our man himself. He wouldn't let his name be used against Kedge. Therefore we've got to work it quietly and keep it from him."

"It's not too difficult," said the speaker's colleague, Mr. Boswell. "All we've got to do is to spring it as a surprise on the convention. Some of the old crowd themselves will be swept along with us when we make our nomination, and you want to stuff your ears with cotton. You see, all we need to do is to pass the word quietly among the Halloway people and the shaky McCune people. Rod may get wind of it, but you can't fix men in this district against us when they know what we mean to do now. On the first ballot we'll give Halloway every vote he'd have got if he'd run against McCune alone. It will help him to understand how things were afterward. On the second ballot—why, we nominate. Of course it can't be helped that Halloway has to be kept in the dark, too, but he's got to be."

"There's one danger," said Warren Smith. "Kedge Halloway is honest, but I believe he's selfish enough to disturb his best friend's deathbed for his own ends. It's not unlikely that he will get nervous toward the last and be telegraphing Harkless to have himself carried on a cot to the convention to save him. That wouldn't do at all, of course. And Miss Sherwood thinks maybe there'd be less danger if we set the convention a little ahead of the day appointed. It's dangerous, because it shortens our time, but we can fix it for three days before the day we'd settled on, and that will bring it to Sept. 7."

"It's a great plan," said Mr. Bence, who was an oratorical gentleman. He thrust one hand in his breast, raised the other toward heaven and continued. "For the name of Harkless shall"—

"Wait a minute," said Keating. "I'd like to hear from the Herald about its policy, if Miss Sherwood will tell us."

"Yes, indeed," she answered. "It will be very simple. Don't you think there is only one course to pursue? We will advocate no one very energetically, but we will print as much of the truth about Mr. McCune as we can, with delicacy and honor, in this case; but as I understand it the work is almost all to be done among the delegates. We shall not mention our plan at all, and we will contrive that Mr. Harkless shall not receive his copy of the paper containing the notice of the change of date, and I think the chance of his seeing it in any Rouen paper may be avoided. That is all, I think."

"Thank you," said Keating. "That is certainly the course to follow."

Every one nodded or acquiesced in words, and Keating and Bence came over to Helen and engaged her in conversation. The others began to look about for their hats, vaguely preparing to leave.

"Wait a minute," said the judge. "There's no train due just now." And Minnie appeared in the doorway with a big pitcher of crab apple cider, rich and amber hued, sparkling, cold and redolent of the sweet smelling orchard where it was born. Behind Miss Briscoe came Milly Upton with glasses and a fat, shaking, four storied jelly cake on a second tray. The judge passed his cigars around, and the gentlemen took them blithely, then hesitatingly held them in their fingers and glanced at the ladies, uncertain of permission.

"Let me get you some matches," Helen said quickly, and found a box on the table and handed them to Keating. Every one sat beaming, and fragrant veils of smoke soon draped the room.

"Why do you call her 'Miss Sherwood'?" Boswell whispered in Keating's ear.

"That's her name."

"Ain't she the daughter of that old fellow over there by the window? Ain't her name Fisbee?"

"No; she's his daughter, but her legal name's Sherwood. She's an adop"—

"Great Scott! I know all about that. I'd like to know if there's a man, woman or child in this part of the country that doesn't. I guess it won't be Fisbee or Sherwood either very long. She can easy get a new name, that lady. And if she took a fancy to Boswell, why, I'm a bach"—

"I expect she won't take a fancy to Boswell very early," said Keating.

"Go way," returned Mr. Boswell. "What do you want to say that for? Can't you bear for anybody to be happy a minute or two now and then?"

Warren Smith approached Helen and inquired if it would be asking too much if they petitioned her for some music, and she went to the piano and sang some darky songs for them, with a quaint suggestion of the dialect. Two or three old fashioned negro melodies of Foster, followed by some rollicking modern imitations, with the movement and spirit of a tin shop falling down a flight of stairs. Her audience listened in delight from the first. But the latter songs quite overcame them with pleasure and admiration, and before she finished every head in the room was jogging from side to side and forward and back in time to the music, while every foot shuffled the measures on the carpet.

When the gentlemen from out of town discovered that it was time to leave if they meant to catch their train Helen called to them to wait, and they gathered around her.

"Just one second," she said. And she poured all the glasses full to the brim. Then, as she stood in the center of the circle they made around her, she said:

"Before you go shan't we pledge each other to our success in this good home grown Indiana cider that leaves our heads clear and our arms strong? If you will—then"— She began to blush furiously, and her voice trembled, but she lifted the glass high over her head and cried bravely, "Here's to our candidate!"

The big men, towering over her, threw back their heads and quaffed the gentle liquor to the last drop. Then they sent up the first shout of the campaign and cheered till the rafters rang.

"My friends," said Mr. Keating as he and Boswell and the men from Gaines drove away from the brick house—"my friends, here is where I begin the warmest hustling I ever did. Now, I guess we all think this is a great plan"—

"It is a glorious idea," said Mr. Bence. "The name of Harkless"—

Keating drowned the oratory: "But that isn't all. That little girl wants it to succeed, and that settles it. He goes."

LATEST SPORT

BASEBALL.

On Saturday afternoon Peterborough will have an opportunity of seeing the best amateur baseball team of Canada play a game with the local men. The Toronto University team will be here under special arrangement, with their best team, and will give the Petertoroughs a game, consequently the Port Hope game has been cancelled. This will be one of the fastest contests of the season and no one who enjoys seeing a baseball game should miss it. The game will be played on the T.A.S. grounds.

• • • •

Weather permitting the Charlotte street and St. Luke's Guild teams will play at the Patterson street grounds this evening.

• • • •

The members of St. Paul's baseball team are requested to turn out for practice to-morrow night at 6.30, on the Bonacord street grounds.

• • • •

The Lindsay Post has the following:—"I see by last night's Evening Post that a critic is pouring hot shot at Mr. Teddy Miller for his misdoing's in Monday's game. It is very unfair. Teddy has pitched ball—and winning ball—for the Lindsay team for years, without money and without price, and no one was fair enough to hand him any applause or to appreciate his good work, and it is not gentlemanlike to keep 'jabbing' at him, as was done last night at the grounds. Be fair, boys—'Give honour where honour is due,' should be the baseball motto. Teddy has been one of the mainstays of baseball for years in Lindsay."....In connection with the above article, we would like to say that the "Sport" who wrote it has entirely misunderstood our report of last Monday's game. If a little bit of advice was thrown out it was not done to injure any of the ball players in reputation. "Give honour where honour is due," was given in our report. Because a player has been a "mainstay" in the local club is no reason to excuse for his playing. The player mentioned has played good ball, and deserves credit, but to tell a few of his errors should not be a cause for talk."

LACROSSE.

The Toronto News says:—"The Orillia team will come to Toronto on Saturday afternoon confident of defeating the Tecumsehs. Orillia has one of the strongest teams that has represented the town for many seasons, and on the line up, Wilkinson, an old Tecumseh player, will figure. Wilkinson is playing a good game this season, and is popular with the admirers of the game in Orillia. Pennock, another man that is well known in the lacrosse world, will be on the team. The Indians will practise to-night at 6 o'clock, and every night for the remainder of the week. The team will not be chosen until after the practice on Thursday.

To-morrow evening's game between the Port Hope Ontarios and the T.A.S. will be the opening game in the newly organized Trent Valley Lacrosse League. Both these clubs are already making goo-goo eyes at the championship and the game to-morrow should prove a crackerjack. Everyone knows that Port Hope can turn out a pretty fast dozen when it comes to lacrosse, while the T.A.S. aggregation will also be a strong one which expects to down the visitors. The game is called for 6.30 sharp, and will be played on the Murray street grounds.

• • • •

A team from the Peterboroughs will play the speedy Weston team at the Oval on Saturday afternoon. The Weston team plays in the junior C.L.A. series and is capable of putting up a good exhibition.

• • • •

Lindsay goes to Orillia to-day according to schedule to open the season in District No. 5.

The local lacrosse team has been invited to play a game in Hastings on Thursday, June 9th.

SPRINTING.

On Saturday afternoon A. J. Burns and Ed. Renton will run their five mile race. The officials will be: W. Crowley, Shaw, A. Duncan, judges; Fred McGrath, referee.

MISCELLANEOUS.

There will be three first class boxing bouts and three also of wrestling at the T.A.S. athletic concert on June 14th, in the opera house. Do not fail to be there and see the go between Hurtubise and McDonough.

REV. J. P. WILSON ELECTED PRESIDENT.

for he believed there was an inspiration in it. Many had passed to their reward since last the roll was called, and all were in God's hands for the future, and none knew how many would be present when next the roll would be called.

The great subject with the church to-day was that of "Church Union," and the speaker thought it well to make a few remarks along this line. It was a subject which should be viewed from different sides, and from an all-around standpoint, for it was a magnitudinous proposition, the greatest before the country to-day. It was a larger question than that of union with Newfoundland, or than that of the Confederation, for it went farther back into history. The two churches with which it was proposed to unite the Methodist body, were even more historic than the latter body, and the union of these three would be a great event in the history of our fair Dominion.

This is a time, said Dr. Carman, in which, in the providence of God, there was being presented to the church a great problem, that of union. When the Methodists united a few years ago it proved an event of the greatest importance, and of much blessing to this body, it being, the speaker believed, to the glory of God, and for the glory of God. It was a matter of sound conviction of the people, and was carried out with the object of promoting common interests in church work, and it has brought the people together in more brotherly love and sympathy and aided materially in advancing the Kingdom of Christ.

The Spirit of God was again working amongst His people, and the feeling of church union was again being earnestly considered in some churches, and the people were beginning to see eye to eye, and experience more than ever a unity of purpose and a oneness of thought. There were many minor difficulties to be overcome, if union were consummated, but when there was an understanding along the line of fundamental principles the minor difficulties would soon vanish. The speaker had abundance confidence in the clergymen of the other churches, who were working in the interests of the Kingdom, and were earnest in dealing with this great question of union. The churches should be perfectly candid with one another in this matter and should have a mutual love, respect and regard for one another and make an honourable statement of their position.

The Methodists had taken one advanced step in reference to church union, when at the last General Conference they stepped upon the platform of union of the three churches, the Methodist, Presbyterian and Congregational bodies. A committee was appointed and the Conference was ready to negotiate and declare itself on the matter. When the Conference met in Toronto it was found that the other churches had not gone as far into the matter; the Congregational body had a standing committee, but the Presbyterian body had appointed no Committee up to that time and had made no declaration on the subject, but the Committee on General Church Intercourse was charged with the duty of meeting our conference. It was expected that the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church at St. John's would bring up the question and Congregationalists would do the same at their General Convention. If clear utterances were made by these bodies, the matter might be determined sooner than was anticipated by a great many, but if not the work would linger which the speaker hoped would not be the case.

A union honourable to all the bodies connected was what was being aimed at. He would not like to see the Presbyterians lose any respect for their founders and the names of Calvin and Knox must be honoured for all time should union come to pass. The Congregationalists who stood for their liberty when Prince and Parliament interfered with their religious convictions, had principles always to be honoured, while the names of Wesley and Whitfield, names all Methodists loved, were also to be revered. Many other churches were founded on political movements to some extent, but the Methodist church had its origin in an evangelistic movement, and a new religious life. True knowledge of sin forgiven and sanctification through the Holy Ghost was what Methodism meant and these doctrines must be honoured also.

Dr. Carman looked upon the movement in question as the incoming of the Holy Ghost. The churches would be uplifted from the shallow waters with their accompanying dangers to the bosom of the deep, safe under the guidance of Jesus Christ. With mutual respect for one another and by acting with piety and deep intelligence the question, believed the speaker, could be settled.

The manner of "getting together and settling things afterwards" as some did when marrying, humourously remarked Dr. Carman, was not the course to follow in bringing about church union, but by settling the course to be persued and building on a firm foundation, on the rock Christ Jesus, which meant a rational and religious foundation. Dr. Carman felt assured that the stalwarts of the other churches would not bring up trifling matters to cause difficulty, and he had the same confidence in the Methodist body. Earnest intelligence and sound conviction would result in the unity of these three churches.

REV. J. P. WILSON, PRESIDENT.

The election of officers for the ensuing year was then proceeded with, and the honour of President fell upon Rev. J. P. Wilson, B.A., the retiring pastor of the George Street Methodist Church, who received 135 votes out of a total of 195. The announcement was received with hearty applause by those present.

Rev. Mr. Wilson, upon being called to the platform was warmly congratulated by Rev. Dr. Carman, who was greatly pleased to welcome him as president, and hoped that in the providence of God he would receive great blessing and experience every success in the holding of this office of honour.

Two beautiful bouquets of roses were presented Mr. Wilson by Miss Alma Knapman, on behalf of the Board and Miss Jessie Cressman from Mr. A. W. Cressman.

Rev. T. J. Edmison, the retiring President in handing the insignia of office to the new President, said: "I have great pleasure in handing to you the insignia of office, which stick was taken from the old Hay Bay Church, the cradle of Upper Canada Methodism. I am greatly pleased to welcome you as my successor."

Rev. Mr. Wilson thanked the brethren for the honour bestowed upon him. "This stick," he said, "grew on the same ground as I grew upon, as I was born within a few miles of the historic old church, which was a familiar object in my boyhood days and it was within eight miles of this spot where the first love feast in that part of the province was held in a barn. I am glad to see Dr. Carman here to-day, for he was Chancellor when I received my honours at the University and he is now present to see the highest honour which the Conference can confer upon me." Mr. Wilson was not altogether surprised that he was elected to this office, as many had spoken to him in connection with the matter and offered their unsolicited support, but he was rather surprised to be selected from so many able men and to receive so many votes. He could not express this appreciation of the honour shown him. If there was anything he coveted in this world, it was the confidence, esteem and respect of his fellow ministers many of whom he had known for 21 years and others for even 30 years, and he was glad that he had during that time maintained a place in their esteem. He wished to thank them heartily for the honour, and asked for their forbearance and regard, and felt assured he would have their prayers and counsel. (Prolonged Applause.)

There were eleven ministers besides Rev. Mr. Wilson nominated for the office. Rev. W. J. Jolliffe, of Charlotte street church, standing second in the number of votes received

The election of Secretary was then proceeded with and Rev. N. D. Drew, the Fraserville pastor was elected.

An adjournment was then made until 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Sued by His Doctor.

"A doctor here has sued me for $12.50, which I claimed was excessive for a case of cholera morbus," says R. White, of Coachella, Cal. "At the trial he praised his medical skill and medicine. I asked him if it was not Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy he used as I had good reason to believe it was, and he would not say under oath that it was not." No doctor could use a better remedy than this in a case of cholera morbus, it never fails. Sold by all druggists.

KUROPATKIN GETS EMPEROR'S ORDERS

Advised to Relieve Port Arthur, But to Act With Prudence.

THE RUSSIANS MARCHING SOUTH

Alleged Result of a War Council in St. Petersburg, Followed by an Order From the Czar—One General Says Kuropatkin Will be Weak if he Obeys—The Advance Has Begun.

Paris, June 3.—The correspondent of The Echo de Paris at St. Petersburg telegraphs:

"Viceroy Alexieff and Gen. Kuropatkin, having asked the Emperor to settle their dispute, His Majesty summoned a council of war, including Minister of War Sakharoff, Marine Minister Avellan and Minister of Interior Plehve. The council debated for several hours at Tsarskoye Selo.

"I have reason to believe that the necessity of preserving the naval base at Port Arthur, and the loss of prestige that the fall of Port Arthur would entail were the arguments which prevailed in the council.

"Gen. Kuropatkin has therefore been advised to attempt to relieve the fortress, but to act with the greatest prudence. A general whom I interviewed on the subject of the council said: 'If Kuropatkin is weak enough to advance, he will commit a serious blunder.' The number of his troops is insufficient. The conditions under which he acts are unfavorable. He might meet an almost irreparable reverse and Port Arthur be further from relief than ever. If we try to relieve Port Arthur we will be doing exactly what the Japanese desire."

Report Is Confirmed.

London, June 3.—Telegrams from different points seem to confirm the rumors that Gen. Kuropatkin is attempting a diversion in the direction of Port Arthur. Russian reinforcements, according to a despatch from Tientsin, are moving southward from Kaiping towards Wafangtien under Gen. Stalkenburg. They comprise a battery of artillery, four Siberian regiments, and a company of Cossacks, aggregating 12,000 men. Another brigade is following, the intention being to engage the Japanese now attacking Port Arthur in their rear.

The Standard's correspondent at Tientsin, sending the same news, says:

"The Russian force in the engagement at Wafangtien, May 30, is supposed to have been formed of four Siberian regiments which were reported to have left Tachiachao May 28, by the first portion of a relieving column for Port Arthur. The railway is fairly intact from the north of Wafangtien, but is completely destroyed from there to Pulantien. The Japanese are unconcerned over this demonstration, being convinced that it will be impracticable for the Russians to move a sufficient force to prove effective."

These reports are received with a certain measure of scepticism in London. The belief here is that if Gen. Kuropatkin is undertaking such a desperate move, he can only be doing so in deference to the strongest political pressure and against his own better judgment. No further news of any kind has been received about the movements of the Japanese forces. Both Generals Kuroki and Oku are working in the utmost secrecy.

Advance Has Begun.

London, June 3.—The Daily Mail's Newchwang correspondent, cabling under date of June 2, says:

"Gen. Stalkenberg, with 14,000 Russians, made up of artillery, cavalry and infantry, has marched south of Liaoyang, in the direction of Wafangtien.

"Large forces of Chinese bandits are collecting in the hills northeast of the Liao River, and are preparing to cut the railway north of Mukden."

Penetrated to Gensan.

Vladivostok, June 3.—Letters from the theatre of war report that Russian raiders have succeeded in penetrating as far as Gensan and also south of Anju. They have destroyed depots of Japanese supplies and captured provision trains.

Another Jap Army of 50,000:

Van Zalen, Manchuria, June 1.—(Delayed.)—The Japanese are, it is reported, landing another army of 50,000 men at Takushan. Japanese outposts were withdrawn to-day from positions near Vafangow, destroying the bridges as they retired. They were busy during the night, removing the wounded from the battlefield and burying the dead.

Riordan Mills Will Open.

St. Catharines, June 3.—The Riordan Paper Company of Merritton are preparing for a long-drawn-out struggle with their 150 employers, who are on strike for shorter hours. Manager Riordan said last evening that the company would make no concessions. They are getting plenty of men to fill the places of the strikers, he said, and in fact, have enough now to start part of the mills. "Henceforth," said Mr. Riordan, "our mills will be wide open, and while we will take all capable workmen, whether union or non-union, we will in future recognize no unions."

Against Pauper Emigration.

London, June 3.—(C.A.P.)—Right Hon. W. H. Long, president of local Government board, in the House of Commons debate on poor law schools, said he had no sympathy with the proposed emigration of pauper children in bodies and the establishing of pauper homes in the country to which they were sent. It might be most desirable to encourage the emigration of children to Canada, but anyone who had studied the question realized it was attended with great risk.

G.T.R. Telegraphers.

Montreal, June 3.—The conference between Mr. Hays, general manager of the Grand Trunk, and D. Campbell, representing the railway telegraphers, over the complaints of the men, has been concluded for the present. It is stated negotiations are proceeding satisfactorily, and will be resumed later. Mr. Campbell left for Ottawa last night.

No Conscription.

London, June 3.—War Secretary Arnold-Forster answering a question in the House of Commons yesterday said the Government had no intention of proposing to Parliament the introduction of a system of conscription, as recommended by the Royal Commission of the volunteer and militia force.

Credits Anglo-French Union.

London, June 3.—(C.A.P.)—The Edinburgh Scotsman says the conclusion of the Canadian-Russian agreement without recourse to arbitration is due to the influence of the Anglo-French treaty. Other nations are now likely to follow suit.

Burke Sentenced.

Toronto, June 3.—For the next three years, Chas. Burke will spend his time in Kingston Penitentiary for having attempted to assist Quakenbush to break jail. Quakenbush, senior, was remanded until June 9.

Season's Log Cut.

Ottawa, June 3.—So far this season 74,700 sawlogs have been delivered at the mouth of the Gatineau River, sorted and delivered to their rightful owners. This lot represents the logs that were cut during the past winter and delivered along the banks of the main stream.

Sentence of 99 Years.

El Paco, Tex., June 3.—Arthur A. Eddy of Los Angeles, convicted of the murder of Daniel Mitchell of Cincinnati, has been given a sentence of 99 years.

More Canadian Dumping.

London, June 3.—(C.A.P.)—The steamer Indrani has arrived at Glasgow with 1,650 tons of pig iron and 560 tons of steel from Sydney, B.C.

DID EEL DRAG HIM IN?

Francis Bergeron Found Drowned in Cornwall Canal.

Cornwall, June 3.—A peculiar drowning accident took place here Wednesday night. Francis Clarence Borgeron, the 14-year-old son of Francis Bergeron, went fishing after school and failed to return.

A search was instituted, and yesterday morning his father saw the end of a fishing rod sticking up in the old canal, between the lower locks. When he pulled it up the body of his son came to the surface. The line was wrapped several times around one hand, and attached to the hook was a big eel.

It is thought that the lad, while fishing off the lock gate, hooked the eel, and, in the struggle to land it, was pulled into the water and held down by the line till he drowned.

Foreigner Killed.

Winnipeg, June 3.—About two o'clock yesterday afternoon a foreigner walking along the tracks in the C.P.R. yards stepped aside to get out of the way of a yard engine and stepped directly in front of a locomotive, approaching in the opposite direction. He was struck by the cowcatcher and thrown beneath the wheels and almost instantly killed. The body was badly mangled.

Brakeman Killed.

Moose Jaw, N.W.T., June 3.—F. S. Reid, a C.P.R. brakeman, was accidentally killed at Pasqua Wednesday. He caught his foot in a frog and was run down by an approaching train. It is understood the young man resided in Arnprior, Ont., where the body will be sent.

Both Legs Cut Off.

Tweed, June 3.—Bert Carr, a carter, of this place, had both legs cut off here about 10 o'clock Wednesday night by the Bay of Quinte Express. It is supposed he tried to cross the track when he was caught, as he was not noticed by any person when the accident happened. He was taken to Peterboro yesterday morning.

Took Paris Green.

Montreal, June 3.—A laboring man named Joseph Saranac took a dose of Paris green and expired in a short time. He had been distressed for some time.

For a National Park.

Amherstburg, June 3.—The delegates to the annual meeting of the Ontario Historical Society, together with about 100 visitors from Windsor, arrived here yesterday morning. They were met by a committee of citizens and took carriages for a drive to the many historical points of the Ware of 1812-13 and 1837-8. An elaborate luncheon was served in the Fraser Hall. Messrs. Pattullo and Cumberland moved a resolution that the Ontario society memoralize the Dominion Government to repurchase and establish Fort Malden grounds as a national park. This was carried unanimously.

A New Emigrant Service.

London, June 3.—(C. A. P.)—The Daily News learns on good authority that negotiations are in progress between the Canadian Government and Messrs. Peterson of Newcastle, the Whitworth Company and Low Walker, regarding an emigrant service from the continent to the Dominion. If successful, a fortnightly service from Rotterdam, Havre and Fiume is named, receiving a yearly subsidy of £90,000.

Fishermen Saved Vessel.

St. John's, Nfld., June 3.—The American herring catcher A. M. Nicholson of Duckport, Maine, adrift in an ice-floe all winter, sailed into Bonne Bay Wednesday. The Nicholson's crew abandoned her on Jan. 29. Five Newfoundland fishermen boarded the vessel on April 5, forty miles from Bonne Bay, and after a trying experience of 57 days, four of the fishermen brought her into port.

The Junction Club.

Toronto, June 3.—Attorney-General Gibson at noon yesterday heard the argument of E. F. B. Johnston, K. K., on behalf of the Toronto Recreation Club why its charter should not be revoked by the Government. H. H. Dewart, K.C., appeared for the Crown. Mr. Gibson stated that he would not cancel the charter without giving Mr. Johnston an opportunity to get an injunction.

New South Wales Suffers.

London, June 3.—(C.A.P.)—Owing to the depression in New South Wales and dissatisfaction with the working of the arbitration court small capitalists and thrifty well to do men are abandoning their property in Sydney and leaving in twos and threes by every boat for Canada and America.

French Naval Budget.

Paris, June 3.—The naval budget distributed to the members of the Chamber of Deputies yesterday provides total appropriations of $60,000,000, which is $1,050,000 in excess of the budget for the current year. A general re-organization of the coast defence is also provided for.

Legislature Prorogued.

Quebec, June 3.—The first session of the tenth Parliament of the Province of Quebec, which opened March 20, was prorogued at 9.30 o'clock last evening by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, after sanctioning more than 160 bills, with the usual ceremony.

Lamsdorff Magnanimous.

St. Petersburg, June 3.—Foreign Minister Lamsdorff refuses to make a complaint against Prince Dolgorouky, who committed a personal assault on the minister Monday evening. The latter is still under arrest.

To Save Morocco.

London, June 3.—A despatch to The Times from Tangier says that Mohammed El Torres has appealed to the tribes to capture Raisuli, saying that this alone can save Morocco.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH GROWTH.

Over 200,000 Communicants on the Roll in the Dominion.

12,000 MORE THAN LAST YEAR

A Great Year For Missions—Presbyterian Work in the West Grows Rapidly—$130,000 Asked For Home Missions For Current Year—Addresses on Home Mission Topics—Powers of Synods.

St. John, N.B., June 3.—Over 500 commissioners were in attendance at yesterday's sessions of the general assembly, with more arriving daily. The morning sederunt was largely devotional and preparatory. At 11 o'clock Mayor White formally welcomed the delegates, as did Rev. Mr. Lang, pastor of St. Andrew's, on behalf of the local churches. Moderator Milligan eloquently responded.

The report of the committee on statistics was presented by Rev. Dr. Torrance, who pointed out the great need for home missionary work. There was great difference between the Dominion census and the church census, and he had tried to find where that difference lay, but failed. There were now upwards of 200,000 communicants on the roll, an increase of 12,000 over last year. There was also an increase of 94 elders.

Reports showed a great increase in church income, as well as in church expenditure. There was a decrease in the amount of debt on different churches. The report recommended better methods of obtaining statistics from churches and Presbyteries. The report was adopted, and the assembly heartily congratulated on the improvement shown.

Power of Synods.

During the afternoon session the committee on enlargement of powers of synods reported, and after considerable discussion it was decided that synods should not be given power to receive ministers from other church as, nor to retire ministers from active service except for reason of age or infirmity. Synods were given power to deal with the erection of new Presbyteries within their bounds, as well as to determine bounds of Presbyteries. When a proposed new Presbytery involves territory in two Synods, the sanction of the General Assembly must be obtained. Sharp discussion arose over recommendation to grant synods power to deal finally with appeals and complaints not affecting doctrine or constitution of churches, and finally the report was stood over.

The report of aged and infirm ministers' fund (western section) showed for the first time that maximum annuities had been paid. The debt was only increased by $27.02. Ministers' rates showed increase of $1,817.81. Eighty-six annuities were paid during the year. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Rev. J. K. McDonald, chairman.

The report of the same fund for the eastern section showed also great improvement, the debt being reduced, and capital increased. The number of annuities is 21.

The Mission Work.

The evening sederunt was devoted to home missions. The report of the committee of the western section showed the largest increase in development on record; $114,346 have been contributed, and 63 new fields opened, the total number at present being 488; $120,000 was asked for during the coming year. Special reference was made to the difficulty of work among the Galicians, Doukhobors and other foreigners, accustomed to only lowest planes of social life, and special effort was urged in their behalf. The only church that began to compare with the Presbyterian in efforts for religious welfare of Western Canada has less than half the number of mission fields embraced in the report.

The report from the eastern section showed receipts of $19,201.50, also the largest in history. The debt has been reduced by over $800. The last two years have showed an increase in maritime Presbyteries, and at present 34 ordained missionaries and 51 students are serving 231 mission stations.

Reports were received with enthusiasm, and addresses on home mission topics were gipen by Dr. Stewart of Dartmouth, Revs. James Ross of St. John, Dr. E. D. Maclaren, Dr. Carmichael, Dr. Herdman of Calgary, Dr. Pringle of Yukon, Mr. McQueen of Edmonton and D. L. Gordon of Kootenay.

Guelph Conference Officers.

Guelph, June 3.—At yesterday afternoon's session of the Hamilton conference the election of officers was the important business. Rev. John Pickering of St. Catharines, was elected president on the second ballot. Rev. Thomas L. Kennish of Mount Forest was elected secretary, and Rev. G Livingstone, Hamilton, and Rev. J. A. Jackson, Ingersoll, assistants.

London Conference President.

London, June 3.—Rev. Richard Hobbs of Strathroy, was elected president of the London conference yesterday morning on the second ballot. President Hobbs was warmly received. He has been thirty-two years in the Methodist ministry. He was born in Devonshire, England, and is about 55 years of age. Rev. Hector McTavish, Warwick, was elected secretary.

THE COMMEE-BOWMAN AFFAIR.

Still harping on the Commee-Bowman incident is the position of the Toronto News, which is laying itself open to the charge of pushing an accusation intended to injure two Government supporters and the Government, after the hypothetical facts upon which such accusation was based have been shown not to exist. The News repeated a few days ago the often-contradicted and unfounded statement that behind the contract produced by Mr. Commee on the floor of the House in connection with the Algoma Central Railway, there was an agreement by which Messrs. Commee and Bowman were to have a profit of ten per cent upon all work done for the "Soo" companies. To this the Globe, which has crossed swords with the News on the subject, thus replies:—

"This allegation is absolutely untrue, as the document read by Mr. Downey shows on its face. It does not bear the signature of all the parties, and it, therefore, has not now, and never had, any force or validity. It is a four-year-old draft of some contemplated arrangement which was never carried out. It has not the slightest effect on the only one contract ever made between the parties, the one produced by Mr. Commee on the floor of the House, perused there by Mr. Hanna and returned by him without remark. Not a particle of work was ever done by Foley Bros. under this alleged "agreement," as proved by the letter from Mr. M. H. Foley read in the course of the discussion. In it he says this firm "never performed any work under any contract for Messrs. Commee and Bowman in connection with the Algoma Central Railway on a ten per cent. or any other percentage basis," and that all work done for Bowman and Commee was "done under regular schedule prices."

Not only are the allegations mentioned untrue, but it is the fact, as has been shown, that Messrs. Commee and Bowman received their contract in the regular way in open competition. It is also the fact that these gentlemen had a first and indisputably valid lein on the Algoma Central Railway, and were thereby absolutely secured, and certain of receiving the amount of their claim, and would have received it, independently of any other action to that end. They were certain of their money, and they had no personal interest, so far as their claim was concerned, in the passage of the "Soo" guarantee of two millions. They would, as preferred creditors by virtue of their lien, have been paid if the "Soo" guarantee bill had never been heard of.

The News poses as an independent journal, but it always has its knife ready for the Ontario Government. This is not complained of—it is its right; but it is a legitimate ground of censure that the journal in question should persist in striking below the belt, and persisting by direct statement as well as by inuendo, in pushing charges which have been shown to be without foundation.

ALIEN LABOUR.

The Ottawa Government has appointed Judge Winchester of Toronto a commissioner to enquire into the reports that American engineers and others are employed on the Grand Trunk Pacific surveys. A bill will be introduced to prevent the employment of alien labour on works subventioned with public money, or rather to provide that Canadian labour shall have the preference. This, of course, will apply to the Grand Trunk Pacific. Meant me without any knowledge of the facts, the Opposition is denouncing the Grand Trunk and Grand Trunk Pacific for employing American engineers, while saying nothing about the employment of American contractors as well as American engineers by the Canadian Pacific. In other words, Mr. Borden is more concerned about making party capital against the Government than about the interests of Canadian labour. The matter will become serious when construction begins on the Grand Trunk Pacific. It is notoriously difficult to procure Canadian labour for navvy work, and, if Italians and Chinese are to be excluded, it will be long before the road is finished and the extra cost will come high. For the present, however, the controversy may be left to Judge Winchester's hands. If Canadian engineers have been discriminated against because of their nationality, the Grand Trunk Pacific ought to be severely dealt with. If the truth be that the Canadian engineers who are complaining lacked the necessary ability and experience for the high positions they sought and failed to obtain, the judge is not likely to call on Mr. Hays to employ them. The case turns on a question of fact which can only be determined by an impartial investigation such as the Government, in appointing Judge Winchester, has provided for.

The Alien Labour Law of the United States was not designed to hit Canadians, but merely to exclude insane persons and ex-convicts from Europe, together with Polaks and the like, that were in the habit of contracting with "bosses" to come to America and work for a wage below the American standard. We in Canada could not for various reasons pass a similar measure. Accordingly to prevent these people from entering the United States by our our backdoor the law had to be applied to Canada; and from that time to this there has been friction and trouble. It is only fair to say that the law is not, unless at certain ports like Buffalo, enforced very strictly against Canadians. Hundreds of British subjects, residing at places like Windsor and Port Erie work on the American side without let or hindrance; and every year thousands of French Canadians come and go across the frontier with no one to say nay. Unfortunately the American Act and our own retaliatory law afford plenty of occasion for squabbling, particularly during strikes near the border, or when great public works are being built.

The United States is on the eve of beginning the construction of the the American Panama Canal. In answer to American labour men on one side and to the Anti-Boycott Association on the other, the head of the Commission states that while American labour, principally negroes from the south, will be employed, the Government for the sake of saving time and money, will also hire natives of Central America, negroes from Jamaica and Chinese coolies. White men cannot work with safety in that climate. Capital flows freely between Canada and the United States. Our banks out an important figure at times in New York and Chicago, and American investors have similar opportunities in Canada. Some day labour will be permitted to pass backward and forward with equal freedom, but just at present time both countries are suffering from the disease known as particularismus—a too narrow conception of our duty as Christian men to the fellow man who happens to be a foreigner.

CROP REPORT FOR ONTARIO.

Ontario Agricultural Department Gives Condition of Crops.

The crop bulletin about to be issued by the Ontario department of agriculture will contain the following regarding agricultural conditions on the 16th of May, 1904.

Fall Wheat.—November reports regarding fall wheat were favourable. The seed bed was then in excellent condition, and was so good a start the crop presented a fine appearance except that it was beginning to suffer a little in places for lack of rain. The injury reported from Hessian fly was very slight compared with that of two or three years immediately preceding. But, although the crop entered the winter so full of promise, it emerged in a very bad condition indeed, the season having proved one of the most disastrous for fall wheat in its history, the loss by winter-killing ranging from 20 to 90 per cent. Of course all the poor wheat land will not be plowed up, as much of it had been seeded down with grass; nevertheless it will be many years since so large an acreage of fall wheat was plowed under in the spring. A considerable area of fall wheat will be resown with barley and oats, or other spring grains, for feed. The chief cause of hurt to the crop was the formation of ice on level and low-lying places, although a number of correspondents complain of snow smothering. On the slopes of rolling land, and on fields well protected by timber, a few good yields may be recorded, but on the whole the fall wheat fields when the snow disappeared were the most patchy looking that have been seen in the Province for some years. Very little injury from insect pests has been reported this spring. Correspondents have been almost silent regarding the Hessian fly, while a few have made mention of the presence of the wireworm. While winter-killing was more or less severe wherever fall wheat has been grown, the greatest damage to the crop was sustained in the Lake Erie counties. Next in order of injury reported come the Lake Huron and West Middlesex groups, the Georgian Bay and Lake Ontario districts, following with a somewhat lighter but still serious proportion of loss. The bright spot in the outlook for fall wheat is the fact that since the beginning of May the weather has been most favourable for the recuperation of the crop and the latest reports to hand indicate that many of the fields are making an encouraging recovery.

Winter Rye.—The average given to this crop is comparatively small. Like fall wheat, it has suffered severely from winter-killing, although not to the same extent. The most favourable accounts regarding the condition of winter rye come from the St. Lawrence and Ottawa counties.

Clover.—The condition of clover may be thus briefly described: In the eastern half of the Province the crop is from fair to good, and in some sections very good; in the western half it is from good to very poor. The most unfavourable reports come from the counties stretching from Lincoln and Welland, along the Lake Erie front, to Lampton and Huron in many parts of which the crop is an absolute failure. The greater part of injury to clover was done by ice lying for a length of time on flat or low-lying fields. Most of the loss has occurred with old fields, the more freshly seeded fields almost invariably turning out well. The rains prevailing about the middle of May have given the crop a good start for the season.

Vegetation.—Growth in both fields and forest was late in starting, but the first week or ten days of May, were so warm and favourable that vegetation went forward with a rush, and when correspondents reported on the 16th of the month, pastures were almost as far on as usual. In nearly every section cattle were on the grass at that date, and trees and shrubs were springing into leaf.

Spring Seeding.—April was so cold and forbidding from an agricultural standpoint, that but little seed was put into the ground. The early part of May, however, was so warm and inviting that sowing operations were pushed rapidly forward without a break, and nearly the normal acreage was in seed as correspondents wrote. In many sections sowing was completed, but in other quarters there was still considerable to do in this line. The plowing under and reseeding of fall wheat also delayed matters and added to the work of seeding. Spring grains as a rule found a good seed bed, although a few correspondents, more especially in some of the West Midland counties, complained of the ground being rather hard. However, a good tone generally pervades the bulk of the reports regarding spring operations.

Live Stock.—Considering the severity of the winter, live stock have come through in a fair condition. A mild form of distemper made its appearance among horses in many parts of the Province, and what is known as Broncho itch, is reported from a couple of points in the County of Prescott; but the general health of horses has been good, and this class of live stock is in demand. The sudden change to the activity of the exceedingly warm first week of May, after the prolonged confinement of winter, told against many working animals, and some valuable horses succumbed to the strain. Cattle looked rather thin in the spring, but they appear to be in good health. The greatest loss in this class of stock has been among early calves. Sheep are not raised to the same extent as formerly. They are reported in fair condition, although lambing has not been altogether satisfactory. Swine have done well considering the trying winter. From various parts of the Province reports have been received of some of them becoming crippled on account of the cold and dampness prevailing, and many young pigs have died, but the great bulk of swine have turned out well. In most sections there was a sufficient supply of fodder for all classes of stock; although, of course, a few farmers here and there were caught short, owing to the unusual length and severity of the winter.

Farm Supplies.—As farmers are more and more feeding their hay and grain to live stock, there is less of these products on hand in the spring than formerly. The fact that all classes of live stock were kept confined for a longer time than usual also drew largely upon the supplies of fodder. However, a sudden rise in the prices of hay and oats would likely bring out a considerable quantity of both of these commodities which otherwise would be fed to live stock. It can hardly be said that there is a surplus of wheat, except in a comparatively few individual cases. Most of the fat cattle have been shipped, but a good number of store cattle are available in most localities where that class of live stock is raised. In some instances in the county of Middlesex, however, cattle for grazing had to be brought in from Toronto and other points.

Fruit trees.—The severity of the winter told somewhat against fruit trees, more especially peaches, plums and cherries, but the injury from frost was not so serious as was at one time expected. Pears and apples suffered least from the cold weather, but these, and indeed nearly all classes of young fruit trees, sustained most injury from girdling by mice. reports regarding the presence in orchards of these vermin coming from nearly every county in Western Ontario, and from several counties in the east. Complaints have also been received concerning the San Jose Scale, one correspondent giving serious warning of the inevitable evil results attending neglect of attention to this enemy. Fruit trees are about ten days later than usual in blossoming and this prevents correspondents from speaking with assurance as to the prospects of fruit, although some very hopeful reports have been received. Raspberries and strawberries are described as being badly winter-killed in places, and will hardly be up to the mark.

THE COAL QUESTION.

In the last fiscal year Nova Scotia and British Columbia, the only provinces that produce it in large quantities, sold at the mine 6,820,000 tons of coal. Of this quantity home consumption absorbed 4,000,000, the remainder going principally to the United States. Roughly speaking, 75 per cent. of all the coal mined in British Columbia goes to the States and 20 per cent. of all the Nova Scotia coal. All our coal is classed as bituminous. In addition we shipped 43,000 tons of coke to the States, principally from Fernie, B. C. In round figures our exports of bituminous coal and coke to the States came to 1,500,000 tons.

On the other hand, our imports for home consumption of coal and coke from the States were as follows:—Anthracite, free, 1,400,000 tons; bituminous, taxed, 3,960,000 coke, free, 240,000; total 5,600,000, or about three times more than we exported to the States. How is it that with so much coal in the country we have to buy the greater part of all that is consumed? The answer is obvious. First, American anthracite has to be imported for stoves; secondly, our coal mines are at the extreme east and west of the Dominion, so that it is cheaper for the railways and manufacturers between, say, Montreal and Winnipeg, to purchase in the States than in Canada. Coal belongs to that class of products whose value depends in great measure on their distance from the consumer, and nature has so adjusted matters that the American mines are situated more advantagiously for many of us than our own. At the same time, the Cape Breton mines are nearer to New England than those of Pennsylvania, Ohio or West Virginia, whilst the British Columbia mines produce a better steam coal than any found in the Pacific States.

If, then, the Americans and ourselves, were to resolve to fight with nature instead of against her — surely a wise policy — we should make coal free on both sides of the line. This would give cheaper fuel to all concerned, which, to take our own case only, would mean lower railway rates and cheaper manufactures. At present we are paying $1,960,000 a year in duty on bituminous coal and dust — a tax ultimately taken from the pocket of the Canadian shipper and consignee.

Last season the rate on coal from Cape Breton to Boston was 2 cents, to Montreal $1.16—63 cents per ton against Montreal. This of itself explains why our duty of 53 cents per ton is unable to force Nova Scotia coal west of Montreal, leaving the rest of the country as far as Winnipeg to buy American at a cost enhanced by just so much. No one desires to have the Canadian duty repealed unless Congress is willing to open the United States markets to Canadian coal and it is satisfactory to learn that important interests in both countries are trying to bring about such an arrangement. Nova Scotia, so we have been told, possesses immense deposits. Yet production in 1903 was only 4,000,000 tons, less by a good deal than that of such unimportant coal States as Iowa and Kansas. Free access to New England would give her a chance to increase her output, which she can never have under the present condition of things, with a market bounded on the east by Sydney and on the west by Montreal.

CLYDESDALE.

The farmers have finished seeding, being the latest in a number of years on account of the late spring and the wet weather.

Our football boys say they must get down to work for their game on the first of July. Capt. Mahoney says he will show the boys from that little village of Coe Hill what his team can do when they get down to work.

The many friends of Mrs. John Monogue will be glad to learn that she is getting over her severe illness.

Miss Laura Scott has returned home town.

NORTH MONAGHAN.

Report of Court of Revision and Council Meeting.

The Court of Revision of the Assessment Roll of the township for 1904, met in the Town Hall on Monday, May 30th at 1.30 p.m. All the members were present.

The following appeals were heard:—

Walter Amy to be assessed as occupant, lot 13, concession 13.—Allowed.

Jas. M. Davidson, dog struck off.

Wm. Harper to be assessed for south west corner of lot 10 on 12 concession, 8 acres, value $800, instead of John Jon. Mr. Moncrief to supply one team and each commissioner the remainder as may be found necessary, the expense of grading to be paid from the Commutation Tax in each division.

On motion of Messrs. Brown and Smith this report was received and adopted.

The committee to secure cedar for bridge repairing, reported that suitable timber could be obtained from Mr. Dunlop at 15 cents per foot for stringers and $15 per M. for covering and measured on the bridge.

This report on motion of Messrs. Brown and Fowler was received and adopted.

On motion the Clerk was instructed to advertise the job of re-building the East bridge on the line between 13 and 14 concessions—said job to be let by auction tender on the ground on the 13th day of June at the hour of 2 o'clock p.m. The Clerk reported having received the franchise agreement from the Peterborough Radial Railway Co. This was ordered to be filed.

The Clerk also reported having issued a license to the Forepaugh Sells circus to exhibit in the township on July 2, 1904, for the regular fee of $50.

The Clerk was then instructed to notify each Road Commissioner that Mr. Moncrief would begin grading on Monday, June 6th, and that if they required him in their respective divisions it would be necessary to make arrangements at once.

The commutation of statute labour account in each division was then revised and confirmed and the Clerk was ordered to supply each commissioner with the account for his division.

Council then adjourned to meet at bridge on 18th of June at 2 p.m.

Harper.—Allowed.

John J. Howden to be assessed for 3-4 acre, part of park 20, lot 15 on 11 concession, value $400.—Allowed.

W. G. Howden, to be assessed for 1-3 acre, part park 20, lot 15, concession 11, value $200.—Allowed.

Sister M. Clotilda against assessment of Mount St. Joseph, claiming exemption for this property, Rev. W. J. McColl appeared as defendant. As this appeal involves an interpretation of the Assessment Act of 1903, it was agreed to allow the matter to go before the County Judge for settlement.

Court then adjourned to meet on 13th of June, for the purpose of finally confirming the Assessment Roll.

Kept Poor by Doctor's Bills.

Many a family is kept poor by doctors' bills when just as good and oftentimes better results could be obtained by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, which sell for 25c a box of twenty-five doses. As one pill a day is the most frequent dose under any circumstances there is no medicine obtainable which costs so little and at the same time which brings about such excellent results in derangements of the Kidneys, liver and bowels.

Sealed Tenders addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tenders for Meaford Breakwater", will be received at this office until Monday, June 27th, 1904, inclusively, for the construction of a Breakwater at Meaford, County of Grey, Ont., according to a plan and specification to be seen at the office of H. A. Gray, Esq., Engineer in charge of harbour works, Ontario, Confederation Life Building, Toronto, on application to the Postmaster at Meaford, Ont, and at the Department of Public Works, Ottawa.

Tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed form supplied, and signed with the actual signatures of tenderers.

An accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, for six thousand dollars ($6,000.00) must accompany each tender. The cheque will be forfeited if the party tendering decline the contract or fail to complete the work contracted for, and will be returned in case of non-acceptance of tender.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

Has Cured More Women Than Any Other Medicine in the World.

Its annual sales are greater than those of any other medicine exclusively for women.

It holds the record for the greatest number of actual cures of woman's ills. This fact is attested by hundreds of thousands of letters from grateful women which are on file in the Pinkham laboratory, and which are constantly being published.

Merit alone can produce such results. Good advertising serves to call attention for a time, but merit alone can stand the test of time.

The ablest specialists now agree that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the most universally successful remedy for woman's ills known to medicine.

All sick women should note these facts, and placing all possible prejudices aside, should realize the truthfulness of these statements, and that a cure for their troubles actually exists.

Wise is the woman who has faith in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for health and happiness is sure to follow its use.

YOU CAN GET HELPFUL ADVICE FREE

If there is anything about your illness you do not understand, Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., will be glad to receive a letter from you telling her all the details. She will send you promptly a reply which may save you years of suffering and pain. She has helped thousands of women. For all this she will not charge you a cent; besides, she will keep your letter strictly confidential. Write her to-day; don't wait.

DUPLICATE PRIZES

Encouragement for Live Stock Men to Exhibit at St. Louis.

THE ANTI-CIGARETTE BILL

Introduced in the House By Mr. McLaren of Huntingdon—Government Interest in the Strike at Sydney Dominion Steel and Iron Works—Canadian Goods at Foreign Exhibitions— Estimates Passed.

Ottawa, June 3.—The House settled down to routine business yesterday, broken by two or three items of more than usual interest. Hon. Sydney Fisher announced last evening that to encourage the exhibition of Canadian live stock and poultry at the St. Louis Exposition the Government were prepared to duplicate the prize money which was awarded to them. The announcement came out in the discussion of the agricultural estimates.

Mr. Maclaren (Huntingdon) introduced a bill to prohibit the importation, manufacture and sale of cigarettes, which was greeted with cries of "lost" and "carried," and was given a first reading.

The Strike at Sydney.

Before the orders of the day were called Mr. R. L. Borden called the attention of the Government to the strike at Sydney, C.B., and urged the importance, not only to the Town of Sydney, but to the Province of Nova Scotia, and indeed to the whole Dominion, that every effort be made by the Government to endeavor to bring about an understanding between the employers and the employes, in order that the men on strike may not drift away to the United States, and an important industry be shut down for a prolonged period.

Hon. Mr. Fielding replied that he need hardly assure the House that if intervention was possible the Government would exercise every friendly office in order to bring about a better understanding between the company and the workmen. A communication had been received by the Minister of Labor during recent hours, and the matter was now engaging his attention. The difficulty was one of such recent occurrence that he was not prepared to intimate what steps should be taken, but the utmost endeavors would be made to bring about a satisfactory solution of the difficulty.

The bill amending the act providing for the payment of bounties on lead contained in lead-bearing ores mined in Canada was given its final stages.

Sir Richard Cartwright stated in reply to questions that $51,000 had been paid in bounties since the act came into effect, representing 60 per cent. of the claims allowed. There are a considerable number of applications pending. The amendment provides that the bounty may be paid on ores mined and delivered at a smelter in Canada after July 1, 1903, and shall cease on June 30, 1908

The Pilotage Act.

Mr. Prefontaine moved the second reading of the bill to amend the pilotage act. In reply to Mr. Casgrain's criticisms, Mr. Prefontaine replied that he was simply trying to improve the safety of navigation.

During the discussion of the bill providing for the making of regulation for the inspection of naptha and similar launches, Mr. Clancy drew the attention of the Government to the report that many inspecting engineers were of the opinion that naptha launches should not be permitted to carry passengers at all.

At his suggestion the bill was held over to give the Minister of Marine an opportunity to look into the matter of the refusal of the inspectors to carry out the law in regard to the inspection of the larger class of naptha launches engaged in the public service.

At 6 o'clock the House went into supply.

The first items passed this evening were $30,000 in connection with preventing the adulteration of food, and $2,080 in connection with minor revenues, concluded the inland revenue estimates.

Exhibits in Foreign Countries.

Resuming consideration of the sum of $200,000 for exhibitions in the agricultural estimates, Mr. Taylor again protested against the expenditure for two cases of whiskey at the Wolverhampton Exhibition.

Hon. Mr. Fisher explained that the goods had been used in entertaining a large party of British newspapermen, who were visiting the fair and being entertained generally.

Mr. Taylor declared the Government should shut down on these foreign exhibitions, to which Mr. Fisher replied the expenditures had been productive of great good to the country, pointing out that the exports to Japan had increased fourfold since the exposition.

In reply to further inquiries the Minister explained that owing to the customs and other obstacles Canadian cattle-breeders had not thought it advisable to exhibit at St. Louis. He, however, believed it desirable that they should do so, and announced that to encourage an exhibition the department would duplicate the prize money won by Canadian live stock at St. Louis.

Mr. Fisher said he had received no satisfaction from the United States in regard to tariff arrangements, and had been practically told they did not want to import any animals if they could help it. Still our animals were so good that some of them would be sold in any case.

The discussion proceeded in easy-going fashion, the item finally passing, also three of the guarantee items, amounting to $12,500.

The House adjourned at 11.30.

Relief to Policy Holders.

Ottawa, June 3.—Senator Kerr of Toronto moved the second reading of his bill to amend the Insurance Act in the Upper House yesterday. He explained the insurance companies had been empowered to do assessment business in Canada. One company had done a very large assessment business in Canada, which was now decreasing, matters thus becoming worse and worse for those holding the policies. As a consequence of the increased assessments, there was a reduction of the insured to a class who either were too old or were debarred from obtaining insurance elsewhere. The present bill was to relieve these. The bill, after some discussion, was read a second time.

Fines Were $6,000

Ottawa, June 3.—At the Agriculture Committee yesterday, Joseph L. Haycock, Dominion binder twine inspector, was examined. He said that last year about $1,000 was collected in fines for the infraction of the law. The consumption of twine in Canada last year was 14,000 tons of which 6,500 were made in Canada.

ENDURANCE.

How much the heart may bear, and yet not break!
How much the flesh may suffer, and not die!
I question much if any pain or ache
Of soul or body brings our end more nigh;
Death chooses his own time; till that is sworn,
All evils may be borne.

We shrink and shudder at the surgeon's knife,
Each nerve recoiling from the cruel steel
Whose edge seems searching for the quivering life,
Yet to our sense the bitter pangs reveal
That still, although the trembling flesh be torn,
This also can be borne.

We see a sorrow rising in our way,
And try to flee from the approaching ill;
We seek some small escape; we weep and pray;
But, when the blow falls, then our hearts are still;
Not that the pain is of its sharpness shorn,
But that it can be borne.

We wind our life about another life;
We hold it closer, dearer than our own;
Anon it faints and falls in deathly strife,
Leaving us stunned, and stricken, and alone;
But ah! we do not die with those we mourn,—
This also can be borne.

Behold we live through all things,—famine, thirst,
Bereavement, pain; all grief and misery,
All woe and sorrow; life inflicts its worst
On soul and body,—but we cannot die.
Though we be sick, and tired, and faint and worn,—
Lo, all things can be borne!
—Elizabeth Akers Allen.

Sudden Summer.

The impatient wild flowers have come rushing and crowding to greet their friends after a protracted separation, says The Toronto Globe. Spring was so long unkind that they grew impatient under her restraints, and now, with the first relaxation, they have hurried forth to display the profusion of their charms. The impressed order and decorum of the debutants has been cast aside in their spontaneous haste for recognition. We look for the hepatica to raise its woolly flower stems from among the surviving bunches of last season's leaves and display its delicate tints of pink, purple, or blue long before the single leaf of the bloodroot unfold from the white flowers it clasps and guards with tender care. We expect the trillium to remain modestly folded awaiting her turn, and the dog-tooth violet to be content with the faintest suggestion of its delicately mottled leaves. The spring beauty, too, though among the earliest, is generally content to await its due order, and the trailing arbutus, reclining cosily among the leaves and litter of the past year, may open its hidden buds at any time, according to the whims and fancies of the season. But now the favorites have all come forth at once.

Sending Out Wind Breakers.

The forestry branch of the Department of the Interior is sending out seedling trees this spring to over one thousand farmers in Manitoba and the Territories, to be planted as wind-breakers for the sheltering of crops in the open prairies. This is about twice the number that were distributed last season. The varieties chosen are quick-growing and hardy, so that three years' growth gives foliage seven or eight feet in height. A new farm is being started at Indian Head especially for the cultivation of these trees, and a prize of $1,000 has been offered by J. M. Haslam, a well-to-do farmer of Manitoba, for the best results in tree-growing in Assiniboia.

The Forestry Department has taken special measures to safeguard the timber in Western Canada. Fire notices are now being scattered by the Hudson's Bay Company up almost to the Arctic Circle, and the railway companies have given their hearty co-operation in this work of preserving the forest wealth from destruction. Special officers are detailed to see that where new lines are in course of construction the workmen take all due care to put out their camp fire as they move from one location to another.

Times Had Changed.

Toronto, in the olden days, had but two police stations; those in Court street and in Yonge street, near Elm. The projected increase in the personnel of the force calls to mind a case wherein Capt. Prince, the chief of thirty years ago, figured. He was walking up Yonge street one night when he heard a tremendous row going on in the highway. Capt. Prince, who was as game as a bull terrier, sprinted up the street and found that the trouble was occasioned by a woman, who was arguing strenuously with a policeman. "Take that woman in!" said the breathless chief.

"No, sir; I won't," answered the constable.

The captain was breathless with rage. Finally he gasped: "Why?"

"Because she's my wife, sir. You see, I've been on the force only three months, and she is hollering because I don't go to bed at the same time as I did on the farm in Esquesing!"

And that policeman got no reprimand.—Toronto News.

EXCHEQUER TALLIES.

Wooden Money That Was at One Time Current In England.

Wooden money in the shape of exchequer tallies was current prior to the establishment of the Bank of England in 1694. Tallies was the name given to the notched sticks formerly in use in England for keeping the accounts of the exchequer. They were square rods of hasel or willow, inscribed on one side with notches indicating the sum for which the tally was an acknowledgment and on two other sides with the sum in Roman characters.

When the transaction was completed the tally recording it was split lengthwise, so that each section contained a half of each notch and one of the written sides. One half, called the tally, or check, was given to the person for whose service it was intended, and the other half, called the counter tally, was retained in the exchequer until its corresponding tally should be brought in by the person who had last given value for it.

It thus became a current token representing cash. After the establishment of the Bank of England government payments were made through its agency. The use of tallies in the exchequer was abolished by statute 23, George III. The old tallies were by acts 4 and 5, William IV., ordered to be destroyed, and it was burning them that caused the conflagration by which the old houses of parliament were demolished.—London Tit-Bits.

EXCURSION FROM BRIGHTON

Large Number of Visitors are in Town To-day Viewing the Sights.

The town is flooded with visitors to-day. Not to mention the two hundred or so delegates to the conference, There were to-day about 300 people from Brighton and the vicinity enjoying an excursion to our town. The excursion was under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Brighton Methodist Church and arrived here on this morning's train from Port Hope. The excursionists come principally with the object of seeing the lift lock, which was to-day a centre of great attraction. Other points of interest were also visited.

CONFERENCE TALKS ON MISSIONARY SUBJECTS.

Large Gathering at Last Night's Meeting.

ELOQUENT ADDRESSES DELIVERED.

Laymen's Association Discuss Church Union—Adopt Favourable Resolution—Mr. Dumble Elected President.

The meeting in the George Street Church last evening was very largely attended. It was a Missionary meeting and two very able addresses were delivered by Rev. Dr. Henderson, of Toronto, and Rev. J. J. Rae, Oshawa, The latter spoke upon the work being done in the Bay of Quinte Conference, giving figures showing the amount subscribed for mission generally and the amount expended for missions in this conference. He referred to the work of the General Board of Missions of which the speaker had been a member for two years.

Rev. Dr. Henderson, spoke generally on the Missionary topic, and dealt with the need of more funds to successfully carry on the work of evangelizing the world. The churches should put more emphasis on the missionary cause which was the largest idea in the world to-day.

At yesterday afternoon's session, a resolution of thanks was passed to the retiring officers, Rev. T. J. Edmison, ex-President, and Rev. D. Hazlewood, ex-Secretary, who replied in fitting terms.

The question of minimum of salaries was given considerable discussion after which the Conference was divided into various committees to report.

EVENING SESSION.

Last evening's meeting in connection with the Conference was attended by a large number of delegates and citizens, the George street church being well filled. Two prominent speakers were heard in addresses on missionary topics, both being earnest, eloquent and powerful discourses.

After the devotional exercises were concluded, Rev. W. J. Jolliffe introduced to Rev. J. P. Wilson, the new President, Mayor Roger and Aldermen H. Rush, J. Hatton, E. F. Mason and Dr. Morrison, as representing the Town Council. The Mayor on behalf of the council wished to extend a cordial welcome to the conference for the esteemed it an honour that Peterborough was selected for the place of meeting of such an important body and he was only voicing the sentiments of the citizens when he said that it was a pleasure and privilege to entertain these people. He would naturally expect the town to be benefitted by the presence of such a large and influential body. The citizens were all interested in the conference, for Methodism was an portant factor in this community. Both members of parliament were Methodists, as were six members of the Council; the others while the spirit of union was in the air would look forward to some future time when they would enjoying similar relations. He congratulated Mr. Wilson on the high and responsible honour bestowed upon him, which he considered another honour conferred upon Peterborough. He was sure no mistake had been made. He hoped the meetings would all be harmonious and conducive of much real benefit.

Rev. Mr. Wilson in replying, spoke o the pleasure it afforded him to receive the Mayor and Aldermen. He was glad that every member of the Council was a member of some Christian church and did their utmost for the welfare of the town, sparing no time or labour in working for its best interests. We should be proud of our Mayor and Council.

A male quartette, Messrs. Thornton, McKeown, Turner and Skitch, sang "Consolation," with pleasing effect.

REV. J. J. RAE'S ADDRESS.

Rev. J. J. Rae, of Oshawa, was the first speaker. Two years ago he had been appointed on the General Board of Missions and he wished to take advantage of the opportunity to give account of his stewardship, that he might be longer a steward. The Conference was represented by two men on this Board, W. F. Hall, of Napanee and himself. They had had somewhat of a burden in discharging the duties and fulfilling thue obligations of the position, and while they may not have accomplished great things they had upheld the interests of the Conference. However, the Bay of Quinte Conference was not a difficult one to uphold, for he believed they had just as good men and fully as good positions as were to be found anywhere. And as to their stand in relation to the work in general, there was nothing of which to be ashamed. Ten years ago the Conference gave by subscription, $21,345, and last year $28,911 was subscribed, or an increase of $7,566. This year it was expected that there would be an increase of about $100 over last year's givings. In the closing of the year 1895 there was a decrease of $994 over the previous year; in '96 a decrease of $636; in '97 an increase of $373; in '98 an increase of $1143; in '99 a decrease of $61; in 1900 an increase of $1149; in '01 an increase of $1387; in '02 an increase of $1270; in '03 an increase of $2913. And although an increase of not more than $100 was expected this year, it must be remembered that $4543 was subscribed to the Bicentenary Fund and 1514 to the Emergency Fund last year, so it was evident that the Bay of Quinte Conference does its full share in this regard.

The Bay of Quinte Conference pays strict attention to its own work, and in the past ten years there has been given for the support of Missions within the Conference the following sums yearly: $7652, $6892, $7597, $8383, $6615, $8029, $8005, 5539, $6971 and $7763. The General Board had increased its givings from 81 to 90 per cent. during the past year, and had materially assisted matters. Ten years ago there were thirty missions in the Conference but now there were but twenty-one; and ten years ago there were thirty-two missionaries, and now only twenty-one, so it can be readily seen that a marked decrease is being made both in the number of missions and missionaries in the Conference, which was bearing its full share of the work.

The Home Mission Department was one of the most important departments of the work. It might be possible that the union which was now apparently drawing near would prove to be a panacea for the difficulties now to be faced. We must look towards drafting men to the west and lessening the share on the Home Missions. More money was needed to broaden the missionary aims. It was gratifying that the General Board had seen fit to increase the salaries on home fields for the missionaries must be better paid, to meet the exigencies of their position.

Mr. Rae was glad to state that the management of the mission work was most perfect, and he believed, with all due respect to other churches that there was no church operating in Canada or North America that had a more thoroughly adaptable, completely adequate or more efficient management, than had Methodism. The church had not as yet learned to fully appreciate the set of officers at its head, and every credit was due them for their earnest and untiring work. He referred in laudatory terms to the General Secretary and the Associate General Secretary, the magnitude of whose work was little understood or appreciated. The General Staff and missionaries in the field were most excellent and the General Board was composed of men most earnest in the noble cause. There was need of more money, more sympathy and more prayers.

Miss Clara Belleghem sang in very sweet voice, and with much expression Pinsuti's "Angelland."

REV. DR. HENDERSON'S ADDRESS.

Rev. Dr. Henderson, the Associate General Secretary, at the opening of his able address congratulated Rev. Mr. Wilson upon his election to the Presidency of the Conference. Speaking of missions, he said that money and missions were closely allied; there could be the former without the latter but it was impossible to have missions without money. The problem in connection with missions was an acute one at present, and unless there was found a more abundant spirit of charity, this world would not be evangelized in this generation, or in any other of which he could conceive, for the rate of conversions at present did not nearly surpass the birth rate swelling the unchristianized world. The missionaries were unable to cope with the Devil's forces, and could never save the world with the present low standard of missionary givings of the church in Christendom.

Foreign missions were the spiritual thermometer of the church, indicating the measure of Christ-life existing in the church. The speaker often wondered whether or not the modern Christianity did not need to be Christianized. There were only two laws under which men live: the law of selfishness and the law of sacrifice. A man is converted just when he ceases to live in obedience to the first, and lives under the law of sacrifice. The second law cannot be applied to what the church is at present doing for missions.

There was a great mass of wealth which should be Christianized. The speaker did not desire to find fault with the accumulation of wealth, or disparage money, as it means a great deal to one if it is put to the proper use and riches may prove a blessing. Money means stored human energy and potentiality and the use of money was the transmutation of energy. The missionary power in the world was the money power on the material side, and the money power of the world is only with Christian men. The speaker pointed out that during the past seventy-five years there had been a great augmentation of human power, and the Christian world was in a better position than ever to carry out the great work of evangelizing the world, if there was more liberal giving to the cause. About 75 millions had been spent in an attempt to reach the North Pole, as though an attempt was being made to save some lost soul or lost world. Germany, Great Britain and Canada were to-day doing nine-tenths of the missionary work of the world, and in these nations there was far more money than would buy up every part of land outside the Christian world; there was money enough to evangelize the world. More money was spent in the Spanish and Boer wars than would maintain a staff of missionaries, twenty thousand strong, for generations. The debt of the world was 31 billions of dollars and the amount of money owned by the Constituency of the Protestant Church was 65 billions of money and only 1-3500 part of this went to missions. The Protestants of the United States owned 23 billions, and only one-quarter of a tithe of a tithe of a tithe of this amount went to missions.

What was needed amongst the churches was to put more emphases upon missions. The biggest idea in the world to-day was the missionary idea; there would be no church if the missionary idea were taken out and no Christianity either. The object of the church was to make known the Lord Jesus Christ throughout the world. Every missionary church should aim at being self-supporting and vice versa. That church was doing most for others which did the most for itself. No one should discriminate between money and religion, or between business and religion. He would rather have a man give and not sing the praises of giving, than raise his voice in song and refuse to give a cent to assist the cause. The speaker in closing made an earnest appeal for more support in this great work.

TO-DAY'S SESSION.

This morning one of the largest meetings of the Conference thus far was held, presided over by the new President. A number of reports were presented and discussed, among them being that of Epworth League work, which was referred back to the committee to consider a letter from Rev. A. C. Crews, General Epworth League Secretary. Considerable discussion was induced by this report, Rev. S. T. Bartlett taking a prominent part in the discussion. He remarked significantly that figures show that there is a decrease in the number of young people in the church and this state of affairs does not apply especially to this Conference, as all the conferences report the same or greater decrease. He thought that the preachers were not paying sufficient attention to the young people and were preaching over their heads. The amended report will be presented later, perhaps on Saturday or Monday.

Through the transfer of two ministers to other Conferences, two reserve delegates to the General Conference were elected: Rev. Messrs. G. W. Henderson and N. A. McDiarmid. Rev. R. Duke and Rev. M. E. Wilson, B.A., were appointed Conference letter writers. The Nominating Committee presented the names of the members of the Systematic and Proportionate Giving, as follows:—Ministers — Geo. Brown, R. H. Leitch, J. W. Totten, J. C. Wilson, F. Anderson, R. Duke. Laymen,—Messrs. W. W. Chown, E. D. O'Flynn, G. A. Johnson, Dr. Ford.

Educational Committee — Rev. T. J. Edmison, chairman; R. W. Clarke, secretary. Ministers — Rev. Dr. Crothers, Rev. Messrs. E. A. Tonkin, Dr. Rayner, J. C. Wilson, Laymen —Judge Dean, D. W. Dumble, E. D. O'Flynn, Dr. Ford, and the President of the Conference.

In the absence of Dr. W. S. Griffin, General Conference Secretary of the Superannuation Fund, Rev. N. D. Drew presented the report with that of three other funds of which he is the treasurer.

Mr. Dumble presented the report of the Memorial Committee, which dealt with organic union of churches, peace and Scripture teaching in public schools.

THIS AFTERNOON'S PROGRAMME.

This afternoon a most interesting session was held. A deputation from the Woman's Missionary Society was received, and at 3 o'clock a memorial service for the seven ministers of the Conference who have died during the year.

Following this the consecration of Miss Charlotte B. Laing to the work of a Deaconess was proceeded with. This service was highly interesting, and preceding the consecration Miss Laing gave a detailed account of the general work of the Deaconess Society.

LAYMEN ENDORSE ORGANIC UNION.

Laymen's Association of Bay of Quinte Conference Pass Resolution.

Mr. D. W. Dumble Elected President of Association—This Morning's Meeting

A meeting of the Laymen's Association of the Bay of Quinte Conference was held last night, with the President, Mr. M. C. Madole, in the chair. The minutes of the last meeting were read, after which the President addressed the gathering briefly.

The election of officers then took place, resulting as follows:—

President — D. W. Dumble, K.C., Peterborough.

First Vice-President — W. W. Chown, Belleville.

Second Vice-President — T. Wickett, Port Hope.

Secretary-Treasurer — R. W. Clark, Millbrook.

Executive Committee — W. F. Hall, Napanee, Geo. P. Rickard, Bowmanville; Dr. Ford, Norwood; L. Dorland, Wellington; R. P. Hopper, Claremont, D. G. Bonter, Smithfield; H. K. Denyes, Foxboro.

The meeting then adjourned until this morning at 10.30.

A session of the Laymen's Association was held in the Sunday School room during the forenoon, Mr. D. W. Dumble, the newly elected president, in the chair. About 150 members were present.

Mr. Dumble in opening the meeting, said that the principal object of the meeting was that an expression of opinion on the question of church union might be given. He did not look upon this question so much as a question of expediency as one of principle. In Christ's life there was little church discipline, nor in the church of Paul much church government.

The outgrowings of the church in the apostolic age were the results of differences. Men are to-day getting back to first principles, and a fixed idea is looming into men's minds that the time for union was ripe. He believed that had Wesley lived to-day he would never have left the church and formed a new one, because the established church to-day was of a different character.

This question had been brought home to us to-day, particularly by the needs of the North-west, and the attention of the Methodist and Presbyterian churches has been brought to the necessity for union, which in some cases was practically an accomplished fact. The conditions in Japan and China also make union almost a necessity. Those to whom the Gospel is preached in these lands wonder why the Methodists, Presbyterians and Baptists all teach a different doctrine, and they say, "Go back and settle your differences and then come and preach to us."

RAILWAY WRECK EARLY THIS MORNING

Four G. T. R. Freight Cars Thrown in the Ditch at Birdsall.

A railway wreck occurred early this morning at Birdsall's, on the Belleville division of the Grand Trunk Railway, whereby four cars of a freight train were derailed, and thrown into the ditch. The accident was caused by a flange on one of the car wheels breaking. The Belleville local was delayed for several hours, and the Lakefield train was despatched to bring the passengers to Peterborough. No one was hurt in the accident and the loss in property is not thought to be heavy.

STREET WORK AND STREET WASTE.

A Correspondent who is of Course a "Ratepayer," Airs His Views.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I don't mind paying taxes so much when good value is received in expenditure, but when work is so done that street work means street waste, I beg to register a robust kick. An example. The other day the steam roller and half a dozen men spent a day on Hunter street between George and the creek—an ostensible effort to improve the street, but the result is that to my mind the last state of that street is worse than the first. The roadbed next to the northern pavement was filled up in spots and the work was so unevenly done that there are half a dozen pockets or depressions to catch and hold water and make mud. Anyone with half an eye, and that in the back of his head, can see that there is a distinct natural slope from the Oriental Hotel crossing to the creek and if the gutter had been properly graded the water would run away and the street be kept dry. I haven't seen such a botch job for many a day—it seems to me that from $15 to $20 of our taxes was wasted on it. I have spoken.

Yours etc.

WAS WEDDED IN BROCKVILLE

Son of Late Archdeacon Bedford-Jones Married Yesterday.

The many friends here of the late Archdeacon Bedford-Jones, will be interested in the wedding of his son, Alfred, which took place in Brockville, Thursday. The News says:—A quiet wedding ceremony was performed by Rev. H. Bedford-Jones at St. Peter's Church, Brockville, at noon Thursday. The contracting parties were Miss Elsie Jones, second daughter of Mr. Chilion Jones, Brockville, and Mr. Alfred Bedford-Jones, barrister, of Toronto, son of the late Archdeacon Bedford-Jones. Miss Heward, of Montreal, acted as bridesmaid, and the groom was assisted by Capt. Van Straubenzie, of Toronto. There were about thirty guests present, all of whom were relatives of the bride and groom. Mr. and Mrs. Bedford-Jones left by Grand Trunk at 2.30 for a month's tour, after which they will return to Brockville for a short time. They will make their home in Toronto in September.

Moving Pictures at the Grand.

The London, Ont., Free Press says: "The Toronto Mail and Empire, commenting on the attraction which comes to the Grand next Thursday, Friday and Saturday, says: — The exhibition of moving pictures by the 'Living Canada' Company in Massey Hall last night was all that has been claimed for it. In addition to a series of excellent views showing the late Duke of Cambridge's funeral in a manner which almost made one imagine that the impressive cortege was passing within a few feet, scenes consequent upon the embarkation of Russian troops for the scene of war, the mobilization of a large British naval force, the launching of a battleship, and Queen Alexandra reviewing the colonial troops, besides many others equally as interesting, there was a splendid panorama of the Woodbine on Saturday last. The whole exhibition, in short, is one of exceptional interest. Seats on sale to-day."

Living Canada Company open at the Opera House on Monday, June 6th, for three nights. Change of programme nightly. Prices,—Reserved, 50c; unreserved, 35c, and 25c. Reserved seat plan now open at Ormond & Walsh's drug store.

OLYMPIC EXCURSION TO STONY LAKE

Business Men's Very Enjoyable Outing Yesterday

57th. Band Was in Attendance—Sail was a Very Pleasant one.

Yesterday was not exactly an ideal day for an excursion, but the threatening weather and the few showers which fell did not put a damper on the spirits of those who went on the annual Olympic excursion to Stony Lake. This event has become to be a popular one and is now recognized as the opening of the excursion season. Like all its predecessors yesterday's event was a very successful one and the one hundred or more who were in attendance heartily enjoyed the occasion. Everything up the lakes seemed at its prettiest and the sail about the waters was attended with all the pleasures conducive to making the outing an ideal one. Those who had attended in previous years were as enthusiastic as ever over the trip, while others who were present for the first time will not be absent when the event comes around again next year.

The excursion party left on the morning train for Lakefield, where the steamer Majestic was waiting to convey the party around the lakes. Burleigh was reached in time for dinner and during the afternoon a sail was made as far as Boschink, calling at Juniper and Mount Julian and returning about 6 o'clock to Burleigh where the party had tea. A special train conveyed the excursionists to town, the boat arriving at Lakefield about 10 o'clock.

The pleasure of the outing was enhanced to no small degree by the presence of the 57th Band, which rendered a number of selections during the day in their usual excellent manner.

Rain fell rather heavily during the morning but ceased about noon, and the afternoon was quite pleasant. Everyone was greatly delighted with the outing.

Mr. W. E. Lech is to be congratulated upon the successful manner in which he managed the affair. All arrangements were perfectly carried out.

LEAGUE RIFLE MATCHES BEGIN TO-MORROW.

First Match to be Shot at Curtis Ranges To-morrow.

The first of the League Rifle Matches, will be shot by the team representing the 57th Battalion, at the Curtis ranges to-morrow afternoon. Ammunition will be issued at the drill shed to-morrow afternoon at the usual hour.

BASEBALL.

To-morrow afternoon the Varsity baseball team will be here to play a game with Manager Whitcroft's fast aggregation of ball tossers, and the result should be one of the best games of the season. The visiting team is said to be the fastest amateur team in Canada, and the game between them and the local nine will be well worth seeing. The game will be called at 3.30 at the T.A.S. grounds and will succeed the lacrosse game between Weston and Peterborough. A big double bill will be presented to the sporting public, and as this is the first big baseball match to be played this season, under favourable circumstances there should be a record crowd.

The local team will be chosen from the following: Flaherty, Sheridan, Waram, Simpson, Belleghem, Graham, Lamont, J. Pilling, Fitzpatrick, Cawthorne, T. Pilling.

The Elms of the fifth ward defeated the Young Excelsiors by the score of six to five last evening. The line-up of the winners was as follows: F. Conroy p, F. Guerin c, A. Coughlin 1b, F. Ferguson 2b, S. O'Toole ss, F. O'Shea 3b, T. Heffernan lf, V. Clancy cf, Hall rf.

Conroy did some fine twirling for the Elms, while Belleghem, the Excelsior's slab artist pitched a very effective game.—Com.

The St. Luke's Guild team defaulted the second half of the game to the Charlotte street boys last night, giving the latter the match.

• • • •

Next week's games in the Guild League will be St. Andrew's at St. Luke's, and St. Paul's at George street.

• • • •

To-morrow afternoon's game with Toronto University should be a splendid one. The visitors are a fast nine and will give the locals a hot game.

• • • •

The St. Paul's Guild Baseball team will practice to-night at 6.30 on the Bonacord street grounds. All players are asked to be present.

• • • •

Bowmanville comes here a week from to-morrow to play a Midland League game.

• • • •

The next home game in the Kawartha League will be on Dominion Day, when Fenelon Falls plays the T.A.S.

• • • •

The Varsity team is playing in Lindsay this afternoon.

The Review has accepted the challenge of the Examiner for a contest at baseball and the public may look forward to a brilliant exhibition of this popular sport in the near future. The Review confesses that they do not pretend to play any "scientific" game, marbles being their hobby, but judging from the number of baseball mits, masks, gloves, balls, bats, score cards, rule books, etc. etc., which are at present decorating the editorial sanctum of our contemporary, they are preparing for something, be it "scientific" or otherwise. It is being softly whispered that Alf. Smith and Sam Moore will compose the battery, and conversation at the usual daily workouts are along the "shut out," "no hit," "dead easy," "Cinch," etc., line. The Examiner hopes to have the game arranged within the next few days, and the public will no doubt look anxiously towards the event, which will divide attention with the next big ball game between Kouropatkin's and Kuroki's teams on the Liaotung diamond.

• • • •

The Torontos do better when they don't play. Yesterday rain spoiled the game at Buffalo, but Montreal lost and Toronto moved up a peg into sixth place.

• • • •

The Members of the T.S.C baseball club are requested to turn out for practice to-night in the Central Park at 6.45 sharp. A meeting of the club will be held afterwards in the Y.M.C.A. to discuss several matters of business.

• • • •

The George street team will practise to-night on the Benson avenue grounds. All players having mitts or other equipment are requested to bring same to the practice.

GOLF.

The first round for the Stratton trophy must be played off by to-morrow.

LACROSSE.

The championship lacrosse season will be formally opened in Peterborough this evening when the Ontarios of Port Hope cross sticks with the T.A.S. This is the opening game in the Trent Valley League, and a good fast exhibition of our national game is assured.

• • • •

The Weston team which plays here to-morrow is said to be especially strong this year and will give the homsters a good game on the T.A.S. grounds to-morrow afternoon.

Poor Lindsay struck an awful snag at Orillia yesterday being trounced by a score of 19-2 in the first game of District No. 5, Intermediate C.L.A. That Orillia bunch must have eyes on the championship.

• • • •

The Western team to play here to-morrow will be constituted as follows:—Goal, Stott; point, F. Coleman; c. point, Ray; 1st defence, Lawrence; 2nd defence, Langham; 3rd defence, Sasnawski; centre, Rountree; 3rd home, Cameron; 2nd home, Down; 1st home, McEwen; outside home, Thorboreau; inside home, Carter.

FOOTBALL.

The strong Keene team which played a tie game with the Quakers a few weeks ago will be there to-morrow to play the return game with the Quakers at Nicholls Oval. The game is called for two o'clock. The Quakers will be without the services of Renton, but will nevertheless have a strong team and are confident of victory. A win for the Quakers will give them the championship of their district regardless of how the game with Caughnawaga turns out.

• • • •

The Y.M.C.A. do not play to-morrow.

• • • •

The Wanderers will play Bridgenorth to-morrow at the latter place.

• • • •

This week will settle the question of district champions. Then Deseronto, Bowmanville, Locust Hill, Y.M.C.A., Bridgenorth and probably the Quakers will fight it out.

• • • •

To-morrow afternoon the Quakers will play their last home game in the present series, the opposing team being Keene. In the game played at the latter place the home team tied the score, and as a consequence the game to-morrow should be a decidedly interesting one. The contest will take place on the oval at two o'clock, and will be the last football game to be played in the league in the first series. The Quakers line up will be changed somewhat from that of former games, but the team will be a strong one and will put up a hard struggle.

CRICKET

The following team will represent the Peterborough Junior Colts in their game with the Upper Canada College II eleven on the oval to-morrow afternoon: W. Burritt, A. Moore, A. Boucher, W. Sheffield, A. Wood, B. Carmichael, G. Grier, C. Moore, B. Laing, E. Weller, H. Hall. The game will be called at one o'clock.

SPRINTING.

H. Anderson challenges O. Grose to a hundred yard dash on Saturday, June 4th, on the Turf Club grounds. Anderson will allow Grose one yard.

PRESBYTERIANISM IN CANADA.

Thirtieth General Assembly Elects Rev. Dr. Milligan As Moderator.

St. John, N. B., June 2.—Proceedings of the thirtieth general assembly of the Presbyterian Church of Canada opened last evening in the vestry of St. Andrew's Church, in the presence of an audience that packed the large edifice to its doors. Over 400 commissioners from all sections of Canada are already in attendance, and more are expected to-day.

The program last night consisted of a sermon by the retiring moderator, Rev. Dr. Fletcher, and the election of a successor, which resulted in the appointment of the Rev. Dr. Milligan of Toronto. Dr. Fletcher's sermon was able, earnest and scholarly, and was the subject of appreciative comment. His subject was the Christian life of progress, and his address was an eloquent urging for advance along the lines that make for a higher life.

Neglect of missions, he said, was the chief cause of any decline in the welfare of the church. In closing, he referred to the project of church union, and spoke strongly in favor of it.

The election of a moderator was then proceeded with. Principal Gordon placed Dr. Milligan's name in nomination, and Dr. Scringer of Ottawa nominated Dr. Armstrong of the same city. The ballot resulted in the election of the former, the figures not being given.

After adjournment various committees met and arranged the program for to-day, when actual business begins. The first business will be the consideration of home mission reports, during which a warm discussion is expected, as matters have not been going to suit many of the commissioners.

Observance of Sabbath.

Kingston, June 2.—Reports were before the Synod of Ontario all day and the ordinary routine of passing them was only once disturbed, when Archdeacon Worrell presented the report of the Lord's Day Alliance, which commended the work of the Alliance throughout the Dominion.

Mr. James of Marmora was of the opinion that no amount of legislation would compel people to keep the Sabbath, and law in this respect was injurious. The Rev. C. Emory addressed the meeting at length and commended Mr. James as a manly, straightforward speaker. He thought it cowardly for bishop and clergy to rely upon law rather than persuasion to keep the Sabbath.

The bishop hoped that no one would go out from the gathering believing that both the clergy and laity were not heart and soul in favor of a better observance of the Lord's Day. Mr. Pense, M.P.P., also commended legislation. The report was adopted.

PILLS AND PILES.

A prolific cause of piles is the use of cathartics and pills of a drastic, violent nature.

Followed by a reaction on account of the resinous, drying properties they contain.

There are other causes, but no matter what the cause or what the kind of piles, Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Rold can be relied upon to cure—to stay cured.

It's an internal remedy that removes the causes of itching, blind, bleeding or suppurating Piles.

A guarantee goes with each package containing a month's treatment.

It can be obtained for one dollar at James Lynch's, druggist, No. 166 Hunter street, Peterborough.

Smallpox Stops Tourists.

Toronto, June 2.—There are fifteen people in quarantine on the shores of Lake Nipissing, near North Bay, who were passengers on the steamship Athenian, from the orient to Vancouver, one passenger on which died from smallpox at Kobe, Japan, and another was taken ill and died in the hospital at Vancouver. It was a matter for Federal attention, but Col. Montziambert was away, and Hon. J. R. Stratton notified Dr. Hodgetts, Provincial M.H.O., who went direct to North Bay, where the tourists are now confined in the car Melbourne, supplied with books, boats, fishing appliances and other means of passing the time. They will stay there until the 9th inst. in care of the C.P.R.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercur

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Ten Days to Produce.

Tangiers, June 2. — The United States cruiser Olympia, flying the flag of Rear-Admiral Jewel, in command of the European squadron, and the United States cruisers Baltimore and Cleveland, arrived here yesterday. A report is current that eight days have been allowed the Sultan in which to produce the prisoners, Perdicaris and Varley, beyond which time Tangiers will be bombarded. This report is not confirmed.

Sunk in Georgian Bay.

Detroit, Mich., June 1.—The crew of the propellor Weston, from Buffalo, reached here yesterday on the steamer Benton and schooner Wilcox from Georgian Bay. They brought the first news of the sinking of the Weston in Georgian Bay last Saturday. No lives were lost.

Jackdaw and Magpie.

In England the daw is hardly ever mentioned but as Jack, yet daw and not jackdaw is the proper name of the species. It is suggested that the pie owes the "mag" to some corruption of Margaret or Meg. To mag is to chatter, but whether the verb was derived from the name or the name from the verb is a question. It is more than probable that the Jim Crow of America (the old name for a negro boy) was brought across from England in the day when a crow was Jim as a swallow was Dick.

PREMIER ON HONOR

Sir Wilfrid Would Respect the Confidence of Any Man.

A CONFIDENTIAL DOCUMENT

Another Storm Raised in the House of Commons—Reply to Criticisms For Withholding the Grand Trunk's Original Proposition—Protection For Market Gardeners—Mr. Blain's Amendment Lost.

Ottawa, June 2.—The uncompleted storm which the Opposition raised just before the National Railway bill passed its third reading early on Friday morning was brought into the House again yesterday, and another breeze blew for some time over the presentation by Mr. Fielding of the Grand Trunk's original proposition. Mr. Barker reopened the discussion on a motion for all the correspondence. He went so far as to accuse the Premier of having concealed a document to which the House was entitled. Sir Wilfrid Laurier indignantly repudiated this suggestion, and again fully justified his position as the only one consistent with honor. A suggestion by Mr. Borden that, judging from his speech last session, Mr. Charlton must have been shown the petition, the Premier also denied, so far as he was concerned. The motion for the correspondence was not objected to and passed, the Premier jocularly promising to have the departmental offices swept in search of further documents.

Public Bills Advanced.

Many public bills were advanced; a third reading was given the G.T.P. Company's private bill, and, on the motion to go into supply, a lively debate took place on an amendment by Mr. Blain in favor of further protection for farm and market garden produce. Opposition members made ante-budget declarations for higher tariff, and the motion was lost by 41 to 76, a Government majority of 35.

Replying to Mr. Hackett, the Premier stated that it was the policy of the Government to erect monuments on Parliament Hill to the memory of great characters in the history of the Dominion, and the late Hon. Thomas D'Arcy McGee would be included among those thus honored.

Judge Winchester's Commission.

Mr. R. L. Borden, referring to the terms of the commission to Judge Winchester respecting the employment of aliens upon the G.T.R. surveys, suggested that if the investigation was to be thorough counsel should be appointed to represent the people.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier replied that he would bring the matter to the attention of the Minister of Labor.

Col. Sam Hughes suggested that, while Judge Winchester was running around the country on a fool's errand, the Prime Minister could get Mr. Hays and the auditor of the Grand Trunk Railway to have a statement prepared by one of the clerks of the names of all the employes on the engineering staff. In five minutes the House and the country would know who these gentlemen were and where they came from. That would not cost five cents, whereas the commission to Judge Winchester, judging from other commissions, will cost the country probably several thousand dollars, and would be a white-washing, delaying institution when it was through.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier—Does the hon. gentleman object to the commission?

Col. Hughes—I certainly do object to any such person being sent around this country, and I am satisfied the taxpayers of this country will object to it. We don't want these gentlemen taken from their jobs; we want them to attend their business that we pay them for doing, and which it should suit the country better if they attended to.

Mr. Rivet secured an order for a return of correspondence with reference to the purchase by the town of Westmount, of certain portions of the roadways controlled by the Montreal turnpike trust.

General Business.

Mr. Cowan's bill amending the Companies Act, 1902, was then considered.

At Mr. Fitzpatrick's suggestion the bill was held over in order that clause two relating to the consolidation of shares should be made clearer.

The House went into committee on Mr. Bickerdike's bill to amend the Criminal Code, 1892, respecting the punishment to fraudulent debtors.

The House Committee of Supply passed items of weights and measures in the inland revenue estimates. The House adjourned at 1.40 a.m.

Seal Fisheries Question.

Ottawa, June 2.—Senator McDonald, British Columbia, yesterday called the attention of the Government to the purport of a resolution passed by the United States Senate, requesting the president of that country to take the necessary steps for reopening with Great Britain the question of the Pacific Ocean and Behring Sea seal fisheries and for a readjustment of the award made on Aug. 15, 1893, at Paris, by the arbitration commission.

Hon. R. W. Scott said that until the question was reopened it would be improper and impolitic for the Government to indicate its policy.

Emery Wheel Burst.

Whitby, June 2.—Charles Eastley, emery wheel worker in the newly established Farmers' Co-operative Harvesting Machine Company here, was seriously injured yesterday morning by the bursting of a wheel. His collar bone is broken and left lung penetrated. There is little hope of his recovery. The wheel was tested to 2,000 revolutions, and was only driven up to 1,800.

GOOSE STUFFING.

A Town Whose Industry Is the Development of Goose Liver.

The raising, stuffing and shipping of geese have become quite a large industry in the vicinity of Watertown, Wis., and about 90,000 pounds of stuffed geese and about 323,000 pounds of stall fed geese are shipped annually from there to all parts of this country. The demand for stuffed geese is increasing all the time, and the shippers of this class of poultry claim it is not possible to fill all their orders unless these are placed early in the fall. The geese have to undergo the stuffing process to produce abnormally large livers.

In stuffing the goose the feeder holds it between his knees and forces the noodles down into its throat, but each noodle must first be dipped into warm water to make it more slippery. During the first week eight noodles are thus given three times a day, and during the second week the same number are given four times every day. From then on the stuffing has to be done every three or four hours, night and day, and each time six or seven noodles are forced down. The geese have by this time accumulated so much fat and the liver has expanded to such proportions that they have to be watched continuously, as some are liable to choke and thus prove a total loss. The entire household is called upon, and every man, woman and child has to take turns and sit up and attend to the geese.

At last, when ready for market, the geese are killed, and the feathers on the breast and belly must be picked immediately, while the bodies are warm; otherwise the very tender skin would be torn or damaged, and this would allow the thick layer of the precious goose fat to ooze out. The wings and back parts of the fowl can be picked more easily and are first dipped into hot water to facilitate the process. After they are thoroughly picked the heads, wings and legs are tied together on the back and the birds hung up in a cold place and allowed to freeze solid.

Prepared in this way they are very appetizing looking. Their size is enormous. In weight they range from twenty to twenty-eight pounds each, some extra large ones weighing from thirty-four to thirty-six pounds. The livers are generally very large, covering an ordinary soup plate, and some weigh over three and one-half pounds. —Leslie's Weekly.

The Fire Curtain Stuck.

Since the Chicago theater fire the life of the theater manager in Berlin has not been a happy one. The police decree was promptly issued, under which ever since at every theater in the city the iron fire curtain has had to be lowered after every act, and, as this curtain weighs about five tons, the constant repetition of the operation is not without its inconveniences. The other night it brought about a queer deadlock at the Metropol theater, where, as the fire curtain stuck at the end of the last act but one, the performance was stopped for the night despite the protests of the public, who did not even get their money back. The only solace offered by the management was to fix the lapsed act for the afternoon next but one, for which tickets were issued free as the audience left the theater.

Relative Danger of Machinery.

Statistics collected in Germany have shown that 28 per cent of the accidents caused by machinery used for industrial purposes, such as manufacturing, were due to defects in the machines and to lack of proper safeguards. On the other hand, over 40 per cent of the accidents occurring with agricultural machinery were traceable to those causes. Accordingly there is a call for the use of improved safety devices upon all machines used on the farm. Feed cutting machinery is found to be particularly liable to cause accidents. A considerable majority of those injured by agricultural machines are children and youths.

LONG SIEGES.

The Time Various Strongholds Defied the Attacking Forces.

In spite of the shells rained by the Japanese upon Port Arthur, that stronghold, army officers at Washington believe, will be able to stand, even without relief, for a number of months to come. In substantiation of such a conclusion they point to precedents.

For instance, it took 132 days for the Germans to bring Paris to her knees a generation ago. During January, 1871, no fewer than 10,000 shells were rained on to the doomed town every day, and of these 500 fell into the city proper.

For ninety-four days Plevna defied the pick of the Russian army, although its defenders were hopelessly outnumbered, and on Dec. 10, 1877, after the last grain of rye had been eaten, the indomitable Turks sallied forth and tried to hew their way through the Russian legions, but were compelled to surrender.

Khartum withstood the Mahdi and his hosts for 341 days under the brave direction of Gordon, and in Kars General Williams, with 15,000 men, with provisions for three months and ammunition for three days, kept an investing army of 50,000 at bay from June to November.

Richmond was defended by General Lee through a year of terrible fighting until the seizure of his lines of supply compelled him to evacuate it on April 2, 1865; Lucknow held out for eighty-six days, when General Havelock went to its relief, and Strasburg, with all its strength, defended by a garrison of 17,000 men, had to surrender to the Germans after a siege of forty-eight days. Among the other notable sieges Mafeking survived seven months, Kimberley 123 days, Ladysmith 118, Potchefstroom 94, Metz 72, Gaeta 77 and Chitral fort 46 days.

Irrigating Rice Fields in Texas.

Because water refuses to run up hill and because his rice fields happen to be on a somewhat elevated portion of ground many an ingenious planter in Texas has been obliged to resort to an elaborate device for the proper irrigation of them.

On a slight elevation at the back of the fields one planter has instituted what people in that vicinity style "an impromptu fountain." In reality it is nothing but a three inch iron pipe, protruding from the ground. When the rice fields need it the pipe is opened, huge pumps started and the water bubbles up, to flow away in hundreds of tiny rivulets and streams, which flood the thirsty rice fields. Aside from its benefits from the agricultural point of view, this obliging fountain presents a pretty spectacle when in operation.

must win upon their merits. The International Dictionary has won a greater distinction upon its merits and is in more general use than any other work of its kind in the English language.

A. H. Sayce, LL.D., D.D., of Oxford University, England, has recently said of it: It is indeed a marvelous work; it is difficult to conceive of a dictionary more exhaustive and complete. Everything is in it—not only what we might expect to find in such a work, but also what few of us would ever have thought of looking for.

A supplement to the new edition has brought it fully up to date. I have been looking through the latter with a feeling of astonishment at its completeness, and the amount of labor that has been put into it.

THE GENTLEMAN FROM INDIANA

By Booth Tarkington.

That night Mr. Parker, at work in the printing office, perceived the figure of Mr. Tipworthy beckoning him mysteriously from the pavement.

What's the matter, Buddie?"

"Listen. She's singin' over her work."

Parker stepped outside. On the pavement people had stopped to listen. They stood in the shadow, looking up with parted lips at the open, lighted windows whence came a clear, soft, reaching voice, lifted ineffably in song. Now it swelled louder unconsciously; now its volume was more slender, and it melted liquidly into the night; again it trembled and rose and dwelt in the ear, strong and pure, and hearing it you sighed with unknown longings. It was the "Angels' Serenade."

Bud Tipworthy's sister, Cynthia, was with him, and Parker saw that she turned from the window and that she was crying quietly. She put her hand on the boy's shoulder and patted it with a forlorn gesture which to the foreman's eye was as graceful as it was sad. He moved closer to Bud, and his big hand fell on Cynthia's brother's other shoulder as he realized that red hair could look pretty sometimes, and he wondered why the editor's singing made Cynthia cry, and at the same time he decided to be mighty good to Bud henceforth. The spell of night and song was on him; that and something more, for it is a strange, inexplicable fact that the most practical chief ever known to the Herald had a singularly sentimental influence over her subordinates from the moment of her arrival. Under Harkless' domination there had been no more steadfast bachelors in Carlow than Ross Schofield and Caleb Parker, and, like timorous youths in a graveyard, daring and mocking the ghosts in order to assuage their own fears, they had so gibed and jeered at the married state that there was talk of urging the minister to preach at them, but now let it be recorded that at the moment Caleb laid his hand on Bud's other shoulder his associate, Mr. Schofield, was enjoying a walk in the far end of town with a widow, and it is not to be doubted that Mr. Tipworthy's heart also was no longer in his possession, though, as it was after 8 o'clock, the damsel of his desire had probably long since retired to her couch.

For a faint light on the cause of these spells we must turn to a comment made by the invaluable Mr. Martin some time afterward. Referring to the lady to whose voice he was now listening in silence, which shows how great the enthralling of her voice was, he said, "When you saw her or heard her or managed to be around anywhere she was, why, if you couldn't git up no hope of marryin' her you wanted to marry somebody."

Mr. Lige Willetts, riding idly by, drew rein in front of the lighted windows and listened with the others. Presently he leaned from his horse and whispered to a man near him, "I know that song."

"Do you?" whispered the other.

"Yes. He and I heard her sing it the night he was shot. We stood outside Briscoe's and listened."

"So!"

"'It's a seraphic song,' he said," continued Lige.

"No!" exclaimed his friend. Then, shaking his head, he sighed, "Well, it's mighty sweet."

The song was suddenly woven into laughter in the unseen chamber, and the lights in the windows went out, and a small lady and a tall lady and a thin old man, all three laughing and talking happily, came down and drove off in the Briscoe buckboard. William Todd took his courage between his teeth and, the song ringing in his ears, made a desperate resolve to call upon Miss Bardlock that evening in spite of its being a week day, and Caleb Parker gently and stammeringly asked Cynthia if she would wait till he shut up the shop and let him walk home with her and Bud.

Soon the square was quiet as before, and there was naught but peace under the big stars of July.

That day the news had come that Harkless, after weeks of alternate improvement and relapse, hazardously lingering in the borderland of shadows, had passed the crucial point and was convalescent. His recovery was assured. But from their first word of him, from the message that he was found and was alive, none of the people of Carlow had really doubted. They are simple country people, and they know that God is good.

CHAPTER XII.

AN Indiana town may lie asleep a long while, but it always wakes up some time, and Plattville woke up in August, when the Herald became a daily. It was then that history began to be made. The Herald printed news. It had made a connection with the Associated Press, and it was sold every morning at stands in every town in that section of the state. Its circulation tripled. Two new men were brought from Rouen for the editorial and reportorial staff, and Parker talked of new presses. During the first week of the daily venture Eph Watts struck oil, and the Herald boomed the field. People swarmed into town; the hotel was crowded; strangers became no sensation whatever. A capitalist bought the whole north side of the square to erect new stores, and the Carlow bank began the construction of a new bank building of Bedford stone on the corner opposite the Herald. Then it was whispered, next affirmed, that Main street was to be asphalted. That was the end of the "old days" of Plattville.

But the man who had laid the foundation upon which the new Plattville was to be built, he who through the quiet labor of years had stamped his spirit on the people, lay sick in his friend's house and did not care.

Tom Meredith had taken him from the hospital to his own home on a quiet street in Rouen, and John was well enough of his hurts to be taken abroad sometimes in a victoria, where he reclined, gray and thin, seemingly no more than a long afternoon shadow. But for days he would lie in a lethargy that made Tom despair. The soul of the country editor was sick inside of him; he was weary and worn, and pain had left him dulled, except when he thought of returning to Plattville; then he felt physical horror. The place did not need him, nor he the place. Fisbee had found a young relative to run the Herald, who signed his typewritten business letters "H. Fisbee" in a strapping hand that suggested six feet of muscle spattering ink on its shirt sleeves.

John wondered idly where old Fisbee had raked up a relative, and he thought it probable that H. Fisbee was a Yankee cousin of the old man, but he did not care much for that or for anything except to keep away from Carlow for the rest of his life, since he was to live. And there was no longer need to go there. He was glad to know that. H. Fisbee had written him before the oil bubbled in Eph's wells that to buy stock in Mr. Watts' company might be profitable, especially as the stock was then so low that it was almost imperceptible, and Harkless had a little money he had saved. He let Meredith arrange it for him, and a few days later the stock leaped cloudward.

However, his modest riches interested him as little as did everything else. He left his bed less and less, took no more drives, and his lethargy deepened.

The only thing in which he showed interest was the congressional campaign of the district. It was far advanced before the Herald spoke of it at all, and Harkless saw that McCune had lifted his head.

One day Tom came in and found him writing on a pad on his knee.

Rouen, Sept. 2, ——.

Dear Mr. Fisbee—Yours of the 1st to hand. I entirely approve all arrangements you have made. I think you understand that I wish you to regard everything as in your own hands. You are the editor of the Herald and have the sole responsibility for everything, including policy, until, after proper warning, I relieve you in person, if that ever happens, but until that time regard me as a mere spectator. I do not fear that you will make any mistakes. You have done very much better in all matters than I could have done myself. At present I have only one suggestion: I observe that your editorials concerning Halloway's renomination are something lukewarm. It is very important that he be renominated, not so much on account of assuring his return to Washington (for he is no Madison, I fear), but the fellow McCune must be beaten if we have to send him to the penitentiary on an old issue to do it. The man is corrupt to the bone. He has been bought and sold, and I am glad the proofs of it are in your hands, as you tell me you found them, as directed, in my desk. The papers you hold drove him out of politics once by the mere threat of publication. You should have printed them last week, as I suggested. Do so at once; the time is short. The Herald is a little paper (not so little nowadays, after all, thanks to you), but it is an honest one, and it isn't afraid of Rod McCune and his friends. Please let me see as hearty a word as you can say for Halloway also. You can write with ginger. Please let us have some in this matter. I am, very truly yours,

JOHN HARKLESS.

When the letter was concluded, he handed it to Meredith. "Please address that, put a 'special' on it and send it, Tom. It should go at once, so as to reach him tonight."

"H. Fisbee?"

"Yes—H. Fisbee."

"I believe it does you good to write, boy," said the other as he bent over him. "You look more chirrupy than you have for several days."

"It's that beast McCune. This young Fisbee is rather queer about it. I felt stirred up as I went along." But even before the sentence was finished the favor of age and utter weariness returned, and the dark lids closed over his eyes. They opened again slowly, and he took the other's hand and looked up at him mournfully; but, as it were, his soul shone forth in dumb and eloquent thanks.

"I—I'm giving you a jolly summer, Tom," he said, with a quivering effort to smile. "Don't you think I am? I don't—I don't know what I should have —done"—

"You old Indian!" said Meredith tenderly.

Three days later Tom was rejoiced by symptoms of invigoration in his patient. A telegram came for Harkless, and Meredith, bringing it into the sick room, was surprised to find the occupant sitting straight up on his couch without the prop of pillows. He was reading the day's copy of the Herald, and his face was flushed and his brow stern.

"What's the matter, boy?"

"Mismanagement, I hope," said the other in a strange voice; "worse, perhaps. It's this young Fisbee. I can't think what's come over the fellow. I thought he was a treasure beyond dreams, and he's turning out bad. I'll swear it looks like they'd been—well, I won't say that yet, but he hasn't printed that McCune business I told you of, and he's had two days. There is less than a week before the convention, and"— He broke off, seeing the yellow envelope in Meredith's hand. "Is that a telegram for me?" His companion gave it to him. He tore it open and read the contents. They were brief and unhappy.

Can't you do something? Can't you come down? It begins to look the other way. K. H.

"Tom, give me that pad and pencil," said the sick man. He rapidly dashed off a note to H. Fisbee.

Sept. 6, ——.

H. Fisbee, Editor Carlow Herald:

Dear Sir—You have not acknowledged my letter of the 2d of September by a note (which should have reached me the following morning) or by the alteration in the tenor of my columns which I requested, or by the publication of the McCune papers which I directed. In this I hold you grossly at fault. If you have a conscientious reason for refusing to carry out my request it should have been communicated to me at once, as should the fact—if such be the case—that you are a personal (or impersonal, if you like) friend of Mr. Rodney McCune. Whatever the motive which prevents you from operating my paper as I direct, I should have been informed of it. This is a matter vital to the interests of our community, and you have hitherto shown yourself too alert in accepting my slightest suggestion for me to construe this failure as negligence.

You will receive this letter by 7 this evening by special delivery. You will print the facts concerning McCune in tomorrow morning's paper.

I am well aware of the obligations under which your extreme efficiency and your thoughtfulness in many matters have placed me. It is to you I owe my unearned profits from the transaction in oil, and it is to you I owe the Herald's extraordinary present circulation, growth of power and influence. That power is still under my direction and is an added responsibility which shall not be misapplied.

Are you sorry for McCune? I warned him long ago that the papers you hold would be published if he ever tried to return to political life, and he is deliberately counting on my physical weakness and absence. Let him rely upon it—I am not so weak as he thinks. I am sorry for him from the bottom of my heart, but the Herald is not.

You need not reply by letter. Tomorrow's issue answers for you. Until I have received a copy I withhold my judgment.

JOHN HARKLESS.

Tomorrow's issue—that fateful print on which depended John Harkless' opinion of H. Fisbee's integrity—contained an editorial addressed to the delegates of the convention, warning them to act for the vital interest of the community and declaring that the opportunity to be given them in the present convention was a rare one, a singular piece of good fortune indeed. They were to have a chance to vote for a man who had won the love and respect of every person in the district—one who had suffered for his championship of righteousness; one whom even his few political enemies confessed they held in personal affection and esteem; one who had been the inspiration of a new era; one whose life had been helpfulness, whose hand had reached out to every struggler and unfortunate; a man who had met and faced danger for the sake of others; one who lived under a threat for years, and who had been almost overborne in the fulfillment of that threat, but who would live to see the sun shine on his triumph, the tribute the convention would bring him as a gift from a community that loved him. His name needed not to be told. It was on every lip that morning and in every heart.

Tom was eagerly watching his companion as he read. Harkless fell back on the pillows with a drawn face, and for a moment he laid his thin hand over his eyes in a gesture of intense pain.

"What is it?" Meredith said quickly.

"Give me the pad, please."

"What is it, boy?"

The other's teeth snapped together.

"What is it?" he cried. "What is it? It's treachery, and the worst I ever knew. Not a word of the accusation I demanded—lying praises instead! Read that editorial—there, there!" He struck the page with the back of his hand and threw the paper to Meredith. "Read that miserable lie! 'One who has won the love and respect of every person in the district!' 'One who has suffered for his championship of righteousness!' Righteousness! Save the mark!"

"What does it mean?"

"Mean! It means McCune, Rod McCune, 'who has lived under a threat for years'—my threat. I swore I would

"What is it?" he cried.

print him out of Indiana if he ever raised his head again, and he knew I could. 'Almost overborne in the fulfillment of that threat'—almost! It's a black scheme, and I see it now. This man came to Plattville and went on the Herald for nothing in the world but this. It's McCune's hand all along. He daren't name him even now, the coward! The trick lies between McCune and young Fisbee—the old man is innocent. Give me the pad. Not almost overborne. There are three good days to work in, and if Rod McCune sees congress it will be in his next incarnation."

He rapidly scribbled a few lines on the pad and threw the sheets to Meredith. "Get those telegrams to the Western Union office in a rush, please. Read them first."

With wide eyes Tom read them. One was to Warren Smith:

Take possession Herald. This is your authority. Publish McCune papers, so labeled, which H. Fisbee will hand you. Best McCune. JOHN HARKLESS.

The second was addressed to H. Fisbee:

You are relieved from the cares of editorship. You will turn over the management of the Herald to Warren Smith. You will give him the McCune papers. If you do not or if you destroy them you cannot hide where I shall not find you.

JOHN HARKLESS.

A WOMAN'S RISK

As a trapeze performer is greater than a man's. She must have a man's courage and a man's muscle to succeed. But she must also work under conditions of which a man knows nothing. Many an accident to women acrobats must be attributed to the sudden weakness to which all women are subject at certain times.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription heals the womanly diseases which cause weakness. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

"With pleasure I write to-day in praise of Dr. Pierce and his medicines," says Mrs. Mary Conway, of Appleton, Lawrence Co., Tenn. "Was troubled with female disease; the back of my head hurt me so I could not lie in bed and I would have to sit up, and then I would have such pains from my waist down I could scarcely raise up. My feet and hands would feel almost like ice. Since taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription I can sleep well all night. Could hardly drag around before I took your medicine, and now can do my housework and help my husband in the field. Words cannot express the thanks I owe to Dr. Pierce."

WHAT AND WHY.

Why should substitutes for Scott's Emulsion be refused?

Because they do not begin to offer the equivalent of food-value contained in Scott's Emulsion.

Why should special care be taken to avoid so-called wines, cordials and extracts of cod liver oil?

Because they contain a large percentage of alcohol and afford only temporary stimulation.

Does not Scott's Emulsion also stimulate the body?

Yes, but it is stimulation through nourishment.

What vital food principle is involved in the action of Scott's Emulsion?

Direct and perfect nourishment without a tax on the stomach.

Thrown From a Wagon

Mr. George K. Babcock was thrown from his wagon and severly bruised. He applied Chamberlain's Pain Balm freely and says it is the best liniment he ever used. Mr. Babcock is a well known citizen of North Plain, Conn. There is nothing equal to Pain Balm for sprains and bruises. It will effect a cure in one-third the time required by any other treatment. For sale by all druggists.

CONFERENCE TALKS ON MISSIONARY SUBJECTS.

Mr. Dumble then asked for a discussion on this subject.

Mr. Baker of Haliburton, followed in a brief speech, and endorsed the proposal of union, citing the conditions in his own town, where there were four denominations each with small congregations. He believed that there was as much difference of opinion among the members of each church as there was between the members of different churches.

Judge Dean of Lindsay, following, said there was a growing feeling of harmony between the members of the different churches. Those who had not lived longer than 60 years could have no idea of the discord and dislike which existed between the church years ago. Then each church looked upon each other church with distrust. He paid a high tribute to the character and self-sacrifice of the Methodist ministry in the early days particularly, and said that had it not been for Methodism this country would have been given over to dissipation and vice. The other churches had learned to respect and love the Methodist ministers.

He advised making haste slowly in the matter of union, in view of the fact that the Presbyterian church as a body had not declared itself on this matter. He believed there would be no difficulties to speak of on the line of doctrine, but there might be other difficulties.

The condition in the North-west, where hordes of people were coming in from Southern Europe, and those could not be Christianized unless the churches were united.

He thought that in the union, each church would have to sacrifice some things, but it would eventually come. Referring to the foreign population in Canada the speaker said that if it were practicable he would prevent any Italian from entering Canada.

Another speaker thought that union might be a good thing as far as the financial aspect of the question, but he was fearful of the spiritual result of a union.

Dr. Mallory, of Colborne, thought there was but one question to be considered, and that was, "Is union desirable?" It was impossible to settle details now, and in view of this fact details should not be discussed. He gave reasons why in the united consecration and wisdom of the three churches such a union was necessary. It is a conceded fact among all the churches that a union is desirable. Two churches, the Anglican and Baptist, are settled in their conviction that a union should come, but they are not willing to conform to other churches. The three other churches are nearer alike in doctrine and there should be no serious difficulties to union between them. The needs of the great West demanded such a union and he believed that eventually all the churches would come together.

Mr. E. D. O'Flynn, of Madoc, Mr. A. Barlow, and W. W. Chown, of Belleville, also spoke on the question of union, and the following resolution moved by Mr. R. H. Barker, of Haliburton, and seconded by Mayor Chown, of Belleville, was adopted:—

"Resolved that the lay representatives of the Bay of Quinte Conference desire to express their endorsation of the union of the Presbyterian, Methodist and Congregational churches, and commend it to the proper authorities."

The meeting then adjourned.

O.J.C. SPRING RACES.

Toronto, June 3.—Yesterday, the eleventh day of the Ontario Jockey Club's spring meeting, the track was sloppy and the weather showery. The record:

First Race—⅞ mile, Gimrack, 3-year-olds. 1 Judge, 2 Glad Tidings, 3 Heritage. Time, 1.19.

Second Race—⅞ mile, 2-year-olds. 1 Homebred, 2 Basil, 3 Kittie Platt.

Third Race—1⅛ miles, Stanley Produce Stakes, 3-year-olds. 1 War Whoop, 2 Loupanga, 3 Nimble Dick. Time, 2.18.

Fourth Race—About 2 miles, Melgund Steeplechase, 4-year-olds and over. 1 Imperialist, 2 Conover, 3 Mystic.

Fifth Race—⅞ mile, Newmarket Handicap, 3-year-olds and up. 1 L. Brigade, 2 W. R. Condon, 3 S. Dream.

Sixth Race—1 1-16 miles, 3-year-olds and up. 1 Scortic, 2 Bank Street, 3 Play Ball. Time, 1.54.

Nothing since Conference.

London, June 3.—(C.A.P.)—Right Hon. Alfred Lyttelton, Colonial Secretary, replying to Charles Devlin, M.P. (Nationalist), who put a question as to the contribution by Canada to the Imperial navy, said there was no record of any communication since the Colonial Conference.

A Canadian D.D.'s Ball.

A well-known Toronto D.D. (Rev. Dr. Potts), who is attending the World's Sunday School Convention in Jerusalem, writes the very deliberate statement: "We saw, on the trees, oranges, lemons, dates, and Irish potatoes being dug." No doubt there are strange things in the shadowy and mysterious East, but if western minds are really to be convinced that "Irish Potatoes" can grow on trees, the trees, as well as the potatoes, will need to be brought home.

COLD STORAGE IN RELATION TO TRADE.

What the Dominion Government has Done in This Direction.

How Trade has Expanded Under its Application to Steamers.

The Montreal Gazette was quite angry the other day because another paper had recently directed attention to the successful system of mechanical cold storage introduced by the Hon. Mr. Fisher in the spring of 1897, which has been specially commended to the United States Government by its consular representatives. The Gazette complains of the statement that "without this system we would have been driven out of the English market" and even more of the statement that Mr. Fisher planned and initiated the system. It says "The system is no more Mr. Fisher's than it is the King of Siam's," and claims that "last year only fifty-eight per cent. of the butter shipped by Canada was sent cold storage, about five per cent. of the apples, one per cent. of the cheese, and less than one per cent. of the bacon."

The last official report prepared and published by the Dairy Commissioner's branch of the Agricultural Department, explicitly states that "during the past season there were carried in cold storage to British ports 335,396 packages of butter, 21,834 barrels and 27,102 boxes of apples" and that "only 454 packages of butter were carried as ordinary cargo." "There were 6,734 cases of Canadian pears carried in cold storage and 916 cases as ordinary cargo." In addition "there were 10,674 cases of American pears and small fruits carried in cold storage." "There were 43,800 boxes of cheese, 15,355 cases of Canadian bacon and 10,542 cases of American bacon carried in cool air chambers during the season of navigation from the port of Montreal."

This is indeed quite a remarkable showing in view of the fact that during the past season the weather was unusually cool during the summer months. After all it is pretty generally recognized that the arrangements provided by the Department for the transportation of apples, cheese and bacon are something in the nature of an insurance against the deterioration of these perishable products during extremely warm weather.

As a matter of fact an increasingly large quantity of apples, cheese and bacon are being carried in the ships that the Minister has had fitted with equipment, providing either forced circulation of the ordinary atmosphere in reasonably cool weather, or in hot weather providing the cooling of the air by mechanical refrigerators to be afterwards circulated through parts of the steamships by means of fans. This new feature, inaugurated in 1901, had during the last season been developed to the extent hat there was 61 sailings of fourteen steamships fitted with cool air chambers, having a cold storage capacity of 491,600 cubic feet.

The year before this the Dominion Line Steamship Company received the following instruction in a letter from the largest Canadian exporter of apples: "In all cases when you have any goods going forward, unless you have direct orders to do otherwise, put them in cooled air or cold storage in preference to the ordinary storage. I believe it pays every trip to do this."

What part of responsibility and credit belongs to the advising expert with whom the Minister discusses details, and what part of responsibility and credit belongs to the Minister, who acts and takes all the consequences of his action, is pretty generally appreciated. No one knows better or more loudly proclaims the excellence of Prof. Robertson's work than the present Minister of Agriculture. Both are animated by the desire to promote what they think is the best interest of the farmers of Canada, and the farmers who have had the opportunity of discussing these questions with Mr. Fisher, either at agricultural conventions or at his office in Ottawa, recognize that had it not been for Mr. Fisher's advent to the Department of Agriculture, there would never have been such excellently organized Government aid to agriculture and agricultural exports as have been realized during the past seven years.

In a pamphlet published by the Montreal Gazette, the season before last entitled "Export Trade of the Port of Montreal, Season 1902," it is stated that:

"Cold storage is now a recognized and, in fact, indispensible factor of our growing export trade in perishable products. The marked increase in our exports of butter during the past season is the strongest possible proof that could be afforded as to the value of refrigeration for export purposes."

"Thanks to the energy of the Dominion Agricultural Department, we are again enabled to record a further increase in the refrigeration facilities on shipboard, during the season, consequently we are justified in saying that the great increase in our exports of butter has been rendered possible only through the introduction of superior refrigeration facilities, particularly on board ship. Six additional ships: Devona, Hildona, Montcalm, Monterey, Pomeranian and Iona, have been equipped during the season by the Linde British Refrigeration Company with the Linde Cold Air System, making in all ten ships employing this latest development in mechanical refrigeration."

Now the British Linde Refrigeration Company had their system established on Australian steamships from 1893 onwards and Australia through this means then forged ahead of us in the British market. The system had been adopted here in Canada with perfect success early in the nineties by the cold storage warehouses of Montreal and Toronto. Then what excuse could the Conservative Ministers of Agriculture offer for not introducing it, when Prof. Robertson commended it in preference to the ice system? What excuse had they for establishing instead—on a niggardly scale, with a cheese-paring expenditure of $16,000 only,—a very limited equipment of miserable ice cold storage on steamships, without any inspection at any of the points to give even that one-horse system a fair trial?

One of Mr Fisher's first acts of administration was to introduce the British Linde System on a considerable number of ocean steamships, at a cost of $100,000 a year during three successive years, to make ice storage on railways effective and complete by securing the building of proper cars and providing equipment for icing them and inspecting them; to inaugurate a system of bonuses to creameries and for their inspection, which has resulted in 500 creameries out of a total in 1900 of 622 being equipped in accordance with the departmental plans and maintained according to the strict conditions imposed as to quantity and temperature.

An integral part of Mr. Fisher's system was to establish a thorough inspection at every point in this complete chain from the producer to the consumer. This feature of inspection has substantially contributed to make this system the great success it is to-day. The inspection is not confined to articles shipped in cold storage, but extends to all agricultural produce exported from the navigation ports of the country. Everything is carefully watched a tall points, at the place of production, in the course of the railway transportation, in the handling at the port of shipment and at the port of destination and full reports are made to headquarters so that proper representations may be made, which have nearly always resulted in improvement.

When—very largely through these measures, the total exports of such perishable products as butter, cheese and bacon alone have increased during the seven years since 1896 by the enormous sum of $130,000,000, it is not surprising that moderate, public spirited men commend the minister's work.

The farmers of Canada, we may be sure, will continue to give Mr. Fisher his due share of credit, as well for the excellent transportation of perishable products as for the remarkable increase for the seven years since 1896 in the total exports of all agricultural products, of $247,581,409, an amount equivalent to $525, for every farm in Canada big and small, as shown by the census of 1901.

THE CRY FOR NOVELTIES.

And How the Big Circus Responds to it

In these marvellous days of flight ning-winged progress, when even yesterday relatively seems a decade old, all the world cries and clamours for something new, something more strenuously thrilling; something more difficult and dexterous of achievement; something novel in the daring go and brave brilliancy that captivate the dilated eye, electrify the brain, stimulate curiosity to the highest point of tension, and sweep the nerve strings of the human harp with the master hand of originality and genius. None more keenly realize this, or act more promptly and liberally thereon, than do the successful furnishers of public amusements of all kinds. That it vitally concerns the circus managers to be most alertly alive to these conditions and most responsive, judicious and generous in meeting and complying with them, to the wonder, delight and satisfaction of all classes in the widest and most popular and expensive field—that of the traveling tent arena—the proprietors of the Great Adam Forepaugh and Sells Brothers Enormous Shows United seem to most fully realize. In their grand tented consolidation, which will exhibit at Peterborough on Saturday, July 2nd, they announce the addition of exceedingly sensational and novel features; such, for example, as a whole Arctic menagerie of fourteen full-grown living Polar Bears; three such astoundingly daring and expert cyclists as Prodigious Porthos, the chasm-vaulting wonder, who, rushing on an ordinary safety bicycle down one narrow track, leaps through the air a distance of fifty feet to land on another one beyond; "Cyclone," riding centrifugally a wheel up the perpendicular inside of "The Devil's Chimney," and "Diavolo," who loops the loop on a bicycle; the seven Lecussons, in the only entirely new equestrian act known to the circus for half a century, in which with the aid of a four-horse team and the park brake to which it is attached, they present an astonishing programme of commingled bareback and acrobatic performances; the first troupe of nine Hungarian Magyars to visit America, in their peculiar dances, songs and strange gymnastic feats; Mons. Hubert, who, holding a sulky aloft by its thills, leaps therewith from the ground to the back of his horse, and concludes a novel juggling act in a park cart by balancing the cart on his chin; the Martinekis, exploited as the funniest male and female fools in all Frogland, and associated with nearly half a hundred other popular clowns; the Aurora Zouaves, concededly and by long odds the best drilled military company in the world; displays of grotesque Japanese daylight fireworks; and so on to the limitations of three rings, a coliseum course, elevated stages and an aerial arena of many acres.

The Submarine Boat.

One of the earliest suggestions of the submarine was that of a British smuggler, Johnson, who invented a boat that was to travel under or above water. With this vessel he proposed to carry Napoleon from St. Helena, but the emperor died while the boat was under construction. The adherents of the emperor promised Johnson $200,000 on the day the boat was ready to start and an immense sum if it proved successful. Some years later Johnson built a boat with which he experimented in the Thames for the British admiralty. In this connection it may be mentioned that one of Napoleon's marshals, Massena, began life as a smuggler on a large scale, and Commodore Thurot of the French navy of that time obtained his knowledge of the British coasts while in the employ of a smuggler.

AN ABRIDGED BIBLE.

Why Only the Two Covers and a Few Tatters Were Left.

At a gathering of several ministers one of them, who is opposed to the so called "higher criticism," told the following story:

"One day a member of a certain church, who had listened attentively for five years to the preaching of his pastor, took to the divine his Bible, which was truly a sight to behold, with whole books clipped out here or a passage gone there. Indeed, between the covers there was little else left but a few shreds of paper. The pastor was horrified and rebuked his parishioner for using the Bible so shockingly. The parishioner meekly replied:

"'It is all the result of your preaching. When I went home from church each Sunday I cut out of the book that which you had criticised in your sermon of that day. That verse on the Trinity was an interpolation, so out went the strong verse. Then the canonicity of this book and that was doubtful, so out went this book and that. John did not write the gospel of John, so out went what was called the gospel of John. This bit of history was not history, only allegory, so out went that false and deceiving thing. Positively, sir, I have been faithful with my shears, and this is all the Bible I have left—the two covers and a few tatters.'"

7 Sutherland Sisters' HAIR GROWER

Miss IDA ROADHOUSE, Peterboro' Ontario

Seven Sutherland Sisters' Hair Grower and Scalp Cleaner shows results from the very first. Here is more proof that we have the greatest hair grower science ever produced.

Seven Sutherland Sisters:
Dear Ladies.—Having been benefited by the use of your Hair Grower and Scalp Cleaner, I take much pleasure in recommending same. At the time of your visit to Peterboro' last October, I showed you my head, which I was told was a hopeless case, and after looking at the bald spot on my head which was then about the size of a fifty cent piece, and enlarging more every day, you advised me to try your wonderful remedy, which is worthy of being termed so. I did, and to my surprise, before I had used one of your large sized bottles of Hair Grower and only half a package of Scalp Cleaner I could see a covering of a sort of scales and upon continuing to use it the scales fell off without leaving a mark of any kind. My hair now on the bald spot is about three inches long and growing more and more every day to my delight. I cannot really recommend it enough and am thankful that such a remedy came to my reason.
Yours truly, IDA ROADHOUSE,
Peterboro' Ont., Box 688.

During the two weeks' demonstration of Seven Sutherland Sisters' Hair Grower, at W. B. Warne's Drug Store, Miss Roadhouse will be in daily attendance between the hours of 7 and 8 in the evening, and will be glad to answer any enquiries regarding her case.

Glass Eyes.

The earliest notice of artificial eyes I am acquainted with occurs in a very rare work by the French surgeon Ambrose Pare, entitled "La Methode Curative des Playes et Fractures de la Teste Humaine," Paris, 1561. Pare gives a description and figures of artificial eyes to be worn in cases where the eyeball has given way and all the humors have escaped. They are to be segments of a hollow sphere, made of gold, coated with enamel painted in natural colors. With the exception of the gold, they are exactly like the eyes in use at the present time, which are made wholly of glass.—Notes and Queries.

How It Happened.

"Is it true, ma," asked the little rabbit, "that pa was shot by an amateur gunner?"

"Certainly not," replied the mother rabbit. "You see, the amateur gunner was shooting at me, while your poor pa sat behind him and laughed. Unfortunately the gun kicked, and the man sat down on your pa and killed him."

RUSSIANS OFFER FEEBLE RESISTANCE

Japs Take First Line of Port Arthur Fortifications.

FIGHTING NEAR FORT ARTHUR.

Persistent Reports of Continuous Cannonading, Which Lack Confirmation—Gun Firing Was Heard—Japanese Lost 4,000 Killed and Wounded at Kinchon—The Russians Abandoned Many Undamaged Guns in Their Retreat.

London, June 4.—The Rome correspondent of The Central News telegraphs:

"A Tokio despatch to The Girnale d'Italia says that the Japanese have occupied the first line of the outer fortifications of Port Arthur after a feeble resistance."

The correspondent at Tokio of the News Agency Libetas says that four divisions of Japanese troops have occupied Kwantung heights, on which they placed heavy artillery dominating Port Arthur.

The same correspondent adds that the Russian squadron attempted a sortie, but were forced to return, being threatened by the Japanese fleet.

Heavy Firing Heard.

Che Foo, June 4.—Steamers which have arrived here from Newchwang report that firing in the vicinity of Port Arthur was heard Thursday night. They saw only two Japanese cruisers. Chinese junks which have reached this port from the Cha River, west of Takushan, report that the Japanese have captured two Russian officers and forty soldiers disguised as Japanese.

Cannonading Continuous.

Liaoyang, June 4.—There are persistent rumors that another great battle is in progress near Port Arthur. Continuous cannonading has been heard from the south. An additional force of 15,000 Japanese is reported to have landed at Takushan.

Russian Force Defeated.

Tokio, June 4.—A body of Japanese encountered and defeated a mixed force of Russian cavalry, infantry and artillery near Lichiaton, nine miles north of Polandien, on Monday last, May 30. The engagement began at 12.30 p.m. and lasted for two hours, the Russian troops finally being driven northward. The Japanese had one officer and 25 men killed and four officers and 38 men wounded. The Russian losses are unknown. The movement of the Russian forces southward indicates a possible effort to relieve Port Arthur.

Reported From Liaoyang.

The fighting reported from Tokio as having occurred "near Lichiaton, nine miles north of Polandien, on Monday last" is evidently identical with the engagement reported from Liaoyang, May 30, by a correspondent of the Associated Press as having occurred at Vagenfuchu (possibly near Wafangtien), which is about nine miles north of Polandien, on the Liaotung peninsula. It was in this engagement that the Cossacks, under Gen. Samsonoff, were reported to have annihilated a squadron of Japanese. The Japanese were commanded by Gen. Akkuaiama.

Fighting General.

Mukden, June 4.—For three days past rumors have been current of severe fighting on the Liaotung Peninsula. Details are lacking, but the fact that fighting has been general throughout the peninsula is officially admitted.

Take Vafangow To-Day.

Vafangow, June 4.—A continuation of the fighting was expected here yesterday, but the Japanese did not appear in force. A reconnoitering party however, exchanged shots with the enemy's scouts, and the latter were driven off, leaving two men dead on the field. To-day probably will determine whether the Japanese are strong enough to take Vafangow.

Russians Advance.

Seoul, June 4.—The Japanese Consul at Gensan reports a Russian advance on Koyuen, twenty-two miles north of Gensan. Their commissariat has arrived at Pukcheng.

Yamagata Dead.

London, June 4.—A despatch from Tokio to The Daily Express says that Field Marshal Yamagata has been appointed commander-in-chief of all the forces in the field. He is expected to proceed to the Liaotung district shortly.

Wiped Out Russian Batteries.

St. Petersburg, June 4.—Lieut.-Gen. Zelinsky, chief of staff to Gen. Kuropatkin, transmits to the Minister of War, under date of June 2, a report of Gen. Stoessel, dated Port Arthur, May 28, as follows:

"After a fierce battle lasting two days, I ordered our position at Kinchou to be evacuated in the evening, for we had opposed to us at least three divisions with 120 guns.

"The enemy's fire, particularly that from four gunboats and six torpedo boats, completely annihilated our batteries mounted at Kinchou. The fifth regiment, which was posted on this spot, stood their ground heroically. The fire of this regiment, as well as that of our batteries and gunboat Bobr, off Khounouesa, inflicted enormous losses on the Japanese.

"Our losses amounted to thirty officers and 800 men killed or wounded. We blew up or damaged all our guns which the other guns had not put out of action.

"It would have been inexpedient certainly to bring up siege artillery during the fierce fighting.

"The battle of May 26 began at 5 a.m. and lasted until 8 p.m., when I ordered the position evacuated gradually. The explosion of a number of our mines and fougaddes was rendered impossible because the Japanese turned our position immediately. The Japanese advanced through water up to their waists under the protection of their ships.

Conductor Hit By Engine.

London, June 4.—John Wilson, a G.T.R. conductor, residing on Hill street, this city, met with a serious accident yesterday. Mr. Wilson attempted to board a yard engine while crossing Colborne street, but instead was knocked down. He is now suffering from a nasty scalp wound, besides two broken ribs.

ABOUT QUARANTINE

The Athenian Smallpox Cases Discussed in the House.

PASSED TWO INSPECTIONS

Vessel Get Clean Bill of Health From Japanese and Victoria Inspectors—Important Items and Estimates Passed —Opposition to the Ottawa Electric Company's Bill—The Measure Talked Out.

Ottawa, June 4.—The House spent almost the entire day, yesterday, except a short time on a few preliminaries, in discussing the quarantine estimates. Four items, amounting to $300,000, were passed, completing the demand for this branch. A somewhat lengthy discussion took place on the landing in Vancouver of passengers from the Athenian, which recently developed smallpox. Hon. Mr. Fisher showed that the vessel left Yokohama with a clean bill of health, and when examined at Victoria was shown to be without evident contagion. Therefore the Dominion Quarantine Department had done its duty. The Opposition last night raised a strong protest against the bill respecting the Ottawa Electric Company, which was declared to give the company the right to create a monopoly of supplying electricity in this city. They talked the whole hour reserved for private bills, and the committee rose without reporting the bill.

The following bills were introduced and read a first time: Respecting certain patents of Edward R. Calhoun—Mr. German; respecting the Huron & Ontario Railway Company —Mr. Malouin; to incorporate the Farmers' Bank of Canada—Mr. Guthrie.

Directors Must Be British Subjects.

In reply to a question by Mr. Casgrain, Sir Wilfrid Laurier promised again that a bill would be introduced this session specifying that the directorate of the various railway lines in Canada must have each a majority of British subjects. The Opposition sought to insert this feature in the Grand Trunk Pacific contract, but the Government then declared their preference for the introduction of a general law applying to all roads alike.

Mexican Steamship Line.

Sir Richard Cartwright stated, in reply to Mr. Earle, that the Government intended to insert a clause in the contract requiring the Mexican Steamship Line to call at Victoria, B.C., both going and coming, and in reply to Dr. Daniel the Minister of Trade and Commerce, said the amount at the disposal of the Government for the service was not very large, but he hoped to meet the hon. gentleman's wish and have the Atlantic branch of the Mexican service call at St. John.

Mr. Clarke asked if any negotiations were now under way for a fast Atlantic service.

"No additional negotiations except the provisional contract laid on the table some time ago," replied Sir Richard.

"All thrown over?" asked Mr. Clarke.

"No, I do not say that," Sir Richard replied. "It is not going on at the present time."

The bill introduced by Sir Frederick Borden to incorporate the Canadian Artillery Association on the lines of the Canadian Rifle Association was given its second reading and passed its final stages.

At 4 o'clock the House went into Committee of Supply on the remaining quarantine items.

Ottawa Electric Co.'s Bill.

When the House resumed at 8 o'clock the bill respecting the Ottawa Electric Company was taken up in Committee of the Whole House.

Mr. Birkett (Ottawa) objected to the bill going through with the provision striking out the clause in the company's charter prohibiting it from acquiring the stock of any other electric company. The effect of this would be to allow the company to control all the electric power in the City of Ottawa, notwithstanding that the competing company, the Consumers, were given a franchise by the city on the express condition that it should not amalgamate with any other company.

Dr. Sproule argued that the bill should be further considered by the Private Bills Committee. He moved the committee rise and report progress. Mr. Lancaster, Mr. Blain, Mr. Clarke and Mr. Henderson spoke against the bill, as creating an objectionable monopoly, until the hour for private bills expired at 9 o'clock, and the committee rose without any report.

The House resumed the consideration of the estimates of the Agricultural Department in Committee of Supply, and adjourned at 10.45.

Decorated the Monuments.

Toronto, June 4.—Yesterday the school children of Toronto decorated the monuments of the honored dead of the city. For the first time that of Egerton Ryerson, as the "Hero of Peace," the founder of Ontario's school system, was so honored. The veterans decorate the military monuments and that of the late Queen to-day.

Discount to Visiting Ministers.

All clergymen of the Methodist Conference will be allowed a special discount of ten per cent. off all purchases at the Peterborough Cash Bookstore during their visit in town. They are welcome to the freedom of the store, to examine the book shelves and cases, and to write letters at a desk provided for the purpose. The stock of standard books, Bibles, Souvenirs of Peterborough, and postal cards, will be found very interesting. A. H. Stratton & Co.

DEATH FOLLOWED A TERRIBLE ACCIDENT.

Albert Carr Died at the Nicholl's Hospital Last Evening.

At the Nicholls Hospital about 8 o'clock last evening, the death occurred of Albert Carr, who was the victim of a terrible accident at Tweed on Wednesday. The deceased, it will be remembered, had both legs cut off by a freight train, and never recovered from the shock. He was 32 years of age and leaves a wife and three children living at Tweed. The remains were taken to Tweed for burial.

SAD DEATH OF MISS FRANCIS A. YOUNG

Her Demise Occurred Last Evening After a Lingering Illness.

A particularly sad death occurred about 6 o'clock last evening, when Miss Francis Anastasia Young, third daughter of Mr. C. Young, 284 Stewart street, passed away after a lingering illness. The deceased young lady who was 24 years of age had been ill for about a year and a half, gradually becoming weaker until she received the death summons last evening. She was very popular and much beloved amongst her many friends and the news of her death will be received with profound regret by all who knew her.

The deepest sympathy is felt for the sorrowing members of the family, a father and three sisters at home and a brother in Toronto. The family has been bereaved on three previous occasions by the loss of a mother, and two daughters, aged 24 years and 8 years respectively.

The funeral will take place at 2 o'clock on Sunday afternoon from the family residence and proceeded to St. Peter's Cathedral, thence to the Roman Catholic Cemetery.

BAND GAVE OPENING CONCERT IN THE PARK

Excellent Programme Delighted a Large Audience Last Evening.

The opening band concert in the Victoria Park last evening was an event which delighted the hundreds of citizens which thronged the park to listen to the music. It afforded great pleasure to again hear our excellent band in these open air concerts, which promise to be more popular than ever this season. Band music is always popular, but when it is rendered by an organization of such talented and thorough musicians as composes the 57th Regiment Band, the attraction is a great one and it is not surprising that such a large number turn out to enjoy these weekly concerts. Last evening's programme was one of a popular nature and was heartily appreciated and enjoyed, the band playing with its characteristic dash and brilliancy. Several numbers were encored last evening and Bandmaster Gliddon was generous with his selections and frequently responded. The band played a new arrangement of God Save the King last evening, which was very fine and those who left when the first strains of this selection were heard, as is generally the case at these concerts, missed an excellent number and one well worth hearing. The band concerts will be continued every Friday evening.

Feather For Peterborough.

The following letter received by Messrs. J. J. Turner and Sons speaks for itself; —

Chatham, Ont., June 1st, 1904.

J. J. Turner & Sons,
Peterborough, Ont.

Gentlemen,—I take pleasure in enclosing you cheque in settlement of your bill for decorating the streets here for our recent K.O.T.M. convention. I wish to say in connection therewith that I have had considerable experience in handling affairs of this kind and that I consider that the decoration you gave us on this occasion was the very best that I have had the pleasure of seeing at any time, and your firm certainly deserve a great deal of credit for the magnificent display which you put up for us last week. We have the city decorated this week for the Old Boys' Reunion by an American concern, charging the same as you did, that is so far inferior as to cause considerable adverse comment by almost every person who had the pleasure of comparing the two displays; and it certainly reflects great credit on you as Canadians and decorators when your work shows up to such a great advantage alongside your competitors.

Yours truly,
G. W. SULMAN.

Moving Pictures at the Grand.

The London, Ont., Free Press says: "The Toronto Mail and Empire, commenting on the attraction which comes to the Grand next Thursday, Friday and Saturday, says: — The exhibition of moving pictures by the 'Living Canada' Company in Massey Hall last night was all that has been claimed for it. In addition to a series of excellent views showing the late Duke of Cambridge's funeral in a manner which almost made one imagine that the impressive cortege was passing within a few feet, scenes consequent upon the embarkation of Russian troops for the scene of war, the mobilization of a large British naval force, the launching of a battleship, and Queen Alexandra reviewing the colonial troops, besides many others equally as interesting, there was a splendid panorama of the Woodbine on Saturday last. The whole exhibition, in short, is one of exceptional interest. Seats on sale to-day."

Living Canada Company open at the Opera House on Monday, June 6th, for three nights. Change of programme nightly. Prices,—Reserved, 50c; unreserved, 35c, and 25c. Reserved seat plan now open at Ormond & Walsh's drug store.

LICENSE LAW ADMINISTRATION

At the London Conference now in session Rev. Dr. Chown, secretary of the Department of Moral and Social Reform, on Thursday evening delivered an address. In the course of his remarks, after outlining his position, which was a declaration for "practical temperance measures" as against the liquor (prohibition) Act of 1902, he made the following reference:—"The Department of the Provincial Secretary has been true to our interests. The license branch of the Government is now administered in such a way as to give cold comfort to the liquor men."

In making this statement Dr. Chown has only emphasized a well known fact—namely that the Liquor License Law under its present administration has been as effectively enforced as circumstances would permit, for the obstacles in the way of a rigid enforcement of the law are many and great. But Dr. Chown suggested something not entirely in accordance with the conditions, when he remarked that a strict enforcement of the license law was "cold comfort to the liquor men." He should not forget that such an assertion is somewhat sweeping, and like all general statements subject to important modification. Their are numerous hotel men to whom the strict observance of the law would not be "cold comfort." They take the point of view that law observing citizens take of the general statute law and feel that the proper observance of the law is in their own interests. The tendency of the continuously progressive amendments of the liquor law in the way of reducing the number of licenses issued, has had the effect of improving the character of licensees and consequently of the hotels over which they preside, and these are in sympathy with the energetic administration of the license department by its present head. The Ontario License Law, amended in vital respects from time to time, has developed, or at least has been coincident with a greatly increased temperance sentiment and a larger sympathy with restrictive measures looking to, and practically productive of, a diminution of the admitted evils of the intemperate use of intoxicating drink.

Dr. Chown also asserted that when the political power of the liquor traffic is destroyed, "then press on for prohibition." The liquor traffic, as well as prohibition, must, for a time at least, be a political factor. If he had said that when party politics cease to be a determining factor in dealing with such moral problems as that in question, then it will be worth while to "press for prohibition." At the time of the reference to popular vote of the prohibition proposition, as embraced in the Liquor Act of 1902, it was not "politics," but party politics, that stood in the way of prohibition, such as the province has power to give, being the law of the land to-day. If four or five thousand professed temperance voters had not placed the interests of party politics before prohibition, the requisite majority on the referendum vote would have been reached. So long as the voting Ephraim is joined to his idol of party, so long will the cause and course of temperance, through legislation enactment, be obstructed. If the angel Gabriel should come down and enter politics as Provincial Premier, and go to the country on prohibition, he would, judging by the way in which a prohibition proposition was dealt with by party influence, be disastriously defeated. The old truism is suggested, that prohibition will come when moralists vote as they pray.

THE LATE ASSIZES.

In the summaries of the cases at the late assizes there was an omission to give the statement of claim of the defence as well as that of the plaintiffs. In the case of Fife vs. Fife this omission worked an unintended injustice. It may be remembered that the plaintiff in this case made serious allegations, which were denied in toto by the defence. These statements were not considered sufficient, it appears, to warrant trial, for the case was not pushed to trial, but settled out of court.

In the cases of Christie et al., vs. Harrison et al., the cases were dismissed, all charges of improper conduct were withdrawn, and the trustees were awarded full costs.

THE POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT

A great transformation has taken place in the Post Office Department since Sir William Mulock took hold. Saying nothing of the useful reforms he has made in various branches—the railway mail service, dead-letter office, money-order offices and so on—the financial results accomplished are exceedingly satisfactory. In 1896 there was a deficit of nearly $400,000, the postage rates. In 1898, mainly through his efforts, the rate on letters between Canada and the United Kingdom was reduced from five to two cents per half-ounce. The year after the domestic rate on letters in Canada was reduced from three to two cents, as also the rate between Canada and the United States.

Naturally, the revenue fell in consequence, but it recovered by 1902 when there was a small surplus on the year's operations. In 1903 the surplus had risen to $900,000, although in addition to the reduction of rates, he had all along been paying for the Yukon service which was not in existence when he entered office. The post office for the first time in its history, is now a self-sustaining department and something better.

It is contended by Conservatives who do not like to admit what is now manifest even to the blind, namely, that by comparison they made a poor fist of post office affairs, that the reduction in the rates of postage is not a gain to the farmer and mechanic but only to corporations and merchants who purchase large quantities of stamps in the course of their business. As a matter of fact the cost of the post office department is now paid for by those who make use of it, who buy stamps, etc. But when there were deficits ranging from $650,000 to $800,000, as happened under the Conservatives, these had to be made good by extra taxes on the whole people. Under the present order of things, however, we have, first, lower postage rates, and, secondly, a surplus that goes to reduce the taxes on the whole people. It is obvious then, that everybody is profiting by Sir William's capable management, and that of his highly competent deputy, Dr. Coulter.

CHEESE AND BACON.

Nowadays we marvel at the ignorance of the old theologians who fulminated against comets in order to expel them from the heavens. But what is the difference, in principle, between undertaking to regulate those wandering children of the Cosmos and professing to adjust the price of commodities in England by means of legislation passed in Canada?

There has been a decided fall of late in the price of cheese and bacon in the British market, and therefore in Canada too. The imports of bacon into the United Kingdom in 1902, were £13,400,000. Of this we contributed £1,200,000 worth. The rest came principally from the United States and Denmark. Conservatives assert, or at any rate, let it be understood, that, if they were in power, they could send up the price in England, which sets the price there, since we are considerable exporters, by augmenting our duties on foreign bacon. Our imports of bacon, hams and shoulders in 1903 came to $400,000, practically all from the States. By taxing these imports, we should compel Englishmen to pay us a better price for our far larger volume of bacon exports to them! A law to suspend the force of gravity or drive the Niagara River back over the falls, would obviously be just as sane.

In 1902 the United Kingdom imported cheese of the value of £6,150,000, of which Canada sent £4,300,000 worth. The English price regulates the price here. How can any rational being suppose that legislation of ours could increase the English appetite for cheese, or diminish the supply of English-made cheese, or prevent Holland, France and the United States from shipping theirs to England, so as to bring about higher prices there? It is as wild a dream as that of "raising" the price of wheat in Liverpool by taxing American wheat entering Canada.

The Conservatives could not help the Canadian producer of cheese and bacon, but they could, and probably would, injure him by augmenting the cost of the necessities and conveniences of his life and calling.

IF YOU TAKE IT AT THE START

And Use Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets You'll Never Really Know What Dyspepsia Means.

The time to cure Indigestion is right at the start, before it makes eating a terror and sleeping a nightmare; before it gets firmly fixed in the body with all its aches and despondency.

Take it right at the start and Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets will cure it so quickly you will never realize what Dyspepsia really means.

But if your Indigestion has become Dyspepsia and got you firmly in its clutches there is no reason to despair. Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets have cured thousands of cases just as bad as yours. They'll do it again. They never fail. Take the case of Hene Trudel of Three Rivers, Que. He says:—

"My Dyspepsia made alarming progress to the point that I was discouraged. Every day saw me almost in despair, when I gave Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets a trial. To-day I have no headache, no weariness, no pain. I am cured."

Somebody Burnt It.

Belleville, June 4.—An incendiary fire occurred Thursday night at Point Ann, near this city, when a valuable barn and contents belonging to Miss McDonald was destroyed. The loss will be in the neighborhood of $1,000.

Triumphs of Modern Surgery.

Wonderful things are done for the human body by surgery. Organs are taken out and scraped and polished and put back, or they may be removed entirely; bones are spliced; pipes take the place of diseased sections of veins; antiseptic dressings are applied to wounds, bruises, burns and like injuries before inflammation sets in, which causes them to heal without maturation and in one-third the time required by the old treatment. Chamberlain's Pain Balm acts on this same principle. It is an antiseptic and when applied to such injuries, causes them to heal very quickly. It also allays the pain and soreness. Keep a bottle of Pain Balm in your home and it will save you time and money, not to mention the inconvenience and suffering which such injuries entail. For sale by all druggists.

There had always been deficits; it was supposed they were inevitable. After Sir William had been in office two years, the balance on the wrong side was cut down to less than $50,000, whereupon he felt justified in trying the experiment of lowering

SERIOUS CAR COLLISION.

Street Railway Accident Between Port Arthur and Fort William.

Port Arthur, June 4.—Motorman Lampshire and several passengers were injured in a street railway collision last evening. A car which came out of Port Arthur at 7.30 met car No. 12, which was in charge of Motorman Lampshire, on a curve about a mile out of town.

The curve is a sharp one, and the motorman did not see the approaching car until they were almost upon each other. Motorman Comber of the outgoing car put on brakes, reversed his car and jumped, going into a deep ditch filled with water.

Lampshire also endeavored to stop his car, but before he could get it under control the cars came together. Lampshire was thrown out of the car by the impact, and across the ditch, but his limbs being injured, he fell back into the water. He was pulled out by James Rabideau and others.

Car No. 10 and trailer, which was coming from Fort William, were filled with passengers. When the collision came they were all hurled forward in a pile, many being cut by broken glass.

Jas. McMillan had his hand crushed, and Miss Felto was badly cut about the face and otherwise injured. Every passenger in car No. 10 was more or less injured.

The cause of the accident was due to forgetfulness on the part of Motorman Lampshire, who, instead of stopping at the diamond switch, went right on through.

Lampshire has been unwell for some time and this was his last night in the service of the town, his resignation being for effect last night.

DEATH TO NINE PEOPLE.

In Collision of Passenger Trains on Missouri Pacific Railway.

Kansas City, Mo., June 4.—Nine persons are reported to have been killed, and many injured in a collision of passenger trains on the Missouri Pacific Railroad, near Martin City, fifteen miles south of Kansas City. The trains, which met head-on, were the west-bound Colorado Limited, No. 1, and the east-bound Hoisington, Kansas, accommodation, No. 36. A message received by Missouri Pacific officials here, ordered them to send a relief train as soon as possible and to get all the surgeons obtainable, from which it is inferred that numerous passengers were hurt.

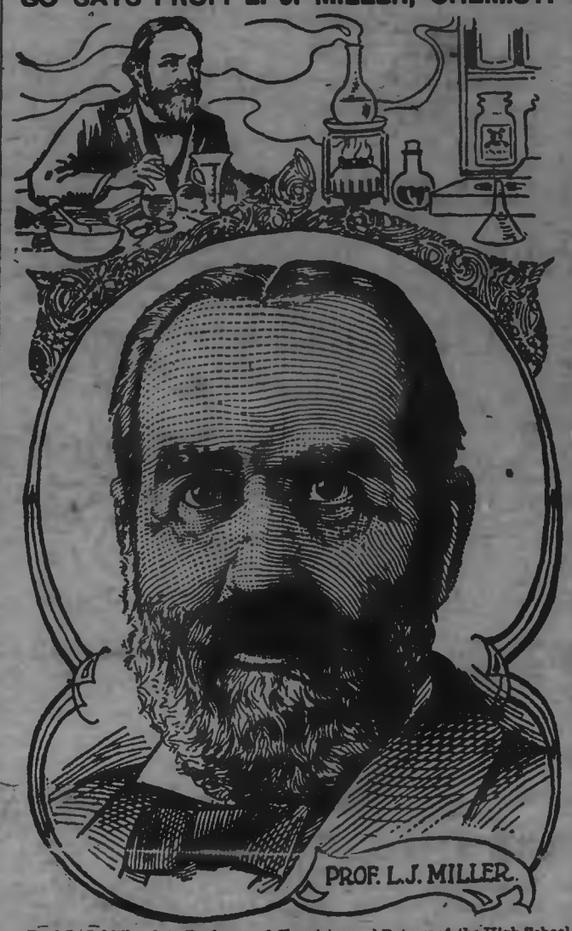
CHEMICAL ANALYSIS

Reveals That "Pe-ru-na is Calculated to Tone up the System, Restore the Functions and Procure Health."

SO SAYS PROF. L. J. MILLER, CHEMIST.



Prof. L. J. Miller, late Professor of Chemistry and Botany of the High School of Ypsilanti, Mich., writes from 3327 N. Clark Street, Chicago, Ill., as follows:

"As several of my friends have spoken to me of the favorable results obtained through the use of Peruna, especially in cases of catarrh, I examined it most thoroughly to learn its contents.

"I found it composed of extracts of herbs and barks of most valuable medicinal qualities combined with other ingredients, delicately balanced, calculated to tone up the system, restore the functions and procure health.

"I consider Peruna one of the most skillfully and scientifically prepared medicines, which the public can use with safety and success."—PROF. L. J. MILLER.

"Builds up the System."

Joseph Ridgeway.

Hon. Joseph H. Ridgeway, Secretary of the American Anti-Treat Society, writes the following letter from the Grand Central Hotel, St. Paul, Minn.:

"It is with great pleasure that I endorse Peruna as an honest medicine, competent to do all it claims. I have used it several times and know of nothing that cures so completely, and at the same time builds up the system.

"I have recommended it to a number of my friends and always feel that I do them a service for I know how satisfactory the results invariably are. I only wish every family had a bottle—it would save much sickness and doctor bills."—Joseph H. Ridgeway.

"Feel Better Than for Five Years."

Mr. James B. Taylor, Roberts, Ind., writes:

"I am at the present time entirely well. I can eat anything I ever could. I took five bottles of Peruna, and feel better now than I have for five years. I have doctored with other doctors off and on for fifteen years, so I can recommend your medicine very highly for stomach troubles. I take great pleasure in thanking you for your free advice and Peruna."—James B. Taylor.

"I Enjoy my Meals as I Used to."

Mr. J. W. Pritchard, Wolf Lake, Ind., writes:

"I am pleased to say that I have been cured of catarrh of the stomach by Peruna. I could hardly eat anything that agreed with me. Before I would get half through my meal my stomach would fill with gas causing me much distress and unpleasant feelings for an hour or two after each meal. But, thanks to your Peruna, I am now completely cured, and can eat anything I want to without any of the distressing symptoms. I can now enjoy my meals as I used to do, and it is all due to Dr. Hartman and his wonderful medicine, Peruna.

"It has been one year since I was cured, and I am all O. K. yet, so I know I am cured."—J. W. Pritchard.

Dyspepsia is a very common phase of summer catarrh. A remedy that will cure catarrh of one location will cure it anywhere. Peruna cures catarrh wherever located. That it is a prompt and permanent cure for catarrh of the stomach the above letters testify.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

General Assembly Discusses the Ministers' Stipend.

WIDOWS AND ORPHANS' FUND

Reports on Theological Colleges Presented —The Relations of Queen's University Discussed—All the Reports Show a Healthy State of Affairs in the Church—Evening Devoted to Foreign Missions.

St. John, N.B., June 4.—A large part of the morning's session of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, was taken up with the discussion of the need for increased salary for Presbyterian missionaries and ministers in these days of highly-increased living expenses. The motion from both the western and eastern sections to raise the minimum stipend from $750 to $800 was discussed at length, and with general approval, and referred to a committee for further consideration.

Dr. Pringle, Yukon, presented forcibly the claims of Good Samaritan Hospital at Dawson, asking for $2,000 yearly. The Dawson Governments is to grant $12,000 for the same purpose.

A Surplus of $5,000.

Dr. Campbell reported for the ministers', windows' and orphans' fund (Church of Scotland section), and expected this fund will have a surplus of $5,000. The report of the widows' and orphans' fund of the synod of the Maritime Provinces was submitted by Dr. Sedgewick. The expenditures for the year were $4,101.28; receipts, $19,325.77, leaving a balance of $5,224.49.

Dr. Warden presented the reports of the same fund (western section), which showed a balance to their credit of $1,068.

Hon. Colin H. Campbell, Attorney-General of Manitoba, reported for the church and manse building. In 23 years of its existence, the fund has erected 589 buildings, valued at about $731,000. It now has an unimpaired capital of $100,000, interest on which is sufficient to carry on the work efficiently. On Feb. 29 of this year there was a balance of $9,304.46.

Encouraging reports were received from Halifax Presbyterian College and Knox College. The latter was presented by Lieut.-Governor Clarke.

Queen's in the Afternoon.

The afternoon session was all taken up by the report of Queen's University and its relation to the church.

The report presented by Principal Gordon showed an increase of 44 students over last year, and a highly-prosperous condition generally. Dr. Gordon discussed the causes which had led up to the feeling in certain quarters that the college should be severed from the church and placed more under the reach of the Government, and was in favor of it as a non-sectarian institution. He spoke of the great value of the college to the church, and though he insisted that nothing should interfere with the broadness of the institution, he deprecated the apparent indifference of the church to its welfare. He thought that loyal graduates and a loving church should work together to make the university one of the strongest educational factors in the land.

Prof. S. W. Dyde opposed the separation of arts from the theological course. He thought the church should support the resolutions of the university council, approving of the connection of university and church. Dr. Fletcher was strongly of the same mind.

Opposed to Concentration.

Rev. J.A. Macdonald of The Globe, said he would oppose the concentration of the church's attention on Queen's at the expense of the Toronto and other universities. Both were needed. Queen's could never hope for Government aid, and the state university had not much chance from private beneficence. He did not see why Queen's could not draw on the private wealth, which Toronto did not touch to any extent.

Other discussion, pro and con, was still going on when the time for adjournment came.

In the evening it was decided to lay the university matter over till Monday. The session was taken up with the reports of foreign missions. The various fields showed good returns, save Corea, where the work was at a standstill during the war, and missionaries were under the protection of the British minister. Financially, the report was very encouraging, thanks to the energy of Dr. Grant, who had raised $13,535 during his year of furlough, and completely wiped out the heavy debt. The receipts for this year were $48,033, compared with $36,875 last year, but deducting special contributions for the debt, a deficit was shown of $8,226 on operations of the year. Inspiring addresses were delivered by Rev. Mr. Martin, convener; Dr. Miller, Dr. Grant, Rev. Mr. Sutherland, Rev. J. E. Sinclair and Dr. MacRae.

Bay of Quinte For Union.

Peterboro, June 4.—At the Bay of Quinte Conference yesterday the following was passed: Moved by Mr. R. H. Barker and seconded by Mayor Chown of Belleville: "Resolved that the lay representatives of the Bay of Quinte Conference desire to express their endorsation of the union of the Presbyterian, Methodist and Congregational Churches, and commend it to the proper authorities."

Rev. Mr. Winters President.

Montreal, June 4.—Rev. David Wister is president of the Methodist Conference for the ensuing year, having received 149 votes out of a total of 233. Rev. Messrs. Sparling, Lett and Taylor were next in favor in the order named.

No Competition.

The uniform success of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in the relief and cure of bowel complaints both in children and adults has brought it into almost universal use, so that it is practically without a rival, and as every one who has used it knows, is without an equal. For sale by all druggists.

Do you know why they use yeast in white flour bread?

When white flour is wet it forms a compact mass, and if cooked thus, as in some kinds of pastry, and eaten, the digestive juices would only act on the outside of each morsel and the process of digestion is greatly prolonged. So yeast is used to make it porous. Yeast, however, consumes a portion of the gluten in the flour, which is already greatly deficient, being lost in the bolting.

AT SAULT STE. MARIE.

Progress of New Company at the "Soo" in Resuscitating Industries.

Sault Ste. Marie, June 4.—The officials of the new company now owning the Consolidated Company's assets, have made a statement to the effect that all the works will be put into operation as rapidly as possible. A special effort will be made to begin the rolling of rails at once, in order to provide large supplies required by the G.T.P. Superintendent Lewis expects to begin rolling rails before July 1, at the rate of 500 tons a day.

The directors of the Lake Superior Company and the subsidiary companies will be elected next week, and they will then decide on plans for the operation of the works. C. Shields has been offered the position of general manager. He will announce his decision at the first meeting of the directors.

Rumor Contradicted.

Details of re-organization of the Soo industries at this end are being rapidly perfected. Following the payment of claims of Speyer & Co. the new company is now holding mortgage and collateral securities, and have continued Receiver B. F. Fackenthal, jr., in possession, which is a right absolute until completion of reorganization. F. H Clergue is still devoting his time and energies to the completion of details. The rumor that Mr. Clergue had demanded possession and been refused was contradicted by Mr. Clergue. No meeting was held here yesterday.

FOUND WHAT HE WAS LOOKING FOR

A Complete Cure for Bladder Troubles in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

James Atwell Tried Other Medicines and Bandages but they Failed—Dodd's Kidney Pills Didn't.

Campbellford, Ont., June 3rd. — (Special.). — "I had lumbago and bladder trouble for years. I could get no relief until I tried Dodd's Kidney Pills and they cured me."

This is the statement of Jas. Atwell of this place, and all his neighbours know it to be true. Speaking further of his cure Mr. Atwell says:

"For five months of the time the pains in my bladder were very severe and in passing my urine would hurt me so as to almost bring tears to my eyes.

"I used other pills and got no relief and I used a bandage and got no relief. Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me completely and permanently."

All bladder diseases are caused by disordered Kidneys. There is just one natural way to cure them—by curing the kidneys with Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Sir William Considers Both Sides.

Ottawa, June 4.—Sir William Mulock has before him the Sydney Board of Trade's application for intervention in the strike of the Dominion Iron and Steel Company's employes. He is consulting both sides as to their views in the matter.

KANSAS WATER SWEPT.

Hundreds of People Rendered Homeless By Cloudburst.

Kansas City, Mo., June 4.—All tributaries of the Kaw River in Kansas rose rapidly yesterday and a serious flood threatened. Railroad traffic is demoralized and already many through trains, both east and west-bound, are stalled.

At Newton, Kansas, over 600 persons have been rendered homeless by a sudden rise of a creek following a cloudburst.

At Emporia, the Cottonwood River overflowed and the business portion of the town was flooded. Much damage was done.

At Council Grove the city is threatened with a flood as serious as that of last year, when the property damage amounted to over $300,000.

SAD DEATH OF DR. MOFFATT.

Prominent Citizen of Norwood Died This Morning.

Word was received in town to-day of the death in Norwood of Dr. Moffat, one of the most prominent men in that village. The deceased, who was 46 years of age, has been living in Norwood for thirteen years, during which time he has been engaged in his profession, that of medical doctor, and he also conducted a drug store, in both of which he was successful. Since last February he had been a sufferer from kidney trouble, which gradually became worse, until it eventually resulted in his death. The late Dr. Moffat was a gentleman who won the high esteem and respect of those with whom he has been associated, and his decease will cause genuine regret in the village, where his many estimable qualities were well known. He was a Presbyterian and a prominent Liberal, having been secretary of the Liberal Association for some time. He was also a prominent Mason, having been at the time of his death the D.D.G.M. for District No. 12. Worshipful Grand Master Harding of Lindsay, will be present at the funeral, which will take place place on Monday at 2.30 to the Norwood cemetery.

He leaves a widow and one son, Gordon, who is cashier in the Union Bank at Norwood, and one daughter, Annie at home. His mother, Mrs. Gallotley, of Banff, is in Norwood at the present time.

Annual Sermon to C. O. F.

Fifth Ward, where the annual sermon to the Foresters will be preached by Rev. E. A. Langfeldt. Members and visiting brethren are kindly asked to attend. Walter Hooper, D. D. H. C. R.

CANDIDATES FOR THE METHODIST MINISTRY.

A Reception Service in George Street Church Last Night.

SESSIONS OF THE CONFERENCE

Deputation From Ministerial Association—Consecration of Miss Lang for Deaconess' Work—Other Conference News.

Yesterday afternoon's session of the Conference was largely attended, and the meeting was one fo much interest. The usual devotional exercises opened the meeting, after which some general business was transacted.

The order of the day was to receive a representative from the Woman's Missionary Society, but this was of necessity postponed, and the event was fixed for Monday afternoon.

The Conference Special Committee for the ensuing year was appointed, and will be composed of the chairmen of the various districts, and Messrs. W. W. Chown, M. S. Madole, R. W. Clarke, H. C. McMullen and G. S. Miller.

Reports of the General Conference Committee and Union Church Relief Fund were read and adopted.

Rev. J. J.. Hare addressed the Conference in the interests of the Whitby Ladies' College, showing its advantages and facilities for the higher education of young women.

It was moved by Judge Dean,, seconded by Rev. S. J. Shorey, "That the Conference has listened with much pleasure to the report of the Ontario Ladies' College, and rejoice over the singular success which has marked last year's operations. The Conference recommends this institution to the confidence and support of the churches, and to the general public of this country."

A committee to settle the time and place of the next annual Conference was then appointed.

Dr. Mallory reported on behalf of Albert College, Belleville which was enjoying great prosperity, and was a source of great blessing to all its students. The usual complimentary resolution was passed in reference to this College.

A resolution was moved by Rev. W. E. Sexsmith, seconded by Rev. W. J. Jolliffe, in reference to Rev. Dr. Smith, who is about to leave as a missionary for England. The resolution expressed the appreciation of Dr. Smith's services in the past, and the hope that his future efforts would be crowned with success. Dr. Smith addressed the Conference in reply, asking for the prayers of the Conference to support him in his labours.

A report of the Committee on the Deaconesses' matter was presented by Rev. J. A. McCamus, and read as follows: "The Deaconesses' Committee appointed by the Conference met and considered the subject of setting apart of Miss Lang, for the work of a Deaconess. Upon due enquiry we ascertained that Miss Lang had been examined and duly received by the Deaconesses' Board of the Toronto Conference. Having therefore satisfactory evidence of the candidate's qualifications, we cordially recommend her to be set apart for the work of a Deaconess, according to the provisions of the discipline." The report was received and adopted.

MEMORIAL SERVICE.

A memorial service was then held in memory of the seven ministers deceased during the year. An obituary was read in connection with the lives of each, showing that the church had lost men of ability, integrity and power. The names of the deceased ministers are: William Tomblin, Eli Woodcock, Richard T. Courtice, Thos. S. McKee, John English, John B. Clarkson, Thos. F. Hull and Joseph Kilgour.

Several of the ministers who had been intimately associated with the deceased ministers spoke in feeling terms of the loss sustained by the death of these brethren.

The order of business for the setting apart of Miss Charlotte V. Lang, of Bailliboro as a Deaconess, was then proceeded with by the president, after which Miss E. J. Scott, superintendent of the Deaconesses' Home addressed the Conference.

MISS SCOTT'S ADDRESS.

Miss Scott believed the time had come when it was necessary to appeal to the Ministers of the Methodist Church of Canada. The demand was very great for young women, and if the Home were to reach the best young women for this work they must do so through the ministry. The young women are coming to us said Miss Scott, but not as fast as we can use them. We have just had our seventh annual convention of the Bible Training School, the only one in Canada. Miss Scott had recently visited the large cities in the States and had found that at least one-third and often two-thirds of the young ladies in the training schools there were Canadians, who had gone there because they were not aware that there was a School in Canada. It was time to wake up and for the ministers to let the people know where they could send their girls. In the last seven years there had been 90 graduates, 32 of which number had gone to the foreign field under the Woman's Missionary Society, which would only send young women which had attended this school. It was not necessary to enter the Deaconess work if one attended this school, but it would better fit them for any course in life, for there there was Bible Study, industrial training and elementary study in medicine. There was no expense outside of one's board, because of the support of the professional men, the clergy and others well able to give support, and who give their services free of charge. The school was well equipped and provided a most efficient course of study. To-day they were facing a problem of the necessity for more room. Five years ago, it was thought that there would never be required accommodation for more than 25, but for the last three years the school has been crowded, and last year eight had to room outside the school ,and others were refused altogether. An effort was being made to raise $100,000, and the school had, without any effort, recently received $1,250 besides having a legacy of $6,000, as well as some valuable property. Miss Scott hoped that the Conference would feel interested in the welfare of the school, which contained more young women from the Bay of Quinte than from any other Conference. "If at any time you preachers are unwell and want to have a Sunday morning free, let us know and we will gladly send a speaker who will tell you of the work of the school," concluded Miss Scott, amidst hearty applause.

MINISTERIAL ASSOCIATION.

Rev. W. J. Jolliffe then introduced to the President three representatives of the local Ministerial Association, Rev. J. C. Davidson, Dr. Torrance and Rev. J. Bastow.

REV. J. G. DAVIDSON'S ADDRESS.

Rev. Mr. Davidson was pleased to extend most hearty greetings and a warm welcome to the Conference from the Ministerial Association. He congratulated the President upon his election, feeling assured that the honour was one well deserved. The work of the Ministerial Association had been at all times very satisfactory, and he wished that it would be duplicated in every town and city throughout the province, so that the ministers would stand more closely together in working for the public interest, and be more in sympathy in their religious labours and in serving the one Master of the one Christian church. The ministers in Peterborough, representing the four churches, met every month in one room and discussed problems of general interest to religion and morality. The meetings were very successfully carried out, and it was pleasing to note the men of different beliefs and opinions, meeting together and discussing in a friendly manner their differences in opinion, and though all could not think exactly alike, all were working for one common end. Much was gained by speaking in a straight forward manner, for it seemed to the speaker that all over the Dominion the churches were suffering by not coming in close enough contact, and in speaking out the truth. This had an important bearing on church union. No communion should give up its gifts, secured by long years of history, and thoughtful and careful study and deliberation. If a union were effected between any communions at the sacrifice of their long honoured principles, it could not be a lasting or a satisfactory one. The Methodist church had many advantages of elasticity and adaptability of training its people in extemporary prayer, of the power of organization and in bringing up effectively the work of the laity of the church. "We as Anglicans have treasures in connection with our church, and do not ask us to give up those treasures," said Mr. Davidson. There might be, what seemed a peculiar difference between the churches, but that when the time of apprehension goes by, that these peculiarities may be some parts of the great heritage which God has given His people to uphold. As preachers of righteousness all ministers had a common ground. If there was ever an age when righteousness was needed it was the present age. The speaker referred to the necessity to protect home life and urged that the church should unite in denouncing the wide-spread sin of racial suicide and in proclaiming the Divine command to multiply and replenish the earth. Canadian children unborn through revolt against Nature's laws should be to-day brightening a pure family life, and going forth to develop our great Western possessions instead of Doukhoborea, Mennonites and Mormons who were being imported in their places. The speaker closed by referring to the sin of political corruption which was the monopoly of no one party, but was infecting the country's atmosphere. There should also be plain speaking from every pulpit on this national evil and its sinfulness exposed.

Mr. Davidson's address was spirited and eloquent one and was heartily applauded.

REV. DR. TORRANCE'S WELCOME.

Rev. Dr. Torrance could remember when 10 years ago he had welcomed the Methodist Conference to Peterborough as he wished to do on the present occasion. But since that time the Methodist and Presbyterian churches had been enjoying a courtship; it was, as all who had experienced it knew, a delicate operation and it was dangerous to do too much or too little of it, but he believed that the two churches were winning one another's affections, and that eventually a unity would be consummated. Dr. Torrance believed church union to be desirable and, also, notwithstanding the difficulties, it was feasible he thought. Nothing was too hard with God. The New Testament speaks of one church, one flock and one baptism, and the speaker thought there should be an external union to carry out Christ's plan, that the world might be one for Him. Dr. Torrance liked to think of the time of united churches, the characteristics and strength of each church united with the power of Wesley and Calvin and knew that it would be a power for good, and with the union successfully effected other churches would join also he thought. He hoped and believed that the day was coming when there would be one great Protestant church in Canada.

Rev. J. Bastow also said a few words of welcome.

Rev. Mr. Wilson was pleased to welcome the ministers to the Conference. He had been for four years a member of the Association, being its chairman for two years and it had been a pleasure and a blessing for him to attend the meetings. He was only endorsing the sentiments of the Conference when he stated that it was a great pleasure to be visited by these ministers.

The meeting then adjourned until evening.

THE RECEPTION SERVICE.

Last night's meeting in connection with the Bay of Quinte Conference, was in some respects, the most important of the Session. It was devoted entirely to the reception of the candidates for the ministry. There were three of these, J. Fletcher Chapman, Charles W. Barrett, and Walter S. Smart. These young men were at last night's meeting, and each told briefly of his call to the Christian ministry and his conversion.

After this exercise, the resolution advising the acceptance of the candidates, was moved by Rev. Caleb Parker of Norwood, and seconded by Rev. George Brown of Belleville, each of whom spoke at some length on the work of the Christian ministry, and offered good advice to the candidates.

The meeting was opened by the President, Rev. J. P. Wilson, B.A., and after a prayer, Rev. N. Burwash, Chancellor of Victoria University, offered the opening prayer. The secretary then called the names of the candidates for ordination, who responded, and each addressed the Conference briefly. A synopsis of these addresses is given in a subjoined article.

A resolution providing for the reception of the young men into the ministry and the ordination of any who have not been previously ordained, on Sunday, was moved by Rev. C. Parker, who delivered an eloquent and helpful discourse, in which some wise counsel was given to the young men who were asking to be vested with the authority of the Methodist ministry. He began by congratulating the President upon his election and referred to the very pleasant relations that had existed between the president and himself, of which, perhaps, only they themselves knew. It was gratifying to him to address Mr. Wilson as president of the Conference, but felt totally inadequate to do what he had been asked to do: speak to the young men on the duties of the ministry, because of the imperfections in his past life, and he would prefer that a better man than himself had been chosen to give this address.

The Christian ministry, said Mr. Parker, is the most solemn, most dignified and most important work in this life, and requires ability of mind and heart. He was very pleased at the experiences which the young men had related. They had the true ring about them. The first essential of a successful preacher was goodness, and for this there could be no substitute. A minister may have all the culture that education can give, but without true goodness there can be no success in the ministry.

If they were to prove worthy of their vocation they must understand conversion, and experience it. That they might enjoy the franchise of heaven and wear the crown of the righteous man, means that there must be resolution of souls. He was glad to hear one of the young men say that his ambition was to be a man. There could be no higher ambition than to be a man and do a man's work.

A preacher, said the reverend gentleman, must not only be a saint, but he must be a saint such as men may copy. There is not much room in the ministry for angels. In the past this earth was occasionally visited by angels, but latterly God has not seen fit to send these heavenly inhabitants to the earth, and after all "angel" means "messenger," and perhaps He intends that the ministers shall do the work of the angels, and certainly all may be the messengers of goodness and grace.

Then, they must not only be good men but working men. There is nothing so uplifting in this world as a noble purpose, and surely there is no more noble work than that of preaching, and it is worthy of every true and dignified man. He considered it an honour to be a working man, and all men, who are largely arbiters of their own future are and have been working men.

Working men have done a great deal for the world, and this brings the thought that these young men were now making a beginning and are becoming identified with the great brotherhood of the Methodist ministry, which seemed to him like the British Empire, for wherever one went he was sure to find Methodism and Methodist preachers.

The church guarded zealously the entrance to the ministry, and rightly so. One of the first requisites is Character. He was glad to see that in the election of the Bishops in the Methodist Episcopal church in the United States, the first qualification is goodness of character, and surely this should be so the world over.

Addressing the young men he advised them to lay their hands upon the home life of the people to whom they ministered. He was a little afraid that the church was getting away from first principles. Study men, said the speaker, not the mummies of Egypt, but living men of the 20th century.

"Where are the men to come from to be the governing power of our country" asked Mr. Parker. From the quiet home circle, and he would like to impress upon the mothers the importance of this work. They are helping to run the world.

Surely such an important work as this needs all the bravery and courage of which they are capable. The British Empire would not be what it is to-day had it not been for the influence of the home life upon her sons. If the home life is right, all the other things will be right.

He counselled the young men to be preachers, in every sense of the word, and to make the most of their opportunities. "Preach sermons," said the reverend gentleman, "for there are such things as sermonettes, born on Saturday night, and they are so sickly that they can hardly live until the next night."

The young men of Canada should thank God for the advantages enjoyed in Canada.

The mission of the ministry is to tell men that they are lost and found again in Christ. He counselled the candidates for the ministry to preach the Gospel faithfully and uphold the dignity of the office.

THE SECONDER.

Rev. George Brown, of Belleville, seconded the resolution to receive the candidates. He also congratulated the president upon his election, and heartily seconded the resolution. He thanked God that additions were being made to the ministry, and that the candidates were of such worthy characters. The best, however, as needed for the church. Right is might and His truth will yet prevail, but the end is not yet, and there will be a hard and long fight. The drink traffic still pursues its work and the Higher Criticism still seeks to rob the Gospel of its efficiency; death, and poverty and crime are rampant everywhere. In the mad rush for wealth men are becoming subservient to their lower natures, and are neglecting the development of the better.

Granted that things were never quite as good as they are now, still where good is there evil is also and it has to be fought against. The call to-day is for men, men not only

THE RICH AND THE POOR.

Striking Contrast at Early Morn in University Park, Toronto—Society on Horseback—The Scrub Woman.

Hush! The birds are at matins in the trees, and the beauties and richness of cathedral service are as nought compared with the sound and scene so hallowed. The park, resounding with awakening life, is their church; the branches, as yet unleaved, but rich in bursting buds, their altar; and the sky, in which the greys of early morning are giving place to blue and white, their canopy.

Listen! They sing and chirp of life and hope, and their song needs no interpretation. Gladder hearts ne'er sent up to heaven so honest a venite. It is their morning sacrifice, ascending to the sky in tremulous melody. Was ever religious edifice so sacred as the trees? Were chanted matins ever so free from discord?

Alas! How rudely is fancy sometimes shaken! Matins must have ceased, for there are two of the feathered saints (!) fighting over the proverbial early worm! Poor worm! He might have known he was in the vicinity of the Parliament Buildings, "where every prospect pleases, and only man is vile." And, despite the beauty and glory of surrounding nature, those hungry songsters will feud and fought—just as the political gods within the solemn pile of handsome architecture across the way had recently wrangled and fought—to the ultimate sorrow of other worms. But to-day that temple has become a temple of peace. The wicked have ceased from troubling, and the province is at rest.

A Morning Gallop.

Look! A lady on horseback and the hour not yet six. Ye gods! How she sits the saddle, cool, erect and beautiful; her fair form radiant with the glow of abundant health; her body exquisitely shaped and clad in riding habit. How her eyes sparkle with the delight of living, and her cheeks and lips glow in tints of red, laughing defiance to the painter's brush.

Now she is off, and the splendid animal, with champing of bit and prancings, dilates his eager nostrils, takes in the invigorating air, and in a moment he dashes round the curve. What a splendid scene, and how the birds on the branches nearby fluttered with excitement as horse and rider passed, as though in fear of coming danger. Now come others, each equiped for the morning canter or gallop; each bearing signs of heartfelt pleasure in the resplendent scene around, toned by the softening gleam of early morning light. It was, after all, a scene for the rich. The glow of coming summer, the young leaves, the gentle breeze, the song of the birds, all, all essentially for the rich. The valet and dainty chambermaid had knocked at the bedroom door. The riding habit and breeches had been placed in readiness by menial hands, and the horses were groomed and waiting in the stable yard, their bridles held by the dirty hand of a tired and sleepy groom. But the park was simply delightful, don't-you-know.

Birds Sang to Her.

Who was she? Well, it is really hard to tell. "Big Ben" had just boomed out seven and she was walking quickly across the park, looking neither to the right nor left. Her dress was plain, exceedingly plain, and her hat in most perfect harmony with her dress. Her hair was turning grey and her brow, perhaps once of snowy whiteness, was wrinkled and creased. Her cheeks appeared sunken and her mouth drooped at the corners. A strange, sad face to look upon but brave withal and her eyes seemed fearless. But eyes oftentimes reveal the secrets of the soul.

Then why this detail? She's only a scrub-woman. Yes, only a scrub-woman. Only a poor, hard-working little woman who rises every morning at half-past five, tired, from a bed to which she had gone tired the previous night; who moves quietly about the kitchen lest she might awaken her three little children while she tidies up and makes herself a cup of watery tea to wash down a little bread and butter. The beauties of Queen's Park in the early morning to her poor distorted vision have little charm. She sees only the office, the floors, the stairs, the landings and her pail and brushes, and wonders, with a great intellectual effort, if there'll be more than the ordinary amount of dirt to clean up.

Poor woman! She doesn't ride a horse in Queen's Park in the early morning; but she loves her children, works hard for them and bears silently many unpleasant hints, winks and innuendoes thrown gratuitously at her during the day from gentlemen in the office, many of them possessed of morals as questionable as the ascent or descent of man.

But, after all, she is only a scrub-woman, without horse, groom or lady's maid. Yet it was to her that all nature spoke this morning, though maybe she did not hear the many voices which eloquently tell of life, death and resurrection.—Toronto Telegram.

Theater For Rehearsals Only.

Maiden lane contains the most curious theater in London, if not in the world. There is no fixed hour for the performances at this strange theater. They take place any time between 10 in the morning and 6 in the evening. Nothing is charged for admission, and the actors there have to pay instead of being paid. It is called the Rehearsal theater, and only rehearsals take place there.

An Encouraging Message

I have a message of hope and good cheer, of encouragement and inspiration to every suffering woman. I have endured the torture due to female troubles and the consequent despondency and mental agony almost to the point of despair, and I have been restored from this condition to a state of vigorous health, and to the happy, exhilerating frame of mind which accompanies physical well-being. This change has been brought about wholly by the use of ORANGE LILY.

In addition, I have had the privilege and pleasure of inducing multitudes of other suffering women to give ORANGE LILY a trial, and have received thousands of enthusiastic acknowledgements of the blessings it has brought to them. The following is a sample:

Truro, N. S., April 5, 1904.

Dear Mrs. Currah,—Your very kind letter was received yesterday. In reply to your question about my health, I am thankful to say that I am very well. As I have never given you a statement of my case you may be interested in it.

For several years I have suffered untold agony. This suffering was continuous, but I would have violent attacks every few weeks, each attack lasting several days. The first Sunday in November, I felt the pain increasing and so did not go to prayers. The rest of the family did go and soon after the forcing down pains seized me and I had to remain on the floor until their return. I was in great pain all night, and was very sick for a whole week.

Then Mrs. L. came to see me and told me of your wonderful medicine. I got my husband to send for it right away, as I was too sick to write myself. (My doctor could do nothing for me.) I have used 6 boxes of ORANGE LILY, have had three months of good rest, and am now well, never better in my life. I have not had the old pains since. I often ask my husband if it is myself that is going around and doing my own work. I can scarcely believe it. It brings tears of joy to my eyes. I could shout it to all the world. I cannot speak enough in its praise.

Your friend, MRS. E. H. F.

Receiving as I do, dozens of such reports each day, I felt impelled to make known to my suffering sisters the merits of ORANGE LILY. It differs from the other so-called remedies in that it is not taken internally. It is a strictly local treatment, and is applied directly to the affected organs. Its curative elements are absorbed into the congested tissues, expelling the stagnant foreign matter which has been irritating the membrane and oppressing the nerves, and a growing feeling of physical and mental relief is noticeable almost from the start. It is a positive, scientific remedy, and even if you use no more than the Free trial Treatment you will be very materially benefitted.

FREE TRIAL OFFER.

I want every reader of this who suffers in any way from painful monthly periods, irregularities leucorrhoea, inflammation or congestion of the womb, pains in the back, etc., to send me their addresses, and I will forward at once, without charge, 10 days' treatment. If your case is not far advanced it may entirely cure you, and in any event it will do you much good. I am so earnest in making this statement, and so positive that it is true, that I trust every sufferer who reads this notice will take advantage of my offer and get cured at home, without a doctor's bill.

MRS. F. C. CURRAH, WINDSOR, ONT.

ORANGE LILY is recommended and sold in Peterborough by Mr. W. B. Walsh, Druggist, 246 George Street.

FORTUNES IN DISGUISE

SOME REMARKABLE WINDFALLS IN OLD PAINTINGS.

Picture Bought for One Shilling Was Re-sold Three Times in Six Days, the Last Sale Being for £500—A Titian Among the Lost Carried Away From Italy by One of Napoleon's Generals.

Some few years ago, in the course of a case tried at the prosaic County Court of Westminster, says The London Standard, it was stated that a picture bought for 1s. was sold within 24 hours for £78, changed hands again within two or three days at £250, and 48 hours later found yet another purchaser at £500.

This instance of large profits and quick returns is probably without precedent, insomuch as transactions of this nature are generally preceded by careful cleaning, which naturally takes a considerable time; but apart from the rapid augmentation in price, the past few years have seen many instances of surprising bargains in canvas and paint.

A few weeks ago a case in point was revealed when a portrait of a lady by Nattier, the property of a retired merchant, living at Baintree, Essex, on failing to achieve a local bid of over £10, was sold at Christie's for 3,100 guineas, or 651 times the sum (£5) that its late owner had paid over fifty years before.

This romance of the auction room was preceded earlier in the year by the extraordinary rescue from obscurity of a Gainsborough whose existence had been entirely unnoticed. The picture in question, measuring 30 inches by 25 inches, the property of a family living at Worthing, who had no idea what a treasure they owned, was offered for £5 to a Bond street dealer, who refused to purchase it, and was then taken to Messrs. Christie's, where it was put up at auction and knocked down for £9,450—a veritable windfall for the vendors.

Discovering Titians.

One of the peculiarities of picture finds is the fact that it happens with comparative frequency that several derelict examples of the same painter's art are revealed about the same time in different corners of the world. Thus about three years ago there was quite a run upon Titian's paintings; a picture of a girl seated at a table on which is a heap of gold was brought to light at Plymouth a short time after a Venetian painter named Brass discovered that under a painting he purchased, with three others, for £4, from a Dalmatian peasant was a St. Sebastian by the great painter of the Italian Renaissance. For this picture, stolen from Italy by one of Napoleon's generals, the discover was said to have had more than one offer of £8,000. In the autumn of 1900 yet another Titian, together with a Bassano, was discovered in a sailor's cottage at Venice by Signor Cantalamessa, the director of the Venice Museum, who gave the owner £4 for the pair of dingy paintings, which, on being cleaned, revealed a Holy Family by Titian and a St. Jerome by Bassano, worth many thousand pounds.

While Titian's works were being revealed on the continent several paintings by Richard Wilson, R. A., were rescued in this country, to the great monetary advantage of their finders. Some sixteen years ago ten of Wilson's paintings sold for £40 apiece, but to-day there is a great vogue for this artist's works, and the price has hardened considerably; consequently, when Mr. Alfred Dixon of Bristol, some years ago, purchased a picture at an auction for 35s., which afterwards was identified as a Wilson, his purchase was, though he did not recognize the fact at the time, a very excellent bargain.

In 1900 a Wilson realized £1,600; it was, therefore, a great stroke of good fortune for a gentleman in Essex, when he purchased the following year a splendid example of the artist's work from a Stratford pawnbroker for 20s. A few weeks later he picked up a half length portrait in oils of Mary Scott, wife of Bishop Burnett, painted by Sir Godfrey Kneller, that had for years been used for the purpose of a fire screen.

A Sixpenny Raphael.

Some few months ago a resident of Pinner, Middlesex, seeing a painted panel in a shop window in the Harrow road, London, that took his fancy, purchased the same for the not overwhelming sum of five pence halfpenny. Some short time after the purchase was made, reading in a newspaper that a small wood panel painted by Raphael and bearing that artist's initial, "R," stamped on the back, had changed hands at 700 guineas, he carefully examined his own purchase, and joyfully found that it also bore the sign manual of Perugino's greatest pupil.

This is not the only painting by Urbino's most famous son which has recently been discovered; in 1899 a picture dealer purchased in Paris for 16s. 8d. a frame containing a dirty picture, which, when restored, revealed itself an "Adam and Eve," that was subsequently sold for £3,200. The history of this painting recalls in a measure the fact that the same artist's "Three Graces" was picked up by one Henri Raboul, some time Deputy for Herault, among a lot of old furniture in Italy. An attempt to sell the picture to the Louvre authorities for about £30 failing in 1822, it was put up at auction and withdrawn when only 600 francs was bid for it. Purchased eventually by an Englishman for £150, the picture passed through a number of hands until it was ultimately acquired by the Duke d'Aumale for £25,400 As is well known, the Duke at his death left Chantilly and its artistic treasures, including the Raphael, to the French nation, which at one period had refused to give a thousandth part of the sum that it eventually fetched for the famous picture that is now one of its choicest artistic treasures.

Some Rare Finds.

The recent discovery in South Wales and purchase by a Cardiff artist for a comparatively small sum of a portrait of a lady playing a mandolin, which is said by experts to be a Reynolds worth 3,500 guineas, recalls the fact that a picture by Guido that was sold in Torquay a few years ago for 5s. eventually reached £2,000. Another rare bargain that recently came to light was the discovery of a painting entitled "The Betrothal," by Jacob G. Cuyp, the great Dutch artist, that is now in the possession of Mr. Sanderson of Newbigging, near Dundee. Although 25 years have elapsed since he made the purchase for 17s. 6d. at a sale of furniture in Newbigging, it is only within the last few months that the present owner of the gem learned of his good fortune. When Turner's "Grand Canal in Venice," which was bequeathed to the Metropolitan Museum in New York by Cornelius Vanderbilt, was sold to a dealer in 1860, it realized £2,520; when purchased by Mr. Vanderbilt from Lord Dudley its price was £10,090, and now it is valued at £20,000. It was, therefore, a rare stroke of luck for Capt. Treharne, a visitor from Devonshire, when he purchased a sea piece by the great artist at an old curiosity shop in Barmouth for 25s. The picture, which was painted on an oak panel, was unframed and slightly dilapidated, but when it had been cleaned and two or three coats of varnish had been removed the initials "J. M. W. T." duly appeared, and this bargain in oak and paint was pronounced by an expert to be worth £700.

The Irishman's Cant Hook.

A farmer, accompanied by several of his hired men, went into the woods one morning in the fall of the year to cut down some trees. When about to begin work it was discovered that the cant hook had been left behind. Turning to one of the men, an Irishman not very long over, the farmer instructed him to drive back to the farm for the missing tool. The Irishman did not know what a cant hook looked like, but was averse to exposing his ignorance, so drove off on his errand, trusting to find some one at the farm who would enlighten him.

At the barn, however, there was no one to help him out of his dilemma. Casting his eyes about the place for the thing which would be most likely to bear the name of "cant hook," he saw a mooley cow with never a sign of a horn upon its head and concluded it was that he had been sent for.

Procuring a rope, he fastened the cow to the rear end of his vehicle and exultantly drove back to the woods.

"What in Sam Hill have you there?" shouted the farmer on seeing his messenger and the cow. "I sent you for a cant hook to use in moving the logs. What have you brought that cow for?"

"Be jabers, boss, divil another thing could I see around the barn that can't hook but this!"—Star of Hope.

Fifty Years on Lloyd's.

Presentations to journalists, like those to other individuals, are, no doubt, common enough (says The Westminster Gazette); but that of a Chippendale writing cabinet made to Mr. Catling on Tuesday was quite out of the ordinary, inasmuch as it was given by the editorial, composing, and reading staffs of Lloyd's Weekly News in celebration of the jubilee of Mr. Catling's connection with the paper, "to mark their appreciation of his qualities as chief and friend."

It was in 1854 that Mr. Catling, then, as he said in acknowledging the gift, a "rough, raw country lad," commenced his engagement upon the paper as a "turnover" hand. "However," he added, "I did not come from the country with the idea of going back to it. There was no 'back to the land' cry in those days." He had come to stay; and this week marks his fiftieth year on the paper—unbroken in service, but marked by the rise of the "turnover" hand to the post of editor, when, in 1884, he succeeded Blanchard Jerrold, who, in his turn, had followed his brilliant father, Douglas Jerrold, in 1857. It was in 1852 that Jerrold became editor; two years later young Catling joined the staff, and from that day to this the connection has continued.

Made Believe It Was a Bee.

Lady Henry Somerset one day visited a hospital and saw a little crippled boy.

The doctors were changing the plaster cast on his crippled limb, an operation which the surgeons said was extremely painful.

Yet the brave little fellow kept perfectly still, without wincing or making any noise except a queer low buzzing sound with his mouth.

After the doctors left, Lady Somerset asked him how he could possibly stand it.

"That's nothin'," he answered. "Why, I just made believe that a bee was stingin' me. Bees don't hurt very much, you know, and I kept buzzin' because I was afraid I'd forget about it's being a bee if I didn't."

The little fellow's courage impressed Lady Henry wonderfully, and from that time on she became devoted to children—especially sick and crippled ones.

"Bobs" as a Speaker.

Notes often save a man from disaster, as they did the late Commander-in-Chief when he made his maiden speech in the House of Lords. As if to prove that physical courage has little to do with the successful accomplishment of such an ordeal, Lord Roberts was obviously nervous, and had not been speaking more than a couple of minutes when he totally forgot what he had intended to say. He began a search for his manuscript, which was of course in the last pocket in which he looked. And having found the right place in his notes he frankly read the rest of them to the House, who cheered him more loudly than they are accustomed to cheer in that august chamber. —London Chronicle.

Favorite Japanese Card Game.

A favorite card game of the Japanese is played as follows: One hundred well known proverbs are selected, each divided into two parts and each part printed on a separate card. The host of the evening has the hundred first halves, which he reads aloud, one by one, the hundred second halves are dealt to the other players, who place their hands face upward on the "tatami," or thick mat of rice straw, on which they sit. As the first half of any proverb is read the holder of the second half throws it out, or if he sees it unnoticed among his neighbor's cards seises it and gives him one of his own. The player who is first "out" wins. It is a very simple game, but it affords great entertainment to the players, for the quicksighted and keen witted are constantly seising the cards of their duller and slower neighbors, and this leads to much laughter and many good natured sarcasms.

CLEANING HOUSE TIME

is near at hand. The question of what to do with your walls to have them sanitary, neat and attractive, has to be decided.

You will not want to use kalsomine, because after it has been on a short time it rubs off on everything that comes in contact with it; and then when you wish to do it over again comes the nasty mess of washing off the old coat, which costs as much as to put it on in the first place. Wall-paper with its mouldy paste is unsanitary, and stops wall respiration. The Doctor says, "Walls to be healthy must breathe."

CHURCH'S COLD WATER

is a porous cement and admits of the free passage of air. It is permanent, and sanitarians endorse the use of it. Anyone can do plain tinting, and with the aid of instructions we give, and designs we furnish, an ordinary workman can do very nice decorating. Cheaper than paint or paper. ALABASTINE is for sale by all Hardware and Paint Dealers—in packages only. For book of tints and further particulars, write mentioning this paper to

CREATED A SENSATION IN GALT

The Whole Country Ringing with Praises of

PSYCHINE

(PRONOUNCED SI-KEEN)

Mr Weaver, Cured two years ago, continues to spread the good news of his recovery from Grinder's

CONSUMPTION

Publicly corroborates the history of his restoration to health, as published recently by the daily press of Canada.

Doctors and specialists despaired of a cure and gave Mr. Weaver but three months to live.

MR. L. WEAVER, GALT.

Who desires to publicly confirm the history of his remarkable recovery, as published quite recently by the daily press of Canada. Mr. Weaver was as bad a case of Consumption as might well be imagined. He was employed for five years in the grinding room of James Warnock & Co's, better known as "The Axe Factory," in Galt. Here he contracted consumption from the steel-laden dust. He persisted with local physicians' treatment for over a year, also consulted a number of lung specialists. They all did their utmost to cure, but declared Mr. Weaver's an incurable case of grinder's consumption giving him but three months to live. Mr. Weaver himself, despaired of a permanent cure, as two of his brothers before him had already died of consumption.

It is but seldom that any remedy receives such strong endorsement as Psychine is receiving daily. Seldom indeed that the cured come forward voluntarily to state their case a second time so that all may be convinced of the truth. The instance herein reported from the busy town of Galt, Ont., is a typical instance of what is occurring in every city, town, hamlet and country-side in this broad Dominion. Scores of people living in Galt were long ago conversant with the facts of this notable case; while to others the publication of it in the daily press came as a revelation.

Scores of people recently called upon Mr. Weaver to see if all that had been published was really true. Medical men evidenced a desire to see the good work wrought with Dr. Slocum's famous remedy, Psychine (Si-keen). Mr. Weaver has also been the recipient of hundreds of letters from all parts of the country enquiring as to his case.

Sad and sorrowful is the first chapter of the story told by the man whose case has excited the interest of Lung Specialists and of medical men and whose cure and complete restoration to health is the talk of Galt and the wonder of the medical profession. Such, in brief, are the opening remarks of the case of Mr. Weaver, of Galt, whose portrait appears above.

Mr. Weaver is to-day a splendid specimen of manhood and the picture of robust health. His lungs give him no more trouble. He is strong and healthy, eats and sleeps well, and feels better than he has for ten years.

Mr. Weaver's Case as given to the press, January 30th, 1904.

Dr. T. A. Slocum:—For five years I worked as a grinder in the James Warnock, better known as the Axe Factory, here. The dust from the grinding did for me what it has done for many others. It gave me "grinder's consumption." I was compelled, of course, to quit work. I persisted with two local physicians, and also consulted a number of lung specialists. Their diagnoses were all alike:—"You have Grinder's Consumption, and may possibly live three months, but you are liable to drop off at any time." This was over two years ago.

I then almost abandoned myself to what seemed my fate, my two brothers having died of consumption a few years previous. I was in an advanced stage of the disease. I was thin and weak, had night sweats, chills and fever, and a terrible cough.

I saw your advertisement of "Psychine," and I determined to try it. Through the kind advice and assistance of REV. MR. KETTLEWELL, Methodist minister in charge here at that time, I procured your treatment. The very first bottle gave me great relief, and after taking six bottles I could walk down town and even work occasionally. Have since then entirely regained my health, and work hard every day. I can eat and sleep well. I feel better to-day than I have for years. I owe my life to Psychine.

Yours truly,
LEVI WEAVER.

Mr. Weaver's second statement after the above was published.

GALT, ONT.

Dr. T. A. Slocum:—The publication of the history of my case in Toronto and Galt papers has caused quite a sensation in this town. There have been scores of people ask me if such were really the case. I have also received by mail numbers of like enquiries. Some people hardly think it possible that I was so near death's door. But I can say for certain that Psychine saved my life and I bless the day I saw Psychine advertised and became convinced of its merits enough to try it. I have spread the good news in three counties, and shall ever continue to praise Psychine. Every word, as published January 30th, is true to the facts of the case.

Yours truly,
LEVI WEAVER.

If you suffer from Lung Trouble, La Grippe, Asthma, Throat Diseases, Pneumonia, Catarrh of the Stomach, Bronchitis, Night Sweats, Loss of Flesh or Run-down System, or diseases where a tonic is required, there is no other medicine in the wide world that will act more promptly or effectively.

PSYCHINE is pronounced SI-KEEN.

For sale at all drug stores, or, if you have not tried it a sample can be obtained by writing to Dr. T. A. Slocum's laboratory, 179 King Street West, Toronto, Canada. Send for Dr. Slocum's Treatise on the prevention and cure of Throat and Lung Diseases.

A sample of Psychine will be sent free of charge to all who desire to test it. Write to-day to DR. T. A. SLOCUM, Limited, Offices and Laboratories, 179 King St. W., Toronto, Can.

One Sided

By MARAVENE KENNEDY

...Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure...

"A wife? You mean a housekeeper. Unless I learn to cook your dinners and make my own dresses you won't marry me. Very well." She laid his ring on the table. "It isn't so much that I object to the work of cooking and sewing, but that you should make it an issue in our marriage."

Weston's handsome face was troubled.

"I love you," he said simply, "love just to look at you, be near you, hear your voice, but there has to be more than an emotion between folks for a happy wedded life. Humanity is pretty poor stuff; we never rise far above our material wants. When a man has just downed a poorly cooked dinner—burnt steak, undone biscuit, soggy pie—he's not just in the humor to appreciate his wife's kisses."

He drew her on his knee and kissed tenderly the mutinous little mouth.

"It's for your happiness as much as mine, sweetheart. I don't want to make a slave of you. We'll have a girl to help with the work, and I won't howl over the bills for my little wife's dresses. But I want you to know how to do things."

"Papa is satisfied with the way I manage his house," she said stubbornly.

Weston glanced at the untidy rooms, the slovenly servant passing the open window. He thought of the unsavory meals he had eaten in "this house" and inwardly groaned.

"But, Lucie," he urged, "wouldn't you rather laugh with me evenings than cry on my shoulder because the cook's left and you've burned the meat up, or because Madame Highflier has ruined your new frock? My sister was raised pretty much as you've been, and I lived with her a year after she was married, so I know whereof I speak. John has dyspepsia and looks as though he wished heaven were his home."

"He had no right to marry unless he could support his wife properly," she retorted unreasonably.

"He earns $6,000 a year," said Weston dryly, "three times what I do." He shrugged his shoulders and laugh-

IN A FLASH WENT DOUGHY HANDS AND ALL AROUND HIS NECK.

ed. "You see, darling, it behooves us to know how to manage our house and our frocks."

"Life is too short to drudge," said she, unmollified. "I want my time for my own—to read, study, travel about."

"That's different," he answered in a constrained voice. "I was thinking of just a little home, with our own pretty yard and garden. I even looked forward, joyfully, to working that same garden myself; and a nice little horse and runabout, and a few weeks' vacation in summer, and one servant just to help—not to manage. My brother Ned lives that way—he and Alice and the two children. Ned don't earn as much as I do, either. So you see—I—I thought"— He waited a little. "Good-by, Lucie," he said softly and put the discarded ring in his pocket.

"It's my ring," she cried, then jerked her hand away as he tried to put it on her finger.

"Keep it, Lucie; it's yours, as are my heart and life. You can send it to me when—you—marry the man who can give you the things I can't."

"I hate you!" she sobbed and rushed from the room.

Weston went slowly down the walk, a serious look on his strong, young face. Perhaps he had bungled, he thought miserably. But he was only a man, practical and unimaginative; he could not know that to the girlish, romantic mind it was simply impossible to think of love as other than thrills, kisses and blissful hours of being together.

Lucie cried heartbrokenly. For a week she stayed at home and hugged her grief—not nearly so joyous a proceeding as hugging Tom and talking and laughing in their jolly way together. But on Thursday she went to see Emma Day. Emma was a music teacher. Then the tide turned. It was a buxom Irish girl with pleasant face and hearty voice. She wanted to take music lessons. She was cook in a foine family, ma'am; she had three hours a day all to herself, so she did, an' could she be afther larnin' to play the pianny at all in a year come last Palm Sunday?

Miss Day looked commiseratingly at the girl's big, unshapely fingers.

"It takes a long time to learn to play the piano well," she said kindly, "and it would cost you about all your wages. Frankly, I would advise against it."

The girl's face fell dismally. She turned to Lucie. "Is it so, ma'am?" she asked piteously. "I cooks on your sthrate, an' I hears you playin', an' I want to play that thune about the shamrock that you plays, ma'am."

She sat down with a thump as Lucie's face, too, spoke disapproval. "I must, ma'am," she moaned. "It's for Ignatius. He's comin' over thin. He loves the pianny—he's to be me man—an' he sings foine, ma'am. There's not his equal in the ould country, an' him a tyin' to me. Shure, an' it's one sided, it is. If I could only do something to plase him; somethin' to make him feel I was desarvin' of his love."

"He'll have your love—yourself!" cried Lucie in a strange, tense voice.

"An' shure an' he will, ma'am; a great hulk who can cook his victuals an' wash an' iron; any girl can do that. I wants to do somethin' for him, somethin' that'll make him feel histed up over, ma'am. 'An' shure an' Katie did this for me,' he'll say. It's the swate consate of men to want their swatehearts to do for thim what they've niver done for no one else. It would be worth all the time an' money, ma'am, jest to see me boy's face whin I sets down an' plays him a thune."

Lucie's fair face was transfigured. To see her Tom's face, to hear him say, "And my Lucie did this for me!"

"You shall play!" she cried joyously. "I'll teach you myself, an hour every day, and you can teach me to cook and to keep house properly. I'm to be married too. It's one sided now, but—it won't be."

Then they both cried a little, but during the next month life was roseate to Lucie and Katie, though they both worked harder than they had ever done before. Lucie had intended to be very dignified about her love affair, but somehow Katie learned as much about Tom and his perfections as did Lucie about Ignatius and his "darlint ways."

Lucie was in the kitchen, hands deep in biscuit dough, dimpled arms moving with scientific motion, face flushed and deeply interested—when in walked Tom. And the look he gave her! In a finish went doughy hands and all around his neck.

"I got the dinner all myself yesterday," was what she said. "And I've made two dresses, and Katie says my pies are as good as hers—she can play exercises now—and, oh, Tom, tomorrow I'm to bake a cake!"

And though two open mouthed, wild eyed Irish girls stood not six feet away, Tom kissed the sweet upturned face "tin whole times, kusmack, for I counted thim meself," wrote Katie to Ignatius.

Wisdom For Wives.

A country vicar in the old country was noted for his excellent fatherly advice to young couples he wedded. He had printed cards of advice, which he used to distribute, besides giving guidance verbally. One of the cards was for the man and the other for the woman. That to the woman ran as follows: "When you marry him love him; after you marry him study him; if he is honest honor him; if he is generous appreciate him; when he is sad cheer him; when he is cross amuse him; when he is talkative listen to him; when he is quarrelsome ignore him; if he is slothful spur him; if he is noble praise him; if he is confidential encourage him; if he is secretive trust him; if he is jealous cure him; if he cares naught for pleasure coax him; if he favors society accompany him; if he does you a favor thank him; when he deserves it kiss him; let him think how well you understand him, but never let him know that you 'manage' him."

First Done at Fontenoy.

The Black Watch distinguished itself at Fontenoy by a mode of warfare which at the time surprised both friend and foe, but has since become a recognized maneuver. Unable to get at the French infantry, who were strongly intrenched, and being therefore incapable of using their formidable broadswords with effect, the Forty-second highlanders, after marching to the ground to the music of their own bagpipes to take up a position, fired a volley and then "clapped down at full length on the ground to let the enemy's shots pass over them." The only exception to this prone attitude was the colonel, Sir Robert Monro, who was so fat and unwieldy that, had he lain down, it would have required a lever to lift him again.

Old English Tracts.

English tracts and sermons of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries are interesting on account of the strange phraseology—a kind of religious slang—which they reveal. Their titles exemplify this slang well, and the following are a few of them:

"The Spiritual Mustard Pot, to Make the Soul Sneeze With Devotion."

"The Snuffers of Divine Love."

"Crumbs of Comfort For Hungry Hoseas."

"Biscuits Baked In the Oven of Charity, Carefully Conserved For Chickens of the Church, Sparrows of the Spirit and Sweet Swallows of Salvation."

TORTURED BY ECZEMA.

A Pitiable Sight to See How These Little Girls Suffered—It Seemed Impossible to Relieve Them Until Dr. Chase's Ointment Was Used—A Perfect Cure.

Young children seem especially liable to eczema. Not only is the suffering from the itching, burning skin intense, but there is always the danger of eczema becoming chronic, spreading over the entire body and lasting for years.

There has never yet been discovered a preparation which is anything like as successful as Dr. Chase's Ointment in the cure of eczema. There are thousands of cases on record to prove this statement.

Bathe the parts with tepid water and castile soap and apply Dr. Chase's Ointment night and morning, and the soothing, healing influence of this Ointment will bring relief quickly and soon make a thorough cure, leaving the skin soft, smooth and natural.

MRS. E. ST. AMOUR, 293 Richelieu St., St. Cunegonde, Montreal, Que., writes:—"For fifteen months I used Dr. Chase's Ointment for my two little girls, Angeline and Antoinette, who suffered dreadfully with eczema. Their hands were all covered with itching sores, and though we tried all sorts of salves and lotions it seemed impossible to obtain a cure.

"Then we heard of Dr. Chase's Ointment and began to use it. As the result of this treatment my two little girls were completely cured, and are happy to be free from this terrible ailment which caused them to suffer so much. I do not believe there is a better Ointment than Dr. Chase's, for I have seen it tested in this case of my children. It was a pitiable sight to see how they suffered, and the cure is perfect."

Dr. Chase's Ointment

Is useful in a score of ways in every home. Where there are children it is well-nigh indispensable as a treatment for skin troubles, chafing, burns and sores. Wherever there is itching or a sore that will not heal it will be used with most excellent results, and will not injure the most delicate skin. 60 cents a box. At all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

☞To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous Receipt Book author, are on every box of his remedies.

GOING SCOT FREE.

The Source From Which This Old Saying Emanated.

The origin of the old saying, "Going scot free," is this: Scot, from the Anglo-Saxon "sceot," a portion, signified in old law a customary tax or contribution laid on subjects according to their ability and embraced all parochial assessments. The conclusion is obvious—namely, that to escape "scot free" was to avoid all such payments of dues and taxes.

Before the reform act the right to vote for parliamentary and municipal officers was vested exclusively in payers of "scot and lot." Rastall (1558) speaks of it as a certain tallage for the use of the sheriff or his bailiff, and in Kent the usual rates paid in Romney marsh for repairing sea walls are known by the same name.

"Scot," says Camden, "is that which from various sources is gathered into one heap"—literally that which is "shot" into a general fund, from the Dutch and low German "schot." This may have come to us through the old French "escot," diner a escot, to dine at an ordinary where each guest paid his "shot," and any one who did not contribute would be said to get off "scot free."—London Answers.

Modesty.

Modesty is one of the sweetest and most desirable qualities one can possess, and yet too much modesty hinders advancement. When this quality is overdeveloped it antagonizes aggressiveness, without which no great success can be attained.

Food and the Face.

She—That new boarder who came today has a beautiful olive complexion. He—Well, after she's been here a few weeks I guess she'll have a prune complexion.

Tortured with Pain.

Too Weak to Work.

ULCERS, BOILS AND PIMPLES ALL OVER HER BODY

Such was the condition of Mrs. Samuel Deits, Zurich, Ont.

She happily found relief from her terrible suffering by using

Burdock Blood Bitters.

A remedy without a rival for the cure of all diseases and troubles arising from bad blood. A record extending over a quarter of a century and thousands of testimonials will prove this. Mrs. Deits writes: "Too weak to work, tortured with the pain of ulcers, boils and pimples all over my body, especially on my face. I had almost made up my mind to give up trying to have them cured. I was ashamed to have any person come to see me, my face was in such a terrible state. I tried everything I could think of but got worse and worse. I was then led to try Burdock Blood Bitters and was surprised at the wonderful change the first bottle made. Altogether I took seven bottles and am now completely cured and am in perfect health again. I feel that B.B.B. saved my life."

The Whole Hog.

Whence comes the expression "to go the whole hog," which occupies so prominent a position in fiscal politics? asks the Liverpool Post. In one authoritative work on such matters it is stated that the phrase probably arose from the Arabian story versified in Cowper's "Love of the World Reproved." Mohammed allowed his followers to eat pork, except one portion of the animal, which he did not specify, and consequently strict Mohammedans were debarred from eating any. Others, however, "thought it hard from the 'whole hog' to be debarred," and so "with sophistry their sauce they sweeten, till quite from tail to snout 'tis eaten." In an American book on political squibs, published in 1844, the author says, "To go the whole hog is an American-English phrase for radical reform and is much used here by the Democratic party to distinguish them from the Federalists, who don't profess such sweeping notions and consequently go only a part of the interesting quadruped in question."

"Had Had Had."

"While you're discussing the peculiarities of the English language," remarked the publisher as at the Franklin Inn club the other afternoon he sat down to his after luncheon cigar, "has it ever struck you that the word 'had' can, with perfect correctness, occur three times successively in an ordinary English sentence? No? Well, it can. Only the other evening it came across an instance. It was at the meeting of a certain association I am interested in, and there the secretary in reading the minutes said, 'The chairman of the committee then reported that the troubles which they had had had now begn overcome.'"

"That's interesting," chimed in the literary man, "but it's nothing to the possibilities of recurrence we can correctly get out of the word 'that.' You may say that that 'that' that that speaker indicated was not that 'that' that that gentleman intended."

City Residents Nearsighted.

"The race is growing nearsighted, owing to city life and the conditions of our civilization," said an eye specialist. "Our visual range is confined to near objects for the greater part of the day," said he, "and this keeps the eyes turned in. An object twenty feet away will make the eyeballs parallel.

"Anything less will turn them in, and people who spend their hours in offices and crowded flats necessarily have a short range of vision, which overworks and weakens the interior muscles close to the nasal cavity.

"The exterior muscles not being so strained are strong and hence cause the eyes to turn out. Let a person who is thus affected spend a week or two in the country and his eyes become normal again, because he gets greater range of vision. Savages are generally farsighted."

Weeed With Music.

Among the Yso Midos, one of the many Burmese-Tartar people, the young men woo their wives absolutely without words, but to the sound of music. On the first day of winter they have a great feast, at which all the marriageable girls gather and listen to the music made by the bachelors, who sit under the "desire tree," each playing his favorite instrument. As the maiden he loves passes him the youth plays louder and more feelingly. If the girl ignores him and passes on he knows that she will have none of him; if she steps up to him and lays a flower upon the instrument, he jumps up, grasps her by the hand, taking care not to drop the flower, and they go away together.

Bottle Purity

Carling's Ale bottles are chemically cleansed and thoroughly disinfected by special machinery.

Every bottle is carefully inspected and passed upon by an expert before being used or re-used.

When filled the bottles are corked air-tight and placed in cold storage where the Ale is aged six months before being placed on the market.

BLOOD DISEASE CURED.

If you ever contracted any Blood or Private Disease, you are never safe until the virus or poison has been eradicated from the system. Don't be satisfied with a "patch up" by some family doctor. Our New Method is Guaranteed to Cure or No Pay. No Names Used Without Written consent.

Cured When all Else Failed

"Could I live my early life over, this testimonial would not be necessary, though I was no more sinful than thousands of other young men. Early indiscretions, later excesses, exposure to contagious diseases all helped to break down my system. When I commenced ... was almost frantic. Doctor after doctor treated me but only gave me relief—not a cure. Hot Springs helped me, but did not cure me. The symptoms ... returned. Mercury and Potash drove the poison in to my system instead of driving it out. I bless the day your New Method Treatment ... when you were first, and finding you had over 25 years' experience and responsible financially, I gave you my case under a guarantee. You cured me permanently, and in six years there has not been a sore, pain, blotch or any other symptom of the blood disease."

140 SHELBY STREET, DETROIT, MICH.

The oven of an Imperial Oxford Range and the old-fashioned spit before an open fireplace do better roasting than any other cooking apparatus invented.
In the olden days the spit had to be kept turning to get all sides of a roast cooked. It is much the same with the ordinary cook-stove. The heat of the oven is greatest on the fire side—roasts, bread, pies, cakes, etc., have to be turned and twisted to get them cooked at all. The result is uneven, unsatisfactory cooking—good food ruined. The diffusive flue construction of the draws fresh air into the fire chamber, ... heats it and diffuses it evenly over the oven, thus heating it quickly, ... and uniformly—back, front and sides are at the same equal temperature. The result is juicy, tender roasts, light, dainty pastry, evenly raised bread—successful cooking.

When you buy an Imperial Oxford Range you get the result of over sixty years' thought and experience in scientific construction of cooking apparatus.

CANDIDATES FOR THE METHODIST MINISTRY.

of strong intellect, but of strong character.

There are many elements, said the speaker, that enter into the composition of the men who are successful preachers.

The first is culture. Culture of the physical, mental and spiritual nature. The physical nature should be preserved as well as the mental and spiritual.

The second element is conscience. The times needs men with whom principle is the principal thing.

Then to live true to conscience requires courage.

Consistency is the fourth requisite. One of the great needs of the world is for men who will do just as they say, and who will take glory in little faithfulnesses.

The last essential mentioned by Mr. Brown was Christlikeness. They could not expect to lead men to Christ unless they were imitating His life. He admonished them to love their brethren and exemplify a Christian character.

Following Rev. Mr. Brown's address Miss Helen Davies sang to the delight of the audience, "With Verdure Clad," from The Creation.

The President then addressed the candidates briefly, telling them that they would always have two classes of people to preach to, sinners as well as saints, and advised whom to give them something fresh and wholesome from the Gospel. Do not, said he, take criticisms into the pulpit which should be reserved for the study. He asked them to read carefully their ordination vows.

"May God bless you and make your lives great successes under His guidance," said the President in conclusion.

This concluded the evening meeting.

THE CANDIDATES FOR ORDINATION.

Personal Sketches of the Three Young Men Received Last Night.

How They Received the Call to Preach —Their Story as Told by Themselves.

The three candidates of the ministry whose reception took place last night, related in their own words their conversion and call to the ministry. This with a personal sketch of each, is dealt with below:

J. FLETCHER CHAPMAN, B.A.

Mr. Chapman was born in Kirby, and attended school in that village, and afterwards attended Albert College, where he took his preparation work. He afterwards took his Arts Course in Victoria, and one year on his B.D. work in Theology. He served on Fort Stuart and Vennacher missions and Tyrone circuit as junior preacher. The call to the ministry experienced by this promising young man was told by himself last night. He said he never knew what it was to live in a prayerless home. Every morning and night he was accustomed to the participation in family prayer. Early in life he knew what it was to enjoy God's salvation, but later in life he turned aside from the paths of right, but under the ministry of Rev. Mr. Edwards at Kirby, he experienced the witness of the Spirit, and shortly afterwards felt a call to preach the Gospel. This conviction grew in intensity, and at last he determined to obey what was manifestly the call of God. He went to Albert College for three years and took his senior matriculation. He paid a very high tribute to the moral influence of the College and its professors, and said that his Christian life was strengthened by his experience there. He afterwards taught school with great personal satisfaction, and had he not had a very strong conviction that he should preach the Gospel, he would have continued in the teaching profession. The call, however, was one which could not be disobeyed, and under the ministry of Rev. J. R. Reed he was recommended as a probationer for the ministry. He afterwards went to Victoria, where he received the greatest influence in his life that he had experienced since childhood.

He expressed his determination to devote his life to the work of the church. He firmly believed that God had called him, and he looked forward to the work with great pleasure, and desired the equipment of the Holy Spirit for the work. He offered his services to the church of his home, and the church he loved, and asked an interest in the prayers of the Conference for his success.

C. W. BARRETT.

C. W. Barrett, one of the candidates for reception into full church connection, was born in the village of Newcastle, Ontario, and received his primary education in the village and its immediate vicinity. He later attended the High School there, and it was during this time that he first became possessed of a desire to preach the Gospel. He afterwards attended the High School in Bowmanville, where he took his first year Art course and matriculated. He was then accepted as a probationer in the Methodist ministry, and travelled in succession the Apsley mission, Bethany circuit, and the Vennacher mission, after which he attended the Wesleyan Theological College for a year and finished his course at Victoria, where he has been during the past year.

Rev. Mr. Barrett is a living example of what a young man who sets out with a purpose, can accomplish. The position which he has attained has been reached solely by his own efforts, and it is greatly to his credit that although working to a certain extent under difficulties he has been able to surmount them, and his present success is all the more pronounced.

During the year in which he has already served his church in the capacity of a preacher of the Gospel, his labours have been successful, and there are many who testify to the good received under his ministry.

His call to the work of the ministry was told by himself in his address at the reception services on Friday night in the following terms:

"From my very early youth I was taught to pray, and among the very scenes that stand out before my mental vision this hour is that of a very small boy with head bowed and hands clasped and eyes closed, kneeling at his mother's knees, saying "Our Father which art in Heaven," followed by its appendages for childhood. The beginning of this form of devotion is away back beyond the boundaries of my memory, but the end has not yet come, for by the help of God I have not ceased for one day to pray as taught by my Christian parents, both in precept and example. Twelve years ago when I was a youth attending the High School in the village of Newcastle, I attended a series of special meetings conducted in the Methodist church by the late Rev. W. F. Gee, and in the month of March, 1892, there was given to me the experience that men call conversion, but which was to me more like an intensifying of desires and dispositions that had been in me from early childhood. However I then was sure of a conscious turning towards God with devout and determined desires to serve Him and do the right. There never has been in my mind a lasting doubt but that God did for Christ's sake pardon my sins.

Almost immediately after my conversion I was impressed with the desire and ambition to preach the Gospel, and though I was then quite a lad I more than once disclosed my convictions to a young man who was my intimate friend. For three years I continued my work at High School, but never got rid of the conviction that had came so vividly to me. I had my junior leaving certificate and was about to attend Model School,—thinking it wise and for me necessary to teach school for a few years—and then take up the work that I set away before me in the indefinite future and which I merely felt should be my life work. Just then I was approached by Rev. G. H. Copeland, whose wise counsel and material assistance I shall never be fully able to estimate, who was then pastor of the Methodist church in Newcastle. Mr. Copeland, I am sure sure had no manifest knowledge of the convictions that were all the time being more firmly rooted in me, but in a conversation one day he asked me if I had ever had any thought about entering the work of the ministry. I told him for years I had had a settled feeling that led me that way, but thought it would be for material advantage to teach school for a few years. Under his counsel and advice—and I speak of it with the profoundest gratitude — I was led to do at once what I felt I must do at some indefinite date in the future, and offered myself as a candidate for the ministry. I was received as a probationer in June, 1898, and sent to the Apsley Mission under the superintendency of Rev. T. J. Edmison, late President. I was then stationed on the Bethany circuit, and was colleague to Rev. Thomas Brown. The influence coming from the life and labours of both of these men I have felt to be a benediction to me in moulding my life and principles. At the Conference of 1901, I was sent to the Vennacher Mission and two weeks after Conference was ordained in Brighton for special purposes by Rev. J. C. Wilson. After travelling one year at Vennacher I was sent to college and spent my next year at Wesleyan Theological College, Montreal. Last year I spent at Victoria College, and in both of these institutions I found the religious atmosphere to be most invigorating. My probationer's term has been spent thus and now I am a candidate for reception into full connection. If you see your way clear to vest me with the full responsibility and powers of a minister of the Methodist Church, I shall faithfully and diligently endeavour to maintain the character and dignity of the ministry of the church to which I belong and by life and labours I am thoroughly resolved to be a man and do the work of a Christian.

WALTER S. SMART.

The third candidate for the ministry was born in London, Ontario, where he attended public school, afterwards going to High School in Oshawa, and later at Albert College, Belleville. He preached at Camborne, Wilberforce, Fort Stewart and Norham, and afterwards spent two years at Victoria, where he made a very creditable showing. He has been stationed at Blairton for the coming year.

WALTER S. SMART.

His call to the ministry and his early life's experience were told by him last night, when he said that although he was the only child of Christian parents, and received Christian training in early life it was not until his 20th year that he became converted.

From the age of 14 to 19 years the occasioned his parents considerable anxiety by his waywardness. At 17 years of age he entered the drug business, and for about three years lived in Brantford, afterwards going to Whitby, where, under the ministry of Rev. Thos. Manning, he was converted; and shortly after this experience he gradually developed an inclination towards preaching. Although he did not want to preach he had to face the problem, and the conviction was strengthened that God had called him to this work. He determined to obtain a further education, and if at the end of that time he still felt that he should enter the ministry he would obey the call. The call was evidently a Divine one for after the years spent in college he still felt that the ministry should be his life work, and was given a local preacher's license by Rev. Jas. Kines and in 1898 under the pastorate of the present President of the Conference was received as a probationer. He referred to the kind words of advice given him by Rev. Mr. Wilson on this occasion.

He asked Conference to accept him as a candidate for the ministry, and promised that he would preach Christ.

The three candidates whose reception took place last night are young men, whom the church is fortunate in securing. They are capable, intelligent, men and their characters stamp them as valuable acquisitions to the Christian ministry.

GENERALLY SPEAKING

THE LIFT LOCK stands out alone as the only hydraulic work of its kind on this continent, as the largest in the world, and the only one of its kind, in regard to special features of construction and material, in the world. It is a centre of interest and, even in its uncompleted condition, it has attracted visitors from every part of the continent. Even far away Muscovia, has furnished a distinguished visitor in the person of a noted Russian engineer. In view of the Lift Lock being so attractive a feature, and so lively an exciter of interest in a great public work, of which it is only a part, it is desirable that the Dominion Government take steps to remove an objectionable feature—its difficulty of access by the public. There is no public highway by which it can be easily approached. It is only by the good will of the owners or custodians of Armour's Mount that any approximately convenient means of approach is available. Would it not be a splendid idea for the Government to take measures to extend Elizabeth street to the Lift Lock by acquiring a right of way through the farm? The Government could do this by a purchase arrangement, or, purchase, through expropriation. Would it not be a good thing for those who have influence—pull, or, rather, "lift"—with the Government, to call the latter's attention to this matter? The Lift Lock is now passing through the final stages of completion, and it will probably be ready for the formal opening sometime during the present month. From Peterborough's standpoint it is important, as the Examiner has previously pointed out, to make the occasion a memorable day and to take measures to attract visitors by the thousands. June is the height of the excursion season, and the Lift Lock and Peterborough could, by making the best use of the occasion, be brought into a prominence unattainable under any other conditions. By all means, strike while the iron is hot—take advantage of the interest excited by the opening to press upon the Government's attention the desirability of acquiring a right of way to the Lift Lock. After having spent a couple or so of millions upon the greatest monument of hydraulic engineering in existence in Canada, and failing to take full advantage of it, as an advertisement of the canal, and, incidentally, of Peterborough, furnishes an illustration of the case of the foolish chap who bundled his talent into a napkin and buried it where nobody could get at it.

NATURE STUDY is sought, and with just reason, to be made a more prominent feature of school culture, and provisions are made at the Ontario Agricultural College to give teachers special instruction during the summer months. It is hoped that the opportunity will be largely taken up, especially if Nature Study is to be extended to our beautiful birds. There is a pressing need for teaching children of the present day, not only the great economic value of birds, and their aesthetic importance, but the gentler and godlier lesson of kindness to them. The destruction of bird life every spring is appalling. The beautiful winged angels of good cheer that brighten our groves with the tunefullest melody, nest under our eaves to-day, as they did in the house of the God of birds in the royal Psalm-singer's time, and build and brood in the trees that in-arch our homes, are made the medium of the practice of cruelty by children, of whom we are taught is the Kingdom of Heaven. Do teachers ever seek to impress upon their pupils the truth that, behind the catapult which slays by hundreds the nesting bird, leaving the callow brood to suffer and die by the most painful of processes, starvation, is the same spirit that was behind the fratricidal act of the proto-murderer? Do ministers ever preach the Gospel of kindness towards the birds whose fall is noted by the God of gentleness and love? By all means have teachers, and preachers and parents study nature and teach the lesson that the externals of piety are little worth unless the heart and its impulses are attuned to the divine Nature and the divine in Nature and Nature's works—preach them the sermon idealized in the Ancient Mariner:—

He prayeth best who loveth best
All things both great and small.

AS TO NATURE STUDY—it should teach love for the beautiful in nature, a lesson much needed in Peterborough. We have a town of great beauty, forest shaded streets, beautiful residences and beautiful verdant lawns, and parterres the acme of neatness and taste. But many a handsome homestead with a well kept lawn is bordered with a street line of ragged boulevard, weed-grown and shaggy with unkempt grass a blot on the face of an otherwise handsome home, a discordant note in the harmony of beauty. This is undesirable. The man who has his moral or aesthetic mechanism in good trim will keep the street front of his home also in as good trim as his fenced lawn. To do otherwise argues a selfish indifference to the pleasure of his neighbours—the public. The man who dumps the rakings of his lawn and premises on the street is beyond comment—let him be anathema maranatha.

• • •

A CIVIC IMPROVEMENT Society is what we need, a society leagued to bring about improvement in public taste, improvement in public regard for the beauty of our streets and town. It is exasperating for a public-spirited citizen to put his boulevard in beautiful shape or throw open the sweep of his corner lawn to the public delight by removing his fence, and find both ruined and disfigured by the hoodlum element of the public cutting corners—making a beaten path over his velvet sward, taking a "short-cut" like a herd of swine seeking the nearest way from the field to the sty. It is shameful that citizens of taste have to wire or rail in their boulevards to prevent their being ruined—to go to the expense of constructing them and clipping them—and then be put to the expense and trouble of building unsightly barricades to protect the public from themselves, for a boulevard to maintained more in the public interest and for the public pleasure, than that of the owner, whose self-respect is chiefly concerned. Will some investigator tell us how far under the skin of many elements of our citizenship, civilization extends?

ARRESTED HERE ON CHARGE OF FORGERY

Peter Munroe Charged with Raising an Order on Dickson Company.

Yesterday afternoon Constable McGinty arrested Peter Munroe on a charge of forgery. In the morning, the Chief of Police received a letter from John Kennedy, constable of Gooderham, stating that he had a warrant for the arrest of Peter Munroe, who was wanted on a charge of forgery, having raised an order on the Dixon Company, paid by John E. McColl, of Gooderham. A description of Munroe was also given and as a result, the arrest was effected yesterday afternoon. Constable Kennedy arrived in town at noon to-day and took the prisoner back to Gooderham to stand his trial.

Munroe is about 26 years of age, rather respectably dressed and has been about town for some days.

BEATING GOLD LEAF

THE WAY THE SQUARES OF METAL ARE WORKED UNDER THE HAMMER.

Gradually Reduced In Thickness Until the Sheets Are Transparent and So Fine That 300,000 of Them In a Pile Would Measure but an Inch.

A local sign writer was in the window of a large F street establishment putting gold leaf on the outlines of letters he had made with a stencil. The curiosity of a reporter was aroused as to how these tiny sheets of gold were reduced to such minute thinness. A visit to the establishment of one of Washington's largest sign writers and a talk with the proprietor brought forth the following:

"I learned the gold beater's trade in Rochester some years ago. Imagine a slab of gold measuring eight inches in width, ten inches in length and half an inch in thickness being reduced to 8,520 sheets of gold, each five inches square and almost transparent, and you get a vague idea of the queer industry known as gold beating.

"Imagine a square of gold three-hundredths of an inch in thickness, and you will appreciate the brawn and brain making for the result, and then reflect that the word 'beating' means just 'beating'—for no power other than the strength of a man's arm is used in the process—and you will have been mentally initiated into the mysteries of a silent art.

"Few persons are familiar with the work for several reasons: First, there are less than twenty-five gold beating establishments in the country; second, it is an exclusive industry, and few, either manufacturers or laborers, are admitted to its secrets, and, third, the trade is limited. Therefore it is a most interesting study.

"The gold beater buys direct from the government assay office, where the gold is weighed, stamped and guaranteed. A fraction too much of alloy would cause it to pulverize or part into fragments. Twenty-three carat gold is used exclusively. Usually the gold comes in nuggets weighing fifty-five pennyweights and valued at $55 each.

"After the gold has been received it is placed in a crucible and made ready for the beating about to follow. It is molded into a shape which will fit into the only power machine in the place, which compresses the gold into a ribbon ten yards in length, one inch in width and one thirty-second inch in thickness. Out of this ribbon are cut 220 squares of equal size.

"The work of reducing is begun. To each workman is given twenty-five squares, and these he places between the leaves of a book. This book is a 'kutch' paper and is sealed with a patent envelope device which prevents the loss of particles of gold, a precaution made necessary by the many turnings and floppings of the book in the process. A sixteen pound hammer is used, and the beater is compelled to work uninterruptedly for twenty minutes to gain the desired measurement.

"Wielding a sixteen pound hammer for a few seconds only is exhausting work for the uninitiated, but the beaters hammer away as if it was boys' play. They must grasp the end of the hammer farthest from the head, which increases its weight, but the benches they use are so constructed that they cause a small rebound of the hammer.

"When the 'kutch' book is opened twenty-five sheets are taken out, and each sheet of gold is cut into four pieces. Its thickness has been reduced in the operation from one thirty-second of an inch to one one-hundredth of an inch. Twenty-five of these squares are put into a book called the 'shodder.' The 'shodder' is not a paper, but a skin, and it is said that certain intestinal parts of 500 oxen are required to make a package or book of twenty-five papers. The 'shodder' is made in England by a secret process. It is the most exclusive industry in the world.

"Like the 'kutch' book, the 'shoder' book is sealed and handed to the artist, who is required to pound it ninety minutes with a twelve pound hammer. This reduces the thickness, and when it is taken out of the book each leaf of gold is again cut into one inch squares. This time the gold is so fragile that a metal knife blade, no matter how sharp, would break the edges; so a knife with double blades is used, requiring only two strokes to cut a square.

"Now comes the last beating. Each square is again put into a book called a 'mold.' Forty minutes' beating is required to give this the proper size. When the leaves of gold are removed they are transparent, but perfect in shape and unbroken. It would require 300,000 of them to make one inch in thickness.

"The last operation is to send them to the booking room, where women remove the gold leaves and place them in wax paper books ready for sale. The leaves are so delicate that they can be handled only with bamboo sticks. So adhesive is the gold that if a leaf is broken in removing it is easily patched without a trace of it being apparent to the naked eye."

THE ILLS OF CHILDHOOD.

Every child in the country needs at some time or other a medicine to correct the ills incident to childhood. If Baby's Own Tablets are kept in the house and occasionally given to the little ones they will prevent illness and make the little ones rugged, strong and cheerful. Mothers should insist on having this medicine, because it contains no opiate or harmful drug, and children take the Tablets as readily as they take candy. If you have a neighbour who has used the Tablets ask her and she will tell you what splendid satisfaction they give. Here is what one mother, Mrs. Wm. Sinclair, Hebron, N. B., says. "I have used Baby's Own Tablets with so much satisfaction that I do not feel safe when I have not a box in the house. I am sure that other mothers will be quite as well pleased with them." You can get the Tablets through your druggist, or by mail at 25 cents a box by writing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THE WORD HUMBUG.

There Are Various Plausible Explanations of Its Origin.

The word "humbug" has been traced back to the title page of "The Universal Jester, a choice collection of merry conceits, bonmots and humbugs, by Ferdinando Killigrew, London, 1735-40." The following are the most plausible and possible derivations:

In the time of James II. a worthless coin was minted at Dublin from a soft mixed metal, which became known as uim bog, pronounced Ooombug—i. e., soft copper, worthless money.

Some see in it a corruption of Hamburg, from which town so many false reports came during the war of 1799-1806 that such news was received with "Oh, that is a Hamburg!"

Others refer it to hum, in the sense of hoax, and bug, in the old sense of bugbear. Others say it is merely hum buzz, used in combination to signify sound without sense. Others, again, think that it was first applied to Homberg, a chemist and an ardent seeker of the philosopher's stone.—Notes and Queries.

WHAT WOMEN SHOULD KNOW.

That the cause of a great deal of suffering, usually supposed to be on account of female disorders, is overcome by ANTI-PILL, the discovery of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt.

A great amount of womens' ailments are caused by the food that is taken being turned (through improper digestion) into poison instead of nutrition. This poison carried by the blood throughout the system, makes weak women—women who are hardly ever well—nerves in dreadful condition—limbs ache, back aches, head aches—billious, constipated. ANTI-PILL, the Great System Treatment, will correct these troubles—it starts its work by making a well stomach—it insures strength to weak women—It is harmless at any stage or condition of a woman's life, and there is no time ANTI-PILL cannot be used with safety. Any woman who cares to may use a bottle of ANTI-PILL free from any expense. If satisfactory results do not follow its use, mail us wrapper with name of druggist from whom purchased and get your money back by return mail. Wilson-Fyle Co., Niagara Falls, Ont. Ordered His Own Head Off.

The great Count Saigo was an instructive example of the habit of mind of the Japanese. The count was in insurrection against his emperor in 1873 and was nearly in the toils, and he knew it, so in his stronghold he employed his leisure time in playing chess with his immediate friends. Reports kept coming in from the outposts, each one more disheartening than the last. But the count still went on playing chess, while the utmost good humor and pleasant raillery continued among the whole party. Yet another messenger from the outposts came in, which left no doubt as to the situation. Still the count and his companions went on playing. "Your move, sir," were the words that broke the absorption of the moment. Then when there was a pause in the game at which he could rise without being discourteous to his guests the count got up and said, "Gentlemen, now it is time." He directed some one to send for his sword bearer. The man advanced and immediately received his orders. A few seconds later Count Saigo's body and head had been separated at one heavy blow.

Coffee Tipplers.

Brazilians are great coffee drinkers. Numerous cups are drunk each day by the average man and woman. The beverage is made very strong and very sweet. It produces an exhilaration of a more intense and lasting kind than beer. Those addicted to this habit become very restless and scarcely able to sit still or stand still even for a moment.

TIMID HERBERT.

He Failed to Tell Amelia of His Love For Her.

Herbert stopped rowing, ostensibly to rest.

"Amelia," he said with an elaborate affectation of unconcern to the young woman sitting in the stern of the boat, "there's a friend of mine that's head over heels—head over ears, I mean—in love with a beautiful girl and as good as she is beautiful. He has known her ever so many years, and he has been going to see her a long time, but he's too big a coward—that's what he says—to ask her, you know, if"—

Here his voice trembled a little, and he paused to wipe his perspiring brow.

"Beautiful girl, is she?" queried the young woman, idly dipping her fingers in the water at the side of the boat.

"Loveliest in the world—that's what he says, I mean."

"What's her name?"

"He'd—he'd rather not have her name mentioned."

"Friend of yours, you say? Who is he?"

"Oh, I don't dare to tell you who he is. He might not like it."

"Very much in love with her, is he?"

"Clean gone. He says it makes him fairly ache."

"And he's afraid to tell her so?"

"Yes. He—he says he can't guess from the way she treats him whether she—er—likes him or not. He's a coward—that's what he is."

"What are you telling me about him for?"

"Well, he—he asked me what I thought he'd better do, and I couldn't advise him. I suppose I—I'd be just as big a coward as he is. That's why I'm asking you. Wh-what do you think he ought to do? Tell her and run the risk?"

"I am sure I don't know."

Herbert gasped, swallowed and changed the subject.

"Isn't this water clear?" he said. "You can see the sand and the stones at the bottom. How deep it is, and yet how transparent!"

"Yes," she said. "So like you, Herbert!"

"Dear girl," he whispered fifteen minutes later as he stroked her pompadour caressingly, "how did you know I was telling you my own story?"

A WOMAN'S SYMPATHY

Are you discouraged? Is your doctor's bill a heavy financial load? Is your pain a heavy physical burden? I know what these mean to delicate women—I have been discouraged, too, but learned how to cure myself. I want to relieve your burdens. Why not end the pain and stop the doctor's bill? I can do this for you and will if you will assist me.

All you need to do is to write for a free box of the remedy which has been placed in my hands to be given away. Perhaps this one box will cure you—it has done so for others. If so I shall be happy and you will be cured for 2c—the cost of a postage stamp. Your letters held confidentially. Write to-day for my free treatment. Mrs. F. D. CURRAH, Windsor, Ont. Drawing Two Things at Once.

At an evening party it was remarked that nobody could draw two things at once. Sir Edward Landseer, who was present, replied that he thought he could, and, taking a pencil in each hand, he drew simultaneously and without hesitation with the right hand the profile of a stag's head and all its antlers complete and with the left hand a lovely horse's head. The acts of draftsmanship were strictly simultaneous and not alternate, and the drawing by the left hand was as good as that by the right.

When Medicine Fails, Try Liquozone—We'll Pay for it

Medicine must fail in a germ trouble, because medicine never kills inside germs. Any germ-killing drug is a poison to you, and it cannot be taken internally.

Liquozone is the only way known to kill germs in the body without killing the tissues, too. It does in a germ trouble what no drugs, no skill in the world, can accomplish without it. To prove this—if you need it—we will gladly pay for a bottle and give it to you to try.

Acts Like Oxygen

Liquozone is the result of a process which, for more than 20 years, has been the constant subject of scientific and chemical research. Its virtues are derived solely from gas, made in large part from the best oxygen producers. By a process requiring immense apparatus and 14 days' time, these gases are made part of the liquid product.

The result is a product that does what oxygen does. Oxygen gas, as you know, is the very source of vitality. Liquozone is a vitalizer with which no other known product can compare. But germs are vegetables; and Liquozone—like an excess of oxygen—is deadly to vegetal matter. Yet this wonderful product which no germ can resist, is, to the human body, the most essential element of life.

We Paid $100,000

For the American rights to Liquozone—the highest price ever paid for similar rights on any scientific discovery. We did this after testing the product for two years, through physicians and hospitals, in this country and others.

That price was paid because Liquozone does in germ troubles what all the drugs, all the skill in the world, cannot accomplish without it. It carries into the blood a powerful yet harmless germicide, to destroy at once and forever the cause of any germ disease. And no man knows another way to do it. Liquozone is so certain that we publish on every bottle an offer of $1,000 for a disease germ that it cannot kill.

Germ Diseases

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Liquozone kills the germs, wherever they are, and the results are inevitable. By destroying the cause of the trouble, it invariably ends the disease, and forever.

Asthma, Abscess—Anemia, Bronchitis, Blood Poison, Bright's Disease, Bowel Troubles, Coughs—Colds, Consumption, Colic—Croup, Constipation, Hay Fever—Influenza, Kidney Diseases, La Grippe, Leucorrhea, Liver Troubles, Malaria—Neuralgia, Many Heart Troubles, Piles—Pneumonia, Pleurisy—Quinsy, Rheumatism, Catarrh—Cancer, Dysentry—Diarrhea, Dandruff—Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Eczema—Erysipelas, Fevers—Gall Stones, Goitre—Gout, Gonorrhea—Ulcer, Skin Diseases, Scrofula—Syphilis, Stomach Troubles, Throat Troubles, Tuberculosis, Tumors—Ulcers, Varicocele, Women's Diseases.

All diseases that begin with fever—all inflammation—all catarrh—all contagious diseases—all the results of impure or poisonous blood.

In nervous debility Liquozone acts as a vitalizer, accomplishing what no drugs can do.

50c. Bottle Free

If you need Liquozone, and have never tried it, please send us this coupon. We will then mail you an order on your local druggist for a full-size bottle, and we will pay your druggist ourselves for it. This is our free gift, made to convince you; to show you what Liquozone is, and what it can do. In justice to yourself, please accept it to-day, for it places you under no obligation whatever.

Liquozone costs 50c. and $1.

THE GENTLEMAN FROM INDIANA

By Booth Tarkington.

CHAPTER XIII.

VERY early in the morning a messenger boy stumbled up the front steps of Meredith's house and handed the colored servant four yellow envelopes, night messages. The man carried them upstairs, left three with his master's guest, then knocked on Meredith's door till a response assured him that the occupant was awake and slid the fourth envelope under the door. Meredith lay quite without motion for several minutes, sleepily watching the yellow rhomboid in the crevice. It was a hateful looking thing to mix itself in with a pleasant dream and insist on being read, but after a while he climbed groaningly out of bed and perused the message with heavy eyes, still half asleep. He read it twice before it penetrated.

Suppress all newspapers today. Convention meets at 11. If we succeed, a delegation will come to Rouen this afternoon. They will come. HELEN.

Tom rubbed his sticky eyelids and shook his head violently in a Spartan effort to rouse himself, but what more effectively performed the task for him were certain sounds that issued from Harkless' room across the hall. For some minutes Meredith had been dully conscious of a rustle and stir in the invalid's chamber, and he began to realise that no mere tossing upon a bed would account for a noise that reached him across a wide hall and through two closed doors of thick walnut. Suddenly he heard a quick, heavy tread, shod, in Harkless' room, and a resounding bang as some heavy object struck the floor. The doctor was not to come till evening. The servant had gone downtown. Who in the sick man's room wore shoes? He rushed across the hall in his pajamas and threw open the unlocked door.

The bed was disarranged and vacant. Harkless, fully dressed, was standing in the middle of the floor hurling garments at a small trunk. The horrified Meredith stood for a second bleached and speechless; then he rushed upon his friend and seized him with both hands.

"Mad, by heaven! Mad!"

"Let go of me, Tom!"

"Lunatic! Lunatic!"

"Don't stop me one instant!"

Meredith tried to force him toward the bed. "No; get back to bed. You're delirious, boy!"

"Delirious nothing! I'm a well man."

"Go to bed! Go to bed!"

Harkless set him out of the way with one arm. "To bed!" he cried. "I'm going to Plattville!"

Meredith wrung his hands. "The doctor"—

"Doctor be hanged!"

"What in the name of all that's terrible is the matter, John?"

His companion slung a light overcoat, unfolded, on the overflowing, misshapen bundle of clothes that lay in the trunk, then he jumped on the lid with both feet and kicked the hasp into the lock, while a very elegantly laundered cuff and shirt sleeve dangled out from under the fastened lid. "I haven't one second to talk, Tom; I have eighteen minutes to catch the express. It's more than a mile to the station, and the train leaves here at 9:02. I get there at 10:47. Telephone a cab for me, please, or tell me the number. I don't want to stop to hunt it up."

Meredith looked him in the eyes. In the pupils of Harkless flared a fierce light. His cheeks were reddened with an angry, healthy glow, and his teeth were clinched till the line of his jaw stood out like that of an embattled athlete. His brow was dark, his chest was thrown out, and he took deep, quick breaths. His shoulders were squared, and in spite of his thinness they looked massy. Lethargy or malaria, or both—whatever his ailment—it was gone. He was six feet of hot wrath and cold resolution.

Tom said, "You are going?"

"Yes," he answered quietly, "I am going."

"Then I will go with you."

"Thank you, Tom," said Harkless simply.

Meredith ran into his room, pressed an electric button and began to dive into his clothes with a panting rapidity astonishingly foreign to his desire. The colored man appeared in the doorway.

"The cart, Jim!" shouted his master. "We want it like lightning. Tell the cook to give Mr. Harkless his breakfast in a hurry. Set a cup of coffee on the table by the front door for me. Run! We've got to catch a train. That will be quicker than any cab," he explained to Harkless. "We'll break the ordinance against fast driving getting down there."

Ten minutes later the cart swept away from the house at a gait that pained the respectable neighborhood. The big horse plunged through the air, his ears laid flat toward his tail. The cart careened sickeningly, and the face of the servant clutching at the rail in the rear was smeared with pallor as they pirouetted around curves on one wheel. To him it seemed they skirted the corners and death simultaneously, and the speed of their going made a strong wind in their faces.

tween his teeth, "and that is the part of it in regard to young Fisbee!"

"Oh, it's about H. Fisbee, is it?"

"Yes, it's H. Fisbee."

"Well, we might as well go up and see what the doctor thinks of you; there's no train."

"I don't want to see a doctor again ever—as long as I live. I'm as well as anybody."

Tom burst out laughing and clapped his companion lightly on the shoulder, his eyes dancing with pleasure. "Upon my soul," he cried, "I believe you are. A miracle wrought by the witch wand of indignation! That's rather against tradition, isn't it? Well, let's take a drive."

"Meredith," said the other, turning to him gravely, "you may think me a fool if you will, and it's likely I am, but I don't leave this station except by train. I've only two days to work in,

Harkless, fully dressed, was standing in the middle of the floor.

and every minute lessens our chances to beat McCune, and I have to begin by wasting time on a tussle with a traitor. There's another train at 11:55; I don't take any chances on missing that one."

"Well, well," laughed his friend, pushing him good humoredly toward a door by a red and white striped pillar, "we'll wait here if you like. But at least go in there and get a shave; it's a clean shop. You want to look your best if you are going down to fight H. Fisbee."

"Take these, then, and you will understand," said Harkless, and he thrust his three telegrams of the morning into Tom's hand and disappeared into the barber shop. When he was gone Meredith went to the telegraph office in the station and sent a line over the wires to Helen: "Keep your delegation at home. He's coming on the 11:55."

Then he read the three telegrams Harkless had given him. They were all from Plattville.

Sorry cannot oblige. Present incumbent tenacious. Delicate matter. No hope for K. H. But don't worry. Everything all right. WARREN SMITH."

Harkless, if you have the strength to walk, come down before the convention. Get here by 10:47. Looks bad. Come if it kills you. K. H.

You intrusted me with sole responsibility for all matters pertaining to Herald. Declared yourself mere spectator. Does this permit your interfering with my policy for the paper? Decline to consider any proposition to relieve me of my duties without proper warning and allowance of time. Forced to disregard all suggestions as to policy, which, by your own instructions, is entirely my affair and must be carried out as I direct.

H. FISBEE.

CHAPTER XIV.

THE accommodation train wandered down through the afternoon sunshine, stopping at every village and every country postoffice on the line. There was a passenger in the smoker who found the stops at these wayside hamlets interminable. He got up and paced the aisle now and then, and his companion reminded him that this was not certain to hasten the hour of their arrival at their destination. "I know that," answered he, "but I've got to beat McCune."

"By the way," observed Meredith, "you left your stick behind."

"You don't think I need a club to face"—

Tom choked. "Oh, no; I wasn't thinking of your giving H. Fisbee a beating. I meant to lean on."

"I don't want it. I've got to walk lame all my life, but I'm not going to hobble on a stick."

Tom looked at him sadly for a moment. It was true, and the Crossroaders might hug themselves in their cells over the thought. For the rest of his life John Harkless was to walk with just the limp they themselves would have had if, as in former days, their sentence had been to the ball and chain.

"Sit down, boy, sit down," said Meredith, and his friend obeyed.

The window was open beside the two young men, and the breeze that blew in soothed like a balm, yet held a tang and spice in it, a hint of wainuts and of coming frost. There was a newness in the atmosphere that day, a bright invigoration, that set the blood tingling. The hot months were done with; languor was routed. Autumn spoke to industry, told of the sowing of another harvest, of the tawny shock, of the purple grape, of the red apple, and called upon muscle and laughter, breathing gayety into men's hearts. The little stations hummed with bustle and noise, big farm wagons rattled off up the village streets and raced with "cut under" or omnibus; people walked with quick steps; the baggagemasters called cheerily to the trainmen, and the brakemen laughed goodbys to rollicking girls. At times the train ran between shadowy groves, and delicate landscape vistas, framed in branches, opened, closed and succeeded each other, and then the travelers were carried beyond into the level open again and looked out to where the intensely blue September skies ran down to the low horizon, meeting the boundless aisles of corn. It takes a long time for the full beauty of the flat lands to reach a man's soul. Once there, nor hills, nor sea, nor growing fan leaves of palm shall suffice him. It is like the beauty in the word Indiana. It may be that there are people who do not consider Indiana a beautiful word, but let it ring true in your ears, and it has a richer sound than Vallombrosa.

All at once the anger ran out of John Harkless. He was a hard man for anger to tarry with. And in place of it a strong sense of home coming began to take possession of him. He was going home. "Back to Plattville, where I belong," he said to himself without bitterness, and it was the truth. "Every man cometh to his own place in the end."

Yes, as one leaves a gay acquaintance of the playhouse lobby for some hard handed, tried old friend, so he would wave the outer world godspeed and come back to the old ways of Carlow. What though the years were dusty, he had his friends and his memories and his old black brier pipe. He had a girl's picture that he should carry in his heart till his last day, and if his life was sadder it was infinitely richer for it. His winter fireside would be not so lonely for her sake, and, losing her, he lost not everything, for he had had the rare blessing of having known her. And what man could wish to be healed of such a hurt? Far better to have had it than to trot a smug pace unscathed. He had been a dullard, a sluggard, weary of himself, unfit to fight, a failure in life and a failure in love. That was ended. He was tired of failing, and it was time to succeed for awhile. To accept the worst that fate can deal and to wring courage from it instead of despair—that is success, and it was the success that he would have. He would take fate by the neck. But had it done him unkindness? He looked out over the beautiful, "monotonous" landscape, and he answered heartily, "No!" There was ignorance in man, but no unkindness. Were man utterly wise he were utterly kind. The Crossroaders had not known better, that was all.

The unfolding aisles of corn swam pleasantly before his eyes. The earth hearkened to man's wants and answered. The clement sun and summer rains hastened the fruition. Yonder stood the brown haystack, garnered to feed the industrious horse that had earned his meed. There was the straw thatched shelter for the cattle. How the orchard boughs bent with their burdens! The big red barns stood stored with the harvest, for this was Carlow county, and he was coming home.

They crossed a byroad. An old man with a streaky gray chin beard was sitting on a sack of oats in a seatless wagon waiting for the train to pass. Harkless seized his companion excitedly by the elbow. "Tommy," he cried, "it's Kim Fentriss! Look! Did you see that old fellow?"

"I saw a particularly uninterested and uninteresting gentleman sitting on a bag," replied his friend.

"Why, that's old Kimball Fentriss. He's going to town. He lives on the edge of the county."

"Can this be true?" said Meredith gravely.

"I wonder," said Harkless thoughtfully a few moments later—"I wonder why he had them changed around."

"Who changed around?"

"The team. He always used to drive the bay on the near side and the sorrel on the off."

"And at present," rejoined Meredith, "I am to understand that he is driving the sorrel on the near side and the bay on the off?"

"That's it," returned the other. "He must have worked them like that for some time, because they didn't look uneasy. They're all right about the train, those two. I've seen them stand with their heads almost against a fast freight. See there." He pointed to a white frame farmhouse with green blinds. "That's Win Hibbard's. We're just outside of Beaver."

"Beaver? Elucidate Beaver, boy."

"Beaver? Meredith, your information ends at home. What do you know of your own state if you are ignorant of Beaver? Beaver is that city of Carlow county next in importance and population to Plattville."

Tom put his head out of the window. "I fancy you are right," he said. "I already see five people there."

The Athlete

His success no one doubts, when e'er he competes
His position is first in athletic feats;
Often asked for his secret, he disclosed it at length.
He takes Abbey's Salt and preserves health and strength.

Look at the athlete with his bright eyes—rosy cheeks—pink skin—steady nerves. There is no headache—no upset stomach—no biliousness—no poor blood—there. The first essential to brawn and muscle—strength and vigor—is sound digestion.

ABBEY'S SALT is responsible for many an athlete's good condition. It protects him against stomach and bowel troubles—keeps the whole digestive tract clean and healthy—purifies the blood.

AS A WORKING TOOL

for the student and the writer, as an authoritative reference book for schools, teachers, families, business and professional men, there is one book which offers superior advantages in the solid value of its information, and the ease with which it is obtained.

One's admiration for Webster's International Dictionary increases daily as it comes to be better known. It never refuses the information sought and it never overwhelms one with a mass of misinformation illogically arranged.

The St. James Gazette of London, England, says: For the teacher, the pupil, the student and the litterateur, there is nothing better; it covers everything.

The New and Enlarged Edition recently issued has 25,000 new words and phrases, a completely revised Biographical Dictionary and Gazetteer of the World, 2000 pages and 2000 illustrations.

Our name is on the title-pages of all the authentic dictionaries of the Webster series.

A WOMAN'S RISK

As a trapeze performer is greater than a man's. She must have a man's courage and a man's muscle to succeed. But she must also work under conditions of which a man knows nothing. Many an accident to women acrobats must be attributed to the sudden weakness to which all women are subject at certain times.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription heals the womanly diseases which cause weakness. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

"With pleasure I write to-day in praise of Dr. Pierce and his medicines," says Mrs. Mary Conway, of Appleton, Lawrence Co., Tenn. "Was troubled with female disease; the back of my head hurt me so I could not lie in bed and I would have to sit up, and then I would have such pains from my waist down I could scarcely raise up. My feet and hands would feel almost like ice. Since taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription I can sleep well all night. Could hardly drag around before I took your medicine, and now can do my housework and help my husband in the field. Words cannot express the thanks I owe to Dr. Pierce."

Weak and sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is held as strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, containing over a thousand large pages, is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. CAME NEAR DYING

From an Awful Skin Humour. Scratched Till Blood Ran. Wasted to Skeleton.

CURED BY CUTICURA

One Application Soothed Him to Sleep. Cure Speedy and Permanent.

"When my little boy was about three months old his head broke out with a rash, which was very itchy and ran considerable watery fluid. We tried everything we could, but he got worse all the time till it spread to his arms, legs, and then to his entire body, and he got so bad that he came near dying. The rash would itch so that he would scratch till the blood ran, and a thin yellowish stuff would be all over his pillow in the morning. I had to put mittens on his hands to keep him from tearing his skin around his wrists. He got so weak and run down that he took fainting spells like we would think him dying. He was almost a skeleton and his little hands were thin like claws.

"He was bad about eight months when we tried Cuticura Remedies. I had not laid him down in his cradle in the daytime for a long time. He had got so that he just slept in our arms all the time. I washed him with Cuticura Soap and put on one application of Cuticura Ointment and he was so soothed that I put him in the cradle. You don't know how glad I felt when he felt better. It took one box of Cuticura Ointment, pretty near one cake of Cuticura Soap, and about half a bottle of Cuticura Resolvent, to cure. I think our little boy would have died only for the Cuticura Remedies, and I shall always remain a firm friend of them."

MRS. M. C. MAITLAND, JASPER, ONTARIO.

No return in 14 years. Mrs. Maitland writes, under date of Feb. 24, 1905, that the cure is permanent.

"It affords me much pleasure to inform you that it is fourteen years since my boy was cured of the terrible skin disease from which he suffered.

"He has been permanently cured and is hearty and strong."

Cuticura Resolvent, Hand and in the form of Chocolate Coated Pills, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Soap are sold throughout the world. Depots: London, 27 Charterhouse Sq.; Paris, 5 Rue de la Paix; Australia, R. Towns & Co., Sydney; Boston, 137 Columbus Ave. Potter Drug & Chemical Corp., Sole Proprietors.

—Home buyers read T. Hurley's advertisement on page two.

—The meeting of the Board of Health called for last evening failed to materialize.

—Piano tuning promptly attended to. Satisfaction guaranteed. A. F. Hoover. 'Phone, 199.

—The monthly collections for missions will be taken in St. Paul's and St. Andrew's churches.

—A very popular act these days is to borrow a friend's umbrella, and think of everything imaginable afterwards except to return it.

—A large excursion from West York came to town to-day. They visited the Cordage Works, Lift Lock and other points of interest.

—A smart intelligent young girl is wanted immediately to take a position in the store. Apply to H. Long, confectioner, George street. d129

—There have been over 300 certificates presented by delegates at the Methodist Conference, consequently all attending will be entitled to return fare free.

—At the police court this morning a man had to pay costs besides the price of a dog tag because he failed to purchase the tag before being noticed by the police.

—Mrs. W. S. Milburn desires to thank all who so kindly tendered sympathy to the family on the occasion of the death of her little daughter, Rita Eleanor.

—The repairs to the Pigeon Creek Bridge are far enough advanced to allow of traffic on Monday. Councillor Fitzgerald went up yesterday and paid off the men.

—At the police court this morning two young men were fined $2 each for being drunk and disorderly in a public place. An elderly man was discharged with a warning.

—Farmers on the market to-day stated that the outlook was good for the hay crop. The recent rains have had a telling effect for good and provided there were no June frosts the crop would be above the average.

—For fresh rhubarb, green onions, lettuce, asparagus, parsnips, carrots, beets, bananas, oranges, lemons, groceries, etc., order from Jas. R. Bell's grocery, 161 Hunter street. Best varieties of tomatoe plants. Telephone 455.

—The Trusts and Guarantee Company, Limited, Toronto, has been appointed administrator of the estate of the late William Murray, of the Township of Dover East, Kent County. The amount of the estate is about $10,000, and the widow and three daughters are the only heirs.

—All arrangements have been completed for St. Paul's Young Men's Guild excursion to Stony Lake on Thursday, June 16 th. The new steamer "Stony Lake" has been chartered for the occasion, and the trip promises to be one of the most enjoyable of the season. The charge for the round trip will be 75 cents.

—The first excursion from Peterborough to the new famous Hegler's Falls will be held next Thursday, under the auspices of the George Street Guilds. The train will leave here at 8.25 and at Hastings the steamer "Rainbow" will be boarded for the delightful trip to the Falls. Returning, the train will arrive here at 8.05 p.m. Only 100 tickets will be sold for this trip; $1.00 return fare.

—A monster hen's egg, weighing 3 1-2 ounces, and measuring 6 1-2 and 7 1-2 inches in the short and long circumferences, respectively, has been shown the Examiner. It will be interesting to note that this egg is the product of a town hen, so that this is one instance of where the farmers are surpassed at their own occupation. It goes without saying that there is no responsibility in connection with the above mentioned egg upon the lay delegates at the Methodist Conference—simply a coincidence.

PORT HOPE ONTARIOS TIED WITH T. A. S.

In Opening Game of T. V. League Last Evening

Each Team Scored one Goal—Game was a Fairly Fast Exhibition—Scoring done in Second Quarter.

The opening game in the Trent Valley Lacrosse League was played last evening at the Murray street school grounds, between the Ontarios of Port Hope and the T.A.S. The game resulted in a tie, each team scoring a goal. According to an agreement only three quarter periods were played, and as it was growing dark at the conclusion of the 45 minutes' play the tie was not played off. The game was witnessed by a fairly large number of spectators, who saw a fairly good exhibition of our national game.

Both teams showed that they had not yet reached mid-summer form and though the players seemed to be in condition to stand a pretty fast clip the quality of lacrosse displayed was not of the best, there being too much wild passing and muffing, but consistent practice will overcome all these difficulties, and judging from the material in last night's match, some pretty lacrosse will be noticed before the season is concluded. The play was quite strenuous at times, and several players received nasty cracks, which caused frequent delays, and one player had to retire from the contest. Only one player was ruled off however, and Referee Glover at all times had the players well in hand. The play was very even throughout, neither team having any apparent advantage.

The Total Abstainers presented a well-balanced team, which, with a little strengthening and more practice will be a very dangerous dozen for any team to tackle. The boys were all hard and consistent workers, the defence checked well, and the home worked nicely together, combining on several occasions with good effect. O'Brien turned some hot ones aside in goal, and did some good work on the home field. Boyle at point, checked well, and frequently relieved by steady work. Mahony Donovan were always in their place and stuck well to their checks. Meagher was very effective and broke up the rushes of the Ontarios very frequently. Whaley also played well while Gorman played a fast game at centre, and Doris was prominent in every rush. Connors did excellent work on the home, while Derocher was right in the game from start to finish, and did stellar work. Joe O'Brien at outside home, played a fast game throughout and McCoy at inside home played a star game, his stick handling and running being very effective.

The Ontarios presented a speedy bunch, composed chiefly of last year's Victorias. The McLean brothers did excellent work, and Crowhurst starred at outside home. The team played nice combination and shot well.

The teams lined up as follows:

Port Hope.	T.A.S.
Goal.
Pennington	J. O'Brien
Point.
H. McLean	Boyle
Cover point.
Staples	Mahoney
1st defence.
Strickland	Donovan
2nd defence.
Lewis	Meagher
3rd defence.
J. McLean	Whaley
Centre.
Dean	Gorman
3rd home.
W. McLean	Doris
2nd home.
Rowden	Connors
1st home.
Friar	Derocher
Outside home.
Crowhurst	Joe O'Brien
Inside home.
Alcott	McCoy

Goal umpires.

J. A. Smith... F. McFadden

R. M. Glover gave general satisfaction as referee.

The play was of the end-to-end variety in the first quarter, neither goal keeper however having a shot to stop. McCoy was ruled off for two minutes.

In the second quarter the visitors rushed matters and O'Brien stopped two hot ones, but in two minutes McLean shot one into the nets. The T.A.S. then got busy and in ten minutes Joe O'Brien tied the score. In this quarter Doris was hurt but he resumed play.

There was nothing doing in the last quarter in the scoring line. Connors was hit on the head and forced to retire. Boyle went in goal, and Jimmie O'Brien took a turn on the home, doing good work.

NOTES.

The T.A.S. team had had only three nights' team practice since organization.

Leo O'Connor was obliged to receive several stitches in the cut he received over the eye.

The T.A.S. team journeys to Hastings on the 18th and will probably run an excursion.

The team which represented the Total Abstainers last evening, it is said, is not the strongest dozen that organization can turn out. Their next line up will prove this.

GUNBOAT GILIAK WAS TORPEDOED.

Russian Gunboat Destroyed at Port Arthur on Saturday.

1,500 JAPS VS. 4,000 RUSSIANS.

Latter Lost 200 Killed and 100 Wounded, and the Japs Beat Them off With 100 Killed—Russian Losses Heavy in Other Skirmishes—Wireless and Carrier Pigeon News From Port Arthur.

Tokio, June 6.—The Russian gunboat Giliak was torpedoed and destroyed at Port Arthur Saturday.

1,500 Japs Repulse 4,000 Russians.

London, June 6.—The Daily Telegraph's Tientsin correspondent wires: "Four thousand Russians belonging to Gen. Stakelberg's brigade on May 31 attacked 1,500 Japanese occupying a position 15 miles south of Wafagtien. The Russians were repulsed, losing 200 killed and 400 wounded. The Japanese lost more than 100 killed."

Russian Loss Heavy.

Tokio, June 6.—The Japanese and Russian forces located north of Pulantien, which were in a series of brushes in the early part of last week had another oncounter on Friday, June 3, near Chuchiatun. On that day the Japanese cavalrymen met the Russians at noon.

The Russians numbered 2,000 men, and were composed of infantry, detachments of cavalrymen and artillery. They were pressing the Japanese cavalry when the Japanese assembled their entire force and engaged the enemy. The Russians drew off gradually, and at half-past five in the afternoon they retired to Telishu. The Japanese suffered four men killed and four men wounded in this fighting.

A report has been received here from Gen. Kuroki saying that on Friday last a detachment was despatched from Aiyangeheng (Aiyangpieamen) to the east of Fengwangcheng to make a reconnaissance towards Chaimatsi (Simati, 35 miles north of Fengwangcheng). The detachment encountered 600 Cossacks and after a brisk engagement the Russians retreated.

Gen. Kuroki reports that the Russian loss was heavy. The Japanese suffered only one man killed and three wounded.

Russians Using Wireless.

Tokio, June 6.—It is suspected here that the Russians at Port Arthur are communicating with points on the Chinese coasts by means of wireless telegraphy.

Carrier Pigeons From Port Arthur.

Newchwang, June 6.—Two carrier pigeons arrived here Saturday noon from Gen. Stoessel at Port Arthur. The Russians will not divulge the messages carried by the birds, but declare they contain good information.

Kuroki Had Typhus.

Paris, June 6.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of The Matin says: "According to information received here Gen. Kuroki has been suffering from a mild attack of typhus fever, but he has now recovered.

"The general belief is that Gen. Kuropatkin will not advance to the relief of Port Arthur. In any case orders to do so have not yet been transmitted.

"I learn that England has obtained from Japan on behalf of Russia assurances that the Japanese will not destroy seals in Behring Sea during the war.

"It is rumored the army corps of the St. Petersburg district will be mobilized shortly. I have reason to believe that two other army corps in the central district will also be mobilized."

Russians Aided Jap Loan.

London, June 6.—A despatch to The Standard from St. Petersburg asserts that no preparations whatever have been made to organize a transport service down the great waterways of the Sungari and Amur Rivers. Great indignation is felt over the discovery that several wealthy firms "secretly assisted in the recent Japanese loan."

The Morning Post is telegraphed from Shanghai that some of the warships at Port Arthur have been beached and their guns removed to the land-works.

Peace Not Far Off.

London, June 6.—Japan's unbroken and overwhelming success is producing some curious effects on European opinion. Continental sympathies have been largely pro-Russian and were coupled until a week ago with the conviction that the war would soon demonstrate the military superiority of Russian arms.

The completeness of the Russian disaster at Nanshan seems to have created the impression that peace is not far off. Europe has apparently suddenly jumped to the conclusion that Port Arthur soon will fall, and that Russia, rather than carry on a useless war, will sue for terms.

The reversal of opinion throughout the continent seems almost universal among ordinary observers, nor is mere sympathy wasted upon Russia. Her prestige has well-nigh vanished, and with it has gone that mingled awe and respect which constituted her greatness in European eyes.

Judge Ritchie's Death.

Halifax, June 6.—Judge J. Norman Ritchie of the Supreme Court of Nova Scotia, died yesterday morning after a week's illness from heart trouble. H was 70 years old, and intended to resign this summer, owing to failing health. He was a brilliant lawyer, and one of the ablest members of the Nova Scotia Bar.

Captain Was Drowned.

Vineyard Haven, Mass., June 6.—The barge Lorr Berry of the Philadelphia & Reading Coal Company was sunk off Vineyard Sound lightship during a dense fog yesterday morning through a collision with the steamer Tallahasse, Savannah for Boston. Capt. Burroughes of the barge was drowned.

Five Killed in Battle.

The Hague, June 6.—The Dutch troops have captured a native fortress in the East Indies. They lost one officer killed and two officers and 30 men wounded. The natives lost 176 men killed.

TUG NIAGARA ASHORE.

Will Be Total Wreck—Crew and Passengers Were Rescued.

Duluth, Minn., June 6. — Eleven members of the crew and two women passengers, Mrs. Merritt, wife of the owner of the Park Hotel, Sault Ste. Marie, and her guest, Miss Gates of the same city, on the big sea tug Niagara, were rescued from that craft Saturday by the tug Edna G., after a perilous experience at Knife Island, 24 miles down the north shore of Lake Superior. The tug had gone on the rocks in the worst northeaster of the year, and it was feared for a time that all on board would perish. The Edna G. was two miles away at the time, and hearing the signals of distress, hastened to the assistance of the foundering craft. Life rafts were launched, and one after another the terrified people jumped onto them and were safely brought on shore. The Niagara was valued at $25,000, and when last heard from was broken in two, and, it is thought, will be a total loss.

TEMISKAMING CONTRACT.

Hope and McDonald Will Finish Work They Have Already Begun.

Toronto, June 6.—The Temiskaming Railway Commission on Saturday considered the letting of the contract for the construction of the additional portion of the road from North Liskeard, sanctioned by the Government. All the commissioners were present except Mr. Gurney, who was in communication during the meeting with the other members by telegraph and concurred in the action taken.

The contract was awarded to Mr. McDonald of Hope & McDonald, who built the former portion of the line. The contract is let at piecework figures, the distance to be built being about 100 miles. During the present season 25 miles must be built, and the contractors expect to finish 40.

A ST. LOUIS RIOT.

Because Bull Fight Stopped Building Was Burned Down.

St. Louis, June 6.—Incensed over their failure to see a genuine Spanish "bull fight," which the authorities had ordered stopped, a riot was started in an arena near the World's Fair grounds Saturday evening by a crowd of 2,500 men and boys, who were unable to get their money back, and the building was burned to the ground. The price of admission charged was $1. Four men were placed under arrest, charged with destruction of property. The building is said to have cost $2,500. It is a total loss.

New Bishop of Selkirk.

Kincardine, June 6.—Word has been received here of the appointment by His Grace the Archbishop of Canterbury of the Rev. I. O. Stringer to the diocese of Selkirk, to succeed Bishop Bompas, resigned. His Lordship the Bishop of Selkirk is an old Kincardine boy, a son of John Stringer, and passed through the High School here, afterwards completing his studies in Toronto. Some twelve years since he was sent as missionary to the Esquimaux and took up his residence among them on Hercheles Island, in the Arctic Ocean, at the mouth of the Mackenzie River. Here was the scene of his labors for upwards of ten years. Returning to civilization he delivered a series of lectures throughout Ontario and was appointed to the church at White Horse, Yukon, about a year ago. The diocese of Selkirk comprises the greater part of the Yukon territory and was set apart in 1891.

Minto on Carnegie.

London, June 6.—Lord Minto has written his factor on his Roxborough estates objecting to the subscription of £100 given by Andrew Carnegie towards Minto parish church organ, on the ground that dependence on the generosity of Mr. Carnegie is quite unnecessary on the present occasion. Lord Minto offers to subscribe the £100 provided the congregation favor the introduction of a pipe organ and subscribe the other £100. He considers that the congregation have a right to know the correspondence which passed between the Rev. Mr. Galloway, minister of the parish, and Andrew Carnegie.

Stockholm, June 6.—Andrew Carnegie has given $50,000 for the establishment of an English chair at Gothenburg University.

Explosion in Distillery.

Peoria, June 6.—An explosion which occurred in the eleven-storey warehouse of the Corning Distillery Saturday, completely wrecked the building. The ruins took fire and the flames were communicated to three adjoining buildings, burning them to the ground. Ten men were buried beneath the ruins and burned to death, and six others were seriously injured. The loss on buildings and whiskey and spirits stored will approximate $1,000,000. The fire spread to the stock yards district, where a dozen large cattle barns, filled with cattle for market, were burned. The cause of the explosion cannot yet be determined. The wildest excitement prevailed after the explosion.

King to Investigate.

Ottawa, June 6.—W. L. M. King, Deputy Minister of Labor, has been sent as a special commissioner to Montreal to investigate the truth of the statement that over a thousand Italians are stranded in that city.

C.P.R. Extension Carried.

Blyth, June 6.—Voting on bylaw to assist C.P.R. extension from Guelph to Goderich took place in East Wawanosh Saturday and was carried by the following vote: For, 128; against, 79.

Fatal Gelatine Explosion.

Pinola, Cal., June 6.—An explosion in the gelatine house of the Hercules Powder Works Saturday caused the death of three men.

LIBERAL LEADER PRESIDED

Took the Form of a Tremendous Free Trade Demonstration—Three Daughters of Cobden on the Platform—Mr. John Morley Says Colonial Prosperity Depends Upon That of Britain —Times Criticism.

London, June 6.—The Cobden centenary meeting at Alexandra Palace Saturday night, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, the Liberal leader in the House of Commons, presiding, took the form of a tremendous free trade demonstration. Some seventy political associations of London co-operated in the meeting, and the attendance was estimated at 18,000. Among those on the platform were three daughters and two grandchildren of Richard Cobden, a number of Cobden's political friends, the surviving members of the Anti-Corn Law League and prominent free trade members of the House of Commons. Sir Henry devoted his speech to a eulogy of Cobden's political achievements. The meeting closed with a great torchlight procession.

COLONIAL PROSPERITY.

Mr. John Morley Says It Depends Upon That of Britain.

London, June 6.—(C. A. P.)—John Morley, speaking at Birmingham, denied that Richard Cobden wanted to fling the colonies overboard. He did not advocate the manufacture of an artificial Empire, but the holding of the colonies by affection. The first condition of colonial prosperity was the mobility of capital and the prosperity of Britain.

Done By Cobden.

London, June 6.—(C. A. P.)—The Times attributes to the Cobden policy British emigration of the last half century to the United States instead of to Canada, and the deprivation of Canada's proper place as chief producer of British foodstuffs.

Bannerman's Imperialism.

London, June 6.—(C.A.P.)—Campbell-Bannerman, speaking at the Cobden demonstration at Alexandria Palace, declared he did not trust the 10 per cent. duty patriots. He did not much like Imperialism at so much a quarter.

Question of the Hour.

London June 6.—(C. A. P.)—The Rev. Mr. Balfour, moderator of the United Free Church of Scotland, in his closing address at Edinburgh, said how to keep the colonies loyal to the fatherland was the question of the hour. All should be alive to the value of these offshoots of the national tree and outposts of the Empire. Whatever might be the answer of the politicians, Scotland should provide ministers and churches.

Given Great Reception.

London, June 6.—(C.A.P.)—An enthusiastic reception awaited the Canadian bowlers on the landing stage by representatives already notified and the delegation of the Liverpool Association. As the vessel docked the team sang the "Maple Leaf for Ever," and were heartily cheered. An informal reception on board followed. All the team, including the ladies, are well and report a fine passage; not one of them missed a meal. The team meet the Liverpool Association this afternoon at Aintree, the finest green in the North of England. They play the Midland Counties Association at Leicester on Tuesday and go thence to London, where they will be entertained to dinner by Mr. Nurse. Thursday they play the London County Club at the Crystal Palace, and Friday will see them at Reading.

Drowned at Collingwood.

Toronto, June 6.—The body of Robert Burns, a telegraph operator in the stock brokers' office of Dever & Co., was found in the lake at Collingwood on Saturday morning. He had gone there only a short time ago from Toronto. He was 33 years of age, unmarried, and a brother of Chas. Burns, 214 Wilton avenue. The body was brought to Toronto Saturday for interment.

Where Kuroki Is.

Liaoyang, June 6.—Gen. Kuroki's outposts now hold the [illegible] Saipuzi, Selludjan and Chi[illegible]. Japanese forces disembarking at Takushan have reached Ulaosze. A division of the guards forms the connecting link between Ulaosze and Fengwancheng. The Japanese landings at Pitsewo continue.

Picked Pockets at Circus.

Kingston, June 6.—Pickpockets did effective work on Saturday. They gathered in $75 from a saloon-keeper, $30 from a Gananoque police officer, $35 from a Sharbot Lake man, and $280 from James McCoy of Hamilton.

Borden to Be Banquetted.

Montreal, June 6.—On June 18th Mr. R. L. Borden will be 50 years of age, and it is the intention of the Jacques Cartier Club to tender a banquet to the Conservative leader.

Lord Dundonald Banquetted.

Montreal, June 6.—Lord Dundonald, commanding the forces, was banqueted Saturday night by the officers of the Montreal military district.

DR. CHOWN PRAISES HON. J. R. STRATTON

Credits Provincial Secretary With Enforcement of Liquor Law.

London, June 8.—At the London Methodist Conference yesterday, Rev. Dr. Chown, Secretary of the department of social and moral reform, credited the Provincial Secretary's Department with an improved enforcement of the liquor law. He declared Mr. Ross must bring forth fruits meet for repentance by making certain Cabinet changes, and a clear statement of policy, if he wanted the support of the temperance people.

"The Department of the Provincial Secretary," said Dr. Chown, "has been true to our interests." The licenses branch of the Government was now administered in such a way as to give cold comfort to the liquor men. He had been consulted in regard to the appointment of some inspectors. He was confident no liquor would be sold in Toronto Junction, and believed the liquor men had given up hope there.

In regard to race-track gambling, he said he had strong reason to hope that an amendment would be passed at the present session of Parliament, making it illegal to bet at a race course. He said the key to the political situation in Ontario was in wise action.

The leader of the Ontario Opposition was not in favour of prohibition; but of license reform. The Liberal party had not yet kept their promises, but the improved enforcement of the law should count in th it favour. It was then that Dr. Chown announced himself in favour of the phase, "Abolish the bar," as one that would unite all the forces of reform. He urged the formation of temperance committees in every church.

OLDEST DELEGATE TO CONFERENCE

Mr. Geo. Wilson, a Newspaper, man Has That Honour.

Mr. George Wilson, the veteran editor of the Port Hope Guide who is in town as a delegate to the Methodist Conference, and a guest of Mr. John Nugent, gave the Examiner a fraternal call Saturday. Mr. Wilson is perhaps the oldest delegate attending the Conference, as he is the oldest newspaper man in active work between Montreal and Toronto. He is in his 80th year. Mr. Wilson has been a Methodist for 62 years, a total abstainer for 61 years and a good Hardshell "Grit" for 80 years.

Mr. Wilson is able to make a boast founded upon facts which perhaps have no precedent on this continent or elsewhere. He related one of the incidents in connection with the operation of the Guide office that in 1853, when the Duke of Wellington died, the Guide contained a column and a half account of his death. A few days ago Mr. Wilson, on looking through the back files ran across this paper, and called the attention of some of the men in the office to it. One of these said: "I set that article in type," as another remarked, "I turned the old hand-press for the issue of the paper in which that article appears." Here were three men, the editor and two printers who for nearly 52 years had been at work continuously in the Guide office, a record which few printing offices in this country can boast of.

INTERESTING LECTURE BY CLEVER SPEAKER

Rev. Dr. Burwash Addresses a Large Audience on Saturday Evening

Subject was "Historic Monuments of Egypt" This Country Rich in Monuments of Various Descriptions.

The lecture in the Y.M.C.A. Assembly Hall on Saturday evening by the Rev. Chancellor Burwash, of Victoria University upon the subject of "Historic Monuments of Egypt," was one which attracted a large audience, the hall being filled to overflowing. The lecturer presented the subject in a most able and interesting manner, holding the marked attention of his audience throughout the duration of the one hour and a half in which he spoke.

Monuments, began the speaker, were anything which kept in mind the actions, lives or history of generations in the past. There were all varieties of monuments but the best were those made unconsciously, prepared by Divine providence. Those were the most faithful, did not flatter or set in a false light but simply signified facts.

No land was as rich in monuments as Ancient Egypt, and the mounds were one of the most interesting of Egyptian monuments. These mounds resembled our Canadian muskrat houses on a large scale. Two great events in Egypt every year were the annual overflow of the Nile and the sandstorm, and the speaker explained how these two occurences result in the beginning of these mounds. The cooking utinsels, the staff and other belongings of the ancient shepherds were buried years ago, and later a shepherds' settlement would grow into a town which would be destroyed in war, and in time covered by the sand, forming the first layer of strata in these mounds. If one should dig down into the soil where any of the mounds now stand in Egypt they would first find relicts of the Saracens, then of the Crusadors, of a Christian village, of the Roman Empire, of the successors of Alexander, of the remains of the Persian war, of the old Kingdom, of the Pharaohs, of the shepherd Kings, of the Pharaohs before Abraham's time, and, lastly, of the remains of the primitive shepherd. This kind of monument is a faithful one, flattering no one and taking as good care of the flint implements of the shepherd as o' the carved work of the King. The monuments make a different estimate of human affairs than we are accustomed to make on our history. In the present age wars, Kings, statesmen, etc., are chiefly read in history, but these are monuments chiefly of the implements and utensils of the common people such as pots and pans, and the war implements of the great men are not as common. The mound record is more like the record of the great day of judgment.

In many ways the present age was similar to that of thousands of years ago. The products of the soil, the manner of living in some respects were quite similar, though the manner of dress, language and other things had materially changed.

Great buildings were another form of monuments, for Egypt was rich in her possession of wonderful structures, which were as a rule covered with inscriptions. These inscriptions like those on tombstones were in no way faithful or reliable, being of a flattering nature, and to interpret them rightly one must understand the eccentricites and peculiarities of that age.

The burial places were another form of monument. An authority had saw that about 700 million mummies were at present lying beneath the sod in Egypt. The speaker thought this calculation somewhat exaggerated, but the number was undoubtedly an enormous one. The speaker referred to the wonderful process of embalming and to the carvings and inscriptions upon the caskets which remained legible for thousands of years.

The speaker by means of drawings showed how many of the letters of our alphabet resembled the letters used fully 7,000 years ago and the explained the changes which had taken place during the different ages.

The moral ideas of the Egyptians were noteworthy ones. They were to defraud no man of his due, not oppress the weak, not to be wrothful, to break faith with no man, to starve no man, to slay no man, not to enrich himself by unlawful means, not to give short measure of corn, not to encroach on his neighbour's territory, not to shut off running water, not to take food from the fatherless. "I, I am Pure," was their motto. These laws were recognized as far back as 4,000 B.C. In looking back over the time of the ancients, we conclude, said the speaker, that there were just as grand and noble men thousands of years ago with minds, powers and characters as lofty as those which characterize the men of modern days.

Rev. Prof. Reyner, of Victoria University was chairman for the evening.

Kept Poor by Doctor's Bills.

Many a family is kept poor by doctors' bills when just as good and oftentimes better results could be obtained by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, which sell for 25c a box of twenty-five doses. As one pill a day is the most frequent dose under any circumstances there is no medicine obtainable which costs so little and at the same time which brings about such excellent results in derangements of the Kidneys, liver and bowels.

Animal Hairs.

Cats, dogs, pet mice and other hairy animals have often been proved to cause severe throat mischief in human beings by the latter breathing in the minute hairs shed. These are apt to lodge in the throat. The results may range from a trifling irritation to the formation of an ulcer. We shall cease to wonder at such mischief being worked by a thing so seemingly trivial on considering that many of the pets concerned come into contact daily with things swarming with disease germs.

BRITISH IN THIBET.

Took Two Four-Pounders—Thibetans Refuse to Forward Col. Younghusband's Letter Fixing Negotiation Date.

Simla, British India, June 6.—The British expedition into Thibet has captured two four-pounders from the enemy, and a Lhassa general is reported to have been killed.

The Thibetans have refused to forward to Lhassa the letter from Col. Younghusband, the political agent with the expedition, fixing the latest date on which the British are prepared to meet and negotiate with the Amban and Thibetan delegates at Gyantse before advancing on Lhassa.

COL. YOUNGHUSBAND.

SENATOR BOSTOCK.

Formerly Represented Yale-Cariboo in House of Commons.

Ottawa, June 6.—Mr. Hewitt Bostock has been called to the Upper House to replace the late Senator Reid.

Mr. Bostock is a young man of great ability and agreeable personality. He took his degree of M.A. at Cambridge, but has been in the west for some years. In 1896 he was elected to the House of Commons for Yale-Cariboo, but did not seek re-election in 1900. At present he is engaged in ranching in British Columbia.

Joins Church of Rome.

London, June 6.—Mrs. St. Leger Harrison ("Lucas Malet"), who has written some noteworthy fiction, has joined the Roman Catholic Church. She is the daughter of the late Charles Kingsley, whose antipathy for the Church of Rome and everything connected with it found strong expression in his stories. "Lucas Malet" long has been contemplating this step.

Will Lose a Foot.

Port Hope, June 6.—Billy Birr, a young man 23 years old, hailing from Cobourg, had his right foot crushed here yesterday afternoon while attempting to board an eastbound freight at the overhead bridge in the eastern part of the town. Birr's foot was later amputated at Cobourg.

Too Much of a Row.

There is a good story told of Brigham Young and "The Lady of Lyons." Young took his wives to see a performance of Lytton's play at Salt Lake City. When the agony was piled up he rose and, followed by his spouses, left the theater, exclaiming, "I won't stand such an infernal row being made about one woman!"

O.J.C. SPRING RACES.

Toronto, June 6.—The twelfth and last day of the Ontario Jockey Club's spring meeting saw seven getaway races. The record:

First Race—5½ furlongs, Norway Purse, 3-year-olds and up. 1 Cantaloupe, 2 San Nichols, 3 Basuto. Time, 1.12.

Second Race—5 furlongs, Tyro Stakes, 2-year-olds. 1 Derry, 2 Miss Karl, 3 Little Woods. Time, 1.03½.

Third Race—1 mile, Dominion Handicap, 3-year-olds and up. 1 Hawkins, 2 Nimble Dick, 3 Loupanga. Time, 1.46½.

Fourth Race—1⅛ miles, Waterloo Handicap, 3-year-olds and up. 1 Cloverland, 2 Spring, 3 Dramatist. Time, 1.57½.

Fifth Race—2½ miles, Street Railway Steeplechase Handicap, 4-year-olds and up. 1 Imperialist, 2 Conover, 3 Provost. Time, 6.14½.

Sixth Race—1 mile, Consolation Purse, 3-year-olds and up. 1 Norbury, 2 Zarkee, 3 Latrobe. Time, 1.46.

Seventh Race—6 furlongs, 3-year-olds and up. 1 Mixer, 2 Chanterelle, 3 Candidate. Time, 1.44½.

3,000 Men Back to Work.

Wheeling, W. Va., June 6.—The strike of miners in the fifth district of Ohio was declared off Saturday and this morning about 8,000 men will return to work. The question as to who shall control the outside labor was settled by concessions from both sides.

Ald. Domville Dead.

Hamilton, June 6.—After a struggle of over three weeks with a combination of ailments that included pneumonia and a stroke of paralysis, Ald. Domville at an early hour Saturday morning passed away at his residence.

Of Use Every Day.

Once you become acquainted with the merits of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and the scores of ways in which it is useful in every home, you would not think of being without it. Eczema, salt rheum, scald head, tetter, chafing, chilblains, burns, scalds, and every form of skin irritation and eruption soon yield to its extraordinary, soothing, healing, influence.

No Light on Kuropatkin.

London, June 4.—No further light has been thrown on the mysterious rumor concerning Gen. Kuropatkin's intentions. Despatches to The Morning Post from Shanghai and to The Chronicle from Newchwang repeat the reports of the movement of 15,000 Russians to Kaiping. The correspondents assert that five days' fighting took place at Wafangtien, and that the Russians are employing 4,000 carts to remove munitions from Liaoyang to Kalyuen, seventy miles north of Mukden.

The Morning Post's Shanghai correspondent also says that Gen. Mistchenko has sent 4,000 cavalry of the Imperial Guard from Kuangchengtsu to cut off the Japanese at Pitsewo. No great reliance, however, should be placed on these despatches, which evidently have some common origin.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

He Will Die.

Lindsay, June 4.—In attempting to pass through between cars of a moving train in the station yard yesterday afternoon, George Landry, call boy, employed by the G.T.R. here, missed his footing and fell under the wheels, which passed over both legs, badly mangling them. No hopes are entertained of his recovery.

Canadian Steamer Aground.

Windsor, June 4.—The Candian steamer Pellatt, which left Windsor late Thursday night, ran aground on Harron's Island in the St. Clair River some time during the night. A heavy fog prevailed. The wrecker Saginaw, with Capt. Isaac Watts, has gone to the Pellatt's assistance.

Will Go West.

Ottawa, June 4.—The Railway Commission will go to the Pacific coast early in July to hear a number of cases in which the cities of Vancouver and New Westminster and the C. P. R. and the Vancouver, New Westminster & Yukon Railway are interested.

Inspiring Legacy.

London, June 4.—(C.A.P.)—Freeman's Journal believes that some day the western world will realize what it owes Ireland. Referring to the proposed monument at Ottawa to D'Arcy McGee, it says his poems and prose are an inspiring legacy to Ireland.

The Babies' Troubles.

The greatest suffering of childhood is caused by eczema, scald head, chafing or other forms of skin irritation or eruption. Because of its extraordinary soothing, healing power Dr. Chase's Ointment is of inestimable value in the home where there are small children. No mother who has learned the scores of ways in which Dr. Chase's Ointment can be used would think of being without it in the house.

An Error About Irving's Understudy.

It appears from British mail advices that the cable misled Canadians as to Sir Henry Irving's remarks about people mistaking his understudy for himself. The Daily Chronicle puts it in this way: "Sir Henry's understudy, who had not a single chance in his six months of waiting, might legitimately have nursed a grievance. However, he got his chance in an unexpected way when the company was in Canada. They were there when 'Our Lady of the Snows' was at her best, and many of the members of the company distinguished themselves on the ice. Particularly was this the case with the gentleman who takes Sir Henry's place on the stage in an emergency. And as he bears some facial resemblance to the great actor, the local papers came out with lengthy accounts of Sir Henry Irving's feats on the ice. As a matter of fact, he has never got beyond sliding."

YANKEE BUNCO AGENTS

HOW THEY DUPE FELLOW-COUNTRYMEN COMING TO CANADA.

Greed of the Bunking Sharks of the United States—Ten Dollars for the Canadian Government's Free Pamphlet "Where and How and All About It"—Sale of Ghost Iron Houses—Government Warns Settlers.

The rapacity and ingenuity of "booking agents" in the States is causing immigration authorities and many prospective settlers throughout Northwestern Canada serious annoyance, writes G. C. Porter in Toronto World. Taking advantage of the movement from the Western States northward, unscrupulous persons advertise to select desirable homesteads in the Canadian Northwest, without which they assure people nothing worth having for agricultural purposes can be secured. The usual fee is ten dollars, but many cases reported at Winnipeg show that the limit frequently reaches many times that sum, according to the wealth of the "sucker." The farm papers of the central states especially carry these advertisements. They are cunningly worded and calculated to catch those of more than average shrewdness. Here is a sample, culled from a Chicago journal that caters to the stockraiser and farmer:

"Do You Want Canadian Homesteads?"

"If you are seeking free farms in Canada communicate with us. There are eight hundred million acres, covering half a dozen territories, to choose from. We have list of best sections. For ten dollar fee you become member of our association. That means we will select 160 acres for you in best agricultural part of Canada and arrange all preliminary details for your location. Don't go into a foreign country without this information. Remember Canada is a monarchy, and it is very different from a republic.

J. Rice & Co.,
Colonization Association,
172½ La Salle street, Chicago."

What the Sucker Gets.

On receipt of the fee, a copy of the Canadian Interior Department's pamphlet, entitled "Where and how and all about it," is mailed to the applicant, together with one of the Government maps, showing the scope of the Homestead Act. A brief letter, signed "J. Rice," with a rubber stamp stating that 160 acres of land is free over the section covered by the map, and inclosing a railroad folder showing the different lines to the north, close the incident. These pamphlets can, of course, be secured free on application to the Government agents or representatives of the various railroads entering this territory, but the fact is not generally known.

The authorities have had their attention called to these fakes innumerable times. They have taken the matter up with the postal authorities of the States. Investigations have followed, but without suppressing the sharks. They claim to supply all they advertise, and expose their books to show that all applicants who pay the required fee are enrolled in the "Colonization Association Co." ledger. They maintain further that they are conferring something of value upon these people by supplying them with the Government folders and railroad pamphlets.

Ghost Iron Houses Sold.

That tremendous business is done by these rascals is indicated by the number of settlers who arrive in Winnipeg and other points in the Northwest, with receipts from the bogus land locators. They tell the same story to the immigration authorities. Having seen the advertisements and knowing nothing of the subject, though desiring to come to Canada, they had been inveigled into the scheme. In some cases the intrigue extends further, and the proposed settlers are told that they may purchase portable houses to take with them, since lumber is scarce in Canada, and the demand for immediate shelter imperative. In that case small ten by twelve sheet-iron rooms are offered at outrageous sums. This feature of the offer is given the evidence of genuine Government sanction by including a small circular which contains the exemption of sheetiron houses brought in by settlers. Altogether the ingenuity of the men engaged in this swindling operation and the energy they exhibit catches a very considerable number of people. Time and again the Government has issued warnings against this game, but the instances in which prospective settlers have been victimized continue to increase.

Government Warns Settlers.

The latest edition of "How and where and all about it" contains special reference to the subject in full face type and urges settlers not to consider such propositions, as they are worthless in aiding the farmers to locate a homestead. These sharpers are merely copying the methods of rascals who operated all over the Western States during the settlement of Kansas and the Indian Territory. There is nothing original in the schemes, but the number of people who come to Canada under the delusion that they have acquired some especially valuable inside information from this source is surprising. At first they are very secretive about it, but when they learn that it is a common swindle they report to the authorities. Occasionally farmers from Ontario and other parts of Eastern Canada have been taken in by this sort of thing. It is incredible that a person of ordinary intelligence and residing in Canada could consider such a proposition for a minute, but they do.

The Island of Malta.

On the island of Malta house rent is ridiculously cheap. Anywhere outside of Valetta an excellent seven roomed house can be had for $15 to $20 a year, while rates and taxes are unknown. The houses are built entirely of the cream colored stone of which the island is composed and which is so soft that it can be cut with a saw into blocks or slabs of any desired size or shape. So while the Maltese builder is digging up his foundation he is at the same time getting out the material for his walls, his flooring and his roof.

JAIL POPULATION.

Inspector of Prisons' 36th Annual Report Shows a Large Increase—The Cost of Maintenance.

The thirty-sixth annual report of Dr. Chamberlain, inspector of prisons, presented before the prorogation of the Legislature, says the sanitary condition of many of the jails has been improved, but there are still many in a very dilapidated condition and unsafe for the custody of prisoners. In Northern Ontario eight new lock-ups have been fitted up. He suggests that on account of the great extent of territory in New Ontario, the moving of prisoners and lunatics from the outlying districts to the central institutions has become so expensive that it would be well to consider the advisability of establishing a small prison and also an asylum at some point north of Lake Superior.

Committals to Jails.

The number of committals in 1903 was 9,261, nearly 1,000 in excess of the previous year. Crimes against the person have increased during the year by some 116 over the previous year, but are still less than any other year since 1877. Crimes against property have been lower than they have been for twenty-five years, the total for last year being 2,190. Crimes against public morals and decency remain about the same as the previous year. Offences against public order and peace are slightly greater than the previous year. The other crimes with which prisoners were charged were about the same as in the previous year. Committals for drunkenness were some 300 in excess of the previous year. The number of prisoners sent from our province to the Penitentiary for the past year in excess of those of the previous year were 21; and to the Reformatory for Boys, 22; and, the Central Prison, 157. The total number of prisoners in the jails on Sept. 30, 1903, was 617.

Thirteen prisoners escaped, eight of whom were recaptured. There were 38 deaths. Of the prisoners 1,221 were females; 3,397 were married and 5,864 unmarried. Those who could not read or write numbered 1,662 and 6,863 were intemperate.

Cost of Maintenance.

The cost of maintaining the jails in the province for food, clothing and fuel was $57,252.84; for salaries, $36,081.95, and for ordinary repairs $7,122.23. The average cost for food, clothing and fuel was $6.18 for each prisoner committed. The greatest number of prisoners at one time during the year was 1,090; the lowest number 599. The average cost per day per prisoner was 24c.

It is worthy of note that all the jails of the province in their returns of the earnings of prisoners only report $32.89 as the total earnings of prisoners for the year. This sum was derived from the Cornwall jail.

Central Prison.

The report for the Central Prison shows 718 committals. There were 303 in custody at the commencement of the year, making the total 1,016, compared with 1,019 the previous year. The average daily population was 353. Of the number committed 455 were for the first time, 180 second, 59 the fourth and the remaining 44 from five to 15 times.

There were committed for vagrancy 201, as compared with 140 the previous year. The number discharged on ticket-of-leave was 84, and 18 were discharged on remission of sentence, together being a fraction under 7½ per cent. of the whole number of commitments. Of the total number committed one was a total abstainer, 209 were temperate and 503 intemperate. The illiterate were 67, read only 14 and 682 could both read and write. The total stay of prisoners was 128,850 days, an increase of 10,350 as compared with 1902. The gross per capita cost per diem for maintenance was 49.04c. against 55.61c. in the previous year a reduction on the previous year of 6.57c. per diem.

The total cost of maintenance outlay for the year was $63,192.77, against $58,748.82 the preceding year.

Reformatory for Boys.

In the Reformatory for Boys the number of inmates at the beginning of the year was 112, committed 44. Thirty-two were pardoned, 15 transferred to the Central Prison, three escaped and 86 were in residence at the close of the year.

The Mercer Reformatory for Females receives 111 guests, as compared with 117 the year before. Sixty-nine were there at the beginning of the year, and 64 at the close. Twenty-one were illiterate, and 86 intemperate. In the Refuge for Girls there were 72 at the beginning of the year, and 10 were committed during the year. The average population of reformatory and refuge was 138, as against 141 the preceding year.

WHEN BABY COMES.

"Where did you come from, baby dear?
Out of the everywhere into the here.

Where did you get your eyes so blue?
Out of the sky as I came through.

What makes the light in them sparkle and spin?
Some of the starry spikes left in.

Where did you get that little tear?
I found it waiting when I got here."

The fact is as sad as it is true that the baby finds the tear waiting to dull its blue eyes, and stain its soft cheeks. At the first it "has no language but a cry." Its one necessity is but to give expression to its suffering, and for that a tear suffices.

The mother who stoops in anguish over the wailing child would do anything to ease its suffering. But she is helpless. The time when she could have done so much for her child is past. She did not realize that in those anxious nervous days when she shrank from the ordeal of motherhood she was preparing suffering for the baby.

The path of motherhood is soothed and made easy for those who use Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It gives physical buoyancy and mental brightness. It tranquilizes the nerves, encourages a healthy appetite and induces refreshing sleep. It gives the mother strength for her hour of trial, and the confidence and content which come from strength. It makes the birth hour practically painless, and by increasing the natural, food secretions, it enables the healthy mother to enjoy the happiness of nursing her child.

"Favorite Prescription" contains no alcohol, neither opium, cocaine, or any other narcotic.

A Mother's Gratitude.

"I would like to express my gratitude to you for the benefit I have received from your wonderful medicine, 'Favorite Prescription,'" writes Mrs. M. C. Anderson, of South Britain, New Haven Co., Conn., (Box 33). "During the first month of expectancy I could not keep anything on my stomach. Was so sick that I had to go to bed and stay for weeks. I tried different doctors, but with little benefit. I read about many being helped by using your medicine, so I thought I would give it a trial. I began to take your 'Favorite Prescription' in November and I had a nice little girl baby in February following. My baby weighed over eight pounds. I was only sick about one hour, and got along nicely afterward; was up and dressed on the eighth day. I never had the doctor with me at all; just the nurse and one or two friends. My friends thought that I was sick a very short time. I think Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is indeed a 'true mother's friend,' for it helped me wonderfully. This makes my second child; with the first one I did not take 'Favorite Prescription.' The little one lived just about two months and she was sick all the time. This last baby is as plump and healthy as any mother could wish."

Much Better Health.

Mrs. Annie Blacker, 609 Catherine Street, Syracuse, N. Y., writes: "Your medicines have done wonders for me. For years my health was very poor; I had forgotten what it was like since taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Favorite Prescription' I have much better health, and now I have a fine healthy baby. I have recommended your medicines to several of my friends and they have been benefited by them."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser in paper covers is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

THE NEW GRAVE.

Death Is But a Natural Graduation to Better Things.

There is a little scar on the door where the pall was hung, there is a wound in the heart and a vacant chair before the grate in the library, there is a Bible that's worn, there is a fresh-made grave and a new voice in the choir.

He used to have a favorite hymn at family devotions, and we have often heard "Sweet hour of prayer, sweet hour of prayer, that calls me from a world of care."

And when he was called, he did not hesitate.

"Is he sleeping?"

They asked the nurses, and when the doctor called him, there was no answer. He had slept away, turned over, and, with a smile, as one in pleasant dreams, he left the winter's night for a summer's morning.

And here we are tossing on this sea, this sea of life, and there he is safe in the harbor. Here we are subject to the pangs of humanity, and there he is clothed in divinity. Here we are troubled, there he is peaceful. Here we are anxious of the morrow, he has no morrow, there is no night there, it is all to-day.

So the tears are not for him, for he is far better. They are selfish tears, they are the tears of earth's children, who grieve over this loss, forgetting what it means for him.

We know that he would ask why the tears if he saw them; he would question the drawn curtain, the tip-toed step and hushed voice. He would have none of this. But we are human, and so we mourn to-day for the "touch of the vanished hand, the sound of the voice that is still."

Yet we know we should not mourn. To him life alone was serious and worth while.

And death but a natural graduation to better things.

So we stand by the vacant chair, and hold to life's things loosely, for we saw him slip away even as a child kissing its mother closed its eyes, and fell asleep.

Life to-day has a new meaning, for we are bound by ties that reach from earth to the city that knows no sorrow and needs no sun.—Charles F. Raymond, in Toronto Star.

History of Canada's Mail.

Although the first land mail in Canada had been established as early as 1721, until the transference of the Postoffice Department on the 6th April, 1851, the postal arrangements had made but slow progress. On the very day the transference took place the Canadian Parliament made a uniform charge for letters throughout Canada of 3d. This was afterwards, in April, 1868, still further reduced to three cents. The first stamps were issued in 1851; money orders were introduced in 1855, and postcards were first used in 1871. Canada joined the postal union in 1878, though the first bag by parcel post was not sent to England until 1886. The later improvements to the system were the two-cent letter rate between Canada and Great Britain and several of the British possessions—since extended to almost all the colonies—which went into operation on Christmas Day, 1898; the rate of two cents per ounce for domestic letters (Jan 1, 1899), and the new rate on newspapers and periodicals posted in Canada for transmission to the United Kingdom, which went into force on the 7th March, 1908.

Three Months on the Way.

Hutchinson Bros., grocers, of Bracebridge, bought a carload of hay at Mariposa that was shipped on January 16 last. Mariposa is a station on the Midland division of the Grand Trunk, probably 60 miles from Bracebridge. Paul Jones the same day left New York City for a trip around the world. He visited the British Isles, took in the chief points of interest, went to France, to Germany, The Hague, St. Petersburg, over the world-known Trans-Siberian Railroad to Japan, the wonderful little isle of the east, took a flying trip through China, saw the sister colony of Canada in the east called India, went down to sunny Ceylon, across the Indian Ocean to the newly acquired district of South Africa, from thence to Australian, to Honolulu, to San Francisco, and then on the overland limited to New York, landing at that city on March 27, after an absence of two months and nine days, the same day as the car of hay landed at Bracebridge.—Burk's Falls Arrow.

New Provincial Crest.

A point of interest to crest collectors and others has just been decided by Premier Ross as a result of the late fire in Toronto. Nearly all the dies of the crests used with the stationery in the various departments were destroyed in the Rolph, Smith warehouse. These crests presented a great variety of design, various decorations having been introduced.

The question of adopting the correct arms of the province had been under consideration for some time at the instance of the Provincial Assistant Secretary. The fire having provided the opportunity, Mr. Ross has determined that in future all the crests will be uniform and according to the King's warrant.

A copy of this was exhibited the other day, of the date Sept. 21, 1868, Albert William Woods, Lancaster Herald, having prepared it. The warrant grants armorial bearings to the several provinces of the Dominion.

"For the Province of Ontario, Vert, a sprig of three leaves of maple slipped Or, on a chief Argent the Cross of St. George."

The Red Petticoat.

Unto all railroad engineers the red petticoat is a sacred thing. Upon scores of occasions red petticoats have been the means of saving trains from being wrecked. Invariably the woman who discovers a washout or a collapsed bridge or an obstruction on the track wears a red petticoat. There may be a psychological explanation of this remarkable fact, but whether there is or not the brave woman always manages during the one minute and twenty-seven seconds that must elapse before the arrival of the lightning express to get her red petticoat off and wave it frantically, thus warning the engineer and enabling him to stop the train on the very brink of destruction.

Cats as Food.

A writer in the London Chronicle says: "A few years ago—it may be the same today—the popular markets of the poorer quarters of Rome and even the stalls of the butchers near the Pantheon showed rows and rows of cats hung up for sale, with the skins off, but the tails carefully left on to show that they were not rabbits, for an old fashioned Italian does not think a rabbit quite fit for human food, nor will any Italian peasant eat the meat of sheep. Anything winged, however, is his favorite food. Like the lady in Boccaccio's story, he eats a parrot when he can get one."

Flowers and Blood.

A superstition dating from olden times exists to the effect that roses and flowers generally attain greater beauty in soil fertilized by blood, especially by human blood, than elsewhere. Persons who have visited Newmarket, England, know of the so called "bloody flower of Newmarket," which is found nowhere else than in the old meat, now filled up, and in which, according to tradition, a very large quantity of human remains is interred. These flowers bloom in June and July and by the bloodlike hue of their blossoms suggest the name which has been given to them.

A Hard Hack.

"You've missed it in your prognostications the last few times," said the new reporter.

Living for years is well, but living each year well is better

Old age requires no pity when it is accompanied by good health. Eat proper food and you will not only live long but enjoy every year you live. It stands to reason that if you give the proper food in Nature's exact proportions to each element in your body they will always be healthy and vigorous. Now the whole wheat grain contains every element the body requires to build it up. The only foods in which you can get the whole of the wheat are

SHREDDED WHOLE WHEAT BISCUIT AND TRISCUIT

The Natural Foods

Shredded Whole Wheat Biscuit is easy of digestion, being light and porous, offering great surface for the action of the digestive fluids, thus shortening the time of digestion and resting the digestive organs.

Triscuit is the perfect substitute for imperfect white-flour bread and crackers. It makes ideal toast.

ORDINATION SERMON BY REV. DR. CHOWN

Advice to Young Men Entering Methodist Ministry.

THE SERVICES HELD YESTERDAY.

Interesting Lecture Given by Chancellor Burwash Saturday Night—Some Conference Echoes.

George street church yesterday morning was filled to overflowing, andat fifteen minutes to eleven people were being turned away from the doors. This, the Conference church, was the scene of the preaching of the Ordination sermon, always the greatest event of the annual Conference. This sermon this year was preached here by Rev. S. D. Chown, D.D., late President of the Toronto Conference, and at present General Secretary of Temperance and Social Reform for the Methodist Church of Canada, His sermon was an eloquent one, and one calculated to inspire the young ministers who were being received into full connection, with the importance of their mission.

The ministers who occupied seats on the platform and who assisted in the service were: Rev. T. J. Edmison, Rev. N. Burwash, Rev. J. C. Wilson, Rev. A. C. Wilson, Rev. W. Johnston, Rev. W. Limbert, Rev. N. A. MacDiarmid and Rev. E. Roberts.

Preceding the sermon, Miss Margaret Bryce, of Keene, sang in a very pleasing voice, and with marked effect, "Just For To-day."

THE SERMON.

Rev. Dr. Chown chose for his text, the words, "O Lord Revive Thy work," Habakkuk, 3; 2.

Habakkuk, said the speaker, was a model for preachers to-day. He understood his generation, and its inclinations and needs. The conditions in the world at the time of Habakkuk ,were similar to those in existence to-day. This is attested to by the fact that men were warned against giving their neighbours drink, and other prevalent sins of the day.

If a minister to-day would be a success he must be a prophet and a leader to this generation. In the Word of God will be found something to meet the needs of every condition to-day.

The problem with which Habakkuk was faced, like Job, was that of suffering, the result of sin, but in the case of Habakkuk, the sin was realization of their sin of which one was idolatory, and another the indulgence in strong drink. A great deal of this applies to-day because these sins are still prevalent, and the cry to God should be still, "O Lord revive Thy work."

There are men in this province, by the thousands, who are willing, because of the fact that they make financial gain out of it, to give their neighbours drink. The sin of gambling, and that of Sabbath desecration are still present in the land.

All the energies of the Christian ministry should be expended on the problem of Christianizing the civilization of Canada, and the establishment of the church of God. This is the purpose of God in the Christian ministry, and He has created conditions which make it abundantly equal to the task.

How, asked the speaker, shall we go about this? The first essential is that we should have a correct estimate of the value of men. We talk about the soul of man as if it were something possessed by him, and which he should preserve, while the soul is real y the man, and when a soul is saved his manhood is saved. "What shall it profit a man if he should gain the whole world, and fail to be a man?" is the true meaning of the passage of which it is the modern adaptation. The motto of Christianity is the supremacy of man over things, and the supreme duty of the ministry is to impress upon the world that they are not actuated by money motives in preaching.

Recently Crossley and Hunter, the evangelists lost a considerable amount of money, but it was honestly invested and honestly made, and he saw them a short time ago, and they were undaunted by their loss, and not diminished their givings to the Gospel.

Abraham Lincoln once said, 'When it comes to a question of man or money, I stand by the man every time." Only when we allow money to take a back place in our life life can we be successful.

Continuing the, speaker said that they must preach a Gospel suited to all the needs of men. Japan, as a nation which has come suddenly into prominence, and is being rapidly civilized. Her people were accepting the religion that fitted into every fold of their nature, and many men to-day are looking for such a religion. Society to-day is looking for the credentials of this kind of religion, and the church is not turning them out in sufficient quantities to meet the demand, and to this extent the church is failing in its mission.

The truth ordinarily preached does not measure up to the standard of that preached by Jesus Christ. Men love to be inspired, and will do many things under the influence of inspiration. In South Africa soldiers were anxious to be given opportunities to lay down their lives for their country and for the cause she espoused, but here was a cause infinitely greater than that.

We all, said the preacher, believe in the Gospel. Now what is the Gospel? John's Gospel was, "Repent ye, for the Kingdom of Heaven is at Hand." The Gospel of Jesus was the same. The Gospel of the New Testament prophets was a Gospel which told of the city of God, where there would be no more pain or death, but where sin and sighing should be done away. But what is the popular Gospel of to-day? "Repent and escape Hell," or "Repent and save yourself." Citizenship in the Kingdom of Heaven has not been fully insisted upon. This is spoken of to-day as a sort of fad. Every great revival in Christianity has been brought about by the preaching of the truth. The great truths that move the life of the world are new truths which have come to the church through the voice of God. Luther effected the Reformation through his exposition of a new truth which came to him, and the revival of Wesley's time was through the belief of a new truth. Truths must be given wider application to meet present day conditions. Until we accept and live up to these truths we will fail to exert the power which our fathers had in the world.

Any system of theology, said the speaker, is insufficient, unless it has a message to the social relations of men with each other. Science 'matters are to a large extent, given a place outside the church, and the church looks upon them with a sort of step-motherly affection.

The preacher said that he had met men who said that the church was subject to partial paralysis. They ask why there is such a gulf between the church and the masses. He was not a pessimist, but he believed that unless the masses were sought after with the truth they would remain outside the fold of Christ. The speaker thought we were in danger of losing the value of this life by thinking too much of the future life. The great success which characterizes the work of the Salvation Army to-day is the fact that they give attention to the social work.

It was a matter of regret that the church was to a certain extent out of sympathy with the labour movement, and until the church gets power to grapple with social conditions it must expect this division between the church and labour.

Many persons are skeptical of the Sermon on the Mount, and say that to live up to its standard would mean failure in life. To a good man failure means nothing. Christ commands men to fight, not to win. A soldier who will not fight because he may meet defeat is no better than a tin soldier.

"Yes, my young brethren," he said, addressing the candidates for ordination, "You may fail, but you can fail as Christ failed." He passed through Gethsemane and Calvary, but arose from the tomb, and is still rising. There is no Christianity, without a cross.

There are many things in the sermon on the mount that we cannot understand, but if we take up the Golden Rule and live it out, it will lead us out into the new truth.

Dr. Chown remarked that some of his brethren, just as conscientious, and perhaps more faithful than himself, will say, "We must go back to "the old doctrines." "I also say, go back, but go back to Christ, and this will bring us forward."

We should give up living a life of selfishness, for the Kingdom of Unselfishness is at hand. We must have faith in every word of Jesus. He counselled the young men to preach regeneration, but to preach it as Christ preached it. We cannot serve God and mammon; and it should not be the supreme purpose in our life to make money.

He believed that a revival was coming. All reviewers of the past century attest to the fact that conditions have vastly improved in the world, and although the revival may not be as dramatic as those in the past, it will be as effective.

In conclusion he urged the young men to seek righteousness first of all, and the Lord would bless the Word preached by them.

Following the sermon the ordination ceremony was conducted by Rev. J. P. Wilson, president of the Conference. The only candidate for ordination was Mr. Walter S. Smart, the other two young men received on Friday night having been ordained previously for special purposes.

The usual ordination vows were taken followed by the imposition of hands of the ministers on the platform.

This concluded the morning service.

CONFERENCE FAVOURED CHURCH UNION.

Resolution Passed at Saturday Morning's Session.

The fifth session of the Conference opened on Saturday morning with a large attendance of ministers and laymen.

After the usual devotional exercises had been concluded the report of the Board of Examiners was read by Rev. T. J. Edmison.

The order of the day was then taken up and the report of the Committee on Memorials was presented by the secretary.

The first item of the report, regarding peace and arbitration, was adopted as follows:

"That this Conference approves of the resolution submitted by the Friends' Association hereto annexed, and hereby adopts and passes the same and directs that copies thereof be submitted to the Government of this Dominion, and to the Secretary of State for the Colonies."

The following is the resolution referred to above:

"Whereas, as the result of an International Conference a permanent Court of Arbitration has been established at the Hague, to which nations may voluntarily resort for the peaceful settlement of their differences, and

"Whereas the Government of Great Britain has completed treaties of arbitration with the Governments of France, Italy and Spain, and negotiations are now in progress for the completion of a similar treaty between Great Britain and the United States;

"Resolved, that we express our satisfaction with the policy pursued in this matter by the British Government, and strongly support the steps already taken to establish by peaceful means the reign of law and justice among the nations;

"Resolved, that we sincerely urge the Christian Church, Canadian citizens and Canadian Governments, Dominion and Provincial, to further and support every movement favourable to peace and arbitration, and

"Resolved, that as a British self-governing colony, and a peace-loving neighbour of the United States, we especially urge the completion of a Treaty of Arbitration between the two Christian English-speaking countries."

The item of the committee's report asking that the Government of Ontario make the International Bible Readings the daily readings for the Common and High Schools, was laid on the table, after considerable discussion.

Item three of this report was on Church Union. The following resolution moved by Rev. Richard Duke, seconded by Dr. Burwash, was carried as follows:—

"This Conference believes that the Church of God in this country is unduly divided into separate bodies and have observed with gratitude to the Great Head of the Church an expression of the widespread desire for the organic union of the Methodist, Presbyterian and Congregational Churches of Canada, and now places on record its determination to use its best influences individually and as a Conference to bring to a happy consummation the hope of organic union whenever a basis of union fully acceptable to the various compacting churches shall have been secured."

Rev. Chancellor Burwash, of Victoria University, addressed the Conference in the interests of that institution, stating that it had had a very successful year, having advanced in all departments.

The claims on the contingent fund for affliction, have been extraordinarily heavy, and the matter of raising a sum sufficient to meet its demands took one hour of the Conference time. It was finally decided that the necessities of the case be laid before the circuits, and if possible the full amount raised before the financial District Meeting in August.

The Conference adjourned until Monday morning at nine o'clock.

STATISTICAL REPORT OF THE CONFERENCE.

Church Membership Exceeds Forty Thousand in this Conference.

The sixth session of the Conference opened in the usual manner at the George street church this morning. The order of the day was the hearing of reports from the various committees.

The Committee on the Time and Place for the next meeting, reported that Picton was the town selected for next year.

Judge Dean addressed the Conference upon the state of the Contingent Fund.

Rev. W. B. Tucker, presented the report of the Statistical Committee, which showed that the church membership during the past year was 40,259, the total Sunday school force 39,411, and the total membership of Young People's Societies was 8,114. The total missionary givings were $28,626, the Bicentenary $4543, the Educational $2115, the Temperance $449, the Epworth League $223, the Contingent $539, the Union Church Relief $375, the Sunday school Aid $384, the Sustenation $460 and the Woman's Missionary Society $9344, with an increase of $1122. The total amount contributed by Sunday schools was $22,114, and by Young People's Societies $7,823. The total amount raised for Ministerial support was $100,205. The average salary to married men, not including horse keep, was $655.55; to single ordained men, 413.35; to probationers, $295.62.

A case of special affliction was practically relieved by the generous response of the Conference, over $200 being subscribed within a few minutes.

Upon the invitation of Mr. E. G. Patterson, General Superintendent of the Canadian General Electric Works, the Conference decided to visit the works to-morrow morning, meeting at the Charlotte street church at 8.30 o'clock.

REV. DR. CHOWN'S ADDRESS.

Rev. Dr. Chown, of Toronto, secretary for Temperance and Moral Reform, addressed the General Conference upon the work being done in this respect. The General Conference had recommended this work of endeavouring to Christianize Canada, and though it was a great task the efforts so far had been meeting with encouraging success. The speaker during the past year had travelled 1,300 miles and had spoken between 220 and 240 times on the vital themes in connection with the work. The collections had amounted to $1,571.27, and everywhere the brethren had received him in a cordial and helpful manner. The speaker was glad to state that there was a balance of $155.01 on hand at present. He had had the privilege of speaking to the students of Queen's University on the subject of Canadian morals and the much needed reforms and had also spoken at several places in Newfoundland where a movement was being effected to shorten the hours for the sale of liquor and preventing bar maids from being employed. The interest in the work was everywhere on the increase.

In Blenheim, licenses had been excluded for 3 years as a result of the work on Temperance and Moral Reform. The speaker urged the clergyman to support local option; the strike of the brewers in Toronto was caused by local option. The solicitor of the License Vitualers Association had given up hope, believed Dr. Chown, of having the licenses renewed for Toronto Junction for three years. Local option practically meant total prohibition in the places where it was in force.

Dr. Chown was of the opinion that there would soon be an amendment to the Criminal Code to illegalize gambling on the race courses which was the most demoralizing form of gambling practised. He hoped the Conference would take some action to assist in having this great evil banished from the country. Legislation was also being sought to prevent betting news being published in the press of the land.

The speaker had lately visited New Ontario, concerning which he saw great prospects. Two licenses had been illegially issued there and the temperance men were on the alert in the matter to have this evil remedied.

The speaker reviewed the political situation in Ontario and concluded a a sterring address by assuring the Conference that the old fervent temperance spirit was being revived throughout the province and that he was very hopeful of great advance this year.

The Conference passed a resolution of thanks to Rev. Dr. Chown for his sermon last evening and address of this morning.

Rev. Dr. Withrow, representing Rev. Dr. Briggs, of the Methodist Book Room and Rev. J. G. Bond, editor of the Christian Guardian, arrived in town at noon and spoke at this afternoon's session.

CANADIAN FORESTERS ATTEND SERVICE

Members of the Order Preached to by Rev. E. A. Langfeldt.

A Helpful Sermon on Temptation to Doubt—Praise for Principles of Forestry.

Last night the members of the Canadian Order of Foresters, to the number of 85, attended Divine service in St. Luke's, where they listened to a special sermon preached to the members of the Order by the Rector, Rev. E. A. Langfeldt. The church was filled, and the sermon was a helpful and inspiring one, preached from the text, "Yea, hath God said, ye shall not eat of every tree of the garden?" Genesis iii, 1.

Rev. Mr. Langfeldt prefaced his sermon by giving a few words of welcome to the visiting fraternalists. He said it was a great pleasure to welcome the members of the Canadian Order of Foresters to St. Luke's, and hoped, and prayed, that the members of the Order, and all, as a result of the evening's worship might say "It was good to be here."

He took great delight in the fact that the members of the Society thus publicly avow their allegiance to God by attending worship. The principles of the C.O.F., as far as he knew them were Christian. They first seek to provide for the family when the breadwinner has been taken away, and surely, said the speaker, this is in keeping with the teaching of Christ. The second principle is the cultivation of brotherly love, and the help extended to the members in time of need is certainly commendable. As believers in Jesus Christ, they should gladly avail themselves of the privilege of hearing the Gospel preached.

The reverend gentleman then went on to speak of the doubts which assail believers. There is no doubt that sin came into the world through Satan, and it will be interesting to consider the first recorded words of the wicked one. He begins by laying a doubt in the mind of the one accused. Satan makes his first entry, not by a violent attack, but by secret means, and no one is free from the insidious attacks of the Devil. In this instance God had uttered a command which was plain and explicit, but, in spite of this fact, Satan does not hesitate to obscure it, and cast doubt on it.

No Christian who has reached any attainment in the Christian life has been free from doubts as to his salvation. Could we read the early history of the skeptical man the process would be something like this:—In early life he had strong religious convictions, but as his mind expanded it became apparently a clever thing to doubt. This, by the way, said he, is the position taken by the higher critics. Thus sand by sand, the foundation of faith slipped away, and he began to go out of the path of righteousness and morality, and at last came to condemn all revelation, and left the Bible unread, until at last all happiness closed upon him. Let me carefully and earnestly warn you, said the preacher, against harbouring questions against the Word of God.

Satan's great aim and ambition are to diminish the glory of God, and his work in bringing men to sin is but a means to an end. To mar God's design he sought to cast doubt in the Garden of Eden, and again in Christ, when He was tempted in the wilderness, and it is for the same purpose that he seeks to instil doubt in Christ's followers to-day. He seeks to make us discontented and the doubting heart begins to question.

Satan says it is too good to be true that sins can be forgiven in a minute of time. He says you must do something yourself to make yourself better before you can be forgiven. He makes a good life a prerequisite to justification, and thus seeks to keep the soul away from God.

In conclusion the speaker said there was only one remedy for their conflicting doubts, and that is to turn to the word of God. Though Satan sometimes admits the faithfulness of the Word of God, he throws doubt within and asks how we can be sure that we are going to Heaven.

If temptation is now besetting you, said Mr. Langfeldt, I would not stop to argue, but would point to the Tree of Life, which still stands in the midst of the Garden, and the leaves of the tree are for the healing of the nations. As godly men, stand true to the Word of God, and if the Devil tempts you, remember the words of the Lord Jesus Christ.

Mrs. Callander and Mr. A. E. Frowde, sang a duet, "In God only I will glory," to the delight of the audience."

At the conclusion of the service the members of the Order returned to their Hall, where a vote of thanks was passed to the Rev. Mr. Langfeldt for his sermon of the evening.

THE CHURCHES.

GEORGE STREET METHODIST.

Last night Rev. S. J. Shorey, a former pastor of the George street church, occupied the pulpit, and preached a sermon to his former congregation. The musical part of the service was very enjoyable, the anthem being "O Death, where is Thy sting?" and the male quartette gave a selection.

PARK STREET BAPTIST.

Two large congregations welcomed the preachers yesterday. Rev. G. H. Copeland being unwell, Rev. J. Barrons, B.A., of North Bay, preached in the morning. Before the sermon, the hymn dear to every Christian heart was sung, "O happy Day that Fixed my Choice on Thee my Saviour and My God." The hymn was sung with great heartiness, which led the preacher to say that he felt quite at home. The inspiration and power of the congregational singing was equal to a good Methodist prayer meeting. The text was taken from Luke vi, 12 and 17, "He went out into a mountain to pray, and continued all night in prayer." And "He came down from the mountain and stood in the plain in the company of His disciples; and a great company came to hear Him and He healed them all." For work among the multitude on the plains, and for the great duties of life the preparation must be made in the mountains and in nights of prayer. The great mission of life was not accomplished by living in seclusion and shut up in retirement, but on the plain among the multitude, obeying the Divine command, 'Go ye.'

In the evening Rev. B. Burns, Ph. D., preached from "Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth" Eccle. 12, 1. The large proportion of young people in the congregation led to this theme. The destiny of character was fixed from 10 to 25. With argument and illustration the dangers and possibilities of the young were considered. The careful training and salvation of the children laid deep and broad the foundation for a successful church. The sermons of the day were both able and helpful.

There was a very good muster of the Mission Band at the Park street Baptist church yesterday for roll call. Miss Molly Hudson was appointed a delegate to represent the Band at the associational gathering of Baptist churches in Belleville from the 21st to the 23rd of this month.

The annual roll call of the church, with presentation of offerings, will take place at 8 p.m., on Wednesday. A large representation of the membership is expected.

RUNAWAY BOY STOLE HORSE AND BUGGY

Earl Schweier Makes Another Attempt to Leave Town.

A Horse and Buggy Taken from Commercial Hotel Stables on Saturday Evening by a 10 Year-old boy —Police are After Him.

Earl Schweier is bound to get out of Peterborough in some way other than on foot. This boy, who is about 10 years of age and is apparently beyond all parental control, on two occasions recently boarded the train for Port Hope, manufacturing a story re ill-treatment and abandonment by his parents, which was absolutely false; on both occasions he was sent back to town again. On Saturday evening he tried a new scheme, evidently after concluding that he could not successfully escape by railroad, and stole a horse and rig from the Commercial House stables about 6 o'clock. He was seen and recognized at Springville by a man who knew of him and to whom the boy stated that he was on his way to Port Hope. Constable Adams and Mr. William Robinson of Bridgenorth, who owned the horse and rig, started out about 7.30 o'clock in search of the boy. They learned that he was seen going west through Cavanville about dusk and that was the last seen or heard of him. Last night the constable and Mr. Robinson were at Bethany, but had as yet not captured the culprit.

The horse was a valuable bay, having been recently purchased for $140, while to it was attached a top buggy, black body, square box, with end springs. The harness was heavier than the ordinary.

Mr. Robinson stated that the horse was a high spirited one and often troublesome to manage, but young Schweier, though when sitting on the seat, his feet would not reach the bottom of the buggy, seems to be capable of managing it. He seems determined to run away despite all efforts of his father to make things attractive for him at home.

The police have been notified in Toronto and the vicinity to be on the outlook for the runaway, who will likely be captured very shortly.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES AT CHARLOTTE STREET.

Sunday School Anniversary Yesterday Addresses in Afternoon.

Yesterday anniversary services in connection with the Charlotte street Sunday School were held in the church. At an open session in the afternoon addresses were delivered by Rev. F. H. Howard and Rev. H. T. Lewis. The former spoke on the subject of "Boy Wanted," addressing his remarks to the boys present to whom he gave valuable advice as to the proper course for them to pursue in preparing them for the battle of life. Rev. M. T. Lewis dealt with the topic "Tools" showing the value of tools to the working man of to-day, and stating that every person was a tool of God and He expected each to be of the best possible use in promoting His Kingdom. Both speakers congratulated the school upon the splendid annual report.

The report of the Secretary showed that there were 430 scholars on roll with average attendance of 360. The number of officers and teachers was 42 with an average attendance of 33. The weekly collection averaged $3.54. During the past year the attendance had increased by 50.

During the afternoon, the school children sang a number of hymns while the orchestra played two selections.

Important Rehearsal.

All the members, ladies and gentlemen, of Mrs. Morrow's chorus class, must be present, without fail, at the rehearsal on Wednesday evening, in the Y.M.C.A. at 8 o'clock, as business of importance will be taken up, and the question of costumes to be worn considered. It is desired that each one be on hand as the time is short until the recital. Members are asked to keep Wednesday evening free for the rehearsal, and be on hand promptly at the time stated. 2t

PRESENTATION TO MR. EZRA GOOD

Given Valuable Pipe by Members of Court Langton C. O. F.

On Saturday afternoon a number of the members of Court Langton, C. O. F., waited upon Mr. Ezra Good, late of the firm of Wills & Good, but who, severing his connection with that firm, has left for Didbury, N. W.T., where he, with Mr. C. B. Robertson, will engage in ranching, and presented him with a pipe expressive of their regret at his departure from town.

The following address was read:

To Brother Ezra Good—

The Brethren of Court Langton, No. 344, desire to take advantage of this opportunity—on the eve of your departure to the Northwest, to express to you their high regard and esteem for you as an old member of the Court. We are reminded of the active interest you have always taken in Court Langton and watchfulness you have exhibited as an officer of the Court, and by your valuable assistance in promoting everything for its benefit and welfare. We regret very much that we have to lose your good council and advice, but trust that you may find your venture in a new field meeting your most sanguine expectations.

Please accept this pipe as a slight token of our regard and for old acquaintance sake, and while we say good-bye we hope that when you are enjoying the fragrant weed your thoughts may sometimes go back to the boys of Court Langton.

On behalf of Court Langton, No. 344, C. O. F.,

T. REYNOLDS,
Chief Ranger.
W. H. WATSON,
H. EVANS,
Trustees.

Mr. Good, to whom the affair was a surprise, thanked his fellow-members in a few words and expressed his pleasure in his association with the members of the Court.

YANKEE BUNCO AGENTS

HOW THEY DUPE FELLOW-COUNTRYMEN COMING TO CANADA.

Greed of the Booking Sharks of the United States—Ten Dollars for the Canadian Government's Free Pamphlet "Where and How and All About It"—Sale of Sheet Iron Houses—Government Warns Settlers.

The rapacity and ingenuity of "booking agents" in the States is causing immigration authorities and many prospective settlers throughout Northwestern Canada serious annoyance, writes G. C. Porter in Toronto World. Taking advantage of the movement from the Western States northward, unscrupulous persons advertise to select desirable homesteads in the Canadian Northwest, without which they assure people nothing worth having for agricultural purposes can be secured. The usual fee is ten dollars, but many cases reported at Winnipeg show that the limit frequently reaches many times that sum, according to the wealth of the "sucker." The farm papers of the central states especially carry these advertisements. They are cunningly worded and calculated to catch those of more than average shrewdness. Here is a sample, culled from a Chicago journal that caters to the stockraiser and farmer:

"Do You Want Canadian Homesteads?"

"If you are seeking free farms in Canada communicate with us. There are eight hundred million acres, covering half a dozen territories, to choose from. We have list of best sections. For ten dollar fee you become member of our association. That means we will select 160 acres for you in best agricultural part of Canada and arrange all preliminary details for your location. Don't go into a foreign country without this information. Remember Canada is a monarchy, and it is very different from a republic.

J. Rice & Co.,
Colonization Association,
172½ La Salle street, Chicago."

What the Sucker Gets.

On receipt of the fee, a copy of the Canadian Interior Department's pamphlet, entitled "Where and how and all about it," is mailed to the applicant, together with one of the Government maps, showing the scope of the Homestead Act. A brief letter, signed "J. Rice," with a rubber stamp stating that 160 acres of land is free over the section covered by the map, and inclosing a railroad folder showing the different lines to the north, close the incident. These pamphlets can, of course, be secured free on application to the Government agents or representatives of the various railroads entering this territory, but the fact is not generally known.

The authorities have had their attention called to these fakes innumerable times. They have taken the matter up with the postal authorities of the States. Investigations have followed, but without suppressing the sharks. They claim to supply all they advertise, and expose their books to show that all applicants who pay the required fee are enrolled in the "Colonization Association Co." ledger. They maintain further that they are conferring something of value upon these people by supplying them with the Government folders and railroad pamphlets.

Sheet Iron Houses Sold.

That tremendous business is done by these rascals is indicated by the number of settlers who arrive in Winnipeg and other points in the Northwest, with receipts from the bogus land locators. They tell the same story to the immigration authorities. Having seen the advertisements and knowing nothing of the subject, though desiring to come to Canada, they had been inveigled into the scheme. In some cases the intrigue extends further, and the proposed settlers are told that they may purchase portable houses to take with them, since lumber is scarce in Canada, and the demand for immediate shelter imperative. In that case small ten by twelve sheet-iron rooms are offered at outrageous sums. This feature of the offer is given the evidence of genuine Government sanction by inclosing a small circular which contains the exemption of sheetiron houses brought in by settlers. Altogether the ingenuity of the men engaged in this swindling operation and the energy they exhibit catches a very considerable number of people. Time and again the Government has issued warnings against this game, but the instances in which prospective settlers have been victimized continue to increase.

Government Warns Settlers.

The latest edition of "How and where and all about it" contains special reference to the subject in full face type and urges settlers not to consider such propositions, as they are worthless in aiding the farmers to locate a homestead. These sharpers are merely copying the methods of rascals who operated all over the Western States during the settlement of Kansas and the Indinn Territory. There is nothing original in the schemes, but the number of people who come to Canada under the delusion that they have acquired some especially valuable inside information from this source is surprising. At first they are very secretive about it, but when they learn that it is a common swindle they report to the authorities. Occasionally farmers from Ontario and other parts of Eastern Canada have been taken in by this sort of thing. It is incredible that a person of ordinary intelligence and residing in Canada could consider such a proposition for a minute, but they do.

Story of a Widow's Mite.

Here's a "widow's mite" story. A widow in West Bromwich, England, obtained a farthing in a breach of promise action she brought against a faithless sweetheart. She put it in the window of her tobacco shop with a printed warning to trusting women to beware of "Mizpah" rings, and inviting men to come and buy "breach of promise cigars" and "widow's mite cigarettes." The result was such a big business that the police had to stand by to keep the pavement clear, while nineteen men, mostly widowers, came and offered themselves in marriage.

SUNLIGHT SOAP

We have used "Sunlight Soap," and we want to tell you that it is the best soap made, that's why we are writing. We found out that the Sunlight way is the best way to wash with "Sunlight Soap." At first we used to wash with Sunlight Soap in the old way as we did with common soap, but after we washed according to directions printed on the package, we would never wash the old way again. We first soap the articles, leave them to soak and then rub out lightly on the wash board. Not much to do and it makes the clothes white as snow.

WHAT GOVERNMENTS EXPEND.

Statement Compiled by the U.S. Department of Commerce and Labor.

The Department of Commerce and Labor of the United States, has compiled a statement, from which the following table is constructed, showing the per capita of Government expenditures in leading countries of the world:

Countries.	Population.	Expend. ditures.	Per capita
New Zealand....	788,000	$30,241,000	$38.36
Australia	3,772,000	142,148,000	37.69
United Kingdom	41,961,000	807,790,000	21.39
France	38,962,000	685,250,000	17.84
Belgium	6,694,000	116,500,000	17.40
Paraguay	636,000	11,007,000	17.30
Austria-Hungary	45,405,000	647,969,000	12.68
Argentina	4,794,000	60,777,000	12.68
Cuba	1,573,000	19,515,000	12.40
Netherlands	5,347,000	61,498,000	11.49
Portugal	5,428,000	62,170,000	11.45
Spain	18,618,000	186,846,000	10.09
Sweden	5,136,000	49,868,000	9.54
German Empire.	56,549,000	553,222,000	9.45
Canada	5,487,000	50,759,000	9.39
United States ..	80,372,000	640,328,000	7.97

The showing of the department's statistics, condensed into a nutshell, is that in practically every country in the world, excepting China and India, with their teeming populations, the per capita of Government expenditures is greater than in the United States.

It is not to be overlooked, however, that the fact is by no means a demonstration that the people of that land carry a smaller tax-burden than their brethren of other nations. Governmental systems differ. Most foreign Governments have jurisdiction over many things that fall outside of the jurisdiction of the national Government of the United States. This is the result of the constitutional apportionment of power and responsibility between the Federal Government and the State Governments. In Great Britain no end of matters are within the purview of the National Government which in the United States belong to the Government of States, to the Government of cities, or to the Government of counties.

For this reasons, the figures thus officially brought together are entertaining rather than practically important.

To Repair Ravages of Mice.

The Fruit Division, Ottawa, says that if the tree girdled by mice is only one or two years old, it will be better to replant. If older "bridging" the wound by means of scions of last year's growth may be resorted to. These should be about three inches longer than the width of the girdled section and the ends should be cut to a wedge shape. Then with a sharp, narrow chisel or other similar tool, slanting incisions should be made into the new wood above and below the wound, beginning near the edge of the bark, extending about an inch in length and penetrating but little into the wood. The scions should fit nicely into these incisions and be held in place by their own elasticity. Each end should then be covered with a small piece of grafting wax. Three or four scions will be sufficient for a tree less than six inches in diameter.

If the rough outer bark has been removed all around the tree, but some of the new wood or growing layer still remains fresh, the tree may often be saved by keeping the the new wood moist till growth begins. This can be done by covering the wound with grafting wax or a mixture of clay and cow manure, equal parts. If the wound is low, a heap of earth will often be sufficient.

To Preserve Your Shoes.

Never try to wear a shoe too small or that does not fit when you first put it on.

There is no misery more distracting than a shoe that hurts the foot.

Never let your shoes get hard and dry. Don't let them run over.

Don't let the heels run down.

Don't dry a wet shoe till you have rubbed it well with a flannel cloth and then with vaseline.

Never put shoes near the stove.

Half a peck of oats, kept in a small box, will be the very cheapest and best filing for a wet shoe. Fill the shoe and shake the oats down, after having rubbed and oiled it, and set in a dry place to dry gradually. When dry pour the oats back for further use.

Take a wet rag and wash the shoe at least once a week, and oil overnight to keep in good condition.

Never handle patent leather until you have warmed it.

Never wear goloshes with good shoes.

There is no part of a lady's dress which should be more scrupulously neat or that is so often neglected.

"Le Quais Des Grand Augustins."

Mr. J. W. Morrice, whose picture "Le Quais des Grand Augustins," in the Paris Salon, has been purchased by the French Government, is a son of Mr. David Morrice, the well known cotton merchant of Montreal, and a brother of Mr. Arthur Morrice of Toronto. He was educated at the University of Toronto, where he graduated B.A. in 1886. During his four years of student life he lived in the second house at the Residence, and, though of a somewhat reserved disposition, was highly appreciated by those who had the privilege of his acquaintance. Even in those days he devoted a great deal of time to drawing, and he was also a clever performer on the flute. Shortly after graduating he left for Europe to study art and has lived in Paris most of the time since.

Why He Became a Cook.

Sir Horace Plunkett tells a story of his ranching days in the West. Riding into camp one evening, he turned his horse loose and got some supper, which was a vilely cooked meal, even for a cow camp. Recognizing in the cook a cowboy he had formerly employed, Sir Horace said to him: "You were a way-up cow hand, but as cook you are no account. Why did you give up riding and take to cooking? What are you qualifications, anyway?" Qualifications!" he replied, "why, don't you know I've got varicose veins?"

THE DRUGGIST RECOMMENDED IT

Because he Knew of Scores of Severe Cases of Piles that were Positively Cured by

DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

The writer of the letter quoted below suffered dreadfully from itching protruding piles for six years.

Like thosts of others, he was only disappointed with the many treatments he tried, until his druggist told him of what Dr. Chase's Ointment was accomplishing as a cure for this wretched ailment.

Mr. G. W. Cornall, who is with the Shaw Milling Company, St. Catharines, Ont., writes:—"In justice to Suffering humanity I write to tell you of the world of good I obtained from the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment. For about six years I was the victim of itching and protruding piles and was in dreadful agony day and night. Doctors were unable to help me and I could get nothing to relieve the suffering. I was about as miserable a creature as was to be found on the of the earth.

"One day my druggist, Mr. A. J. Greenwood, advised me to try Dr. Chase's Ointment, which I did and obtained relief from the first box and and complete cure with the second. My trouble was caused by heavy lifting, and I consider that Dr. Chase's Ointment would be cheap at fifty dollars a box in view of the good it did for me. A feeling of sympathy for others similarly affected prompts me to give this testimony."

HER PRECIOUS SPOONS.

She Used Them For Show at Luncheon With Disastrous Results.

Considerable quiet laughter has been going on among the guests at a luncheon given by a young West Philadelphia bride the other day to the attendants at her wedding. There had been among the hostess' presents at the time of her marriage a particularly beautiful set of spoons, and, while she had no occasion to use them at this particular luncheon, she thought that she would put one beside each cover for—well, just for instance.

Unfortunately, however, there was one stranger in the merry little company which sat down about the table, a pretty, outspoken, somewhat "gushy" young woman from the west, and it was she who caused all the trouble.

As the luncheon neared its end and it became apparent that the spoons were not for use she kept eying the one at her place, and finally she burst forth with this flash of inspiration:

"These spoons—what perfectly lovely souvenirs!"

The chorus of praise was immediately taken up by all about the board. The confused hostess found explanation impossible, and every guest went away from the house with one of those precious spoons.

Shutting the Barn Door.

Harry had been forbidden by his grandfather to play with the pump, which play invariably ended in a drenching. The one way to prevent this catastrophe often proved to be tying up the pump. Once the old gentleman heard a great splashing and spluttering in the back yard and ran out in haste to the rescue.

A half drowned Harry met him, hastening toward the house as fast as his soaked feet would carry him. "Oh, dran'pa," he called in a voice that seemed drowned, too, "tie up the plump; tie up the plump!"—Lippincott's Magazine.

The Decorator and His Bill.

The decorator had just made his estimate.

"I'll tell you what I'll do," said the householder. "You go ahead and decorate the house, and then I'll give it to you in payment of your bill."

"No," replied the decorator. "I couldn't afford to take the house for more than half payment."—Chicago Post.

THE GENTLEMAN FROM INDIANA

By Booth Tarkington.

Meredith had observed the change in his companion's mood. He had watched him closely all day, looking for a return of his malady, but he came to the conclusion that in truth a miracle had been wrought, for the lethargy was gone and vigor seemed to increase in Harkless with every turn of the wheels that brought them nearer Plattville, and the nearer they drew to Plattville the higher the spirits of both the young men rose. Meredith knew what was happening there, and he began to be a little excited. As he had said, there were five people visible at Beaver, and he wondered where they lived, as the only building in sight was the station, and to satisfy his curiosity he walked out to the vestibule. The little station stood in the woods, and brown leaves whirled along the platform. One of the five people was an old lady, and she entered a rear car. The other four were men. One of them handed the conductor a telegram. Meredith heard the official say: "All right. Decorate ahead. I'll hold it five minutes."

The man sprang up the steps of the smoker and looked in. He turned to Meredith. "Do you know if that gentleman in the gray coat is Mr. Harkless? He's got his back this way, and I don't want to go inside. The air in a smoker always gives me a spell."

"Yes, that's Mr. Harkless."

The man jumped to the platform. "All right, boys," he said. "Rip her out!"

The doors of the freight room were thrown open, and a big bundle of colored stuffs was dragged out and hastily unfolded. One of the men ran to the farther end of the car with a strip of red, white and blue bunting and tacked it securely, while another fastened the other extremity to the railing of the steps by Meredith. The two companions of this pair performed the same operation with another strip on the other side of the car. They ran similar lines of bunting near the roof from end to end, so that except for the windows the sides of the car were completely covered by the national colors. Then they draped the vestibules with flags. It was all done in a trice.

Meredith's heart was beating fast. "What's it all about?" he asked.

"Picnic down the line," answered the man in charge, removing a tack from his mouth. He motioned to the conductor, "Go ahead!"

The wheels began to move; the decorators remained on the station platform, letting the train pass them, but Meredith, craning his neck from the steps, saw that they jumped on the last car.

"What's the celebration?" asked Harkless when Meredith returned.

"Picnic down the line," said Meredith.

"Nipping weather for a picnic. A bit cool, don't you think? One of those fellows looked like a friend of mine, Homer Tibbs, or as Homer might look if he were in disgrace. He had his hat hung on his eyes, and he slouched like a thief in melodrama as he tacked up the bunting on this side of the car." He continued to point out various familiar places, finally breaking out enthusiastically as they drew nearer the town: "Hello! Look there—beyond the grove yonder! See that house?"

"Yes, John."

"That's the Bowlders'. You've got to know the Bowlders."

"I'd like to."

"The kindest people in the world. The Briscoe house we can't see because it's so shut in by trees, and, besides, it's a mile or so ahead of us. We'll go out there for supper tonight. Don't you like Briscoe? He's the best they make. We'll go uptown with Judd Bennett in the omnibus, and you'll know how a rapid fire machine gun sounds. I want to go straight to the Herald office," he finished, with a suddenly darkening brow.

"After all, there may be some explanation," Meredith suggested with a little hesitancy. "H. Fisbee might turn out more honest than you think."

Harkless threw his head back and laughed. "Honest! A man in the pay of Rodney McCune! Well, we can let it wait till we get there. Listen! There's the whistle that means we're getting near home. Why, there's an oil well!"

"So it is."

"And another—three, five, seven—seven in sight at once! They tried it three miles south and failed, but you can't fool Eph Watts, bless him! I want you to know Watts."

They ran by the outlying houses of the town amid a thousand descriptive exclamations from Harkless, who wished Meredith to meet every one in Carlow. But he came to a pause in the middle of a word. "Do you hear music," he asked abruptly, "or is it only the rhythm of the ties?"

"It seems to me there's music in the air," answered his companion. "I've been fancying I heard it for a minute or so. There! No—yes. It's a band, isn't it?"

"No. What would a band—yes, it is!"

The train slowed up and stopped at a water tank 200 yards east of the station, and their uncertainty was at an end. From somewhere down the track came the detonating boom of a cannon. There was a clash of brass, and the travelers became sure of a band playing "Marching Through Georgia." Meredith laid his hand on his companion's shoulder. "John," he said, "John!"

The cannon fired again, and there came a cheer from 3,000 throats, the shouters all unseen. The engine coughed and panted, the train rolled on, and in another moment it had stopped alongside the station in the midst of a riotous jam of happy people who were waving flags and banners and handkerchiefs and tossing their hats high in the air and shouting themselves hoarse. The band played in dumb show. It could not hear itself play. The people came at the smoker like a long wave, and Warren Smith, Briscoe, Keating and Mr. Bence of Gaines were swept ahead of it. Before the train stopped they had rushed eagerly up the steps and entered the car. Harkless was on his feet and started to meet them. He stopped.

"What does it mean?" he said and began to grow pale. "Is Halloway—did McCune—have you"—

Warren Smith seized one of his hands and Briscoe the other. "What does it mean!" cried Warren. "It means that you were nominated for congress at five minutes after 1 o'clock this afternoon!"

"On the second ballot," shouted the

"It means that you were nominated for congress!"

judge, "just as young Fisbee planned it weeks ago."

* * * * * * *

It was one of the great crowds of Carlow's history. Since noon an almost uninterrmittent procession of pedestrians and vehicles had been making its way to the station, and every wagon, buckboard, buggy and "cut under" had its flags or bunting or streamer of ribbons tied to the whip. The excitement increased as the time grew shorter. Everybody was struggling for a better position. The people in wagons and carriages stood upon the seats, and the pedestrians besieged them, climbing on the wheels or balancing recklessly with feet on the hubs of opposite wagons. Everybody was bound to see him. When the whistle announced the coming of the train the band began to play, the cannon fired, horns blew and the cheering echoed and re-echoed till heaven's vault resounded with the noise the people of Carlow were making.

There was one heart that almost stopped beating. Helen was standing on the front seat of the Briscoe buckboard, with Minnie beside her, and at the commotion the horses pranced and backed so that Lige Willetts ran to hold them. But Helen did not notice the frightened roans, nor did she know that Minnie clutched her round the waist to keep her from falling. Her eyes were fixed intently on the smoke of the faraway engine, and her hand, lifted to her face in an uncertain, tremulous fashion, as it was one day in a circus tent, was laid against the deepest blush that ever mantled a girl's cheek. When the train reached the platform she saw Briscoe and the others rush into the bunting covered car, and there ensued what was to her an almost intolerable pause of expectation while the crowd assaulted the windows of the smoker, leaping up and climbing on each other's shoulders to catch the first glimpse of him. Briscoe and a red faced young man (a stranger to Plattville) came down the steps, laughing like boys, and then Keating and Bence, and then Warren Smith. As the lawyer reached the platform he turned toward the door of the car and waved his hand as in welcome. "Here he is, boys!" he shouted.

At that it was as if all the noise that had gone before had been mere leakage of pent up enthusiasm. A thousand horns blared deafeningly; the whistle of the locomotive and that of Hibbard's mill were added to the din; the courthouse bell was pealing out a welcome, and the church bells were ringing; the cannon thundered, and then cheer on cheer shook the air as John Harkless came out under the flags and passed down the steps of the car.

When Helen saw him over the heads of the people and through heaving tumult of flags and hats and handkerchiefs she suddenly gave a frightened glance about her and jumped down from her high perch and sank into the back seat of the buckboard, with her burning face turned from the station and her eyes fixed on the ground. She wanted to run away, as she had run from him the first time she ever saw him, and then, as now, he came in triumph, hailed by the plaudits of his fellows, and now, as on that long departed day of her young girlhood, he was borne high over the heads of the people, for Minnie cried to her to look—they were carrying him on their shoulders to his carriage. She had had only that brief glimpse of him before he was lost in the crowd that was so glad to get him back again and so proud of him; but she had seen that he looked very white and solemn.

Briscoe brought Tom Meredith through the crowd and put him in the buckboard beside Helen. "All right, Lige!" called the judge to Willetts, who was at the horses' heads. "You go get into line with the boys; they want you. We'll go down on Main street to see the parade," he explained, gathering the reins in his hand.

"Did you tell him about Mr. Halloway?" asked Helen, leaning forward anxiously.

"Warren told him before we left the car," answered Briscoe "He'd have declined on the spot, I expect, if we hadn't made him sure it was all right with Kedge."

"If I understood what Mr. Smith was saying, Halloway must have behaved very well," said Meredith.

The judge laughed. "He saw it was the only way to beat McCune, and he'd have given his life and Harkless', too, rather than let McCune have it."

"Why did you leave Mr. Harkless?" Helen asked her cousin, her eyes not meeting his.

"My dear girl," he replied, "because, for some inexplicable reason, my lady cousin has not nominated me for congress, and, oddly enough, the undiscriminating multitude were not cheering for me; the artillery was not in action to celebrate me; the band was not playing to do me honor. Why should I ride in the midst of a procession that knows me not? Why should I enthrone me in an open barouche, with four white horses to draw it and draped with silken flags? Since these things were not for me, I flew to your side to dissemble my spleen under the licensed prattle of a cousin."

"Then who is with him?"

"The population of this portion of Indiana, I take it."

"Oh, it's all right," said the judge, leaning back to speak to Helen. "Keating and Smith and your father are to ride in the carriage with him. You needn't be afraid of any of them letting him know that H. Fisbee is a lady. Everybody understands about that. Of course they know it's to be left to you to break it to him how a girl has run his paper."

The old gentleman chuckled and looked out of the corner of his eye at his daughter, whose expression was inscrutable.

"I!" cried Helen. "I tell him! No one must tell him. He need never know it."

Briscoe reached back and patted her cheek. "How long do you suppose he will be here in Plattville without its leaking out?"

"But when they kept watch over him for months nobody told him."

"Ah," said Briscoe, "but this is different."

"No, no, no!" she exclaimed. "It must be kept from him somehow."

"He'll know it by tomorrow; so you better tell him this evening."

"This evening?"

"Yes; you'll have a good chance."

"I will?"

"He's coming to supper with us—he and your father, of course, and Keating and Bence and Boswell and Smith and Tom Martin and Lige. We're going to have a big time, with you and Minnie to do the honors, and we're all coming into town afterward for the fireworks, and I'll let him drive you in the phaeton. You'll have plenty of chances to talk it over with him and tell him all about it."

Helen gave a little gasp. "Never!" she cried. "Never!"

The buckboard stopped on the Herald corner, and here and along Main street the line of vehicles which had followed it from the station took positions to await the parade. The square was almost a solid mass of bunting, and the north entrance of the courthouse had been decorated with streamers and flags so as to make a sort of stand. Hither the crowd was already streaming and hither the procession made its way. At intervals the gun boomed from the station, and Schofields' Henry was winnowing the air with his bell. Nobody had a better time that day than Schofields' Henry, except old Wilkerson, who was with the procession.

In advance came the boys, whooping and somersaulting, and behind them rode a band of mounted men, sitting their horses like cavalrymen, led by the sheriff and his deputy and Jim Bardlock. Then followed the Harkless club of Amo, led by Boswell, with the magnanimous Halloway himself marching in the ranks, and at sight of this the people shouted like madmen. But when Helen's eye fell upon Halloway's fat, rather unhappy face she felt a pang of pity and unreasoning remorse, which warned her that he who looks upon politics when it is red must steel his eyes to see many a man with the heartburn. After the men of Amo came the Harkless club of Gainesville, Mr. Bence in the van with the step of a grenadier, There followed next Mr. Ephraim Watts, bearing a light wand in his hand and leading a detachment of workers from the oil field in their stained blue overalls and blouses, and after them came Mr. Martin and Mr. Landis at the head of an organization recognized in the "order of procession" printed in the Herald as "the business men of Plattville." The band played in such magnificent time that every high stepping foot in all the line came down with the same jubilant plunk and lifted again with a unanimity as complete as that of the last vote the convention had taken that day. The leaders of the procession set a brisk pace, and who could have set any other kind of a pace when on parade to the strains of such a band playing such a tune as "A New Coon In Town" with all its might and main?

But as the line swung into the square there came a moment when the tune was ended and the musicians paused for breath and there fell comparative quiet. Among the ranks of the "business men" ambled Mr. Wilkerson, singing at the top of his voice, and now he could be heard distinctly enough for those near him to distinguish the melody with which it was his intention to favor the public:

"Glory, glory, hallelujah!
As we go marching on."

must win upon their merits. The International Dictionary has won a greater distinction upon its merits and is in more general use than any other work of its kind in the English language.

A. H. Sayce, LL.D., D.D., of Oxford University, England, has recently said of it: It is indeed a marvelous work; it is difficult to conceive of a dictionary more exhaustive and complete. Everything is in it—not only what we might expect to find in such a work, but also what few of us would ever have thought of looking for.

A supplement to the new edition has brought it fully up to date. I have been looking through the latter with a feeling of astonishment at its completeness, and the amount of labor that has been put into it.

THE PRISONER

Who escapes from jail is by no means free. He is under the ban of the law and punishment is written over against his name. Soon or late he will be caught again and bear added punishment for his short escape from his cell.

Those who by the use of palliative powders and tablets escape for a time from the sufferings of dyspepsia are in the same condition as the escaped prisoner. Soon or late they will go back to the old condition and pay an added penalty for temporary release.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures dyspepsia and other diseases of the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition. Its cures are lasting.

"For about two years I suffered from a very obstinate case of dyspepsia," writes R. E. Secord, Esq., of 13 Eastern Ave., Toronto, Ontario. "I tried a great number of remedies without success. I finally lost faith in them all. I was so far gone that I could not bear any solid food on my stomach for a long time; felt melancholy and depressed. Could not sleep or follow my occupation (tinsmith). Some four months ago a friend recommended your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' After a week's treatment I had derived so much benefit that I continued the medicine. I have taken three bottles and am convinced it has in my case accomplished a permanent cure. I can conscientiously recommend it to the thousands of dyspeptics throughout the land."

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach, blood and lungs.

'Varsity Baseball Team Took Game From Locals.

Visiting Ball Players Put up Good Game—Local Team off Colour.

On Saturday afternoon Toronto Varsity baseball team gave evidence that the claim made in their behalf, that they constitute the best amateur baseball team in Canada, is not without foundation. They put up the best exhibition of baseball seen here in a long time, and defeated the home team easily by 10-2, although, it must be confessed that the locals did not play the game, which preceding games show they have the ability to play. Flaherty took the honours in the box, but his support was not of the best, and some rather costly errors were made in the field. The home team, too, showed a weakness at the bat, and although two or three splendid opportunities presented themselves, in which the locals might have "done things" the hits on such occasions were not forthcoming.

On the other hand the Varsity players bunched their hits at the proper time and assisted by fielding errors managed to score in four innings, while all the run getting for the local nine come in the eighth, until which time it looked very much like a shut out.

Flaherty fanned eleven men, while Organ who was on the slab for the visitors did the trick with nine of the locals. Two of the Peterborough's got to first on balls, and only one for Varsity.

The game was an interesting one from the spectators' standpoint, and the playing of the Varsity players won them many friends among the baseball enthusiasts here.

There is scarcely a weak point on the team, the players work well together, and very few fielding errors were made. Williams at first is a wonder. He took every chance offered yesterday, and had a perfect record, while Weldon at second is equally effective in his position. He covers plenty of ground, and often backing up throws to first. George Biggs, who is well known to many of the local rugbyists, plays shortstop, and plays the position well. The remarkable feature of the Varsity team's playing is their throwing to bases, stealing bases with them is most difficult, generally impossible.

THE GAME.

The visitors went to bat first; Weldon who was first up hit to deep centre, got second on Williams' sacrifice, but was out stealing third. Robert and Tripp each got singles, but died on bases, Halfour striking out and retiring the side.

The first two men facing Organ were given charities, Sheridan and Lamont being the lucky ones, Sheridan, however, was caught napping off first, Lamont was out on a fielder's choice on Graham's bunt, the latter reaching first and stole second, reaching third on a wild throw by Tripp to Weldon. Flaherty fanned and the chance to score was lost.

In the next inning Varsity brought in four runs, on a piece of extreme good luck. Laing, who proved an easy mark for Flaherty, was first up, and struck out. Organ was next, and reached first on a high fly, which Belleghem would have caught had he not slipped and fell just as the ball was in his hand. Biggs was next to bat and struck out, Ross started the trouble, when with two out and one man on a base he cracked out a double, advancing Organ to third, Weldon made a nice single bringing Ross and Organ home. Williams followed suit with a single scoring Weldon. Roberts sent a grass cutter to Lamont, who fumbled and the batter reached first. Tripp got away with a one base hit scoring Williams. Balfour fanned and it was all over for the innings, the result of which was four runs.

Only three men were to bat for the locals in their half. Simpson fanned Belleghem singled, but was out stealing second and Wareham was out at first on a hit to the pitcher.

In the third Laing fanned after Belleghem had missed a high foul fly. Organ hit a bounder to Flaherty and was out at first. Biggs got a single, but Ross followed Organ's example and was out at first.

In this half the locals came within an ace of scoring. Cawthorne hit a grounder and was out at first to Pilling, who by the way is one of the most valuable men on the team, hitting the ball well, and playing his position at first like a veterran, was next to bat, and hit a single to Weldon, who made a fumble, and Pilling reached first. He was advanced one by Sheridan being hit by a pitched ball getting his base. Lamont placed a nice one in centre, and Pilling and Sheridan advanced one each. It looked like a score, with the bases full and Graham to bat, but the fates were against them and he flew out.

In the fourth, the visitors got another run. Weldon fanned, but Williams knocked out a two bagger, stole third, and scored on a pass ball. Robert reached first on Sheridan's fumble. Tripp fanned and Balfour hit to Lamont, who threw him out at first.

It was a one, two, three touch for the locals in their half. Flaherty flew out to Tripp, Simpson was out at first and Belleghem flew out to Organ.

In the fifth, Laing, who was first up, fanned for the third time in succession. Organ knocked a fast fly, which in turn passed through Flaherty and Graham, and the batter reached first. Biggs got a high fly which Belleghem failed to connect with, but was out stealing second. Ross retiring the side, getting out at first.

Wareham was first up for the home team, and hit to Balfour, who threw the runner out at first. Cawthorn fanned, and Pilling also hit out at Balfour, who repeated his throw to first and the side was out.

The sixth opened with Weldon at bat. He bunted to the throw to first, Williams to second and Robert cracked a hot one to centre, scoring Weldon and Williams. Tripp singled to left, stole second and was advanced to third. Balfour had three strikes called on him, but Belleghem dropped the ball and on a throw to first Robert scored. Tripp reaching home on a pass ball. Laing who was next up, hit to Sheridan and was fanned. Balfour off second base. Organ drove a grounder to Lamont, who threw him out at first. Biggs retired the side by hitting to Flaherty, who threw to first. The score was 6-2.

In this half the locals failed to do anything. Sheridan fanned, Lamont flew to Williams, Graham drove a hot one at Biggs, who threw low to first and the runner was safe. Flaherty failed to connect with Organ's shoots and the side retired.

The seventh was again a blank, Ross, who went to bat first, placed a nice one in centre and stole second. Weldon hit to Pilling, who threw Ross out for stealing home. Williams was out to Lamont and Robert fanned.

In the last half of this innings the Varsity twirler again pulled himself out of a hole. Simpson hit to deep centre for a double, and Belleghem drove one at Weldon, which he failed to connect with, advancing Simpson to third. With a man on second and third and none out Wareham and Cawthorne both struck out and Pilling was out at first.

THE LUCKY EIGHTH.

This innings proved to be the lucky one for the locals, and the one in which a shut-out was prevented. Only three men stepped to the plate for the visitors. Tripp hit to Pilling and was out at first. Balfour flew out to Graham, who made a nice running catch and Laing again fanned.

In the last half the local team scored a brace of runs. Sheridan fanned, Lamont had better luck, however, and stepped, which feat Graham repeated, advancing Lamont to third. Flaherty saved the team from a shut-out by his single upon which Lamont reached home. Simpson placed a nice hit in the outfield, scoring Graham, but Flaherty who tried to follow was caught at the plate. Belleghem fanned, and it was all over as far as the locals scoring was concerned.

The visitors added one in the ninth, making it 10-2. Organ struck out, and Biggs walked—the first man to get his base on balls from Flaherty. Ross made a sensational triple scoring Biggs. The next two up, Weldon and Williams went out and the side retired.

The home team failed to add anything in their half and the game ended 10-2.

The teams were—

Mr. R. McEwan umpired the game, giving perfect satisfaction to both teams.

The Varsity boys are well pleased with the treatment received here from the local management, and contrast it with that received at Lindsay, where they were according to their statement rather shabbily used.

COLTS CRICKETERS ALWAYS WINNERS

Defeated U. C. C. on Saturday by 51—44.

Splendid Record of this Junior Team—A Good Game Saturday Afternoon

Despite the inclement weather of Saturday, a wet and sticky crease, and consequently a more than elusive ball, the "Colts" rose to the occasion and for the second time took the Upper Canada cricketers into camp by a score of 57 to 44.

All things considered the game was one of exceptional merit. Doubtless the slippery ball robbed the bowling of a little of its cunning, but the wet crease was productive of many "Shoots" etc., known to the batting fraternity, and consequently wickets fell fast. Both teams excelled in fielding and in this respect there was little choice betwen them.

The Colts won the toss and elected to go to bat. Main and Boucher opened and contrived to amass 14 before the latter succumbed to one of Smith's breaks. The scoring continued merrily until at the fall of the last wicket 57 had been reached.

U C C found the bowling a little more than they could comfortably handle and, (with the exception of Smith, who hit well for 19) the Collegians went out for small scores,—44 representing the sum total of their efforts.

The fine all round work of the Colts came in for a great deal of praise from both spectators and opponents and Peterborough is to be congratulated on having such finished junior cricketers in her midst.

WESTON WON LACROSSE GAME

Defeated a Local Team by 4-3 on Saturday

In a fair Exhibition of Lacrosse—Weston Took an Early Lead—Locals Finished Strong.

Yes, Saturday was an off day for Peterborough sporting organizations and so the lacrosse boys got beaten by the Weston Junior C.L.A. team by a score of 4-3 on the Murray street grounds. Too bad to let a team from a little place like Weston come and beat our boys, but then several hundred of Weston's citizens and members of the Farmers' Institute of that place were here to enjoy themselves and to them the pleasure of the day was enhanced greatly by the victory of their lacrosse team. The game was gazed upon by fully 1,000 people, each team receiving its share of the support.

The heavy rain had put the grounds in bad shape and the players did considerable sliding, slipping and tumbling for which they were pardoned. The quality of the lacrosse was of a fair junior variety but neither team is nearly as strong as either of the Peterborough junior C.L.A. teams of last year. The Weston's were light and speedy and played nice combination at intervals. Three of their four goals were rather lucky to be sure, but, nevertheless, in the first quarter they played the better lacrosse. Carter was small, but moved about with great agility and was the most conspicuous on the visitors' home. While Scott in goal stopped some splendid shots.

The local team was a combination of intermediate and junior players, but the combination did not get working effectively until the score was 4-1 "against 'em" and so they didn't win. Only three quarters were played, luckily for Weston as the homesters were having the best of it towards the close and would in all probability, have won had the full time been played. Payne was not a success in goal and after the first quarter was placed in the field and Hamilton who went behind the flags handled everything nicely. Dillon at point was as effective as usual, while T. Glover at cover checked and passed well. "Sharkey" Mein played a great game on the defence and Crowley and Galley also showed up in good form. Dunsford played a strong game at centre while Ford Dumble, Long and McCabe made a speedy home and at times worked well together. Throughout the boys were wild in their shooting as a rule, missing several good opportunities for scores.

The teams were:—

Weston.—Goal, Scott; point, Rae; cover point, Lawrence; 1st defence, Longhurst; 2nd defence, Bowness; 3rd defence, Reaman; centre, Rountree; 3rd home, Lennahan; 2nd home, Cameron; 1st home, McEwen; outside home, Charbineau; inside home, Carter.

Peterborough.—Goal, Payne; point, Dillon; cover point, T. Glover; 1st defence, Crowley; 2nd defence, Galley; 3rd defence, Mein; centre, Dunsford; 3rd home, Hamilton; 2nd home, Ford; 1st home, Dumble; outside home, Long; inside home, McCoy.

Referee, Pearson, of Weston.

Shortly after the opening of the game Ford and Reaman had a disagreement and both were sent off. Carter scored in five minutes, after a pretty rush. Less than a minute later, the same player repeated the dose. Dumble put in a hot shot which Scott stopped, but Dumble batted it through in 2 minutes. Lennahan scored twice making the score 4-1 at quarter time.

In the second quarter, Dumble made a long run, passed to Ford who transferred the ball to McCabe and the score was 4-2.

Dumble scored again in the third quarter, just before time expired. The locals did all the pressing, but failed to tie the score.

BRIDGENORTH WINS GROUP CHAMPIONSHIP

Defeated O. C. W. Team Saturday Night by 5-0.

(Special to the Examiner.)

Bridgenorth, June 4.—This evening Capt. Whitlow came up from Peterborough with his team of pure bred Englishmen called the "Old Country Wanderers" to play the final game in District No. 3, of the Midland League. On account of the heavy rain during the afternoon there was some doubt as to the game being played, and consequently the attendance was small. However, owing to the alertness of the lady gate-keeper the receipts were beyond expectation. Precisely at seven o'clock the teams lined up and the fun commenced. Bridgenorth had the advantage of the strong breeze and the Wanderers goal-keeper had a free kick about once a minute. Just to relieve this monotony the boys in red and white rallied three goals. At the end of twenty minutes the teams changed ends and for forty minutes the Wanderers had the friendly assistance of the wind. However, time and wind were of no avail in this case for the O. C. W. could not succeed in scoring, although their opponents popped in three more, but one was considered off-side and thus the game ended at the expiration of one hour with a score of 5—0 in favour of Bridgenorth. The game throughout was a good exhibition of clean football, for no one was hurt and both teams acted in a gentlemanly way. Truly it was a friendly match.

Referee W. Coons was "Johnny-on-spot" every time and meted out justice in an excellent way and his decisions were accepted without a murmur.

Bridgenorth's right wing star, Jopling, had not recovered from the injury of a week ago and he was replaced by Blake Cullen, a dashing junior who put up a very creditabyle game in such high company. No special mentiuon can be made of the home team for every man played his act at the right moment and that is all that is expected at any time. Of the Wanderers' eleven, Whitlow and Strange are the stars, the former at full-back seems to have the knack of using his muscular abilities to the best of advantage, when he goes for the ball he gets it and delivers it to a remote part of the field. Strange on the forward line is a hard worker, and did some excellent individual work, but he lacked support. The visitors were somewhat handicapped by the absence of Butler, that gallant little goal keeper, and Swailes, a full back of the invincible type. Combination is the missing link with that team, and the score showed that it is a very important one indeed.

Every game has its amusing features and here are two of them for this particular one. On one occasion Scott made a powerful "wipe" at that wet and greasy ball, which twirled around like a top while he described one complete revolution and totally unassisted, except by the force of gravity, he made a quick descent to Mother Earth. In the meantime the ball had ceased its spinning to witness his downfall. On another occasion Jimmie Cullen and Frank Head came together with a rush and the latter did some sprinting on all fours and they say he broke the record for seven yards. Such happenings make fun for the onlookers but produce a rather disagreeable sensation in the performer.

The Bridgenorth team now stands at the winners of District No. 3, and it is expected that they will try conclusions with Bowmanville next Saturday on the Bridgenorth field.

Although the Wanderers have not been very successful, as far as scoring goals is concerned, yet they have made a good showing for such a newly formed team and have demonstrated the fact that they play good honest football, that their conduct is gentlemanly, and that they meet their appointments at the proper time, and if they are in the game next year, they may cause some of the best Canadian teams to get around the corner in a hurry.

The teams were:—

Bridgenorth — Goal, R. Freeborn; backs, S. Forsythe, T. Cullen; half backs, E. Scott, A. Coones, G. Mann; left wing, N. Kelly, B. Kelly; centre, J. Cullen. Timekeeper, J. Turner.

Wanderers — Goal, Fox; backs, Whitlow, Hawkins; half backs, Head, Haddow, Strong; centre, Greatrix, forwards, Hooper, Stamper, Lyon, Marshall.

BASEBALL.

To-night the St. Paul's and the George street teams will play in the Guild League on the George street grounds, Benson avenue. The George street team will be: Parnell p, Dobbin c, Robertson 1b, Mann 2b, Hutchinson 3b, Miller cf, Curtis lf, Methers rf, Humbers ss. Spare men, Dredle Cressman, Moore.

St. Paul's team for to-night will be Rosenburg c, Sturgeon p, Stacey 1b, Watt 2b, Wightman 3b, Boyd ss, Walker rf, Craig cf, Carmichael lf. All players are requested to be on the Benson avenue grounds at 6.30 p.m. sharp.

FOOTBALL.

On Saturday the first of the semi-final games in the Midland Football League will be played here between Locust Hill, the winners of No. 6 District, and the Y.M.C.A., the winners of No. 2 District. The game will be played on the T.A.S. grounds, and in preparation for it the team will practice every night this week.

* * * *

The followign Quaker players are requested to turn out for practice on the Oval at 6.45 to-night: Belleghem, Doris, Simpson, P. Fitzgerald, M. Guerin, Parnell, J. Guerin, C. Fitzgerald, Renton, Brooks, Cundal, Crowley, McEwen, Moore and Perdue.

LACROSSE.

A full practice of the Peterborough team will be held to-night at Central Park. A meeting of the executive will be held after the practice.

* * * *

The Beavers claim a victory over the Little Petes by 1—0 by default.

BOWLING-ON-THE-GREEN.

A meeting of the executive of the Lawn Bowling Association will be held to-night at eight o'clock in D. H. Moore's office.

Contractors' Tenders Too High—Monthly Meeting of Town Council—Civic Holiday to be on First Monday in August—A Grant to the Orangemen.

LAST NIGHT'S COUNCIL.

The regular monthly meeting of the town council was held last night, with His Worship Mayor Roger in the chair.

A deputation representing the Orange Lodge waited on the council asking for a grant of $125 for decorating the town for the 12th of July demonstration, which, according to their statement, will be the largest in the history of the town, 8,000 to 10,000 visitors being expected. The amount asked for will be granted.

An important departure in civic affairs was made by the adoption of the report of the Board of Works, the chairman of which reported recommending that the new granolithic walks be laid by day labour, instead of contract as has been custom in the past. This action was taken because the committee thought the tenders too high.

Civic Holiday will in future be celebrated on the first Monday in August, and on that day this year the town will be visited by the Governor General's Foot Guards, of Ontario. It was pointed out that when the holiday come on the third Thursday in August, as in the past, two holidays came closely together, and it was thought that it would be better to spread them apart more.

The council will co-operate with the Board of Education in purchasing the Murray street grounds for a Collegiate Institute, and Drill Hall, each to contribute $10,000, this amount to be supplemented by $10,000 by the Government.

Those present at the meeting were: Mayor Roger, in the chair; Ald. Johnston, Morrison, Rush, Mason, Hicks, Scott, Adams, Clinkscale, McWilliams, Botten.

The minutes of the last meeting were adopted.

COMMUNICATIONS.

The following communications were read and dealt with as indicated:

From the Great North Western Telegraph Company, asking for permission to erect six poles on the north side of Dickson street. If this is granted they will remove 12 on other streets, decreasing the number to 9. —Board of Works.

From Colonel J. Z. Rogers, asking that a guy wire placed around a tree by the Otonabee Power Co., opposite his property be removed. — Board of Works.

From the majority of the business men in town, asking that the Civic Holiday be changed from the 3rd Thursday to the 1st Monday in August.—Received.

From G. J. Tovey and others, asking that Albert street be gravelled and rolled, as it is much travelled by the general public.—Board of Works.

From Robert Stuart, saying that an extension of time from July 1st to September 1st, for the completion of the street railway, would not in any way prejudice the town's right, so far as the cheque deposited as security for the operation of the system is concerned. The cheque will remain in the Town Treasurer's hands as security for the fulfilment of the covenants contained in the agreement, by the first day of September, instead of July 1st, as originally provided.—Received.

From Alfred McDonald, asking a price for that part of Ruth street, east of George street, which he wishes to purchase.—Received.

From Curtis and Sharpe, Lindsay, saying that they intend bringing a steam riding gallery to town shortly after July 1st, for two weeks, and as they consider the present license fee of $5 a day too high, they ask that it be reduced to $2.50 per day, this being the maximum amount they could afford to pay. —Received.

From the Warders of All Saints' church, requesting that the site they have purchased for a new church be exempted from taxation from May 1st last, the date of their purchase.—Court of Revision.

From Wm. Ferguson and others, asking that a granolithic sidewalk be laid on the west side of Bethune street from King to Sherbrooke streets.—Board of Works.

From William Aldridge and Thomas McKee, applying for the position of assessors for 1904. — Received.

From William Taylor & Co., quoting prices on cement pipes for corporation purposes.—Board of Works.

From the Board of Education asking that the town take immediate action upon the proposition to purchase the Murray street school site for Institute and armouries purposes in conjunction with the Board and the Dominion Government as previously published.

From the Roman Catholic Corporation for the Diocese of Peterborough giving an option to the town for the purchase of the Murray street school property.—Received.

From E. Oliver, 348 Sherbrooke street, stating that the water table opposite his place is so deep and wide as to render it impossible for customers to cross the street to his store. This was an injury to his business and he asked that the matter be attended to at once.—Referred to the Board of Works.

From the Secretary of the Railway Commission, stating that the street railway company's application to cross the C.P.R. tracks on George street, will be heard by the board on Thursday, June 16th. This was referred to the Board of Works.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

Ald. Best presented the report of the Board of Works as follows:—

Gentlemen,—Your Board of Works begs leavr to report as follows:—

1. Your Board advertised for tenders for the construction of about three miles of granolithic sidewalks and received the following tenders:—

	Trowel f'n'h per sq ft	Float f'n'h per sq ft
A. Sheehy	12 7-8	12 5-8
Gibson & Ross	13	12 1-2
John E. Hayes	12 7-8	12 1-2
Jas Bogue, inside tree	13 1-4	12 1-4
Jas. Bogue outside tree	14 1-2	14 1-2

Your Board does not recommend the acceptance of any of the tenders and authorized the cheques deposited with the tenders to be returned to the tenderers.

2. Your Board recommends that the Street Commissioner be instructed to proceed with the construction of the granolithic sidewalks authorized by the council by day work and that Mr. Alex. Fitzgerald be appointed to take charge of the Street Commissioner's ordinary duties while that officer is engaged on the sidewalks and that Mr. Fitzgerald be paid at the rate of $3.00 per day while so employed, on the certificate of the Town Engineer.

3. Having examined the petition for the construction of a granolithic sidewalk as a local improvement on the south side of Romewood avenue, from Walton street to Monaghan road and found it sufficiently signed, we recommend that it be granted.

4. We recommend that the chairman be authorized to purchase a concrete mixer, the price not to exceed $500.

5. We recommend that the Street Commissioner be authorized to purchase a car of steam coal.

The report was adopted.

A deputation headed by Mr. J. B. McWilliams, attended the Council, asking for financial assistance for the 12th of July Celebration. The Orangemen asked for $125, the amount given on the last occasion, for the purpose of decorating the town. He stated that this year the largest Orange demonstration in the history of the town would be held. They also asked that the committee be given control of the Central Park, and they would prevent any liquor being sold there by persons having booths. They would be running excursions from all points, and he believed that at least 8,000 or 10,000 people would be in town for that day from outside points. Mr. McWilliams said that the committee would be willing to have the town expend the money itself, through a committee appointed by the council, or hand it over to the Orangemen. Mr. McGill and Mr. Kindred also addressed the council.

Ald. Adams moved, seconded by Ald McWilliams that the Finance Committee be instructed to give the amount asked for upon such terms as they may think advisable. This was carried.

Colonel Miller also addressed the Council upon the question of changing the date of Civic Holiday from the third Thursday in August to the first Monday. The primary object in the petition asking for the change was the fact that if it were changed the Governor-General's Foot Guards

Miss Rose Peterson, Secretary Parkdale Tennis Club, Chicago, from experience advises all young girls who have pains and sickness peculiar to their sex, to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

How many beautiful young girls develop into worn, listless and hopeless women, simply because sufficient attention has not been paid to their physical development. No woman is exempt from physical weakness and periodic pain, and young girls just budding into womanhood should be carefully guided physically as well as morally. Another woman,

Miss Hannah E. Mershon, Collingswood, N.J., says:

"I thought I would write and tell you that, by following your kind advices, I feel like a new person. I was always thin and delicate, and so weak that I could hardly do anything. Menstruation was irregular.

"I tried a bottle of your Vegetable Compound and began to feel better right away. I continued its use, and am now well and strong, and menstruate regularly. I cannot say enough for what your medicine did for me." —$5000 forfeit if original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will cure any woman in the land who suffers from womb troubles, inflammation of the ovaries, and kidney troubles.

A RESPECTED RESIDENT OF SEYMOUR DEAD

Mr. Cornelius O'Sullivan died in Peterborough Last Week.

The Campbellford Despatch says:—By the death of Mr. Cornelius O'Sullivan, which took place in Peterborough on Sunday last, another of the most highly respected pioneer settlers of Seymour has passed away.

On Thursday he was taken ill and upon the advice of his physician he went to Peterborough on the evening train and entered St. Joseph's Hospital where, it was thought, he might receive better care than it would be possible to give him at home. His illness proved to be pneumonia but no thought was entertained by his friends of the result being fatal. A telephone message was received on Sunday stating that he was not quite so well. He gradually grew worse and passed away that evening. To his relatives, as well as to his many friends, the news of his death was a great shock, and one which will be hard to bear.

He was a man of honesty and integrity and very highly respected by all who knew him. He also was of a kind and charitable disposition, a good neighbour, a kind father and a loving husband. He had nearly reached the alloted time, being 66 years of age. He was born in Seymour on the farm next to where he has always resided. He was married 35 years ago to Mary O'Brien, of Picton. He leaves to mourn his death a wife and five children, viz; — Maud, (Sister Antoinette) of Peterborough; Rev. F. J. O'Sullivan, of Lindsay; Katie, John and George, at home. One brother, Joseph, survives, the others, Daniel, of Seymour; Dr. O'Sullivan, of Peterborough, and D. A. O'Sullivan, of Toronto, having predeceased him some years.

His remains were brought to his own home on Monday afternoon where they remained until Tuesday morning when the funeral cortege proceeded to St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church, Campbellford, where Requiem High Mass was celebrated by the son of the deceased, Rev. F. J. O'Sullivan, assisted by Rev. J. O'Sullivan, Victoria Road, as deacon, Rev. Father O'Leary, of Galway, as sub-deacon and Rev. Father Crowley, North Bay, as Master of Ceremonies. Rev. John O'Brien, of the Cathedral staff, Peterborough, assisted in the choir and in the sanctuary were to be seen besides Rev. Father Whibbs, Rev. Father D. O'Connel, of Peterborough, and Venerable Archdeacon Casey, of Lindsay.

At the conclusion of the mass, Archdeacon Casey ascended the altar steps and in a voice filled with emotion, spoke in eloquent terms of the virtues of the deceased and of his sudden removal from his loved ones, remarking that it seemed like the direct intervention of God to have at his bedside in his last moments this two children who were especially consecrated to God one as a priest of the Church, and the other as a Sister of St. Joseph's.

After this the corpse was blessed and the funeral procession proceeded to the cemetery, where the body was consigned to its last resting place, Rev. Father Joseph O'Sullivan, officiating at the grave.

The funeral was very largely attended, many having come great distances to show their respect to the deceased and their sympathy for the bereaved relatives.

Among those from a distance were Capt. O'Brien, of Picton; Mrs. D. A. O'Sullivan and J. J. O'Sullivan, of Toronto, and friends from Codrington, Warkworth, Hastings, Peterborough and Lindsay.

THE TWO SCHEMES.

The chief points of contrast between the Grand Trunk Pacific project and the Canadian Pacific project which the Conservatives launched are these:—

1. The Canadian Pacific is from end to end the property of the company which was chartered and subsidized to build it. The Dominion will own one-half of the Grand Trunk Pacific, and will be part proprietor of the other half through a lien held as security for guarantee of interest.

2. The Dominion Government constructed two costly sections of the Canadian Pacific—from Lake Superior to Winnipeg and from Kamloops to the Pacific Ocean—and made a present of these completed portions to the company. The Grand Trunk Pacific from Winnipeg to near the Atlantic Ocean will be built by the Government, but will remain the property of the people of Canada in perpetuity.

3. Parliament granted to the Canadian Pacific a subsidy of $25,000,000. The only financial aid given to the Grand Trunk Pacific is a guarantee of interest—which will not cost the country anything—to the capitalists who furnish the means of construction west of Winnipeg. On the section east of Winnipeg, which will be built and owned by Government, the country will receive a rental sufficient to pay interest on the sum invested.

4. Parliament gave the Canadian Pacific 25,000,000 acres of land, including the privilege of establishing town sites. Not an acre of land, except for right of way and station facilities, is given to the Grand Trunk Pacific. To enhance this discrimination, the Canadian Pacific lands were made free of taxation for twenty years unless "sold or occupied." This has so far been held to mean twenty years from the actual specific conveyance of the lands to the corporation, not from the date of the agreement—a difference which means many additional millions of dollars to the Canadian Pacific.

5. As far as it was possible to do so the Dominion Parliament gave the Canadian Pacific Company a monopoly of the traffic of the Dominion west of Lake Superior, by prohibiting the building of other lines, except such as would of necessity become feeders of the Canadian Pacific. The Grand Trunk Pacific Company must take its chances in competition with existing trunk lines and with any others that may hereafter be chartered and constructed.

6. Parliament granted to the Canadian Pacific virtually absolute control of transportation charges west of Lake Superior. The absolute control of such charges on the Grand Trunk Pacific is vested in the Dominion. The difference is made clearly apparent by the fact that; so far as its main line is concerned, the Canadian Pacific cannot be brought under the control of the Railway Commission recently created by Parliament, whereas the Grand Trunk Pacific is placed under that control by the terms of its charter.

7. No attempt was made by Parliament to grant running powers to other companies over the portions of the Canadian Pacific constructed by the Dominion Government. Running powers over the portion of the Grand Trunk Pacific constructed by the Government may be obtained by any other company, subject to the operative control of the Grand Trunk Pacific Company so far as that is necessary to the safety of passengers and property.

8. The Canadian Pacific was allowed to import construction material free of duty. The Grand Trunk Pacific enjoys no such privilege. As far as possible, its material must be made or purchased in Canada. Where it imports material that cannot be procured here, it must pay duty.

9. When the Canadian Pacific was finished it possessed little more in the older provinces than its main line from Rat Portage to Montreal. A system of feeders had to be laboriously built up. The Grand Trunk Pacific, on the other hand, will commence operations with all the lines and equipment of the Grand Trunk proper, behind it in the older provinces, which means that the Eastern manufacturer will at once be placed in direct communication with his customers in the West and ensured lower rates.

10. The Canadian Pacific, though built as a national undertaking, was semi-Americanised from the first. Its Soo line to-day carries wheat from Minneapolis to the seaboard for less than the main line charges from Winnipeg; in other words, treats the farmers of Dakota and Minnesota better than the main line treats those of Manitoba. Further, although St. John, N. B. is the winter port of the Canadian Pacific, its line thither runs for 200 miles through the State of Maine. The Grand Trunk Pacific will traverse Canadian soil from start to finish, will send all unrouted freight to Canadian ports, is under obligation not to discriminate in rates against those ports, and will run too far north to become tied up as the Canadian Pacific is with the rival interests of Minnesota and Dakota.

11. The Canadian Pacific did comparatively little for the older provinces in the way of opening up new territory. Its main line west hugs the Lake Superior shore which is sterile and unfit for settlement. The Grand Trunk Pacific will open a vast back country between Moncton and Winnipeg, containing over 150,000,000 acres of well timbered land, much of it fit for agriculture, with deposits of mica, copper, nickel and iron and with water powers of enormous capacity. It stands to reason that the development of this region must add to the wealth and importance of Ontario, Quebec and New Brunswick. That part of Canada will no longer be a mere fringe. The older provinces have done much for the west; they are now helping the west again and at the same time doing something for themselves.

DYNAMITE OUTRAGE

Explosive Placed Where Non-Union Miners Were Expected.

12 OF THEM WERE KILLED

Rioting Over the Independence Incident—Forty Shots Fired Into the Crowd at Victor, Colorado—Soldiers Are There, and Miners Are Armed—Pitched Battle Looked For at Any Time.

Cripple Creek, Col., June 7.—Twelve miners were instantly killed and eight or ten others badly injured by an explosion that occurred after midnight yesterday at the Independence station of the Florence and Cripple Creek Railroad. The explosion apparently was the result of a plot against non-union miners, who had just finished work and were about to return to their homes. These men had no warning whatever of their impending fate. The explosion occurred beneath the platform on which they were waiting for a train, hurling many of them high into the air, destroying the adjoining depot, and rending a great hole in the earth.

Deadly Machine Found.

Detectives found the machine which set off the dynamite under the platform. It consists of a revolver and 800 feet of steel wire. The revolver was placed underneath the platform close to the powder. The other end of the wire was fastened to a chair leg, which was used as a lever.

Although the strike of union miners in the Cripple Creek district, which began August 10, 1903, and which led to the declaration of martial law in Telluride County, by Gov. Peabody, is still in effect, good order has been maintained for the last six months and military rule has been suspended and all troops withdrawn. Martial law will at once be renewed.

Charles H. Moyer, president of the Federation, is in jail at Telluride, which is under martial law, being held as a military prisoner by Gov. Peabody, who charged him with inciting insurrection and rebellion. Telluride is in southwestern Colorado and is about 400 miles from Cripple Creek.

The strikers in the metalliferous mines of Colorado were ordered out by the executive board of the Western Federation of Miners for the purpose of cutting off the ore supply of mills and smelters at which an eight-hour day was refused to the employes.

Description of the Explosion.

Most of the killed and injured were non-union miners employed on the Findlay Mine, which is controlled by A. Carleton, president of the First National Bank, a man prominent in the councils of the Cripple Creek Mine Owners' Association. When within 75 feet of the depot at Independence the engine whistle sounded. Immediately a muffled roar was heard and the mountain trembled as if rocked by an earthquake. The train stopped and the train crew ran forward to investigate. The scene about the depot was sickening. Portions of human bodies were scattered over the right of way and in the 20 foot hole made by the explosion were found several skulls, arms, legs and hands. Every object within a radius of 50 feet from the hole is bespattered with blood.

When news of the disaster reached Victor Mayor Franklin ordered out Company L, Colorado National Guard, and the soldiers are now on guard of the scene.

Sheriff Robertson Resigns.

Without explanation, and with a suddenness that has caused great surprise, Sheriff Henry M. Robertson resigned his position, and Edward Bell was named to succeed him. Bell is a member of the Citizens' Alliance.

City Marshal O'Connell of Victor has sworn in a large number of special policemen, who are patrolling the streets with shotguns. Many union men have armed themselves, and say they will resist with violence any attempt to run them out of town, as is proposed. Detectives have been engaged to shadow the movements of every prominent union leader in the camp.

A squad of soldiers, under the command of Major H. A. Taylor, have notified all hardware and gun stores in Victor not to sell any firearms or ammunition without a permit from Taylor or the police authorities, and then to take the name and description of the purchaser. The demand will be complied with. Among the mines that have already closed down are the Stratton Independence, the Last Dollar, Theresa and the Shurtleoff. The properties employed nearly 1,000 men. The streets of Victor are filled with an excited mob, and there is much loud talk.

Deadly Riot in Victor.

Victor, Col., June 7.—Deadly rioting broke out in Victor yesterday during a mass meeting to discuss the murder at Independence. Forty shots were fired into a crowd in the street. R. McGee of Victor was shot dead and at least six persons were injured. A pitched battle is looked for at any moment. There are 5,000 men on the streets and union men are arming themselves. They are thronging the streets, making threats.

Order Restored.

Denver, Col., June 7.—An order has been issued by Governor Peabody making effective yesterday the suspension of martial law in Las Animas County, where a strike of coal miners, members of the United Mine Workers of America, has been on for several months.

How to Keep Well.

The best efforts of the great physician are now expanded in finding out how to keep people well and prevent serious disease. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food was prepared with this object in view. It is not only a cure for diseases of the nerves but also a restorative to be used when vitality runs low and the weakened condition of the system invites attacks by fevers or contagious diseases.

MONTREAL AND TRANSPORTATION.

Board of Trade's Large List of Recommendations Submitted.

Montreal, June 7.—The Government commission on transportation opened its sittings here yesterday, Mayor Laporte formally welcoming the members to this city.

The first session was taken up altogether with the recommendations of the Board of Trade Council, the same being submitted by the first vice-president, W. I. Gear. These suggestions aimed at covering the entire transportation problem, ocean, inland waterways and railways, as well as Montreal terminals, a drydock for the city, the removal of all port charges, the building of an additional grain elevator, a high level basin for the harbor, and the like.

Mr. Gear also advocated making Montreal a free port.

Messrs. Robert Munro, Hugh A. Allen and James Carruthers were examined yesterday afternoon and all wanted more facilities. The Board of Trade wanted the French River deepened, but Mr. Carruthers opposed this. He wanted elevators at Port Colborne and the grain brought from there in barges.

KNOW THEM BY THEIR WORKS

And You Must Admit Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets Relieve, Cure and Cure Permanently all Stages of Indigestion and Dyspepsia.

"I could not take the simplest food without a pain across my stomach."

That's how Mary Ann Bujold of Maria Cap, Bonaventure County, P. Q., describes her condition before she used Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

"I took one box of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. That has completly cured me."

And speaking two years later Mde. Bujold says: "I have had no oreturn of my dyspepsia since using Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets."

By their works you shall know them. So surely it must be correct that Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets relieve the pains of Dyspepsia, cure Dyspepsia and cure Dyspepsia permanently.

Russian Gunboat Exploded and Sunk Near Chentaoshan - Japanese Merchantman Struck By a Mine Off Talienwan—Sharp Outpost Fights Reported at Liaotang and Southern Manchuria—Drawn Battles.

Liaoyang, June 7.—It is persistently reported here that the Port Arthur squadron made a sortie shortly before dawn Saturady, with the torpedo boat destroyers leading, and found the Japanese fleet quite unsuspecting the presence of hostile warships, with the result that four of the Japanese ships were sunk during the attack.

Unknown to Russians.

St. Petersburg, June 7.—The Government has no advices of a sortie having been made from Port Arthur by the Russian squadron, resulting in the sinking of four Japanese ships. They neither affirm nor deny the report that Gen. Baron Stakelberg is moving south.

Russian Boat Exploded.

Tokio, June 7.—The destroyer flotilla engaged in watching Port Arthur from the eastward reports that at 7.40 p.m. on June 4, a Russian gunboat of the Ciliak type was seen to explode and sink near Chentaoshan. The vessel with another gunboat a destroyer and other steamers was evidently engaged in clearing the vicinity of mines. When the explosion occurred, the others hurried back into Port Arthur.

Japanese Boat Sunk.

Chefoo, June 7.—The Russian consul here has received news that a large Japanese vessel has been sunk by a mine off Talienwan. The news has not been confirmed. It is said to have been a merchantman.

Two Sharp Outpost Fights.

Liaoyang, June 7.—Details have been received here of two sharp outpost fights, one at Liaotang and the other in Southern Manchuria.

The former occurred in the morning of June 3 at Yantsiantur, east of Vanangew (25 miles above Kinchou). The Russian losses were Col. Seradi and 17 men wounded. Both sides retained their positions.

The other fight was between Major-Gen. Mistchenko's Cossacks and the Japanese advance posts along the River Kolendzy, north of Takushan. It lasted from the evening of June 3 to late in the following day. The Cossacks repeatedly drove the enemy from their entrenchments. In one case the Japanese fled across the river, but returned with more reinforcements, and the Russians drew off. The Cossacks' commander, Col. Starkoff, was killed and two officers and nine men were wounded. The Cossacks carried the body of their commander to Siuyen.

THE "SOO" DIRECTORATE.

Government Have Nominated Two Toronto Men—Meeting in New York.

Toronto, June 7.—Premier Ross returned from St. Catharines yesterday, and in the afternoon a lengthy conference took place between the Ministers and Mr. N. W. Rowell, K.C., who has just come back from New York, where he has been acting as the representative of the Government in the reorganisation of the "Soo" company.

The Government have nominated two more directors, both Toronto men, and it is probable that they will be elected at the organization meeting to-day in New York. President A. D. Warren and Mr. N. W. Rowell left last night to be present at that meeting.

Murder at Port Arthur.

Port Arthur, June 7.—The town is worked up over a murder which took place on the Fort William road, about a mile from here, yesterday afternoon, when an unknown Italian was shot.

About 5 o'clock a man named Whitefield, who was grading the road, and a linsman saw smoke from a pistol shot and on going to examine the cause, saw a man kneeling on a wounded man in the ditch. When the two men came up the murderer jumped up, and flourishing his revolver shouted, "If you will come near me, I will shoot you." A street car came into sight then and the murderer ran into the bush. He is still at large. The wounded man died without speaking.

Nothing on the dead man could be found to identify him.

Control of Sea Necessary.

London, June 7.—(C. A. P.)—Sir John Colcomb, M.P., speaking on Imperial defence, says the United Kingdom cannot live without the freedom of the sea, and the British Empire would cease to be a reality the moment the control of the sea is in serious jeopardy. Referring to a committee on defence, he says the immense advantage of such a committee is that the defensive policy of the Empire would no longer be ruled by a department purely military in its character, and without any knowledge whatever of naval principle and practice, and thinks conscription is impossible.

Bridge Scaffold Collapsed.

New York, June 7.—Robert McGuire, a stone cutter, was killed and three other men badly injured yesterday by the collapsing of a derrick on the south roadway of the New Williamsburg bridge.

ALLEGED FIREBUG CAUGHT.

Strong Circumstantial Evidence Against Alf. Tangis at Port Arthur.

Port Arthur, June 7.—A man was arrested in Fort William Sunday by Chief Dodds, who is suspected of being the firebug who has been working havoc in that town lately. He is also suspected of being implicated in Port Arthur fires. His name is Alf. Tangis, alias Adolf Tiana. Although the evidence is only circumstantial, it has been deemed sufficient to warrant holding him.

When fire destroyed the McDonald Engineering Company's blacksmith shop Tangis had just been dismissed from the company's services. This fire is known to have been incendiary, being started with kerosene. The Snelgrove and Wadding fire started just after they had trouble with Tangis. When a fire occurred at Rutledge Bros.' stables, Tangis turned in the alarm, and a few minutes later, when a fire occurred in John King's, he gave the alarm, while in the fire hall, pointing out the fire to Caretaker McKenzie.

Tangis had been employed in Elevator B, and had been discharged, and was among the first on the ground at the fire which destroyed the big elevator. The last fire occurred at the stock yard, when Tangis was boarding next door, and a man resembling him was seen to climb over the fence. He was the first to turn in the alarm of this blaze. He has also been closely identified with other fires.

THE STORY OF LIFE.

Making the best of life is getting the best health you can out of it—good digestion is the key. What you eat may or may not do you good. It depends upon how it is handled by the digestive apparatus of the stomach—If it is deranged, the blood, instead of taking new life and strength to the various organs of the body, takes poison which clogs the kidneys, irritates the nerves, distresses the heart, causing headache, sleeplessness, weary, dull feeling, backache, rheumatism, neuralgia—makes the complexion sallow—causes biliousness and constipation. The great, new discovery ANTI-PILL has a marvellous influence in correcting a crippled or rebellious stomach, and the results that follow—ANTI-PILL is the most perfect help to have when you feel wrong, out of sorts, sick or getting sick. It brightens you up—makes you feel better. 50 cents per bottle at druggists or Wilson-Fyle Co., Niagara Falls, Ont.

Dr. Parkin Received Report.

Montreal, June 7.—Dr. Parkin yesterday received the report of the Oxford examiners upon the papers of candidates examined April 13 and 14 throughout the United States and in those provinces of Canada which have no college affiliated with Oxford. Altogether 120 candidates have passed from the different states and territories of the union and thus become eligible for selection as Rhodes scholars. This probably represents about one-third or one-fourth of all the candidates who took the examinations. In the Dominion, candidates have passed as follows: Prince Edward Island, Wm. E. Cameron; Montreal, John MacLean, Walter Burman; Northwest Territories, Ralph Bellamy; British Columbia, W. A Donaldson, E. K. DeBeck. The other candidates from these provinces are excused the qualifying examination as graduates of affiliated colleges.

UNION OF CHURCHES.

General Assembly, With An Exception of One Man, Agrees.

St. John, N.B., June 7.—In the General Assembly yesterday, the long-expected discussion on the union of the Presbyterian, Methodist and Congregationalist churches began, and was continued with vigor until the close of the afternoon session. Although the resolution in favor was not put, the almost universal sentiment of the assembly undoubtedly was in favor of union. Only one man—Dr. Robert Campbell, Montreal—spoke against it, and his remarks aroused a storm of dissent. Speakers supporting union were applauded long and heartily by over two-thirds of the assembly. The discussion will be renewed to-day.

A pleasing feature of the session was the reception and hearty welcome of a deputation from St. John Deanery, Church of England.

The afternoon session brought greetings from the Church of Northern United States, delivered by Rev. Dr. Chapman. The speaker looked forward to an early union of the Canadian and the American churches.

Final.

Montreal, June 7.—Prof. Campbell interviewed yesterday said that his resignation from the Presbyterian College was final. He leaves to-day for his summer home in Muskoka.

A SIX MILLION DECLINE.

Statistical Reports Shows Great Falling Off in Soo Canal Traffic.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., June 7.—The statistical report of the traffic of the Sault Ste. Marie Canals shows a great falling off from the traffic up to this time last year, the difference being more than 6,000,000 tons. The decline in tonnage is due to the strike in American ports to a certain extent and also to the fact that navigation opened about a month later than last year.

The total freight tonnage for the period to June 1 was 449,888. The tonnage for April last year was 1,651,839 and the tonnage for May reached 5,188,071, making a total up to June 1 of 6,839,856, or 6,389,968 more than this year up to June 1.

The Canadian Canal traffic shows up heavier than that of the American side by over 40,000 tons, a condition seldom known. This is due to the fact that the Canadian boats were not affected by the tie-up. Very little ore of any kind has gone down the lakes so far.

Note—The Canadian canal opened on April 30, 1904, with the following traffic for that date: Four passengers, two lockages, registered tonnage 48 and 32 tons of freight.

The American canal opened on May 5, 1904.

Triumphs of Modern Surgery.

Wonderful things are done for the human body by surgery. Organs are taken out and scraped and polished and put back, or they may be removed entirely; bones are spliced; pipes take the place of diseased sections of veins; antiseptic dressings are applied to wounds, bruises, burns and like injuries before inflammation sets in, which causes them to heal without maturation and in one-third the time required by the old treatment. Chamberlain's Pain Balm acts on this same principle. It is an antiseptic and when applied to such injuries, causes them to heal very quickly. It also allays the pain and soreness. Keep a bottle of Pain Balm in your home and it will save you time and money, not to mention the inconvenience and suffering which such injuries entail. For sale by all druggists.

FINE ADDRESSES ON EDUCATIONAL WORK

Rev. Prof. Wallace and Mr. F. E. O'Flynn Spoke at Last Evening's Meeting.

BUSINESS TAKING PLACE OF RELIGION

Fear of This Expressed by Mr. O'Flynn—Prof. Wallace Spoke on His College Work—Work of Conference Yesterday Afternoon and This Morning.

Several addresses of interest were heard at yesterday afternoon's session of the Conference. Rev. Dr. Withrow, of the Book Publishing Department of the Methodist Church, was present, and spoke in the interest of the department. Rev. G. J. Bond, editor of the Christian Guardian, also addressed the Conference in the interests of this paper.

Resolutions in reference to these two addresses were carried unanimously.

A satisfactory report was made of the Book and Publishing Interests of the church. The past year showed an increase in over-turn and prospective, the handsome sum of $12,000 out of the year's profits has been granted by the Book Committee to the Superannuation Fund. This is the same amount as was granted last year. The Christian Guardian through the special canvas made in the circuits, has had a considerable increase in its subscription lists, and has now a larger circulation than at any period in its history.

Rev. Dr. Workman, Professor of Old Testament Exegesis and Literature at the Wesleyan Theological College, Montreal, was present and spoke in the interests of that institution, whose affairs were at present in a flourishing condition.

Mr. A. Barber reported on the state of the work. The report recommended that every church member be found in the class meeting, that the Bible be studied more systematically, that family prayer be observed, that every house be visited where the people do not attend church. These recommendations were adopted after a long discussion, taken part in by the ministers and laymen. The somewhat depressing outlook in the Sunday school work, was given especial attention. The laymen expressed their opinion that if the ministers were more thoroughly acquainted with the laity, and preached from experience with them and with their particular needs, they would have the greatest sympathy from the laymen, and in fact this sort of preaching was just what was being sought by the laymen.

The final report of the Contingent Fund was presented by Rev. R. Burns, Ph.B., and was adopted.

Upon motion, it was decided that ministers should be responsible for their circuits for three Sundays after Conference.

MRS. DR. JEFFERS' ADDRESS.

During the afternoon the reception of the representative of the Woman's Missionary Society took place, and after being introduced to the President of the Conference by Rev. G. W. Henderson, Mrs. Dr. Jeffers, of Lindsay, representative of the Bay of Quinte Branch of the Women's Missionary Society, gave an address on the work of this society. There was no longer any necessity for the argument as to the existence of the society, which was formerly made for the value of the society was well and widely known for the work it was doing, and it felt now that there was sympathy everywhere. Never in its history had the department been so flourishing; the finances were in good condition, and the membership was on the increase. The total membership of the past year of Auxilaries, Circles and Bands, was 31,526, or an increase of 4,103; the total income was $51,855.87, or an increase of $6,352.57. Since organization $662,287.92 had been raised. During the past year in the Bay of Quinte Conference, where marked progress had been made, 13 new auxilaries were organized, besides 14 new Mission Bands and Circles. In China and Japan the work had also been greatly blessed, and work was opened in six centres in Japan, and two in China, where day and night schools, besides hospitals were being conducted. There was continually a cry for more workers, as the field was a large one.

The speaker referred briefly to the work in British Columbia and Quebec, and of the unity between the Women's Missionary Society and the general Missionary Society of the church. The work was an uphill one, but with God's assistance it was bound to succeed. Twenty-two years ago the Society was without money or property, while to-day it possessed property to the value of $57,000. There was indeed cause for rejoicing on looking back over the difficulties that have been overcome.

The work, however, was only beginning, for the increase in population was outstripping the efforts to Christianize the heathen. Thirty-five millions pass yearly into Christless graves. Out of the 800 million people out of Christ to-day, 510 millions were women and children, and how could these be raised from their lost state except by women. This was a stimulus for the society to urge on the work.

There was a comparative indifference to the work among the churches at home, there being thousands of women not members. The speaker wished that the ministers would lay more stress from the pulpit upon the work of the Women's Missionary Society, and give at least one sermon a year to this cause. Mrs. Jeffers thought that there should be more work done among the children in training them at home to support the missionary cause. The Mission Band and Auxiliaries were the hope of the church. These were the foundations, and the foundations must be as broad as the purpose of Christ.

A resolution of thanks was conveyed to the speaker for her splendid address.

TWO ABLE ADDRESSES HEARD LAST EVENING

Rev. Prof. Wallace and Mr. F. E. O'Flynn Spoke at Conference Service.

The meeting in George Street Church last evening was of a Missionary character. The attendance was a large one and the addresses by two prominent speakers were of a most excellent character. The chairman, Rev. N. A. McDiarmid, regretted that Rev. Dr. Potts was unable to be present, but was pleased to introduce to the audience Mr. F. E. O'Flynn, of Belleville, and Rev. Prof. Wallace, of Victoria University, Toronto.

Mr. O'Flynn was pleased to have the opportunity of speaking to a Peterborough audience as he was once a member of the George Street Church here. Education, concerning which he desired to speak, meant the development of those faculties which the Almighty has endowed the being created in His own likeness. There were three kinds of education, the first being the business education or the development of the faculties to succeed in commercial matters. This was the most important to many and our nation possessed many prominent men who used every effort to amass wealth. But it was often the case that those who had done the most for the Lord and had the greatest influence for general good in the land were not the greatest successes in business. The business development was often dangerous because whenever a man devotes himself almost exclusively to business, it tends to cause him to break the first commandment of "Thou shalt have no other God before Me." They were endangered of worshipping success more than their God. Nothing was more dangerous than this craving along commercial lines. "Is the Methodist church working enough among the poor, and if not, why not," said the speaker. The real spirit of the Lord was being put out of the church because there was too much love for commerce. The history of Methodism was the history of Ontario and the Methodists were foremost in every reform carried out, but there was too much development along commercial lines and the church did not carry the Gospel to the poor, and uplift the helpless as it should.

The second style of education was the literary or scientific, where the student studies simply because he loves to do so to satisfy his desire for knowledge. If this is pursued exclusively it tends to lessen the spiritual life.

Development of the faculties God gives us, a ladder to a higher level was the third kind of education, and this was the kind desired, said Mr. O'Flynn. The training for this should begin with the young, and the speaker was glad that an effort to have the Scriptures read in the schools was being made. The church members should stand by the Sunday school and do more than merely send their children; go themselves, and teach if called upon to do so. The period of young manhood was the crucial one in a young man's life for the temptations were many and often most trying to resist. "Why don't we get our young men into the Sunday School," asked the speaker. Because we did not work hard enough with them, we do not associate with them or sympathize with them as we should, and their fathers do not lead the way and set a good example by attending the school.

Mr. O'Flynn made reference to Albert and Victoria College and thought the people generally did not understand the educational problem as they should, and once they understood the real need, there would be plenty of support for it was an investment which would give good return in God's service. We cannot be too careful to see that all we do is done in the Lord's service.

Right business methods should be used in the Church but as a rule business men did not pay attention to God's work as they did to their business. Referring to ministers, the speaker thought they should get closer to the people and be one of the people. The better he was educated, the better service he could render. The all round man was the one wanted and while efforts should be made to secure a commercial, scientific and professional education, these should be of little importance compared with an education in keeping with God's laws and the development of the spiritual side of ones nature.

Prof. Wallace spoke of his personal experience in College work in which he had been engaged for over 16 years as Professor of Theology. It was from the Bay of Quinte Conference, from Peterborough and from the George Street Church that he received the call to the College. He went into the College work not to carry out any ambition along this line, as his ambition in life was simply to teach the Gospel. Though he had spent four years in College studying after his graduation, one in Canada, two in the United States and one in Germany, he did so because he thought no man could be too well educated to preach the Gospel, no where ampler, or no life more attractive than that of the ministry. When the speaker was approached by Prof. Burwash on the question of accepting a professorship in Victoria College, he stated that
